The following oath shall be administered to the grand jury:—

“You, as grand jurors for the body of the county of —, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that you will diligently inquire into and true presentment make of all such matters and things as shall come to your knowledge, according to your charge; the counsel of the state, your own counsel, and that of your fellows. you shall keep secret; you shall present no person through envy, hatred, or malice; neither will you leave any person unrepresented through fear, favor, affection, or reward, or the hope thereof; but that you will present things truly as they come to your knowledge, according to the best of your understanding, and according to the laws of this state. So help you God.” [Cf. L. '54, p. 110, § 49; Cd. '81, § 981; L. '91, p. 48, § 13; 2 H. C., § 1209.]

§ 2030. (6810.) Foreman—Powers of—Clerk of Grand Jury.

A foreman of the grand jury shall be appointed by the court, who may remove him and appoint another at any time, and such foreman shall have power to administer all oaths and affirmations to witnesses who shall appear before such grand jury, and the jury may appoint one of their number as clerk to keep a minute of their proceedings. [L. '54, p. 110, § 50; Cd. '81, § 982; 2 H. C., § 1210.]

Cited in 39 Wash. 695.

The county commissioners have no power to employ a stenographer for the grand jury, as under this section no person other than one of their number can be chosen: Mather v. King County, 39 Wash. 693.

§ 2031. (6811.) Grand Jury Charged by Court—Advice to.

The grand jury shall be charged by the court as to the nature of their duties, and may at any reasonable time ask the advice of the court as to any legal questions upon which they may desire information. [L. '54, p. 110, § 51; Cd. '81, § 983; 2 H. C., § 1211.]

§ 2032. (6812.) Prosecuting Attorney to Attend, etc.

The prosecuting attorney shall attend on the grand jury for the purpose of examining witnesses and giving them such advice as they may ask. [Cf. L. '54, p. 110, § 52; Cd. '81, § 984; L. '91, p. 49, § 14; 2 H. C., § 1212.]

See infra, § 3967, prosecuting attorney to attend, duties, etc.

review or order prohibiting the taking of notes: State ex rel. Pugh v. Superior Court, 52 Wash. 484.

Right of prosecuting attorney to secure

§ 2033. (6813.) Duties of Grand Jury.

The grand jury shall inquire into the cases of parties in custody or under bail, charged with commission of offenses against the laws of this state, and duly returned by a committing magistrate, or upon a complaint sworn to before an officer authorized to administer oaths and presented by the prosecuting attorney, or under the instructions of the court. [Cf. L. '54, p. 111, § 53; L. '65, p. 19, § 1; Cd. '81, § 985; L. '91, p. 49, § 15; 2 H. C., § 1213.]

This section is inapplicable in cases where one is in custody under an information filed by the prosecuting attorney: State v. Cronney, 31 Wash. 122.

§ 2034. (6814.) Jurors to Communicate Personal Knowledge of Offenses.

If a member of a grand jury knows, or has reason to believe, that a public offense, triable within the county, has been committed, he must declare the same to his fellow-jurors, who may thereupon investigate the same, if a majority so order. [Cd. '81, § 986; 2 H. C., § 1214.]

§ 2035. (6815.) Complainant not to be Present, When.

No complainant who may institute a prosecution shall be competent to be present at the deliberations of a grand jury, or vote for the finding of an indictment. [L. '65, p. 19, § 1; Cd. '81, § 987; 2 H. C., § 1215.]

§ 2036. (6816.) Malicious and Frivolous Prosecution—Costs.

Where a grand jury ignore a bill of indictment, they shall also find whether the prosecution is malicious and frivolous, and find whether the complainant or county shall pay the costs, which shall be returned with their proceedings into open court. [L. '65, p. 20, § 2; Cd. '81, § 988; 2 H. C., § 1216.]

§ 2037. (6817.) Inquiry into Persons in Prison, etc.

The grand jury shall especially inquire as to the offense of any person confined in prison on a criminal charge; into the condition and mismanagement of the public prisons in the county; into the willful misconduct in office of public officers; and shall in their discretion examine the public records of the county. [L. '54, p. 111, § 53; Cd. '81, § 989; 2 H. C., § 1217.]

The first clause of this section is covered by § 2033, supra, which is a later enactment.

§ 2038. (6818.) Duty to Hear Evidence.

The grand jury are not bound to hear evidence for the defendant; but it is their duty to weigh all the evidence submitted to them, and when they have reason to believe that other evidence within their reach will explain away the charge, they should order such evidence to be produced, and for that purpose may cause process to issue for the witnesses. [L. '54, p. 111, § 54; Cd. '81, § 990; 2 H. C., § 1218.]

§ 2039. (6819.) Fact of Indictment Found not to be Disclosed, When.

No grand jury shall disclose the fact that an indictment for a felony has been found against any person not in custody or under recognizance until such person has been arrested. [L. '54, p. 111, § 56; Cd. '81, § 991; 2 H. C., § 1219.]

See infra, § 2046, secrecy of indictment.

See infra, § 2378, penalty for violating secrecy.

§ 2040. (6820.) Secrecy of Proceedings, Charge as to.

No grand juror shall be allowed to state or to testify in any court in what manner he or any member of the jury voted on any question before them, or what opinion was expressed by any juror in relation to such question, or what question was before them; and in charging the grand jury the court shall remind them of the provisions of this and the preceding sections. [L. '54, p. 111, § 57; Cd. '81, § 992; 2 H. C., § 1220.]

Cited in 8 Wash. 464.

§ 2041. (6821.) Grand Jury may be Resummoned, When.

Whenever the grand jury shall have been dismissed, they may be summoned to attend again, if necessary; and if a full jury do not attend, the number may be completed from the by-standers. [L. '54, p. 111, § 58; Cd. '81, § 993; 2 H. C., § 1221.]

See note to § 2027, supra.

CHAPTER XIII.

FINDINGS AND PRESENTMENT OF INDICTMENTS.

§ 2042. (6824.) Twelve Jurors must Concur—Indorsement.

An indictment cannot be found without the concurrence of at least twelve grand jurors, and when so found, it must be indorsed "a true bill," and such indorsement, signed by the foreman of the jury. [Cf. L. '54, p. 111, §§ 55, 59; L. '69, p. 238, § 173; Cd. '81, § 994; 2 H. C., § 1223.]

Where the grand jury come into open court and present a bill duly indorsed and signed by their foreman, it is evidence of the most satisfactory kind that twelve of their number concurred in finding the bill Watts v. Territory, 1 W. T. 409.

§ 2043. (6825.) Names of Witnesses Indorsed, Defendant Entitled to Copy.

When an indictment is found, the names of the witnesses examined before the grand jury must be inserted at the foot of the indictment, or indorsed thereon, before it is presented to the court, and the clerk of the court must, within one day after demand made, furnish the defendant, or his counsel, a copy thereof without charge, or permit the defendant's counsel, or the clerk of such counsel, to take a copy. [Cf. L. '54, p. 111, § 59; L. '69, p. 239, § 174; Cd. '81, § 995; 2 H. C., § 1223.]

See infra, § 2050, and notes.

Cited in 8 Wash. 233. the accused is given the complaint and told to make a copy of it if he chooses: State v. White, 8 Wash. 230.
The mandate of the Constitution, Article I, § 22, is sufficiently complied with when § 2044. (6826.) Indictment at Instance of Private Prosecutor—Costs.

When an indictment is found at the instance of a private prosecutor, the following must be added to the indorsement required by the preceding section: "Found at the instance of" (here state the name of the person); and in such case, if the prosecution fails, the court trying the cause may award costs against the private prosecutor, if satisfied, from all circumstances, that the prosecution was malicious or without probable cause. [Cd. '81, § 996; 2 H. C., § 1224.]

See infra, § 2226, costs against complainant on frivolous or malicious accusation.

This section was intended to cover all criminal cases triable by jury, but the jury has no authority, on acquitting the defendant, to find that the complaint was malicious or without probable cause; and the judgment on such verdict, that complaining witness pay costs of trial and stand committed until costs are paid is void: In re Permstick, 3 Wash. 672.

Two prominent elements of this section are: (1) that the court, upon failure of prosecution, is to be satisfied from all the circumstances that the action of the complainant was malicious or without probable cause; (2) that the imprisonment until costs are paid is not a part of the judgment there permitted: Id.

§ 2045. (6827.) Custody and Inspection of.

An indictment, when found by the grand jury, must be presented by their foreman, in their presence, to the court and filed by the clerk, and remain in his office as a public record; but if the defendant has not been held to answer the charge, neither the indictment, nor any order or process in relation thereto, must be inspected by any person other than the judge of the court, or an officer thereof, in the discharge of a duty concerning the same, until after the arrest of the defendant. [L. '69, p. 239, § 175; Cd. '81, § 997; 2 H. C., § 1225.]

§ 2046. (6828.) Secrecy as to Indictment.

No grand juror or officer of the court must disclose any fact concerning such indictment while it is not subject to public inspection; and a violation of this section or the foregoing section is punishable as a contempt. [L. '69, p. 239, § 176; Cd. '81, § 998; 2 H. C., § 1226.]

See supra, § 2039, grand jury not to disclose.

See infra, § 2378, penalty for violating secrecy.

§ 2047. (6829.) Indictment Found "Not a True Bill," Filing, etc.

When a person has been held to answer a criminal charge, and the indictment in relation thereto is not found a "true bill," it must be indorsed "not a true bill," which indorsement must be signed by the foreman, and presented to the court and filed with the clerk, and remain a public record; but in the case of an indictment not found "a true bill," against a person not so held, the same, together with the minutes of the evidence in relation thereto, must be destroyed by the grand jury. [L. '69, p. 239, § 177; Cd. '81, § 999; 2 H. C., § 1227.]

§ 2048. (6830.) Effect of Finding "Not a True Bill."

When an indictment indorsed "not a true bill" has been presented in court and filed, the effect thereof is to dismiss the charge; and the same cannot be again submitted to or inquired of by the grand jury, or made the cause of an information, unless the court so order. [Cf. L. '69, p. 239, § 178; Cd. '81, § 1000; L. '91, p. 49, § 16; 2 H. C., § 1228.]

This section is not intended to confer any right upon the defendant, but simply to expedite the business of the court, subject to its discretion: Lybarger v. State, 2 Wash. 552, 560.

§ 2049. (6831.) Presentment, Defined.

A presentment is an informal statement of facts, for the purpose of obtaining the advice of the court as to the law thereon. It is made by the foreman, in the presence of the grand jury, and with the concurrence of twelve of their number. A presentment is not to be filed in court, or preserved beyond the sitting of the grand jury. [Cf. L. '69, p. 239, § 179; Cd. '81, § 1001; L. '91, p. 49, § 17; 2 H. C., § 1229.]

§ 2050. (6832.) Information, Filing, Indorsement, etc.

All informations shall be filed in the court having jurisdiction of the offense specified therein, by the prosecuting attorney of the proper county as informant; he shall subscribe his name thereto, and indorse thereon the names of the witnesses known to him at the time of filing the same, and at such time before the trial of any case as the court may, by rule or otherwise, prescribe he shall indorse thereon the names of such other witnesses as shall then be known to him; and said court shall possess and may exercise the same powers and jurisdiction to hear, try, and determine all such prosecutions upon information, to issue writs and process, and do all other acts therein, as it possesses and may exercise in cases of like prosecutions upon indictments. [L. '90, p. 101, § 2; 2 H. C., § 1230.]

See supra, § 2024, offenses which may be prosecuted by information.

Cited in 3 Wash. 173; 7 Wash. 309; 7 Wash. 465; 7 Wash. 509; 14 Wash. 411; 30 Wash. 139; 33 Wash. 326, 327.

The following (§ 4, Laws of 1890, p. 101) is here given because believed to be partly, at least, in force:

"§ 4. That the provisions of the criminal code of the late territory now in force in this state in relation to prosecutions, crimes and misdemeanors or indictments, and all other provisions of law applying to prosecutions upon indictments, to writs and process therein, and the issuing and service thereof, to motions, pleadings, trials and punishments, or the execution of any sentence, and to all other proceedings in cases of indictment, whether in the court of original or appellate jurisdiction, shall in the same manner and to the same extent, as near as may be, apply to information and all prosecutions and proceedings thereon."

INFORMATION, SUBSCRIPTION.—An information is sufficiently subscribed when the deputy prosecuting attorney subscribes his principal's name thereto: Hammond v. State, 3 Wash. 171; State v. Riddell, 35 Wash. 324.

COPY OF.—A defendant is not entitled to another copy of the information, upon the indorsement of additional witnesses thereon, but notice of the addition of new names is sufficient: State v. Nordstrom, 7 Wash. 506.

A motion requiring the state to furnish a bill of particulars will not be sustained where the information presents a clear statement of facts sufficient to advise the defendant of the particulars of the crime charged: State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 515; State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 75.

Indorsement of witnesses: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 796, 797, §§ 197-200; State v. Phelps, 22 Wash. 181; State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339; State v. Sexton, 37 Wash. 110; State v. Van Waters, 36 Wash. 358; State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670.

In the absence of a rule of court, the prosecuting attorney may, under this section, indorse upon the information during the impaneling of a jury the names of additional witnesses, as the trial does not commence until the jury has been accepted and sworn: State v. Lee Doon, 7 Wash. 308.

The indorsement of additional witnesses upon an information shortly before trial is a matter within the discretion of the court, and does not constitute error unless there is abuse of such discretion: State v. Holmes, 12 Wash. 170.

If defendant proceeds to trial without objection that the names of certain witnesses for the state had not been indorsed upon the information, the presumption is that he considers himself ready for trial and was not injured with want of notice: State v. John Port Townsend, 7 Wash. 462.

The misspelling of the names of witnesses for the state as indorsed upon the indictment does not require the exclusion of their testimony, where they testified at the preliminary examination and were called and sworn in open court before the commencement of the trial, as the only object of the statute requiring the indorsement of the names of the state's witnesses upon the indictment is to guard against surprise: State v. Everett, 14 Wash. 574.

The technical omission to indorse names of witnesses on an information is not ground for reversal, where they were written in the body of the information: State v. McGonigle, 14 Wash. 594.

The indorsement of the name of an additional witness upon the information after the beginning of the trial only entitles the defense to a continuance, and is not ground of error when a continuance for that reason is not applied for: State v. Holedger, 15 Wash. 443.

If it does not appear that the defendant in a criminal prosecution was prejudiced by the fact that the names of witnesses offered in rebuttal by the state were not indorsed upon the information, and no continuance was asked for on that ground, the error will be held harmless: State v. Regan, 8 Wash. 506; citing State v. John Port Townsend, supra.

The court may permit the indorsement of names of additional witnesses on the information, during the course of the trial, in furtherance of justice, which action, in case of surprise, would entitle defendant to a reasonable continuance for the purpose of meeting the unexpected evidence: State v. Bokien, 14 Wash. 403.

§ 2051. (6833.) Verification of Information.

All informations shall be verified by the oath of the prosecuting attorney, complainant, or some other person. [L. '91, p. 49, § 18; 2 H. C., § 1231.]

Cited in 3 Wash. 174; 6 Wash. 643; 20 Wash. 514.

Verification: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1468, §§ 23-25.

When the information is amended it should be reverified: State v. Van Cleve, 5 Wash. 642, 643.

The verification of the information by the deputy prosecuting attorney is sufficient under this section, and the fact that in the body of the affidavit he is described as prosecuting attorney, instead of deputy, is immaterial: Hammond v. State, 3 Wash. 171; and if defendant goes to trial without objection to the irregularity, or insufficiency of the verification, the objection is waived: Id.

If the verification to an information is made by the prosecuting attorney, before the deputy county clerk, it is proper that the jurat should be signed by such officer in his own name; and he need not sign his principal by himself as deputy: State v. Devine, 6 Wash. 587; State v. Rosener, 8 Wash. 42; State v. White, 12 Wash. 417, 419.

A verification to the effect that the information is true, as affiant "verily believes," is sufficient: State v. Cronin, 20 Wash. 512.

§ 2052. (6834.) Commitment or Recognizance of Defendant Held to Answer.

Any person who may according to law be committed to jail, or become recognized, or held to bail with sureties for his appearance in court to answer to any indictment, may in like manner so be committed to jail, or become recognized and held to bail for his appearance to answer to any information or indictment, as the case may be. [L. '90, p. 101, § 5; 2, H. C., § 1587.]

See supra, § 1957, recognizance, when and how taken.

§ 2053. (6835.) Duty of Prosecuting Attorney Relating to Preliminary Examinations.

It shall be the duty of the prosecuting attorney of the proper county to inquire into and make full examination of all the facts and circumstances connected with any case of preliminary examination, as provided by law, touching the commission of any offense, wherein the offender shall be committed to jail, or become recognized or held to bail; and if the prosecuting attorney shall determine, in any such case, that an information ought not to be filed, he shall make, subscribe, and file with the clerk of the court a statement in writing containing his reasons, in fact and in law, for not filing an information in such case, and such statement shall be filed at and during the session of court at which the offender shall be held for his appearance: Provided, that in such case, such court may examine such statement, together with the evidence filed in the case, and if, upon such examination, the court shall not be satisfied with such statement, the prosecuting attorney shall be directed by the court to file the proper information, and bring the case to trial. [L. '90, p. 102, § 6; 2 H. C., § 1232.]

See supra, § 1949 et seq., examination before magistrate.

See supra, § 2024, offenses which may be prosecuted by information.

See supra, § 2050, information, filing, etc.

CHAPTER XIV.

REQUISITES OF INDICTMENTS AND INFORMATIONS.

§ 2054. (6839.) First Pleading.

The first pleading on the part of the state is the indictment or information. [Cf. L. '69, p. 240, § 181; Cd. '81, § 1003; L. '90, p. 49, § 19; 2 H. C., § 1233.]

Cited in 23 Wash. 549.

§ 2055. (6840.) Contents of Indictment or Information.

The indictment or information must contain,—

1. The title of the action, specifying the name of the court to which the indictment or information is presented, and the names of the parties;

2. A statement of the acts constituting the offense, in ordinary and concise language, without repetition, and in such manner as to enable a person of common understanding to know what is intended. [Cf. L. '69, p. 240, § 182; Cd. '81, § 1004; L. '91, p. 49, § 20; 2 H. C., § 1234.]

See notes to §§ 2012, 2013, 2015, offense occurring partly in one and partly in another county.

See infra, § 2057, particulars in which information must be direct and certain.

See infra, § 2058, true name may be inserted, when.

See infra, § 2064, words of the statute need not be strictly followed.

See infra, § 2065, requisites of information, etc., and notes.

See infra, § 2096, defendant required to declare his true name.

Cited in 9 Wash. 10, 97; 11 Wash. 418; 12 Wash. 353; 15 Wash. 7; 20 Wash. 249; 23 Wash. 549; 34 Wash. 600; 38 Wash. 272; 43 Wash. 121; 48 Wash. 263.

An information sufficiently shows that the prosecution is in the name of the state when the caption of the information entitles the case as the "State of Washington against" the defendants, naming them: State v. Devine, 6 Wash. 587.

An indictment, under our statutes, is a plain statement in ordinary and concise language of a fact or state of facts: State v. Womack, 4 Wash. 19, 23.

The venue of a crime is sufficiently set forth as being in King county, charging the same as having been committed in the city of Seattle; the court taking judicial notice of the fact that such city is in that county: Schilling v. Territory, 2 W. T. 283; State v. Fetterly, 33 Wash. 599.

Where an information charges the defendant with carrying on the business of barbering on Sunday on a day named, which in fact was Sunday, the court will take judicial notice of the day: State v. Bergfeldt, 41 Wash. 234.

Under this section an information describing property alleged to have been stolen as "two certain mares," of the value of $200, the property of F., is sufficiently certain and specific: State v. Shuck, 38 Wash. 270.

§ 2056. (6841.) Form of Indictment.

The indictment may be substantially in the following form:—

| | | |
|--|---|---|
| The State of Washington, v. A—— B——. | } | Superior Court of the State of Washington. for the County of ——. |
|--|---|---|

A B is accused by the grand jury of the ——, by this indictment, of the crime of (here insert the name of the crime, if it have one, such as treason, murder, arson, manslaughter, or the like; or if it be a crime having no general name, such as libel, assault and battery, and the like, insert a brief description of it as given by law), committed as follows:—

The said A B, on the —— day of ——, 18——, in the county of ——, aforesaid (here set forth the act charged as a crime).

Dated at ——, in the county aforesaid, the —— day of ——, A. D., 18——.
(Signed) C D, Prosecuting Attorney.

(Indorsed) A true bill.

(Signed) E F, Foreman of the Grand Jury.

[Cf. L. '69, p. 240, § 183; Cd. '81, § 1005; L. '91, p. 50, § 21; 2 H. C., § 1235.]

Cited in 9 Wash. 98.

Form of indictment suitable for use by grand jurors and prosecuting attorneys: Leonard v. Territory, 2 W. T. 381, 400;

Timmerman v. Territory, 3 W. T. 445; Frederick v. Territory, 2 Wash. 358; State v. Day, 4 Wash. 104, 105.

§ 2057. (6842.) Indictment or Information must be Direct and Certain.

The indictment or information must be direct and certain, as it regards:—

1. The party charged;
2. The crime charged; and

3. The particular circumstances of the crime charged, when they are necessary to constitute a complete crime. [Cf. L. '54, p. 112, § 61; L. '69, p. 241, § 184; Cd. '81, § 1006; L. '91, p. 50, § 22; 2 H. C., § 1236.]

See supra, § 2055, contents of indictment, etc., and notes.

See infra, § 2065, requisites of indictment, etc., and notes.

Cited in 4 Wash. 107; 15 Wash. 444; 21 Wash. 356; 22 Wash. 5; 27 Wash. 461; 27 Wash. 464; 34 Wash. 600.

If the information is direct and certain as to the crime charged, the party charged, and the facts constituting the crime, that is all that is required under this section: State v. Day, 4 Wash. 107; State v. Roberts, 22 Wash. 1.

§ 2058. (6843.) True Name Inserted, When.

When a defendant is designated in the indictment or information by a fictitious or erroneous name, and in any stage of the proceedings his true name is discovered, it may be inserted in the subsequent proceedings, referring to the fact of his being indicted or informed against by the name mentioned in the indictment or information. [Cf. L. '69, p. 241, § 185; Cd. '81, § 1007; L. '91, p. 50, § 23; 2 H. C., § 1237.]

See supra, § 2055, notes, contents of indictment, etc.

See infra, § 2065, notes, requisites of indictment, etc.

See infra, § 2096, true name ascertained on arraignment.

§ 2059. (6844.) One Crime to be Charged and in One Form Only.

The indictment or information must charge but one crime, and in one form only, except that where the crime may be committed by use of different means, the indictment or information may allege the means in the alternative. [Cf. L. '69, p. 241, § 186; Cd. '81, § 1008; L. '91, p. 50, § 24; 2 H. C., § 1238.]

Cited in 7 Wash. 463; 15 Wash. 444; 20 Wash. 164; 27 Wash. 464; 32 Wash. 302; 42 Wash. 674; 51 Wash. 226.

Duplicity: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1480, 1481, §§ 73-77; State v. Butts, 42 Wash. 455; State v. Bliss, 27 Wash. 463; State v. McCormick, 20 Wash. 94; State v. Nelson, 39 Wash. 221; State v. Klein, 38 Wash. 475; State v. Michel, 20 Wash. 162; State v. Snider, 32 Wash. 299; State v. Dix, 33 Wash. 405; State v. Ilomaki, 40 Wash. 629; State v. Holedger, 15 Wash. 443; State v. Newton, 29 Wash. 373; State v. Elswood, 15 Wash. 453; State v. Priest, 32 Wash. 74; State v. Adams, 41 Wash. 552; State v. Williams, 43 Wash. 505; State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 75; State v. Osborne, 39 Wash. 548.

An indictment which charges the stealing, at time and place, a horse as property of one Mary, and another horse the property of —, charges but one offense—a single transaction. But if the transaction were double, objection on this ground, if not made until after verdict, comes too late: Territory v. Heywood, 2 W. T. 180; State v. Rogan, 18 Wash. 43; State v. Anderson, 30 Wash. 14.

Under this section an information charging an assault with a deadly weapon is not bad for duplicity on the ground that it alleges that the assault was made "without considerable provocation, and with a willful, malignant and abandoned heart": State v. John Port Townsend, 7 Wash. 462.

§ 2060. (6845.) Statement as to Time When Offense Committed.

The precise time at which the crime was committed need not be stated in the indictment or information; but it may be alleged to have been committed at any time before the finding of the indictment or the filing of the information, and within the time in which an action may be commenced therefor, except where the time is a material ingredient in the crime. [Cf. L. '69, p. 241, § 187; Cd. '81, § 1009; L. '91, p. 51, § 25; 2 H. C., § 1239.]

Cited in 13 Wash. 338; 30 Wash. 16; 35 Wash. 154; 39 Wash. 551.

An information charging a murder "on or about" a certain date is sufficient, under this section: State v. Williams, 13 Wash. 335.

Time of offense: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1472, §§ 40-43; Id., p. 1484, § 95;

State v. Gottfreedson, 24 Wash. 398; State v. Anderson, 30 Wash. 14; State v. Osborne, 39 Wash. 548; State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339; State v. Schaffer, 31 Wash. 305; State v. Smith, 19 Wash. 376; State v. Hoshor, 26 Wash. 613; State v. Bergfeldt, 41 Wash. 234; State v. Nelson, 39 Wash. 221.

§ 2061. (6846.) Statement as to Person Injured or Intended to be.

When the crime involves the commission of or an attempt to commit a private injury, and is described with sufficient certainty in other respects to identify the act, an erroneous allegation as to the person injured or intended to be injured is not material. [L. '69, p. 241, § 188; Cd. '81, § 1010; 2 H. C., § 1240.]

Cited in 35 Wash. 154.

It is not necessary in charging one with the crime of employing a female in a place where intoxicating liquors are sold to allege in the information the name of the female so employed: State v. Considine, 16 Wash. 358.

An information charging a bank officer with receiving a deposit after the insolvency of the bank should allege the name of the depositor in order to identify the act of such deposit with certainty, and a failure to do so does not identify the act under this section: State v. Oleson, 35 Wash. 149.

§ 2062. (6847.) Animal, What Description of Sufficient.

When the crime involves the taking of or injury to an animal, the indictment or information is sufficiently certain in that respect if it describes the animal by the common name of its class. [Cf. L. '69, p. 241, § 189; Cd. '81, § 1011; L. '91, p. 51, § 26; 2 H. C., § 1241.]

As to sufficiency of description of animals, see State v. Barkuloo, 18 Wash. 141; State v. Shuck, 38 Wash. 270.

§ 2063. (6848.) Construction of Words and Phrases.

The words used in an indictment or information must be construed in their usual acceptance, in common language, except words and phrases defined by law, which are to be construed according to their legal meaning. [Cf. L. '69, p. 241, § 190; Cd. '81, § 1012; L. '91, p. 51, § 27; 2 H. C., § 1242.]

See supra, § 2011, word "person" defined.

Cited in 23 Wash. 549.

§ 2064. (6849.) Words of the Statute Need not be Strictly Pursued.

Words used in a statute to define a crime need not be strictly pursued in the indictment or information, but other words, conveying the same meaning, may be used. [Cf. L. '69, p. 241, § 191; Cd. '81, § 1013; L. '91, p. 51, § 28; 2 H. C., § 1243.]

Cited in 8 Wash. 464; 11 Wash. 518; 12 Wash. 463; 21 Wash. 272; 22 Wash. 276; 31 Wash. 247.

Sufficiency of substituted words: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1477, § 62; State v. Bohn, 19 Wash. 36; State v. Young, 22 Wash. 273.

Under this section, allowing words conveying the same meaning as the statutory words to be used, the word "malicious" is supplied by the words "of his premeditated malice": State v. Ackles, 8 Wash. 462.

A charge in an information, being in the language of the statute defining the offense, is sufficient: Watts v. Territory, 1 W. T. 409; Schilling v. Territory, 2 W. T. 283; State v. Day, 4 Wash. 104, 107; State v. Knowlton, 11 Wash. 512, 518.

An information for embezzlement charging the crime substantially in the terms of the statute is sufficient: State v. Turner, 10 Wash. 94.

An information in a prosecution for making an aperture in a dam used for agricultural purposes is sufficient where it charges that the dam was used for irrigation purposes, as the terms are synonymous: State v. Tiffany, 44 Wash. 602.

An information, though not charging that the prosecutrix was under the age of consent, is good as against an objection made for the first time after verdict, when it alleges that the prosecutrix was at the time of the offense "of the age of sixteen years," the age of consent being eighteen years: State v. Fetterly, 33 Wash. 599.

§ 2065. (6850.) Requisites of Indictments, etc.

The indictment or information is sufficient if it can be understood therefrom,—

1. That it is entitled in a court having authority to receive;
2. That it was found by a grand jury of the county in which the court was held;
3. That the defendant is named, or if his name cannot be discovered, that he is described by a fictitious name, with the statement that his real name is to the jury unknown;
4. That the crime was committed within the jurisdiction of the court, except where, as provided by law, the act, though done without the county in which the court is held, is triable therein;
5. That the crime was committed at some time previous to the finding of the indictment, or filing of the information, and within the time limited by law for the commencement of an action therefor;

6. That the act or omission charged as the crime is clearly and distinctly set forth in ordinary and concise language, without repetition, and in such a manner as to enable a person of common understanding to know what is intended;

7. [That] the act or omission charged as the crime is stated with such a degree of certainty as to enable the court to pronounce judgment upon a conviction, according to the right of the case. [L. '69, p. 242, § 192; Cd. '81, § 1014; L. '91, p. 51, § 29; 2 H. C., § 1244.]

Requisites and sufficiency of accusation: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1469, 1479, §§ 26-70. The fact that an information does not charge the same crime as that upon which the accused was committed upon the preliminary examination is no ground for setting it aside: State v. Myers, 8 Wash. 177.

In the case of extradition, a prisoner extradited upon a certain charge may be tried for an offense slightly different from the charge, if nothing appears to suggest fraud in securing the extradition: Harland v. Territory, 3 Wash. 131.

It is a matter of discretion to allow the prosecuting attorney to withdraw an information on file prior to trial, and file another charging the same offense: State v. Gile, 8 Wash. 12; State v. Friedrich, 4 Wash. 204.

The provision of the code requiring the county commissioners to select annually a list of persons qualified to serve as grand jurors is not mandatory; and an indictment found by a grand jury selected by a venire of the preceding year which had not been exhausted is not prejudicial to the defendant when the jury is otherwise qualified to serve: State v. Krug, 12 Wash. 288.

When objection to the jurisdiction of a court on account of the ineligibility of the judge is not urged until after the submission of a cause to the jurisdiction, the objection is waived, as well in criminal as in civil proceedings: State v. Holmes, 12 Wash. 170.

A law changing the mode of procedure in prosecutions for crime from an indictment to an information does not contain any of the elements or respond to any of the accepted definitions of an ex post facto law although the offense under the prosecution may have been committed prior to the change in the law: Lybarger v. State, 2 Wash. 552; but see State v. McCarty, 1 Wash. 377.

Subject matter of allegations: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1469, §§ 27-32; State v. Halbert, 14 Wash. 306; State v. McGilvery, 20 Wash. 240; State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 515; State v. Druximan, 34 Wash. 257; State v. Douette, 31 Wash. 6; State v. Ryan, 34 Wash. 597; Armstrong v. Van de Vanter, 21 Wash. 682; State v. Power, 24 Wash. 34; State v. Nelson, 39 Wash. 221.

In a prosecution for the statutory offense of "willfully or maliciously" making an aperture in a dam for agricultural purposes, it is not necessary to charge that the act was maliciously done; since "or" cannot be construed to mean "and" in this connection: State v. Tiffany, 44 Wash. 602.

Statutory offenses—Sufficiency of averments in the language of the statute—Sufficiency of substituted words: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1477, §§ 60-62.

An indictment under our statute is a plain statement in ordinary and concise language of a fact or state of facts: State v. Womack, 4 Wash. 19, 23.

Useless allegations cannot, in an information, destroy the legal effect of necessary averments: State v. Ackles, 8 Wash. 462.

It is unnecessary that an information charging a crime should set forth the conditions which the law provides must exist in order that a prosecution may be by information: State v. Munson, 7 Wash. 239; State v. Anderson, 5 Wash. 350.

If the information is direct and certain as to the crime charged, the party charged, and the facts constituting the crime, that is all that is required under § 2057, supra: State v. Day, 4 Wash. 104-107.

An information which omits the name of the defendant in the charging part, but names him in the accusing part, is sufficient: Whitcher v. State, 2 Wash. 286.

In case of a statutory offense, unknown to the common law, an indictment should charge the offense to have been under the circumstances and with the intent mentioned in the statute; but even in such case, the exact words of the statute need not be followed, provided words of equivalent meaning be employed: Leschi v. Territory, 1 W. T. 13.

It is the general rule that it is sufficient if the information or indictment charges the offense substantially in the language of the statute defining the crime: Foster v. Territory, 1 Wash. 411; Watts v. Territory, 1 W. T. 409; State v. Day, 4 Wash. 104; State v. Wilson, 9 Wash. 16; State v. Reis, 9 Wash. 329; State v. Turner, 10 Wash. 94; State v. Phelps, 22 Wash. 181; State v. Levan, 23 Wash. 547; State v. Hoshor, 26 Wash. 643; State v. Ryan, 34 Wash. 597; State v. Bogardus, 36 Wash. 297; State v. Smith, 40 Wash. 615; State v. Lewis, 42 Wash. 672. But this rule does not apply when the law does not sufficiently set out the facts so that the defendant may have notice of that with which he is charged: State v. Carey, 4 Wash. 424; State v. Ryan, 34 Wash. 597. If the necessary facts constituting a statutory crime are so stated in an information that a man of common understanding can determine therefrom the offense with which he is charged, the information will be held sufficient under this section: State v. Phelps, 22 Wash. 181; State v. Levan, 23 Wash. 547; State v. Whitworth, 30 Wash. 47; State v. Smith, 31 Wash. 245; State v. Druxinman, 34 Wash. 257; State v. Ryan, 34 Wash. 497; State v. Nelson, 39 Wash. 221; State v. Davis, 43 Wash. 116.

An information is amendable on leave of the court of another county to which the prosecution has been transferred on a change of venue: State v. Lyts, 25 Wash. 347.

ACCESSORY.—An information against an accessory before the fact is sufficient when it charges the commission of the crime by him as a principal, without setting out the acts going to show that he aided and abetted in its commission: State v. Golden, 11 Wash. 422. See supra, § 2007 et seq., and notes.

ARSON: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 270, §§ 1-6; State v. Mann, 39 Wash. 144; State v. McLain, 43 Wash. 124. It is unnecessary in charging the crime of arson to allege that the dwelling-house set fire to was used and occupied as the place of abode by any person or persons: McClaine v. Territory, 1 Wash. 345.

An information charging defendant with the crime of arson in setting fire to "a two-story wooden storehouse building" is sufficient in description, although the lower story only was a storehouse and the upper a lodging-house: State v. Biles, 6 Wash. 186.

An information sufficiently alleges the place of the commission of the crime of arson when it charges the defendant, on a day named, "in the county of Spokane, state of Washington, did then and there unlawfully and maliciously set fire to and burn a certain storehouse building, the property of another": State v. Meyers, 9 Wash. 8.

ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO COMMIT MURDER: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1387, § 32; State v. Michel, 20 Wash. 162; State v. Young, 22 Wash. 273; State v. McCormick, 20 Wash. 94; State v. Dunlap, 25 Wash. 292; State v. Snider, 32 Wash. 299; State v. Levan, 23 Wash. 547. An information charging assault with intent to commit murder sufficiently charges an assault, though not following the words of the statute defining that offense, when it alleges that defendant, having the present ability, attempted to kill a certain person with a pistol: State v. Feamster, 12 Wash. 461; and an information charging that the accused "did unlawfully, purposely and of his premeditated malice, and with intent to murder, assault and shoot one Benjamin Franklin with a deadly weapon," sufficiently charges assault with intent to commit murder in the second degree: State v. Ackles, 8 Wash. 462.

Under § 2064, supra, allowing words conveying the same meaning as the statutory words to be used, the word "maliciously" is supplied by the words "of his premeditated malice": Id.

An information which alleges in the formal part that the defendant is "guilty of the crime of assault with the intent to commit murder," but which fails, in setting out the acts constituting an assault, to affirmatively charge that by such acts defendant intended to murder the party assaulted, merely charges the crime of assault: Watson v. State, 2 Wash. 504. See notes to § 2168, infra.

WITH DEADLY WEAPON.—An information charging assault with a deadly weapon is not bad for duplicity under § 2059, supra, on the ground that it alleges the assault was made "without considerable provocation, and with a willful, malignant and abandoned heart": State v. John Port Townsend, 7 Wash. 462.

With intent to commit felony, see State v. Costello, 29 Wash. 366.

In an indictment charging defendant with an assault with a deadly weapon with the intent to inflict a bodily injury, the employment of the term "personal injury," although the statute uses the term "bodily injury," will not render the indictment insufficient: State v. Clayborne, 14 Wash. 622.

WITH INTENT TO COMMIT RAPE: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2453, 2454, §§ 7-15; State v. Smith, 19 Wash. 376; State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670; State v. Dunlap, 25 Wash. 292; State v. Falsetta, 43 Wash. 159; State v. Fetterly, 33 Wash. 599; State v. Phelps, 22 Wash. 181. Although upon an information as framed, charging the crime of assault with intent to commit rape, the defendant might properly be convicted of assault and battery, the failure of the court to so instruct the jury is harmless error when the instructions, given at the request of the defendant, required the jury, in order to render the verdict returned by them, to find from the evidence beyond a reasonable doubt not only that defendant committed an assault, but also that he intended to carry the force, if necessary, to the extent of consummated rape: State v. Courtemarch, 11 Wash. 446.

BRIBERY: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 398, § 2; Armstrong v. Van de Vanter, 21 Wash. 682. An indictment for attempting to bribe a member of the state board of education charging that defendants "did then and there conspire together to tempt, silence, bribe and corrupt said member by then and there offering to pay him five thousand dollars, all of which defendants then and there did and performed to unlawfully," etc., is sufficient, as the antecedent of "did and performed" is obviously the offering to pay, and not the conspiring together: State v. Womack, 4 Wash. 19.

BURGLARY: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 413, 414, §§ 3-10; State v. Dolson, 22 Wash. 259; State v. Burton, 27 Wash. 528; State v. Nelson, 36 Wash. 126; State v. Randall, 36 Wash. 438; State v. Garbe, 34 Wash. 395; State v. Lewis, 42 Wash. 672. Burglary with intent to commit a felony is sufficiently alleged when the information charges intent to commit grand larceny, followed by a statement of the acts intended, which, if carried into effect, would have constituted such offense: State v. Sufferin, 6 Wash. 107.

An information for grand larceny charging the breaking and entry of an office is sufficient under § 2794, infra, without alleging that such office was a place where goods, etc., were kept for sale or deposit: Id.

An information for burglary which charges the unlawful burglarious entry of a dwelling-house with intent to commit a felony therein is sufficient: State v. Wilson, 9 Wash. 218; following Linbeck v. State, 1 Wash. 336; State v. Anderson, 5 Wash. 350.

Where a room in a hotel is leased for a definite period of time by one who keeps his effects there, and makes it his home and does not occupy it merely as a guest, an information against a person for burglariously entering such room should allege that it is the dwelling-house of the roomer, and not of the hotel-keeper: State v. Johnson, 4 Wash. 593.

In a prosecution for burglary, an information charging the defendant with the unlawful breaking and entering a certain house is sufficient to sustain the charge, either by day or night, without alleging an unlawful entry in the night-time, or an unlawful breaking and entering in the daytime: State v. Miller, 3 Wash. 131.

The averment that the house broken into was a dwelling-house and a house used as a hotel and lodging-house, "the same being then and there the dwelling-house" of a party, was held sufficient under § 2066: Id.

If the information alleges that the burglarious entry of a house was made in a certain county, it is a sufficient averment that the house was within the county: State v. Johnson, supra.

An information which charges that the defendant in the night-time did unlawfully break and unlawfully enter the dwelling-house of another, "with intent then and there to commit a misdemeanor therein," is sufficient as charging the crime of burglary, as under § 2795, infra, the burden of showing with what intent he entered the house is cast upon the defendant: Linbeck v. State, 1 Wash. 336.

CONSPIRACY: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 507, § 3; State v. Stewart, 32 Wash. 103; State v. Mann, 39 Wash. 144; State v. Hillman, 42 Wash. 615; State v. Messner, 43 Wash. 206; Armstrong v. Van de Vanter, 21 Wash. 682. Under § 2723, infra, the common-law offense of conspiracy is indictable, and an indictment which sufficiently charges the crime as at common law will support a judgment of conviction: Bradshaw v. Territory, 3 W. T. 265.

DISTURBING RELIGIOUS MEETING. The failure to charge the disturbance of a religious society as having been done willfully will not render the information insufficient, if other words of the same import are used: State v. Stuth, 11 Wash. 423. See supra, § 2064, as to language to be used in the charge.

EMBEZZLEMENT: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1010, §§ 8-13; State v. McCauley, 17 Wash. 88; State v. Boggs, 16 Wash. 143; State v. Dix, 33 Wash. 405; State v. Whitworth, 30 Wash. 47; State v. Raby, 31 Wash. 111; State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 75; State v. Hoshor, 26 Wash. 643; State v. Bogardus, 36 Wash. 297. When a public officer charged with the custody of public funds misappropriates and embezzles the same, he may be prosecuted either under § 2808 or § 2812, infra: State v. Isensee, 12 Wash. 254.

Although an indictment drawn under § 2812, infra, charging a city treasurer with using money intrusted to him as such officer for an unauthorized purpose, may charge the defendant with the crime of larceny, it is sufficient when it sets out the commission of the acts whereby he has unlawfully and fraudulently appropriated the money: Id.

Under §§ 2812, 2813, infra, an indictment charging a city treasurer with unlawfully, feloniously and in a manner not authorized by law, using a certain amount of public money, under his care and control as such treasurer for safekeeping, in order to make a profit out of the same, is sufficiently direct and certain as to the crime charged and specifies with sufficient particularity the acts and circumstances necessary to constitute the crime of embezzlement of public funds under said provisions of law: State v. Krug, 12 Wash. 288.

An indictment for embezzlement by an agent which does not allege that defendant was an agent for hire is insufficient under § 2808, infra: Terry v. State, 1 Wash. 277; see State v. Turner, 10 Wash. 94, 95.

An information for embezzlement is sufficient under § 2808, infra, and this section, which alleges that defendant, on a day and at a place named, was intrusted with a certain sum of money, the property of another, which he took into his possession and was holding for and on account of such other, and that he did then and there fraudulently convert said money to his own use: Id.

An information charging that a sum of money had come into the hands of the accused as assignee of certain persons, and that at a certain time and place he had unlawfully and fraudulently converted the same to his own use, sufficiently charges the crime of embezzlement under said § 2808, infra, when interpreted in the light of this section: State v. Whiteman, 9 Wash. 402.

An information for embezzlement alleging that the defendant in King county, state of Washington, on a day named, was agent of a certain person, and as such agent, was then and there intrusted with a certain sum of money, the property of his principal, and that thereafter, on a day named, he did unlawfully convert the same to his own use, is insufficient, as it does not charge the conversion as taking place within said county of King: State v. Mayberry, 9 Wash. 194.

An information charging one as having received by virtue of his office as county clerk a sum of money belonging to the county, which he unlawfully, knowingly, fraudulently and feloniously took and converted to his own use and embezzled, is sufficient to charge a crime under the provisions of § 2812: State v. Downing, 15 Wash. 413; following State v. Isensee, 12 Wash. 254.

NUISANCES: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2168, § 31; State v. Paggett, 8 Wash. 579; State v. Schaffer, 31 Wash. 305. It is sufficient, under Bal. Code, § 7359, to aver in an information that the defendant kept a house "used as a place of resort, where women are employed to draw custom and to dance, all of which is to the injury and common nuisance of all the people," but the information should show that the character of the women alleged to have been employed or the manner of their deportment, and character and quality of conversation, was such as tended to draw crowds of disorderly persons, or to debauch the morals of those resorting to the place: State v. Brown, 7 Wash. 10; and in such case the information should aver that women were employed for the purposes mentioned at the time when it is alleged the defendant kept the house described therein: Id.

FALSE PRETENSES, OBTAINING MONEY UNDER: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1244, §§ 6-12; State v. Bokien, 14 Wash. 403; State v. Ryan, 34 Wash. 597; State v. Phelps, 41 Wash. 470; State v. Merdenhall, 24 Wash. 12; State v. Riddell, 33 Wash. 324; State v. Ryan, 34 Wash. 597. In an information for obtaining money under false pretenses, it is unnecessary to set out the time, character or denomination of the money obtained: State v. Knowlton, 11 Wash. 512; nor need it aver ownership of the money with directness and certainty, if it is made to appear from the information, considered as a whole, that the money was the property of the prosecutor: Id. See infra, § 2074.

In such an information, an allegation that the prosecutor, being induced by certain pretenses and representations, "did buy" certain bars of metal from defendant, "and did then and there pay" defendant $5,000, is equivalent to an allegation that the defendant then and there "obtained" said sum of money: Id.

Although an information for obtaining $5,000 in money for certain bars of metal, upon the false representations that they were of pure gold of the value of at least twenty dollars per ounce, alleges that the bars of metal were of no value, the variance is immaterial when the proof shows that they in fact contained copper worth about one hundred and twenty dollars, but no merchantable gold: Id.

In a prosecution for obtaining goods under false pretenses the information is sufficient, if it appears therefrom, though not by direct and positive averment, that a party was induced to part with his property by reason of certain specified false pretenses: State v. Bokien, 14 Wash. 403.

See infra, § 2843, obtaining money under.

FORGERY: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1263, § 4; State v. Newton, 29 Wash. 373. It is unnecessary, in an information charging the crime of forgery, to set forth a copy of the forged instrument, as the acts constituting the crime may be fully and plainly set forth otherwise by appropriate words of description: State v. Wright, 9 Wash. 96. See White v. Territory, 1 Wash. 279.

An indictment for forgery which correctly sets forth a copy of the forged draft, with the exception of the figures cut therein, is not defective, the figures cut in the draft in a legal sense being no part of the instrument: White v. Territory, supra.

An indictment charging that defendant uttered and published as true a certain false and forged writing, which is set out in full in the indictment, is sufficient to warrant proof of the alteration of an instrument originally genuine: Id. See State v. Wright, 9 Wash. 96.

See infra, § 2071, pleading in forgery where destroyed instrument withheld.

GAMING.—An indictment under § 2024, infra, charging defendant with the crime "of unlawfully and feloniously carrying on a swindling game called twenty-one, or top-and-bottom dice," without any other or further description of these games, is too indefinite and insufficient: Harland v. Territory, 3 W. T. 132.

In prosecution for conducting a game of faro, as proprietor, it is unnecessary that the information name the person with whom the game was played, as the gravamen of the offense is the conducting of such prohibited game as proprietor: State v. Wilson, 9 Wash. 16; following Foster v. Territory, 1 Wash. 411.

An information charging defendant, in the language of the statute, with conducting a game of faro, is sufficient without describing the offense, under the provisions of § 2924, infra, as the offense is so individuated by the statute that the defendant has proper notice of what offense he is charged with, from the mere adoption of the statutory terms: State v. Wilson, supra.

The misdemeanor of dealing, carrying on, opening, or conducting, either as owner, proprietor, or employee, whether for hire or not, any game of roulette as defined by § 2924, is necessarily included in the felony of conducting, carrying on, opening or causing to be opened, either as owner, proprietor, employee or assistant, whether for hire or not, any game of roulette in any house where persons resort for the purpose of playing any such game, as defined by Laws of 1903, page 63; and a conviction of the former may be had under an information for the latter offense, charging the conducting of a gambling resort by conducting and carrying on a game of roulette in a place where persons resort for that purpose: State v. Preston, 49 Wash. 298.

LARCENY: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1701, 1702, §§ 6-14; State v. Smith, 31 Wash. 245; State v. Bliss, 27 Wash. 463; State v. Klein, 38 Wash. 475; State v. Butts, 42 Wash. 455; State v. Dengel, 24 Wash. 49, 63; State v. Morgan, 31 Wash. 226; State v. Barkuloo, 18 Wash. 141; State v. Burns, 19 Wash. 52; State v. Palmer, 20 Wash. 207; State v. Shuck, 38 Wash. 270; State v. Phillips, 27 Wash. 364; State v. Johnson, 36 Wash. 294. A state court has jurisdiction to punish the crime of larceny committed by stealing the property of a railroad company which is in the hands of a receiver appointed by the United States court: State v. Coss, 12 Wash. 673.

In the indictment it is not necessary to allege in whose possession the property was at the time of the larceny, but it is sufficient to allege and prove that the property stolen was the property of another: Id.

Where defendant has been placed upon trial upon an information charging him with the larceny of "seventeen head of horses of the value of seven hundred dollars, being then and there the property of one William Burbank," the name of the owner is a material allegation in the charge, and it is error for the court to allow the information to be amended by the substitution of the name of "Walter" for "William": State v. Van Cleve, 5 Wash. 642.

It is not necessary in an information or indictment charging the larceny of several articles to allege the value of each separate article charged to have been stolen: State v. Brew, 4 Wash. 95; distinguishing McCarty v. State, 1 Wash. 377.

An information charging defendant with the taking and stealing "ninety-three railroad tickets of the aggregate value of one hundred and twenty dollars," without alleging the value of each ticket taken and showing that they were stamped, dated and signed, does not state facts sufficient to constitute the crime of larceny: McCarty v. State, supra.

Under § 2074, infra, an information for grand larceny which describes the property taken as "a quantity of money of the value of seventy-seven dollars" is sufficient: State v. Hanshew, 3 Wash. 12.

See infra, § 2074, stolen money, etc., how described.

An information for the larceny of a sum of money need not contain a special allegation of the value of the money, under § 2074, infra: State v. Blanchard, 11 Wash. 116.

Under § 2805, infra, an indictment was held sufficient, making it larceny for any person to receive "any money or other property whatever" by falsely representing or personating another, and that it is a crime for a person by such means to receive any kind or description of property of value: State v. White, 12 Wash. 417.

An information based upon § 2807, infra, which alleges that the defendant borrowed and obtained the use of a diamond finger ring for one-half hour, and after the expiration of said time, "neglected to return said ring" and "converted and secreted same with intent to convert same to his own use," sufficiently charges possession of the ring on the part of defendant without averment in the language of the statute, that the same came "into his possession by virtue of such borrowing or hiring": State v. Kasper, 5 Wash. 174.

The inclusion, in an information charging the stealing of neat cattle, of an allegation that they were of the value of twenty dollars per head, does not affect the validity of the information upon the ground that it constitutes an attempt to charge grand larceny, as such allegation may be rejected as surplusage: State v. Kyle, 14 Wash. 550.

LIQUORS—SALE WITHOUT LICENSE. In an information charging the defendant with the sale of intoxicating liquors without a license, in violation of § 2962, infra, an allegation that the name of the person to whom the sale was made is unknown, is sufficient, without specifically naming him: State v. Bodecker, 11 Wash. 417.

The word "knowingly" in an information charging the selling of intoxicating liquor to a minor sufficiently charges the defendant with knowledge of the purchaser's minority: State v. De Paoli, 24 Wash. 71.

MURDER—MANSLAUGHTER: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1386, 1387, §§ 30, 31; State v. Johnny Tommy, 19 Wash. 270; State v. Cronin, 20 Wash. 512; State v. Yandell, 34 Wash. 409; State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339.

An indictment charging murder, as at common law, is sufficient to sustain a verdict of murder in the first degree. The peculiar circumstances distinguishing murder in the first degree, under our statutes, need not be set out; and the jury, from the evidence, are to determine the degree: Leschi v. Territory, 1 W. T. 13.

General intent to kill, without intent to kill a particular person, sufficient: State v. Barr, 11 Wash. 482.

An indictment charging that defendant "purposely and of his deliberate and premeditated malice killed one John Scherbring, then and there being, by then and there 'purposely and of his deliberate and premeditated malice, shooting and thereby mortally wounding the said John Scherbring with a revolver pistol,' is sufficient to charge the crime of murder in the first degree: Freidrich v. Territory, 2 Wash. 358; Leonard v. Territory, 2 W. T. 381; Timmerman v. Territory, 3 W. T. 445; State v. Day, 4 Wash. 104; State v. Smith, 9 Wash. 341.

An information charging murder in the first degree is sufficient which alleges that defendant "purposely and of his deliberate and premeditated malice killed" deceased "by then and there, purposely and of his deliberate and premeditated malice, shooting and mortally wounding deceased, etc.": State v. Day, 4 Wash. 104.

It is unnecessary to allege that the act was done unlawfully, feloniously and of malice aforethought, or that deceased was murdered, or that he then and there died, or that he was a human being; nor need the part of his body wounded be designated: State v. Day, supra; approved in State v. Nordstrom, 7 Wash. 506, 508; State v. Payne, 10 Wash. 546.

An information charged that the defendant "did feloniously, purposely and maliciously make an assault on one Edward Guthrie, and with a certain knife which he, the said defendant, then and there had and held in his hand, did then and there feloniously, purposely and maliciously strike, stab, thrust and cut at, upon and into the said Edward Guthrie, inflicting upon the said Edward Guthrie one mortal wound, of which mortal wound the said Edward Guthrie then and there died": Held, that the information was not bad for duplicity; that it charged acts constituting a crime; that it alleged the killing was done by means of a knife in the hands of defendant, and that a knife is prima facie presumed to be a deadly instrument: State v. Regan, 8 Wash. 506.

An information charging murder in the first degree is sufficient when it charges that the accused, on a certain day, in a certain county and state, "purposely and of his deliberate and premeditated malice, unlawfully and feloniously killed the (deceased), by then and there purposely and of his deliberate and premeditated malice, shooting and cutting and mortally wounding the said (deceased) with a gun and knife, which the said (accused person) then and there held in his hand": State v. Smith, 9 Wash. 341.

An indictment is not sufficient to sustain a sentence of murder in the first degree, which charges the assault and shooting to have been done purposely and of deliberate and premeditated malice; but does not aver the killing itself to have been done purposely and of deliberate and premeditated malice, and only charges manslaughter; nor does the conclusion "and so the jurors do say that the said A. L. feloniously and of deliberate malice did kill and murder," etc., supply this essential averment: Leonard v. Territory, 2 W. T. 381; Blanton v. State, 1 Wash. 265; State v. Ge, 1 Wash. 275; State v. Me, 1 Wash. 276.

Indictment for murder in a particular case held insufficient in charging deliberate and premeditated malice to kill defendant and that the objection to the insufficiency of the indictment could be raised for the first time in the supreme court: Blanton v. State, supra.

An indictment for murder which alleges that defendant did, purposely and of his deliberate and premeditated malice, assault the deceased and that he, of his premeditated malice, fired the shot which killed the deceased, is insufficient in charging murder in either first or second degree, yet sufficiently charges the crime of manslaughter: Id.

Allegations of murder held sufficiently direct and certain to charge the defendant with knowledge of the presence of deceased on the premises at the time they were set fire to by defendant: McClaine v. Territory, 1 Wash. 345.

Under an information charging the defendant with the crime of murder in the first degree by the administration of poison, as defined in the criminal code, the defendant may be convicted of murder in the second degree, or of manslaughter, pursuant to the provisions of § 2167, infra, permitting conviction for an inferior degree when the offense consists of different degrees: State v. Greer, 11 Wash. 245.

The omission of the word "feloniously" in charging a homicide is not error, if the indictment follows the language of the statute: Watts v. Territory, 1 W. T. 409; Schilling v. Territory, 2 W. T. 283.

See supra, § 2064, use of statutory language.

An information which states, in substance, that the defendants unlawfully, willfully and feloniously inflicted a mortal wound or wounds upon deceased, and does not aver that the killing was willfully or violently done, charges involuntary manslaughter: State v. Gile, 8 Wash. 12; see Blanton v. State, supra.

Although an information charging manslaughter may not show that accused bore the relation to deceased of surgeon, and that death resulted from a surgical operation, evidence touching the character of the operation, the propriety of performing it, and subsequent treatment of deceased is admissible: Id.

An information charging a physician with manslaughter in counseling and directing the withholding of food, save water and the juices of fruit, "and such other nourishment as he, the said C. McF., might direct," is insufficient in simply alleging that his directions were followed and the food given was insufficient to sustain life, since that is in the nature of a conclusion; and it is necessary to set forth a specific statement of all his directions, showing the kind and quantity of nourishment directed to be given and that starvation was the necessary result: State v. McFadden, 48 Wash. 259.

PERJURY: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2238, 2239, §§ 1-4; State v. Roberts, 22 Wash. 1; State v. McLain, 43 Wash. 124; State v. Guse, 21 Wash. 269; State v. Donette, 31 Wash. 6.

An indictment for perjury which does not describe the proceedings at which the alleged perjury was committed is defective: State v. See, 4 Wash. 344.

Under § 2851, infra, an information fails to charge the crime of perjury for the making of a false affidavit which does not allege that such affidavit is sworn to for the purpose of being used in an action or proceeding wherein by law the same could be material, or by using or consenting to its use, after sworn to, in such action or proceeding: State v. Smith, 3 Wash. 14.

See infra, § 2072, pleadings in.

PHYSICIAN, PRACTICING WITHOUT LICENSE.—An information under Bal. Code, § 3037, charging a physician or surgeon with practicing without a license, is defective unless it charges him or her with appending "the letter M. D., or M. B., to his or her name, or for a fee": State v. Carey, 4 Wash. 424-427; and as such statute is an exercise of police power it is not in violation of the state or federal constitutions: Id.

RESISTING OFFICER.—In a prosecution for resisting an officer in the service of a legal warrant, a statement of the facts constituting its legality is a better pleading than to allege that the warrant was a legal one: State v. Brown, 6 Wash. 609.

Although the information in a prosecution for resisting an officer does not allege that the defendant knew that the officer was a deputy sheriff, when he resisted him, yet, if such knowledge on the part of defendant sufficiently appears from the reading of the information as a whole, the information is sufficient, under the code, to sustain a verdict, the defendant having gone to trial without having interposed a demurrer: Id.

Under the provisions of our code (§ 2060 and this section) governing prosecutions by information, an allegation in the charging part of an information for murder, that the act was committed "on or about" a certain date, is not open to the objection of being indefinite and insufficient: State v. Williams, 13 Wash. 335.

MISCELLANEOUS MATTERS.—An information filed in the superior court of a county containing within its limits a part or the whole of an Indian reservation, against a person described as an Indian, need not, in order to confer jurisdiction, aver either that such person does not sustain tribal relations, or that the offense was not committed within the limits of such reservation: Id.

An indictment, charging defendant with knowingly, unlawfully, maliciously, scandalously and feloniously composing, editing, printing, selling, distributing and offering for sale, etc., a certain lewd, scandalous, obscene and indecent newspaper, sufficiently charges the commission of the offense defined by § 2911, although there is no allegation of knowledge on the part of defendant as to the character of the publication, since such knowledge must necessarily be presumed from the fact of his editing and composing the publication: State v. Holedger, 15 Wash. 443.

An indictment for publishing, editing and selling obscene and indecent literature, which charges defendant with editing, printing, selling, distributing and offering for sale and distribution a certain lewd, scandalous, obscene and indecent newspaper, is not objectionable on the ground that it charges the commission of more than one crime, since all are but one offense, laid as committed in different ways: Id. See, also, State v. Ulsemer, 24 Wash. 657.

An indictment for criminal libel, which sets forth the libelous article and charges defendant with "thereby intending to provoke [the person libeled] to wrath, and expose him to public hatred, contempt and ridicule and deprive him of the benefits of public confidence and social intercourse," is sufficient, under § 2056, although the statute defines libel as "the defamation of a person . . . tending to provoke him to wrath, or expose him to public hatred," etc.: State v. Nichols, 15 Wash. 1.

An information against defendant for the crime of rape (§ 7262, Bal. Code), committed upon a female child under the age of twelve years, sufficiently charges one crime, and not two, when it alleges that defendant "feloniously did make an assault, and her the said [child] then and there feloniously did ravish, carnally know and abuse," etc., since the words charging assault must be construed as charging same only as included in the crime of rape: State v. Elswood, 15 Wash. 453.

In charging the crime of rape an information is sufficient if it conforms to the terms of the statute: State v. Phelps, 22 Wash. 181.

In charging the crime of accepting the earnings of a prostitute, the information is not insufficient for failure to allege that it was knowingly done, when it is averred that the defendant committed the act willfully: State v. Zenner, 35 Wash. 249.

An information for conniving at the prostitution of defendant's wife sufficiently alleges that defendant knew the character of the house and nature of his act, when it states that he did feloniously connive at, consent to, and permit the placing of his wife in a house of prostitution: State v. Barker, 43 Wash. 69.

§ 2066. (6851.) Former Defects or Imperfections, How Regarded.

No indictment or information is insufficient, nor can the trial, judgment, or other proceedings thereon be affected, by reason of any of the following matters, which were formerly deemed defects or imperfections:—

1. For want of an allegation of the time or place of any material fact, when the time and place have been once stated;

2. For the omission of any of the following allegations, namely: "With force and arms," "contrary to the form of the statute or the statutes," or "against the peace and dignity of the state";

3. For the omission to allege that the grand jury was impaneled, sworn, or charged;

4. For any surplusage or repugnant allegation, or for any repetition, when there is sufficient matter alleged to indicate clearly the offense and the person charged; nor

5. For any other matter which was formerly deemed a defect or imperfection, but which does not tend to the prejudice of the substantial rights of the defendant upon the merits. [Cf. L. '69, p. 242, § 193; Cd. '81, § 1015; L. '91, p. 52, § 30; 2 H. C., § 1245.]

See notes to last section.

Cited in 9 Wash. 99; 29 Wash. 373; 31 Wash. 248; 42 Wash. 674; 49 Wash. 294.

Surplusage and unnecessary matter: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1479, § 67; State v. Bohn, 19 Wash. 36; State v. Fetterly, 33 Wash. 599; State v. Garbe, 34 Wash. 395.

The legislature by this and the last section has intended to emancipate criminal prosecutions in this state from the enthrallling technicalities of the common law: State v. Wright, 9 Wash. 96, 99; State v. See, 4 Wash. 344, 345.

An averment that a house broken into was a dwelling-house, and used as a hotel and lodging-house, is sufficient, as the descriptive words will be treated as surplusage under this section: State v. Miller, 3 Wash. 131, 134.

§ 2067. (6852.) Presumptions of Law, etc., Need not be Stated.

Neither presumptions of law nor matters of which judicial notice is taken need be stated in an indictment or information. [Cf. L. '69, p. 242, § 194; Cd. '81, § 1016; L. '91, p. 52, § 31; 2 H. C., § 1246.]

Matter of presumption—Judicial notice: State v. Douette, 31 Wash. 6; State v. Carey, 4 Wash. 424.
See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1469, §§ 29, 31; Schilling v. Territory, 2 W. T. 283; § 2068. (6853.) Judgment, How Pled.

In pleading a judgment or other determination of or proceeding before a court or officer of special jurisdiction, it is not necessary to state in the indictment or information the facts conferring jurisdiction; but the judgment, determination, or proceeding may be stated to have been duly given or made. The facts conferring jurisdiction, however, must be established on the trial. [Cf. L. '54, p. 112, § 65; L. '69, p. 242, § 195; Cd. '81, § 1017; L. '91, p. 52, § 32; 2 H. C., § 1247.]

§ 2069. (6854.) Private Statute, How Pleaded.

In pleading a private statute, or right derived therefrom, it is sufficient to refer, in the indictment or information, to the statute by its title and the day of its passage, and the court must thereupon take judicial notice thereof. [Cf. L. '54, p. 112, § 66; L. '69, p. 243, § 196; Cd. '81, § 1018; L. '91, p. 53, § 33; 2 H. C., § 1248.]

§ 2070. (6855.) Pleading in Indictment, etc., for Libel.

An indictment or information for libel need not set forth any extrinsic facts, for the purpose of showing the application to the party libeled, of the defamatory matter on which the indictment or information is founded; but it is sufficient to state generally that the same was published concerning him; and the fact that it was so published must be established on the trial. [Cf. L. '69, p. 243, § 197; Cd. '81, §§ 1019, 1232; L. '91, p. 53, § 34; 2 H. C., § 1249.]

See infra, § 2157, truth of matter may be given in evidence.

§ 2071. (6856.) Pleading in Forgery Where Instrument Destroyed or Withheld.

When an instrument which is the subject of an indictment or information for forgery has been destroyed or withheld by the act or procurement of the defendant, and the fact of the destruction or withholding is alleged in the indictment or information, and established on the trial, the misdescription of the instrument is immaterial. [Cf. L. '54, p. 113, § 68; Cd. '81, § 1020; L. '91, p. 53, § 35; 2 H. C., § 1250.]

§ 2072. (6857.) Pleadings in Indictment, etc., for Perjury.

In an indictment or information for perjury, or subornation of perjury, it is sufficient to set forth the substance of the controversy or matter in respect to which the crime was committed, and in what court or before whom the oath alleged to be false was taken, and that the court or person before whom it was taken had authority to administer it, with proper allegations of the falsity of the matter on which the perjury is assigned; but the indictment or information need not set forth the pleadings, record or proceedings with which the oath is connected, nor the commission or authority of the court or person before whom the perjury was committed. [Cf. L. '54, p. 112, § 67; L. '69, p. 243, § 199; Cd. '81, § 1021; L. '91, p. 53, § 36; 2 H. C., § 1251.]

See supra, § 2065, and notes, "perjury."

Cited in 31 Wash. 12.

§ 2073. (6858.) Against Several—Conviction or Acquittal Against One or More.

Upon an indictment or information against several defendants, any one or more may be convicted or acquitted. [Cf. L. '69, p. 243, § 200; Cd. '81, § 1022; L. '91, p. 53, § 37; 2 H. C., § 1252.]

§ 2074. (6859.) Pleading in Indictment, etc., for Larceny or Embezzlement.

In an indictment or information for larceny or embezzlement of money, bank notes, certificates of stock, or valuable securities, or for a conspiracy to cheat or defraud a person of any such property, it is sufficient to allege the larceny or embezzlement, or the conspiracy to cheat and defraud, to be of money, bank notes, certificates of stock, or valuable securities, without specifying the coin, number, denomination, or kind thereof. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1023; L. '91, p. 53, § 38; 2 H. C., § 1253.]

See notes to § 2065, "embezzlement" and "larceny."

Cited in 11 Wash. 117; 19 Wash. 54, 412; 20 Wash. 208; 27 Wash. 366.

Under this section an information for grand larceny describing the property taken as "a quantity of money of the value of seventy-seven dollars," is sufficient: State v. Henshaw, 3 Wash. 12; State v. Burns, 19

Wash. 52; State v. Palmer, 20 Wash. 207.

An information for larceny of a sum of money need not contain a special allegation of the value, etc., under this section: State v. Blanchard, 11 Wash. 116; State v. Johnson, 19 Wash. 410; State v. Ryan, 34 Wash. 597.

§ 2075. (6860.) Pleading in Indictment, etc., for Selling Obscene Literature.

An indictment or information for exhibiting, publishing, passing, selling, or offering to sell, or having in possession with such intent, any lewd or obscene book, pamphlet, picture, print, card, paper, or writing, need not set forth any portion of the language used or figures shown upon such book, pamphlet, picture, print, card, papers, or writing, but it is sufficient to state generally the fact of the lewdness or obscenity thereof. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1024; L. '91, p. 54, § 39; 2 H. C., § 1254.]

§ 2076. (6861.) Ownership of Property, How Pleaded—Variance.

In prosecutions under the provisions of sections 2803, 2814, 3257, where the owner of the property is unknown, such property shall, for the purpose of this code, be deemed and held to be owned by the state of Washington; and in all cases where the indictment or information alleges the state to be the owner of such property, and the proof on the trial discloses the name of the actual owner, it shall not be deemed a variance, or failure of proof, unless the defendant is the actual owner. [Cd. '81, § 1025; L. '91, p. 54, § 40; 2 H. C., § 1255.]

See infra, § 2156, variance as to ownership of property.

Cited in 46 Wash. 495.

Under this section it is not necessary to allege that the ownership is unknown in an information charging that the horse was the property of the state of Washington: State v. Eddy, 46 Wash. 494.

In such a case, the state cannot be held to have known the actual ownership because its witnesses testified that the animal bore the brand of and was owned by S., where defendant denied such fact and claimed the animal to be without brand and an "outlaw": Id.

CHAPTER XV.

PROCEEDINGS BEFORE ARRAIGNMENT.

§ 2077. (6865.) Warrant of Arrest to Issue, When.

When an indictment is found or an information filed, the court may direct the clerk to issue a warrant for the arrest of the defendant, returnable forthwith; if no order is made, the clerk must issue a warrant within ten days after the indictment is returned into court, or the information filed. [Cf. L. '54, p. 113, § 70; Cd. '81, § 1026; L. '91, p. 54, § 41; 2 H. C., § 1256.]

§ 2078. (6866.) Right of Accused to Give Bail.

Every person charged with an offense, except that of murder in the first degree, where the proof is evident or the presumption great, may be bailed by sufficient sureties, and bail shall justify and have the same rights as in civil cases, except as otherwise provided in this chapter: Provided, that all persons accused of crime in any court of this state, whether by indictment or otherwise, shall be admitted to bail by the court where the same is pending, or by a judge, when it shall appear to the court or judge that the accused has offered to go to trial in good faith and without collusion with witnesses, and has been denied a trial by the court, or that the accused is so sick or infirm that further confinement in jail would greatly endanger his life or make his sickness or infirmity permanent; and the bail bond in such cases shall be reasonable, and at the sound discretion of the court. [Cf. L. '54, p. 76, § 8; L. '69, p. 199, § 8; Cd. '81, § 778; 2 H. C., § 1375.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Compare, § 2310, infra. See note to § 2253, supra.

The word "chapter" relates to chapter 66 of the Code of 1881.

See supra, § 748 et seq., arrest and bail.

§ 2079. (6867.) Bail to be Indorsed on Warrant.

The court must, at the time of directing the clerk to issue the warrant, fix the amount in which persons charged by indictment are to be held to bail, and the clerk must indorse the amount on the warrant. If no order fixing the amount of bail has been made, the sheriff may present the warrant to the judge of the court, and such judge must thereon indorse the amount of bail to be required; or if there is no such judge in the county, the clerk may fix the amount of bail. [Cf. L. '54, p. 113, § 72; Cd. '81, § 1028; L. '91, p. 54, § 42; 2 H. C., § 1257.]

§ 2080. (6868.) Service of Criminal Process.

All criminal process issuing out of the superior court shall be directed to the sheriff of the county in which it is to be served, and be by him executed according to law. When there is no sheriff of a county, or he is disqualified from any cause from discharging any particular duty, it shall be lawful for the officer or person commanding or desiring the discharge of that duty to appoint some suitable person, a citizen of the county, to execute the same: Provided, that final process shall in no case be executed by any other person than the legally authorized officer, or in case he is disqualified, some suitable person appointed by the court, or judge thereof, out of which the process issues, who shall make such appointment in writing, and before such appointment shall take effect, the person so appointed shall give surety to the party interested for the faithful performance of his duties, which bonds of suretyship shall be in writing and approved by the court or judge making the appointment, and be placed on file with the papers in the case. [Cf. L. '54, p. 113, § 71; L. '60, p. 146, § 214; Cd. '81, § 1027; 2 H. C., § 1258.]

See supra, § 32, process extends to all parts of state.

See supra, § 35, process, to whom directed.

Under the Constitution (Art. IV, § 27) the style of all process shall be "The State of Washington," and all prosecutions shall be conducted in its name and by its authority.

Commitment in particular case held sufficient: Way v. Woolery, 6 Wash. 157.

§ 2081. (6869.) Warrant of Arrest by Telegraph.

Whenever any person or persons shall have been indicted or accused on oath of any public offense, or thereof convicted, and a warrant of arrest shall have been issued, the magistrate issuing such warrant, or any judge of the supreme court, or of any superior court, may indorse thereon an order signed by him and authorizing the service thereof by telegraph, and thereupon such warrant and order may be sent by telegraph to any marshal, sheriff, constable, or policeman, and on the receipt of the telegraphic copy thereof by any such officer, he shall have the same authority and be under the same obligations to arrest, take into custody, and detain the said person or persons, as if the said original warrant of arrest, with the proper direction for the service thereof, duly indorsed thereon, had been placed in his hands, and the said telegraphic copy shall be entitled to full faith and credit, and have the same force and effect in all courts and places as the original; but prior to indictment and conviction, no such order shall be made by any officer, unless in his judgment there is probable cause to believe the said accused person or persons guilty of the offense charged: Provided, the making of such order, by any officer aforesaid, shall be prima facie evidence of the regularity thereof, and of all the proceedings prior thereto. The original warrant and order, or a copy thereof, certified by the officer making the order, shall be preserved in the telegraph office from which the same is sent, and in telegraphing the same the original or the said certified copy may be used. § 2082. (6870.) Officer may Break Door, etc., to Make Arrest.

To make an arrest in criminal actions, the officer may break open any outer or inner door or windows of a dwelling-house or other building, or any other inclosure, if, after notice of his office and purpose, he be refused admittance. [L. '54, p. 129, § 1179; Cd. '81, § 1170; 2 H. C., § 1379.]

§ 2083. (6871.) Officer to Exhibit Warrant.

The officer making an arrest must inform the defendant that he acts under authority of a warrant, and must also show the warrant if required. [Cf. L. '54, p. 114, § 74; Cd. '81, § 1030; L. '91, p. 55, § 43; 2 H. C., § 1259.]

Validity of, and authority under warrant: See State v. Yourex, 30 Wash. 611.

§ 2084. (6872.) Force may be Used.

If, after notice of the intention to arrest the defendant, he either flee or forcibly resist, the officer may use all necessary means to effect the arrest. [L. '54, p. 114, § 75; Cd. '81, § 1031; 2 H. C., § 1260.]

§ 2085. (6873.) Pursuit of Prisoner, Assistance Commanded.

If a person arrested escape or be rescued, the person from whose custody he made his escape or was rescued may immediately pursue and retake him at any time and within any place in the state. To retake the person escaping or rescued, the person pursuing has the same power to command assistance as given in cases of arrest. [L. '54, p. 114, § 76; Cd. '81, § 1032; 2 H. C., § 1261.]

§ 2086. (6874.) Taking and Entering Recognizance.

Recognizances in criminal proceedings may be taken in open court, and entered on the order-book. [L. '54, p. 114, § 77; Cd. '81, § 1033; 2 H. C., § 1262.]

See supra, § 1957, recognizance, when and how taken.

§ 2087. (6875.) Officer may Take Recognizances, etc.

Any officer authorized to execute a warrant in a criminal action may take the recognizance, and justify and approve the bail; he may administer an oath, and examine the bail as to its sufficiency. [L. '54, p. 114, § 78; Cd. '81, § 1034; 2 H. C., § 1263.]

Bail bond may be received and approved at chambers: Ainsworth v. Territory, 3 W. T. 270.

§ 2088. (6876.) Recognizance Certified and Recorded, Effect of.

Every recognizance taken by any peace-officer must be certified by him forthwith to the clerk of the court to which the defendant is recognized. The clerk must thereupon record the recognizance in the order-book, and from the time of filing it has the same effect as if taken in open court. [L. '54, p. 114, § 79; Cd. '81, § 1035; 2 H. C., § 1264.]

§ 2089. (6877.) Deposit of Money in Lieu of Bail.

The defendant may, in the place of giving bail, deposit with the clerk of the court to which he is held to answer the sum of money mentioned in the order; and upon delivering to the sheriff the certificate of deposit, he must be discharged from custody. [L. '54, p. 114, § 80; Cd. '81, § 1036; 2 H. C., § 1265.]

§ 2090. (6878.) Forfeiture of Bail.

If, without sufficient excuse, the defendant neglect to appear for trial or judgment, or upon any other occasion when his presence in court may be lawfully required, according to the condition of his recognizance, the court must direct the default to be entered upon its minutes, and the recognizance of bail, or money deposited as bail, as the case may be, is thereupon forfeited. [L. '54, p. 114, § 81; Cd. '81, § 1037; 2 H. C., § 1266.]

See infra, § 2234, action on forfeited recognizance.

§ 2091. (6879.) Rights of Defendant in Capital Cases.

As soon as may be after the finding of an indictment or the filing of an information for a capital crime, the party charged shall be served with a copy thereof by the sheriff or his deputy, at least twenty-four hours before trial, and shall, on demand upon the clerk by himself or counsel, have a list of the petit jurors returned delivered to him at least twenty-four hours before trial, and shall also have process to summon such witnesses as are necessary to his defense, at the expense of the county. [Cf. L. '54, p. 114, § 82; Cd. '81, § 1038; L. '91, p. 55, § 44; 2 H. C., § 1267.]

See Const., Art. I, § 22, rights of accused.

Cited in 7 Wash. 509; 42 Wash. 542.

This section does not entitle the accused to be tried by a jury selected solely from the names so returned, nor to demand that such list be exhausted before a special venire be issued, where part of such jurors are in attendance upon another department of the court: State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540.

§ 2092. (6880.) Rights of Defendant Charged with a Felony.

Every person indicted or informed against for an offense for which he may be imprisoned in the penitentiary, if he be under recognizance or in custody to answer for such offense, he or his attorney shall be furnished with a copy of the indictment or information, and of all indorsements thereof, without paying any fees therefor. [Cf. L. '54, p. 115, § 83; Cd. '81, § 1039; L. '91, p. 55, § 45; 2 H. C., § 1268.]

See Const., Art. I, §§ 22, 25, rights of accused.

Error cannot be predicated upon failure to furnish the defendants with a copy of the information, after plea thereto and announcement that they were ready for trial, without any demand therefor or objection to the trial: State v. Dilley, 44 Wash. 207.

CHAPTER XVI.

ARRAIGNMENT, PLEADINGS AND PROCEEDINGS THEREON.

§ 2093. (6884.) Arraignment of Defendant.

When the indictment or information has been filed the defendant, if he has been arrested, or as soon thereafter as he may be, shall be arraigned thereon before the court. [L. '91, p. 55, § 46; 2 H. C., § 1269.]

Arraignment: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 767, §§ 61, 62; Elick v. Territory, 1 W. T. 136; State v. Brown, 37 Wash. 106.

A court commissioner has no power to take the arraignment of a prisoner, accept a plea of guilty, and render judgment, under Constitution, Art. IV, § 23, conferring upon him the power of a judge at chambers; since a judge at chambers, under Laws of 1891, p. 91, does not have the power of a court, and §§ 2093, 2110, 2187, require arraignment, plea of guilty, and sentence to be in open court: State v. Philip, 44 Wash. 615.

§ 2094. (6885.) Defendant may Appear by Counsel, When.

If the indictment or information be for a misdemeanor punishable by fine only, the defendant may appear upon arraignment by counsel. [Cf. L. '54, p. 116, § 92; Cd. '81, § 1066; L. '91, p. 55, § 47; 2 H. C., § 1270.]

See infra, § 2145, defendant's presence required during trial.

§ 2095. (6886.) Right to have Counsel.

If the defendant appear without counsel, he shall be informed by the court that it is his right to have counsel before being arraigned, and he shall be asked if he desire the aid of counsel, and if it appear that he is unable to employ counsel, by reason of poverty, counsel shall be assigned to him by the court. [Cf. L. '54, p. 116, § 89; L. '55, p. 11; L. '60, p. 149, § 232; Cd. '81, § 1063; 2 H. C., § 1271.]

See infra, § 2305, right to counsel.

Cited in 5 Wash. 330, 643.

It is the duty of the court, in case the accused is unable by reason of poverty to employ counsel, to assign counsel to defendant, if he so desires; but the law nowhere makes provision for payment of attorney's services rendered under such circumstances: Presley v. Klickitat County, 5 Wash. 329, 330.

An attorney, being an officer of the court, is obliged, when requested by the court, to conduct without compensation the defense of pauper criminals: Id.

Error, if any, in arraigning appellant and compelling him to enter his plea before he could procure counsel, and without appointing counsel for him, is cured by the subsequent action of the court in allowing the plea of not guilty to be withdrawn and the validity of the information to be attacked by demurrer and motion to quash: State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514.

Error cannot be assigned on the failure to appoint counsel for accused upon their arraignment, where they were then informed of their right to counsel and stated that they did not desire any: State v. Bush, 41 Wash. 13.

§ 2096. (6887.) Defendant to Declare His True Name.

When the defendant is arraigned, he shall be interrogated; if the name by which he is indicted be not his true name, he shall then declare his true name, or be proceeded against by the name in the indictment or information. [Cf. L. '54, p. 116, § 90; L. '69, p. 248, § 221; Cd. '81, § 1064; L. '91, p. 55, § 48; 2 H. C., § 1272.]

See supra, § 2055, contents of information.

See supra, § 2058, name of defendant.

§ 2097. (6888.) Entry of True Name.

If he alleges that another name is his true name it must be entered in the minutes of the court, and the subsequent proceedings on the indictment or information may be had against him by that name, referring also to the name by which he is indicted or informed against. [Cf. L. '54, p. 116, § 91; Cd. '81, § 1065; L. '91, p. 56, § 49; 2 H. C., § 1273.]

§ 2098. (6889.) Pleading on Arraignment—Time for Answer.

In answer to the arraignment, the defendant may move to set aside the indictment or information, or he may demur or plead to it, and is entitled to one day after arraignment in which to answer thereto if he demand it. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1045; L. '91, p. 56, § 50; 2 H. C., § 1274.]

See supra, § 2094, appearance by counsel, when.

See infra, § 2110, plea of guilty to be made by defendant only.

See infra, § 2115, plea of not guilty entered on refusal to plead.

Cited in 11 Wash. 119.

Time to plead: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 767, § 63; State v. Sexton, 37 Wash. 110; State v. Harding, 20 Wash. 556.

Arraignment consists of three parts: 1. Calling the prisoner to the bar by his name, and requesting him to hold up his hand or do some other act of identification; 2. Reading the indictment to him in such language as to convey to his mind the nature of the charge against him; 3. Demanding of him whether he is guilty or not guilty: Elick v. Territory, 1 W. T. 136. A prisoner unacquainted with the English language should be arraigned through a sworn interpreter, and the evidence should be made known to him in the same way: Id.

The objection to the sufficiency of an information, if permissible to be raised by motion for the exclusion of testimony instead of the demurrer, cannot properly be raised while the plea of not guilty is pending: State v. Blanchard, 11 Wash. 116.

The sufficiency of an information should be challenged by motion to set aside or by demurrer, or both, prior to entry of plea of not guilty, and it is irregular and improper to permit its sufficiency to be challenged for the first time by objection to the introduction of testimony: State v. Bodecker, 11 Wash. 417.

§ 2099. (6890.) Grounds of Motion to Set Aside Indictment.

The motion to set aside the indictment can be made by the defendant on one or more of the following grounds, and must be sustained:—

1. When it is not indorsed “a true bill,” and the indorsement signed by the foreman of the grand jury as prescribed by this code;
2. When the names of all the witnesses examined before the grand jury are not indorsed thereon;
3. When it has not been presented, and marked “filed,” as prescribed by this code;
4. When any person, other than the grand jurors, was present before the grand jury when the question was taken upon the finding of the indictment, or when any person, other than the grand jurors, was present before the grand jury during the investigation of the charge, except as required or permitted by law;
5. That the grand jury were not selected, drawn, summoned, impaneled, or sworn as prescribed by law. [Cd. '81, § 1046; 2 H. C., § 1275.]

Cited in 1 Wash. 271; 22 Wash. 554.

An indictment will be quashed where special counsel were appointed to represent the state, and the prosecuting attorney was excluded from the deliberations of the grand jury because he had advised the dismissal of a similar charge, the court having no power to appoint special counsel except as authorized by statute, and this being a substantial irregularity resulting in the presentment of the indictment: State v. Heaton, 21 Wash. 59.

§ 2100. (6891.) Grounds not Allowed, When.

The ground of the motion to set aside the indictment mentioned in the fifth subdivision of the last section is not allowed to a defendant who has been held to answer before indictment. [Cd. '81, § 1047; 2 H. C., § 1275, last pt.]

Motion to quash on the ground mentioned in the fifth subdivision of § 2099, supra, is properly overruled, where, after the grand jury was discharged, defendant committed murder, and was in custody when the jury was resummoned, and declined to challenge the panel or the individuals: Blanton v. State, 1 Wash. 265.

§ 2101. (6892.) Grounds of Motion to Set Aside Information.

A motion to set aside an information can be made by the defendant on one or more of the following grounds, and must be sustained:—

1. When it is not signed by the prosecuting attorney;
2. When it is not verified;
3. When it has not been marked “filed” by the clerk;
4. When the names of the witnesses are not indorsed upon it as required by section 2050. [L. '91, p. 56, § 51; 2 H. C., § 1276.]

Cited in 32 Wash. 11.

Motion to quash or set aside: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1481, §§ 79-83; State v. Bogardus, 36 Wash. 297; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514; State v. Lewis, 31 Wash.

515; State v. Croney, 31 Wash. 122; State v. Melvern, 32 Wash. 7; State v. Heaton, 21 Wash. 59; State v. Douette, 31 Wash. 6; State v. Anderson, 20 Wash. 193.

§ 2102. (6893.) Must Demur or Plead on Denial of Motion.

If the motion to set aside the indictment [or information] be denied, the defendant must immediately answer the indictment or information, either by demurring or pleading thereto. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1048; L. '91, p. 56, § 52; 2 H. C., § 1277.]

§ 2103. (6894.) Effect of Order for Resubmission.

If the court direct that the case be resubmitted, the defendant, if already in custody, must so remain, unless he be admitted to bail; or if already admitted to bail, or money has been deposited instead thereof, the bail or money is answerable for the appearance of the defendant to answer a new indictment or information. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1049; L. '91, p. 56, § 52; 2 H. C., § 1278.]

Cited in 11 Wash. 420.

If an information is found insufficient upon demurrer, it is error for the court to discharge the defendant from custody, unless the demurrer is sustained because the information contains matter which is a legal defense to the action as authorized in § 2106, infra: State v. Bodecker, 11 Wash. 417.

§ 2104. (6895.) Order No Bar to Another Prosecution.

An order to set aside the indictment or information as provided in this chapter shall be no bar to a future prosecution for the same offense. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1050; L. '91, p. 56, § 54; 2 H. C., § 1279.]

See infra, § 2106, judgment on demurrer when final.

See infra, § 2114, judgment on demurrer not to bar another prosecution, when.

§ 2105. (6896.) Grounds of Demurrer.

The defendant may demur to the indictment or information when it appears upon its face either,—

1. That it does not substantially conform to the requirements of this code;
2. [That] more than one crime is charged;
3. That the facts charged do not constitute a crime;
4. That the indictment or information contains any matter which if true would constitute a defense or other legal bar to the action. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1051; L. '91, p. 56, § 55; 2 H. C., § 1280.]

See supra, § 2059, charging more than one offense.

See supra, § 2065, and notes, requisites of informations, etc.

Cited in 42 Wash. 456.

Demurrer: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1483, §§ 86, 87; State v. Douette, 31 Wash. 6; State v. Gottfreedson, 24 Wash. 398; State v. Nelson, 36 Wash. 126; State v. Bogardus, 36 Wash. 297; State v. Riley, 36 Wash. 297.

Errors committed under an indictment discharged cannot be taken advantage of under a subsequent indictment, unless proper objection is made under the latter: Smith v. United States, 1 W. T. 262.

§ 2106. (6897.) Judgment on Demurrer Final, When.

If the demurrer is sustained because the indictment or information contains matter which is a legal defense or bar to the action, the judgment shall be final, and the defendant must be discharged. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1052; L. '91, p. 57, § 56; 2 H. C., § 1281.]

See note to § 2103, supra, effect of order for resubmission.

See infra, § 2114, judgment on demurrer not final, when.

Cited in 11 Wash. 420.

Upon appeal from a justice's court in a criminal case, the superior court has jurisdiction of the cause for trial de novo, and after sustaining a demurrer to the complaint below, may direct a new complaint or information to be filed: State v. Bringgold, 40 Wash. 12.

§ 2107. (6898.) Effect of Failure to Plead After Demurrer Overruled.

If the demurrer is overruled, the defendant has a right to put in a plea. If he fails to do so, judgment may be rendered against him on the demurrer, and if necessary, a jury may be impaneled to inquire and ascertain the degree of the offense. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1053; 2 H. C., § 1282.]

Cited in 16 Wash. 115; 20 Wash. 560.

Effect of refusal to plead after demurrer overruled: See State v. Harding, 20 Wash. 556.

§ 2108. (6899.) The Three Pleas of Defendant.

There are but three pleas to the indictment or information: A plea of,—

1. Guilty;
2. Not guilty;
3. A former judgment of conviction or acquittal of the offense charged, which may be pleaded with or without the plea of not guilty. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1054; L. '91, p. 57, § 57; 2 H. C., § 1283.]

See infra, § 2174, insanity how pleaded.

§ 2109. (6900.) Pleas, How Entered—Form of.

The plea may be entered on the record substantially in the following form:—

1. A plea of guilty: The defendant pleads that he is guilty of the offense charged in the indictment (or information, as the case may be);
2. A plea of not guilty: The defendant pleads that he is not guilty of the offense charged in the indictment (or information, as the case may be);
3. A plea of former conviction or acquittal: The defendant pleads that he has formerly been convicted (or acquitted, as the case may be) of the offense charged in the indictment (or information, as the case may be), by the judgment of the court of (naming it), rendered on the — day of —, A. D. 18— (naming the time). [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1055; L. '91, p. 57, § 58; 2 H. C., § 1284.]

See supra, § 2098, pleading on arraignment.

See infra, § 2123, dismissal after indictment.

See infra, § 2113, and notes.

Cited in 31 Wash. 86.

Pleas: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 768, §§ 66-71; State v. Allen, 41 Wash. 63; State v. Roller, 30 Wash. 692; State v. Williams, 43 Wash. 505; State v. Harding, 20 Wash. 556; State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 75.

The fact that, after reversal of judgment of conviction, a new indictment is presented against defendant, which is identical with the one upon which conviction was had, except that the Christian name of the person killed is changed from "John" to "Julius," affords no ground for plea in abatement that defendant has been once in jeopardy: State v. Friedrich, 4 Wash. 204.

The constitutional prohibition against placing a person twice in jeopardy for the same offense is not violated by a second prosecution of one for a separate and distinct offense based upon a different statute, the penalty prescribed for the violation of which is different from that imposed by the statute under which the first information was laid, although the acts upon which the two prosecutions are based may have been the same: State v. Reiff, 14 Wash. 664.

The conviction of a defendant charged with murder in the first degree as guilty of murder in the second degree, is an acquittal of the higher charge, and in case of a new trial a plea of former acquittal of murder in the first degree should be sustained: State v. Murphy, 13 Wash. 229; following State v. Freidrich, supra; State v. Robinson, 12 Wash. 491.

Error of the court in overruling a plea of former acquittal as to the charge of murder in the first degree is not prejudicial, when, upon a retrial, the defendant is again convicted of murder in the second degree: State v. Murphy, supra.

§ 2110. (6901.) Plea of Guilty must be Put in by Defendant.

The plea of guilty can only be put in by the defendant himself in open court. [Cd. '81, § 1056; 2 H. C., § 1285.]

See supra, § 2094, appearance by counsel in misdemeanors.

Cited in 44 Wash. 618.

§ 2111. (6902.) Substitution of Plea.

At any time before judgment, the court may permit the plea of guilty to be withdrawn and other plea or pleas substituted. [Cd. '81, § 1057; 2 H. C., § 1286.]

A judgment and sentence entered upon a plea of guilty should be set aside and leave given to withdraw the plea, where it appears that the same was induced by promises that a light sentence would be given by the court, made by officers and detectives, who refused to permit the accused to communicate with his friends or an attorney, and where the accused claims to be innocent and the court did not explicitly inform him, upon arraignment, of his rights as required to do by statute: State v. Allen, 41 Wash. 63.

§ 2112. (6903.) Plea of not Guilty, Effect of.

The plea of not guilty is a denial of every material allegation in the indictment or information; and all matters of fact may be given in evidence under it, except a former conviction or acquittal. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1058; L. '91, p. 57, § 59; 2 H. C., § 1287.]

§ 2113. (6904.) Conviction or Acquittal Operates as a Bar, When.

A conviction or acquittal by a judgment upon a verdict shall bar another prosecution for the same offense, notwithstanding a defect in form or substance in the indictment or information on which the conviction or acquittal took place. [Cf. Cd. '81, §§ 768, 1059; L. '91, p. 57, § 60; 2 H. C., §§ 1288, 1365.]

Compare infra, §§ 2271, 2272, 2316, former acquittal or conviction when a bar: See note to § 2253.

See Const. U. S., amendment 5; Const. Wash., Art. I, § 9, jeopardy.

See notes to § 2109.

See infra, § 2117, acquittal on account of variance no bar.

See infra, § 2119, discharge on failure to indict, effect of.

See infra, § 2122, dismissal operates as a discharge, when.

See infra, § 2125, dismissal in misdemeanor a bar, not in felony, when.

See infra, § 2166, conviction in different degree, when a bar.

Former jeopardy, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 763, § 42 et seq.

The acquittal of a defendant of the charge of having murdered a man is no bar to a second prosecution for the murder of another man who was killed at the same time and place under the same circumstances as the one for whose killing he was acquitted:

State v. Robinson, 12 Wash. 491; followed in State v. Murphy, 13 Wash. 229.

The dismissal of the first information, after setting aside a conviction for error does not support a plea of former acquittal: State v. Williams, 43 Wash. 505.

§ 2114. (6905.) Judgment on Demurrer No Bar—Exception.

The judgment for the defendant on a demurrer to the indictment or information, except where it is otherwise provided, or for an objection taken at the trial to its form or substance, or for variance between the indictment or information and the proof, shall not bar another prosecution for the same offense. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1060; L. '91, p. 58, § 61; 2 H. C., § 1289.]

See supra, § 2106, judgment on demurrer, when final.

See infra, § 2117, acquittal on ground of variance no bar.

A prisoner is not entitled to a discharge upon the sustaining of a demurrer to an information or to the evidence, since it is the duty of the court to correct errors and allow an amendment, and a mistrial upon an insufficient information does not constitute jeopardy and is not a bar to another prosecution: State v. Riley, 36 Wash. 441.

§ 2115. (6906.) Refusal to Plead—Plea of not Guilty to be Entered.

If the defendant fail or refuse to answer the indictment or information by demurrer or plea, a plea of not guilty must be entered by the court. [Cf. L. '54, p. 116, § 88; Cd. '81, § 1061; L. '91, p. 58, § 62; 2 H. C., § 1290.]

Effect of refusal or failure to plead: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 767, § 64; Palmer § 2116. (6907.) On Charge of Murder Jury must be Impaneled.

If, on the arraignment of any person, he shall plead guilty, if the offense charged be not murder, the court shall, in its discretion, hear testimony, and determine the amount and kind of punishment to be inflicted; but if the defendant plead guilty to a charge of murder, a jury shall be impaneled to hear testimony, and determine the degree of murder and the punishment therefor. [L. '54, p. 115, § 87; Cd. '81, § 1062; 2 H. C., § 1291.]

See infra, § 2144, submission of case to court, except in capital cases.

See infra, § 2145, personal presence of defendant necessary.

§ 2117. (6908.) Acquittal on Ground of Variance No Bar.

A defendant acquitted on the ground of variance between the indictment or information and the proof may be thereafter prosecuted upon a new indictment or information. [Cf. L. '54, p. 76, § 5; Cd. '81, § 769; 2 H. C., § 1366.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Compare § 2316, infra. See note to § 2253.

See supra, § 2104, order setting aside indictment no bar.

See supra, § 2113, conviction or acquittal a bar.

See supra, § 2114, judgment for variance not a bar, when.

See infra, § 2125, note, as to former conviction.

The fact that a defendant has been discharged before verdict upon a prosecution for larceny of certain property by fraudulently and falsely personating another is not a bar to a subsequent prosecution for obtaining the property under false pretenses, when the first discharge resulted from a variance between the information and the proof: State v. Reiff, 14 Wash. 664.

§ 2118. (6909.) Conviction Necessary Before Punishment.

No person charged with any offense against the law shall be punished for such offense unless he shall have been duly and legally convicted thereof in a court having competent jurisdiction of the case and of the person. [L. '54, p. 76, § 6; Cd. '81, § 770; 2 H. C., § 1367.]

See infra, § 2133, verdict or confession necessary to conviction.

§ 2119. (6910.) Discharge on Failure to Indict—Limitation.

When a person has been held to answer, if an indictment be not found or information filed against him within thirty days, the court must order the prosecution to be dismissed, unless good cause to the contrary be shown. [Cf. L. '54, p. 76, § 7; Cd. '81, § 771; L. '91, p. 64, § 93; 2 H. C., § 1368.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Identical enactment, see § 2311, infra. See note to § 2253.

See infra, § 2125, effect of dismissal.

Cited in 35 Wash. 267, 268, 270; 36 Wash. 360.

Where the accused, after being held to answer to the superior court by a justice of the peace, gives a bail bond for his appearance, and no information is filed against him for thirty days, the prosecution must be dismissed unless good cause for the delay is shown, and the burden of showing such cause is upon the state: State v. Lewis, 35 Wash. 261.

Under the statute requiring the dismissal of a criminal prosecution if an indictment is not found or information filed within thirty days after the holding of the person, the motion for dismissal must be made at the time the accused is called to plead; since such dismissal is not a bar to another prosecution, and the objection is waived by pleading and going to trial: State v. Se-right, 48 Wash. 307.

The accused is not entitled to a dismissal of the charge for failure of the prosecuting attorney to file the information within thirty days, where the delay was requested by counsel authorized to represent the accused, such being a sufficient excuse, within this section, and within the rule that the burden of showing good cause rests upon the prosecuting attorney: State v. Fletcher, 50 Wash. 303.

§ 2120. (6911.) Speedy Trial—Dismissal in Sixty Days.

If a defendant indicted or informed against for an offense, whose trial has not been postponed upon his application, be not brought to trial within sixty days after the indictment is found or the information filed, the court must order it to be dismissed, unless good cause to the contrary be shown. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 772; L. '91, p. 64, § 94; 2 H. C., § 1369.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Identical enactment, see § 2312, infra.

See notes to previous section.

See infra, § 2125, dismissal except in misdemeanors not a bar.

Cited in 7 Wash. 258, 259, 443; 9 Wash. 336, 337, 339; 35 Wash. 267; 36 Wash. 360; 49 Wash. 436, 437.

Under this section a person charged with a crime is entitled to discharge on a writ of habeas corpus, where the only reason for failure to try him was that no term of court for which a jury had been called had been in session since the filing of the information: State v. Brodie, 7 Wash. 442. This provision, however, does not apply to a new trial: In re Murphy, 7 Wash. 257; nor does § 2125, infra, providing that such discharge shall not bar further prosecution violate the constitutional guaranty of a speedy public trial: State v. Caldwell, 9 Wash. 336, 339.

If an information has been quashed and a new one filed against the accused, the fact that the accused had not been brought to trial within sixty days after the filing of the original information against him, cannot be urged as an objection to his trial upon the second one: State v. Hansen, 10 Wash. 235.

The object of the requirement that the accused "shall be tried at the next term after he was imprisoned," was to secure a speedy trial, and not to promote delay: Thompson v. Territory, 1 W. T. 547.

The amendment of this section did not work an amendment or repeal of § 2125, infra, although the latter section was dependent in its subject matter upon the provisions of this section: State v. Caldwell, 9 Wash. 336.

§ 2121. (6912.) Continuance by Court—Discharge from Custody.

If the defendant be not indicted, informed against, or tried, as provided in the last two sections, and sufficient reason therefor shown, the court may order the action to be continued from time to time, and in the meantime may discharge the defendant from custody on his recognizance or on bail for his appearance to answer the charge at the time to which the action is continued. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 773; L. '91, p. 65, § 95; 2 H. C., § 1370.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to § 2253.

The exact subject matter of this section does not seem to be covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301.

Cited in 7 Wash. 260.

§ 2122. (6913.) Discharge of Defendant on Dismissal.

If the court direct the action to be dismissed, the defendant must, if in custody, be discharged therefrom, or if admitted to bail, his bail must be exonerated; and if money has been deposited instead of bail, it must be refunded to him. [Cd. '81, § 774; 2 H. C., § 1371.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Identical enactment, see § 2313, infra.

§ 2123. (6914.) Court may Order Dismissal, When.

The court may, either upon its own motion or upon application of the prosecuting attorney, and in furtherance of justice, order an action, after an indictment or information, to be dismissed; but in such case the reason of the dismissal must be set forth in the order, which must be entered upon the record. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 775; L. '91, p. 65, § 96; 2 H. C., § 1372.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Compare § 2314, infra. See note to § 2253.

See notes to § 2109.

It is within the discretion of the court to allow the prosecuting attorney to withdraw an information prior to the commencement of a trial, and file another charging the same offense: State v. Gile, 8 Wash. 12.

This section applies only to cases which the prosecution desires to dismiss without any intention of renewing in some other form. It is a statutory prohibition against the entry of a nolle prosequi on motion of the prosecuting attorney, and without the assent of the court: State v. Hansen, 10 Wash. 235, 237.

§ 2124. (6915.) Nolle Prosequi Abolished.

The entry of a nolle prosequi is abolished, and no prosecuting attorney shall hereafter discontinue or abandon a prosecution except as provided in the last section. [L. '54, p. 115, § 85; Cd. '81, § 776; 2 H. C., § 1373.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to § 2253.

It was held competent for the prosecuting officer of the United States to enter a nolle, at any time before verdict, in Smith v. United States, 1 W. T. 262.

§ 2125. (6916.) Dismissal a Bar in Misdemeanor, but not in Felony.

An order for dismissal as provided in this chapter is a bar to another prosecution for the same offense, if it be a misdemeanor; but it is not a bar if the offense charged be a felony. [Cd. '81, § 777; 2 H. C., § 1374.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Compare § 2315, infra. See note to § 2253.

Digest, pp. 763, 765, §§ 42-51; State v. Armstrong, 29 Wash. 57; State v. Campbell, 40 Wash. 480; State v. Durbin, 32 Wash. 289.

§ 2126. (6917.) Compromise of Misdemeanor, When.

When a defendant is prosecuted in a criminal action for a misdemeanor, for which the person injured by the act constituting the offense has a remedy by a civil action, the offense may be compromised as provided in the next section, except when it was committed,—

1. By or upon an officer while in the execution of the duties of his office;
2. Riotously; or
3. With an intent to commit a felony. [L. '54, p. 115, § 84; Cd. '81, § 1040; 2 H. C., § 1292.]

See supra, § 1964, compromising certain offenses.

§ 2127. (6918.) Compromising Criminal Actions, When and How.

In such case, if the party injured appear in the court in which the cause is pending at any time before the final judgment therein, and acknowledge in writing, that he has received satisfaction for the injury, the court may, in its discretion, on payment of the costs incurred, order all proceedings to be discontinued and the defendant to be discharged. The reasons for making the order must be set forth therein and entered in the minutes. Such order is a bar to another prosecution for the same offense. [Cf. L. '54, p. 115, § 84; Cd. '81, §§ 1041, 1042; L. '91, p. 58, § 63; 2 H. C., § 1293.]

See infra, § 2866, compounding or concealing crime.

The amendment in Law of 1891 erroneously designates § 1070 of the Code of 1881 as the section amended, instead of §§ 1041, 1042 of the Code of 1881.

§ 2128. (6919.) Offenses not to be Compromised Except as Herein Provided.

No offense can be compromised, nor can any proceedings for the prosecution or punishment thereof be stayed upon a compromise, except as provided in this chapter. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1043; L. '91, p. 58, § 64; 2 H. C., § 1294.]

§ 2129. (6920.) Restoration of Stolen Property—Duty of Officer as to.

All property obtained by larceny, robbery, or burglary, shall be restored to the owner; and no sale, whether in good faith on the part of the purchaser or not, shall divest the owner of his rights to such property; and it shall be the duty of the officer who shall arrest any such person charged as principal or accessory in any robbery or larceny, to secure the property alleged to have been stolen, and he shall be answerable for the same, and shall annex a schedule thereof to his return of the warrant. [L. '54, p. 84, § 51; Cd. '81, § 851; 2 H. C., § 1380.]

§ 2130. (6921.) Recompense for Securing and Keeping Stolen Property.

Upon any conviction of burglary, robbery, or larceny, the court may order a suitable recompense to the prosecutor, and also to the officer who has secured and kept the stolen property, not exceeding their actual expenses, with a reasonable allowance for their time and trouble, to be paid by the county treasurer. [L. '54, p. 84, § 52; Cd. '81, § 852; 2 H. C., § 1381.]

CHAPTER XVII.

TRIALS AND VERDICTS IN CRIMINAL ACTIONS.

§ 2131. (6925.) Rights of Accused on Trial.

On the trial of any indictment or information, the party accused shall have the right to be heard by himself or counsel, to meet the witnesses produced against him face to face: Provided always, that in any case where a witness or witnesses whose deposition or depositions have been taken by a committing magistrate pursuant to law are absent, and cannot be found when required to testify in such case, so much of such deposition or depositions as the court shall decide to be admissible and competent shall be admitted and read as evidence in such case. [Cf. L. '54, p. 76, § 2; L. '73, p. 180, § 2; L. '77, p. 204, § 1; Cd. '81, § 765; L. '91, p. 63, § 89; 2 H. C., § 1362.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Compare, § 2306, infra. See note to § 2253.

See Const., Art. I, § 22, rights of accused.

See supra, §§ 1244, 1962, depositions of witnesses on commitment before magistrates, and notes.

See supra, § 2078, rights of, under indictment, etc.

The last part of this section is believed to be in conflict with Art. I, § 22, of the state Constitution. See also 6 Am. U. S. Const., right of defendant "to be confronted with the witnesses against him."

Depositions in a criminal case tending to show good character of defendant are in- admissible: State v. Humason, 5 Wash. 499; State v. Paggett, 8 Wash. 579, 584.

Right to confront witnesses—Use of depositions: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 802, §§ 221, 222; State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670; Freidrich v. Territory, 2 Wash. 358; State v. Baldwin, 15 Wash. 15; State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 75. See, also, State v. Cushing, 17 Wash. 545.

§ 2132. (6926.) Right to Witnesses, Process and Speedy Trial.

On the trial of any indictment or information the party accused shall have the right to produce witnesses and proofs in his favor, and have compulsory process to compel the attendance of witnesses in his behalf, and to a speedy public trial by an impartial jury, and no person shall be put upon trial on an indictment or information for a felony until the expiration of five days from the day of his arrest. [Cf. L. '77, p. 205, § 2; Cd. '81, § 766; L. '91, p. 64, § 90; 2 H. C., § 1363.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Compare §§ 2306, 2307, infra. See note to § 2253.

The Laws of 1877 provide, "or upon an indictment for murder until thirty days from his arrest without his consent thereto in open court."

See supra, § 2120, and notes, speedy trial, dismissal.

See Const., Art. I, § 22, rights of accused.

Cited in 5 Wash. 500; 7 Wash. 258; 13 Wash. 487.

It is not contrary to the provisions of this section for a defendant to be brought to trial within less than five days after the filing of an information against him, where he had been taken into custody before a magistrate and held for trial on the same charge more than five days prior to his trial upon the information: State v. Humason, 5 Wash. 499.

A defendant in a criminal action is not entitled to the issuance of a subpoena to compel the attendance of witnesses without an order of the court therefor having been first obtained: State v. Graves, 13 Wash. 485; State v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 445.

It is error to require a witness for accused to appear in court fettered and manacled to another person, although he had been charged with the crime jointly with the accused and had been found guilty upon a former and separate trial: State v. Williams, 18 Wash. 47.

§ 2133. (6927.) Verdict or Confession Necessary to Conviction.

No person indicted or informed against for an offense shall be convicted thereof unless by confession of his guilt in open court, or by the verdict of a jury accepted and recorded in open court. [Cf. L. '54, p. 76, § 3; Cd. '81, § 767; L. '91, p. 64, § 91; 2 H. C., § 1364.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2309. See note to § 2253.

See supra, § 2118, conviction necessary before punishment.

See infra, § 2144, waiver of jury by consent, when.

Cited in 20 Wash. 561.

§ 2134. (6928.) Trial Docket.

The clerk shall, in preparing the docket of criminal cases, enumerate the indictments and informations pending according to the date of their filing, specifying opposite to the title of each action whether it be for a felony or misdemeanor, and whether the defendant be in custody or on bail; and shall, in like manner, enter therein all indictments and informations on which issues of fact are joined, all cases brought to the court on change of venue from other counties, and all cases pending upon appeal from inferior courts. [Cf. L. '54, p. 115, § 86; Cd. '81, § 1044; L. '91, p. 58, § 65; 2 H. C., § 1295.]

§ 2135. (6929.) Continuance, When Granted.

A continuance may be granted in any case on the ground of the absence of evidence, on the motion of the defendant, supported by affidavit showing the materiality of the evidence expected to be obtained, and that due diligence has been used to procure it, and also the name and place of residence of the witness or witnesses, and the substance of the evidence expected to be obtained; and if the prosecuting attorney admit that such evidence would be given, and that it be considered as actually given on the trial, or offered and overruled as improper, the continuance shall not be granted. [L. '77, p. 206, § 7; Cd. '81, § 1077; 2 H. C., § 1296.]

See supra, § 322, and notes, continuance in civil cases.

See supra, § 2121, continuance on order of court, when.

Cited in 29 Wash. 448.

Continuance, right to and showing: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 553-557, §§ 1-24; State v. Newton, 29 Wash. 373; State v. Burns, 19 Wash. 52; State v. Johnny Tommy, 19 Wash. 270; State v. Harras, 22 Wash. 57; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514.

The denial of an adjournment of a trial, at the close of the evidence, for the purpose of securing the attendance of a witness of whom counsel had just been advised, is not erroneous, when neither the name of the witness, his residence, nor the materiality of the testimony is made to appear: State v. Craemer, 12 Wash. 217. The application is addressed to the discretion of the trial court: Thompson v. Territory, 1 W. T. 547.

Due diligence in procuring the attendance of a witness is not established by a showing that the defendant had been in the company of the witness on the day before his arrest upon the crime charged, that he knew of the migratory habits of the witness, and that he had no fixed abode, that a short time before the trial letters had been addressed to him at the locality where last seen and to another point to which it was supposed he had gone, and that a subpoena had been issued to the sheriff of the county in which he was presumed to be, but without any definite direction as to where the witness could be found: State v. Craemer, 12 Wash. 217.

The overruling of a motion by defendant in a criminal prosecution for a continuance because of the misspelling of the names of witnesses for the state as indorsed upon the indictment is not sufficient to base error upon, in the absence of a showing that defendant was surprised and misled: State v. Everett, 14 Wash. 574.

While the state may be permitted to contradict the testimony which it had admitted would be given by an absent witness, in order to avoid a continuance, yet it cannot impeach such witness: State v. Carter, 8 Wash. 272, 276.

§ 2136. Subpoena for State Witnesses—Continuance for State.

The clerk shall, at the time of issuing a warrant for the defendant, issue a subpoena for all the witnesses whose names are indorsed on the indictment, and any others required; but in no case shall a continuance be granted to the state on account of the absence of any witness whose name is not indorsed on the indictment. [Cd. '81, § 1068.]

The present force of this section is doubtful.

§ 2137. (6930.) Issues to be Tried by Jury—Practice as in Civil Cases.

Except as otherwise specially provided, issues of fact joined upon an indictment or information shall be tried by a jury of twelve persons, and the law relating to the drawing, retaining, and selecting jurors, and trials by jury in civil cases, shall apply to criminal cases. [Cf. L. '54, p. 118, § 101; Cd. '81, § 1078; L. '91, p. 58, § 66; 2 H. C., § 1297.]

See Const., Art. I, § 21, trial by jury.

See supra, § 94 et seq., qualifications of jurors.

See supra, § 327 et seq., causes for challenge.

See supra, § 339 et seq., and notes, manner of conducting jury trial.

See infra, § 2144, court may try by consent except in capital cases.

Cited in 8 Wash. 306; 17 Wash. 550; 22 Wash. 133.

The words "Except as otherwise specially provided," as used in this section, do not confer the right to try a criminal case by a jury of less than twelve people: State v. Ellis, 22 Wash. 129.

§ 2138. (6931.) Peremptory Challenges, Number Allowed Defendant.

In prosecution for capital offenses, the defendant may challenge peremptorily twelve jurors; in prosecution for offenses punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary, six jurors; in all other prosecutions, three jurors. When several defendants are on trial together, they must join in their challenges. [L. '54, p. 118, § 102; Cd. '81, § 1079; 2 H. C., § 1298.]

Peremptory challenges: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1659, §§ 60-62; State v. Eddon, 8 Wash. 292; State v. Vance, 29 Wash. 435; State v. Hall, 24 Wash. 255; State v. McCann, 16 Wash. 249; State v. Stentz, 30 Wash. 134; State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339.

Construing all the statutory provisions together on the subject of challenges to jurors, defendant must, in prosecution for homicide, exercise two peremptory challenges to one by the state, until the twelve and six peremptory challenges respectively are exhausted: State v. Eddon, 8 Wash. 292.

§ 2139. (6932.) Peremptory Challenges Allowed State.

The prosecuting attorney, in capital cases, may challenge peremptorily six jurors; in all other cases, three jurors. [L. '54, p. 118, § 103; Cd. '81, § 1080; 2 H. C., § 1299.]

§ 2140. (6933.) Challenges to Panel, When Allowed.

Challenges to the panel shall only be allowed for a material departure from the forms prescribed by law for the drawing and return of the jury, and shall be in writing, sworn to, and proved to the satisfaction of the court. [L. '54, p. 118, § 104; Cd. '81, § 1081; 2 H. C., § 1300.]

See note to § 323.

Cited in 6 Wash. 566; 29 Wash. 446.

Challenge to the panel, or to the polls for cause: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1657, §§ 55, 56; State v. Straub, 16 Wash. 111; State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 75; State v. Vance, 29 Wash. 437.

Although a challenge is not taken in the manner required by this section, but is nevertheless entertained by the court, it should be sustained where it is to the effect that the deputy sheriff, instead of the sheriff, assisted in drawing the jury, contrary to the provisions of § 59, 2 Hill's Code: State v. Payne, 6 Wash. 563, 566.

§ 2141. (6934.) Challenges for Cause.

Challenges for cause shall be allowed for such cause as the court may, in its discretion, deem sufficient, having reference to the causes of challenge prescribed in civil cases, as far as they may be applicable, and to the substantial rights of the defendant. [L. '54, p. 119, § 105; Cd. '81, § 1082; 2 H. C., § 1301.]

See supra, §§ 326-331, and notes, challenges for cause.

Cited in 3 Wash. 103, 104; 8 Wash. 14.

Competency of jurors, challenges, and exceptions: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1653, 1660, §§ 40-62.

Objection to juror is waived, unless it is made at the time the jury is impaneled: Clarke v. Territory, 1 W. T. 68; Blanton v. State, 1 Wash. 265.

The trial of challenges to jurors by the court involves the trial of an issue of fact, and its determination is largely discretionary: White v. Territory, 3 W. T. 397; Blanton v. State, 1 Wash. 265.

In the examination of a juror upon his voir dire, it is improper to ask him whether he would attach more importance or credibility to the testimony of a minister than to that of anyone else: State v. Holedger, 15 Wash. 443.

Questions put to a juror in a criminal prosecution, which attempt to ascertain in advance what he would think of the credibility of defendant as a witness, considering his interest in the result, are properly excluded: State v. Everett, 14 Wash. 574.

Error in overruling a challenge for actual bias interposed to a juror is without prejudice, when the juror is subsequently excluded upon the peremptory challenge of the adverse party: State v. Carey, 15 Wash. 549.

Where the examination of a juror shows that no fixed or definite opinion exists in the mind relative to the merits of a criminal prosecution, but only a vague or merely floating impression based upon a newspaper report of the case, or heard at about the time of the commission of the supposed crime, the juror is not subject to a challenge on the ground of bias: Id. See, also, State v. Straub, 16 Wash. 111; State v. Royce, 24 Wash. 440.

A refusal to sustain challenges for proper cause, necessitating peremptory challenges on the part of the accused, will be considered on appeal as prejudicial, where the accused has been compelled subsequently to exhaust all his peremptory challenges before the final selection of the jury: State v. Rutten, 13 Wash. 203; citing State v. Krug, 12 Wash. 288.

Where a juror admits that he has an opinion as to the guilt of the accused, which it would take evidence to remove, that he believes there was something wrong and he could not go into the jury-box and accord the accused the presumption that he was innocent, until he was proven guilty, he should be excused upon a challenge for cause, although he may state in answer to leading questions by the court and the prosecuting attorney that if he was charged as the defendant was he would be willing under the same circumstances to have twelve men try his case who were of the same mind as he was: State v. Rutten, 13 Wash. supra; following State v. Murphy, 9 Wash. 204; State v. Wilcox, 11 Wash. 215. See, also, State v. Moody, 18 Wash. 165; State v. Lattin, 19 Wash. 57.

The fact that a juror is a taxpayer is not ground for challenge upon a trial of a public officer charged with embezzlement of public funds: State v. Krug, 12 Wash. 288; or that he has formed an impression that the defendant had loaned money, either that of his own or of the city, the juror having no idea to whom the money belonged and having formed no opinion as to the defendant's guilt or innocence: Id.; or when he has formed an impression, but disclaimed having formed an opinion, he cannot be challenged for actual bias: Id.

A juror's name indorsed on information as witness for the state renders him incompetent: State v. Stentz, 30 Wash. 134.

Effect of business connections or transactions with party or attorney: See State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514; State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 75.

Effect of prior service as juror, or service in same or similar cause: See State v. Hall, 24 Wash. 255; State v. Van Watters, 36 Wash. 358.

Bias or prejudice: See State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514.

Formation and expression of opinion: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1654-1656, §§ 46-48; State v. Royce, 24 Wash. 440; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514; State v. Farris, 26 Wash. 205; State v. Croney, 31 Wash. 122; State v. Harras, 22 Wash. 57; State v. Riley, 36 Wash. 441; State v. Kenney, 45 Wash. 165.

Personal opinion and scruples: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1656, §§ 49, 50; State v. Croney, 31 Wash. 122; State v. Royce, 24 Wash. 440; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514.

Waiver of right to object or challenge: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1657, § 53; State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 75; State v. Clark, 34 Wash. 485.

A juror will not be found to be disqualified by actual bias, as defined by § 329, supra, by reason of answers to questions based on assumption of facts not supported in the record, where he had no knowledge of the case and no opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the accused, and, considering his examination as a whole, the trial judge could not be said to have abused the discretion reposed in him by such statute: State v. Gohl, 46 Wash. 408.

§ 2142. (6935.) Conscientious Scruples of Juror as to Capital Punishment.

No person whose opinions are such as to preclude him from finding any defendant guilty of an offense punishable with death shall be compelled or allowed to serve as a juror on the trial of any indictment or information for such an offense. [Cf. L. '54, p. 119, § 106; Cd. '81, § 1083; L. '91, p. 59, § 67; 2 H. C., § 1302.]

See State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514.

§ 2143. (6936.) Oath to Jury, Form of.

The jury shall be sworn or affirmed well and truly to try the issue between the state and defendant, according to the evidence; and in capital cases, to well and truly try, and true deliverance make between the state and the prisoner at the bar, whom they shall have in charge, according to the evidence. [Cf. L. '54, p. 119, § 107; Cd. '81, § 1084; L. '91, p. 59, § 68; 2 H. C., § 1303.]

Cited in 16 Wash. 426; 18 Wash. 144.

Oath of jury: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1660, § 63; State v. Gin Pon, 16 Wash. 425; State v. Johnny Tommy, 19 Wash. 270.

It is sufficient if the substance of the oath administered to the jurors is in consonance with the statute; yet it is better to follow the prescribed formula: Leonard v. Territory, 2 W. T. 381, 395; Har- rington v. Territory, 1 W. T. 447; see Leschi v. Territory, 1 W. T. 13.

§ 2144. (6937.) Jury may be Waived Except in Capital Cases.

The defendant and prosecuting attorney, with the assent of the court, may submit the trial to the court, except in capital cases. [L. '54, p. 119, § 108; Cd. '81, § 1085; 2 H. C., § 1304.]

See Const., Art. I, §§ 21, 22, constitutionality of this section doubtful.

§ 2145. (6938.) Personal Presence of Defendant During Trial.

No person prosecuted for an offense punishable by death, or by confinement in the penitentiary or in the county jail, shall be tried unless personally present during the trial. [L. '54, p. 119, § 109; Cd. '81, § 1086; 2 H. C., § 1305.]

See next section.

See supra, § 2094, defendant may appear by counsel, when.

See infra, § 2196, presence upon judgment.

The objection that defendant in a criminal case had been absent during the examination of a portion of the jury cannot be raised in the supreme court by affidavits, when there is nothing in the record as certified showing such fact: State v. Holmes, 12 Wash. 169.

It is error to keep the accused in manacles during the progress of the trial and in the presence of the jury, unless it plainly appears that the prisoner is such a dangerous character as to warrant such precaution: State v. Williams, 18 Wash. 47.

Personal presence of accused: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 842, § 405; State v. Costello, 29 Wash. 366; State v. Howard, 33 Wash. 250.

§ 2146. (6939.) Trial in Defendant's Absence, When.

No person prosecuted for an offense punishable by a fine only shall be tried without being personally present, unless some responsible person, approved by the court, undertakes to be bail for stay of execution and payment of the fine and costs that may be assessed against the defendant. Such undertaking must be in writing, and is as effective as if entered into after judgment. [L. '54, p. 119, § 110; Cd. '81, § 1087; 2 H. C., § 1306.]

See notes to last section.

§ 2147. (6940.) Competency of Witnesses—Exceptions.

Witnesses competent to testify in civil cases shall be competent in criminal prosecutions, but regular physicians or surgeons, clergymen or priests, shall be protected from testifying as to confessions, or information received from any defendant, by virtue of their profession and character; Indians shall be competent as witnesses hereinbefore provided, or in any prosecutions in which an Indian may be a defendant. [L. '54, p. 117, § 95; L. '73, p. 233, § 231; Cd. '81, § 1069.]

See supra, § 1210 et seq., competency of witnesses in civil cases.

See infra, § 2290, convict as witness.

§ 2148. (6941.) Compelling Attendance of Witnesses—Defendant as Witness—Failure to Testify.

Witnesses may be compelled to attend and testify before the grand jury; and witnesses on behalf of the state, or of the defendant in a criminal prosecution, may be compelled to attend and testify in open court, if they have been subpoenaed, without their fees being first paid or tendered, unless otherwise provided by law; the court may recognize witnesses, with or without sureties, to attend and testify at the same or the next session of the court, or at the term of a court within the state, and any person accused of any crime in this state by indictment, information, or otherwise, may, in the examination or trial of the cause, offer himself or herself as a witness in his or her own behalf, and shall be allowed to testify as other witnesses in such case, and when accused shall so testify, he or she shall be subject to all the rules of law relating to cross-examinations of other witnesses: Provided, that nothing in this code shall be construed to compel such accused person to offer himself or herself as a witness in such case: And provided further, that it shall be the duty of the court to instruct the jury that no inference of guilt shall arise against the accused if the accused shall fail or refuse to testify as a witness in his or her own behalf. [Cf. L. '54, p. 116, § 93; L. '71, p. 105, § 2; Cd. '81, § 1067; L. '91, p. 59, § 69; 2 H. C., § 1307.]

See infra, notes to § 2158, "defendant as witness."

See infra, § 2864, failure to attend as witness, misdemeanor.

See infra, §§ 2338, 6938, refusing to attend before legislature or committee.

See infra, § 6067, refusing to obey subpoena of insurance commissioner.

See infra, § 6555, refusing to obey subpoena of labor commissioner.

See infra, § 7324, refusing to appear before military court.

See infra, § 9085, refusing to obey subpoena of tax commissioner.

Instruction as to failure of accused to testify: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 817, § 291; State v. Detherage, 35 Wash. 326; State v. Mitchell, 32 Wash. 64.

When defendant in a criminal prosecution takes the witness-stand, he assumes the character of a witness; and as such may be contradicted, disputed, or impeached, the same as any other witness; and such examination does not infringe the constitutional provision that "no person shall be compelled in any criminal case to give evidence against himself": State v. Duncan, 7 Wash. 336; Thompson v. Territory, 1 W. T. 547.

Although the accused offers himself as a witness, it is an invasion of his constitutional rights to compel him to give evidence against himself on cross-examination, where the state had been unable to secure the evidence in any other way: State v. O'Hara, 17 Wash. 525.

If the whole purpose of defendant's testimony is to show that he is not guilty, although not asked the direct question, it is proper cross-examination, as tending to affect his credibility, to question him in reference to his flight soon after the crime was committed: State v. Duncan, supra.

Where defendant was not sworn as a witness in his own behalf, it was error for the court not to instruct the jury that from such fact no inference of guilt should be drawn against defendant; and the fact that defendant remained silent does not constitute a waiver of such right: Linebeck v. State, 1 Wash. 336; State v. Myers, 8 Wash. 177.

The spirit of this provision is, that such failure shall not operate to defendant's disadvantage in any branch or aspect of the case: Leonard v. Territory, 2 W. T. 381, 399.

It is not permissible, on the cross-examination of the accused's wife for the state to show that the accused had been convicted of another crime some years before, and before their marriage, in order to affect the credibility of the wife, since the fact tends directly to prejudice the accused, and only remotely, if at all, to discredit the witness: State v. Eder, 36 Wash. 482.

An attempt to obtain a flashlight photograph of the defendant in a compromising position with a female under the age of consent, whom it was alleged he had assaulted and raped, would not be a conspiracy to fabricate testimony, in case he voluntarily assumed the position: State v. Griffin, 43 Wash. 591.

It is error to require a witness for accused to appear in court fettered and manacled to another person, although he had been charged jointly with defendant and had been found guilty upon a former and separate trial: See State v. Williams, 18 Wash. 47.

§ 2149. Immunity of Witnesses in Cases of Bribery, Grafting, etc.

Any person offending against any provisions of the common law or statutes of the state of Washington or any ordinances of any municipality thereof, relating to bribery, grafting or corrupt solicitation, shall be a competent witness against any other person so offending, and may be compelled to attend and testify upon any trial, hearing, proceeding or investigation in the same manner as any other person. But the testimony so given shall not be used in any prosecution or proceeding, civil or criminal, against the person so testifying. A person so testifying shall not thereafter be liable to indictment, information, prosecution, or punishment for such offense. [L. '07, p. 99, § 1.]

Compare § 2330, infra. See note to § 2253.

This act is pursuant to the provisions of Article 2, § 30, of the state Constitution relative to the compulsory testimony of parties to corrupt solicitation of public officers.

§ 2150. Not Applicable to Proceedings Before Committing Magistrate or Justice.

The provisions of § 2149 shall not be applicable to any prosecution or proceeding before a committing magistrate or justice of the peace. [L. '07, p. 99, § 2.]

See notes to last section, and § 2291, conflicting with this section.

§ 2151. (6942.) Confession as Evidence.

The confession of a defendant made under inducement, with all the circumstances, may be given as evidence against him, except when made under the influence of fear produced by threats; but a confession made under inducement is not sufficient to warrant a conviction without corroborating testimony. [L. '54, p. 117, § 96; Cd. '81, § 1070; 2 H. C., § 1308.]

Cited in 3 Wash. 110; 7 Wash. 240; 12 Wash. 676; 13 Wash. 6; 18 Wash. 396; 21 Wash. 68; 25 Wash. 349; 36 Wash. 488.

Admissions: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 782, §§ 131-134; State v. Poole, 42 Wash. 192; State v. McFadden, 41 Wash. 1; State v. Lyts, 25 Wash. 347; State v. Bringgold, 40 Wash. 12; State v. Webster, 21 Wash. 63; State v. Gates, 28 Wash. 689; State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 75.

Inculpatory declarations made by defendant charged with a crime are admissible in evidence when not caused by duress or fear produced by threats: State v. Munson, 7 Wash. 239; and are also admissible as against an accomplice: State v. Coss, 12 Wash. 673.

Admissions made by a defendant in a civil action, when not given under compulsion, may be put in evidence in a criminal prosecution against him: State v. Hopkins, 13 Wash. 5.

If a defendant, after having been shot down by the officers sent to arrest him, but apparently ignorant that they were officers, and without any threats being made against him, confesses that he killed decedent, the confession is voluntary and admissible: State v. Coella, 3 Wash. 99.

As preliminary to the introduction of admissions of a prisoner, the public are not compelled to show that the whole conversation in which it was made is recollected by the witness. Cross-examination affords the means of obtaining a full statement: Yelm Jim v. Territory, 1 W. T. 63.

If a portion of a conversation has been drawn out in the examination of a witness the opposing party has a right to have the whole of it placed before the jury: State v. Regan, 8 Wash. 506.

Admission by defendant that he knew a certain larceny had been committed is not evidence that he had actually participated in its commission: State v. Payne, 6 Wash. 563.

If it is shown that a defendant accused of the burglary of certain moneys surrenders to the officer a sum which he had secreted, which corresponds in amount, kind and denomination with that stolen, and accounts for its possession by an extremely improbable explanation, and when accused of the offense makes inculpatory admissions, his guilt is proved beyond a reasonable doubt: State v. Munson, 7 Wash. 239.

On a trial for murder, it is error to admit evidence that the defendant had stated, at the close of the preliminary examination, that his son had confessed to him the commission of the murder, as the accused was not on trial charged with knowingly concealing a murder committed by another: Rose v. State, 2 Wash. 310.

In a prosecution for embezzlement, error in the admission of testimony tending to prove the crime is not prejudicial when the admissions of the accused, that he had converted certain of the moneys to his own use, are alone sufficient to authorize a finding of guilty: State v. Whiteman, 9 Wash. 402.

Evidence of conversations had between witnesses in the absence of defendant is incompetent: State v. Halbert, 14 Wash. 306; cited in Speck v. Gray, 14 Wash. 589.

Confessions: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 789, 790, §§ 165-171; State v. Newton, 29 Wash. 373; State v. Carpenter, 32 Wash. 254; State v. Washing, 36 Wash. 485; State v. Royce, 38 Wash. 111; State v. Mann, 39 Wash. 144; State v. McCullum, 18 Wash. 394; State v. Marselle, 43 Wash. 273; State v. Poole, 42 Wash. 192.

In a prosecution for murder, where the plea of self-defense is set up, the admission in evidence of the statement of defendant that he killed the deceased is harmless error, though the confession is made as the result of fear produced by threats, when no further particulars than the mere killing are wrung from the defendant while under the influence of fear: State v. Coella, 8 Wash. 513.

Where it is sought to deny defendant's admissions tending to show guilt were produced by threats, the admission of the question, "Did you make any threats to him?" is not prejudicial error, when all that was done or said to defendant, or by him, was subsequently stated in detail: State v. Munson, 7 Wash. 239.

Voluntary testimony made under inducement to escape liability in a civil action for embezzlement is admissible in a criminal prosecution therefor: State v. Hopkins, 13 Wash. 5.

§ 2152. (6943.) Rules of Evidence Same as in Civil Actions.

The rules of evidence in civil actions, so far as practicable, shall be applied to criminal prosecutions. [L. '54, p. 117, § 97; Cd. '81, § 1071; 2 H. C., § 1309.]

ARTICLES, ETC., ADMISSIBLE: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 780, § 124; State v. Cushing, 14 Wash. 527; State v. Royce, 38 Wash. 111.

Personal effects of every kind belonging to a prisoner may be taken from his person and used upon the trial for what they may be worth as criminating evidence: State v. Nordstrom, 7 Wash. 506.

In a case of forgery, it is not error to exclude photographs of the disputed signatures and of certain genuine signatures when the originals thereof are presented in court: Crane v. Dexter Horton & Co., 5 Wash. 479.

In a prosecution upon a charge of embezzlement it is erroneous to admit in evidence the complaint and answer on which a former civil action, involving the same property in question had been tried: State v. Hopkins, 13 Wash. 5; or the correspondence of third parties, when no ground has been shown therefor: Id.

Maps, etc.: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 785, § 145; State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670.

The admission of certain maps in evidence upon identification of a witness hostile to defendant is not error when there is no showing of inaccuracy in the maps: State v. White, 10 Wash. 611.

A map containing much explanatory matter in nature of hearsay evidence should not be admitted in evidence in a criminal case: Leonard v. Territory, 2 W. T. 381.

A stenographer's notes of evidence, taken at a former trial, cannot be introduced for the purpose of impeaching the testimony of a witness on the second trial regarding matters alleged to have been testified to by him at such former trial: State v. Freidrich, 4 Wash. 205.

The fact that stolen money is not exhibited in court on the trial for its larceny is not ground for rejecting testimony offered concerning it: State v. Munson, 7 Wash. 239.

Petitions addressed to county commissioners asking employment of counsel to assist in prosecuting defendant, etc., inadmissible: State v. Humason, 5 Wash. 499.

Upon the trial of a defendant charged with killing an officer while resisting arrest, where the officer had cause to suspect the defendant, evidence that the defendant was innocent of the crime for which the arrest was attempted is inadmissible: State v. Symes, 20 Wash. 484.

In a prosecution for murder, the clothing worn by deceased at the time he was shot, and the gun with which the shooting was done, are admissible in evidence, and may properly be taken by the jury to their room when they retire to consider their verdict: State v. Cushing, 14 Wash. 527; Doctor Jack v. Territory, 2 W. T. 101.

Admissibility in evidence of means of committing offense and articles connected therewith: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 773, § 93; State v. Cushing, 17 Wash. 544; State v. Burns, 19 Wash. 52; State v. Lattin, 19 Wash. 57; State v. Surry, 23 Wash. 655; State v. Costello, 29 Wash. 366; State v. Romano, 41 Wash. 241.

DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 785, §§ 142-146; State v. Symes, 20 Wash. 484; State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339; State v. Yourex, 30 Wash. 611.

As to letters and telegrams, see State v. Wilson, 10 Wash. 402; State v. Nelson, 9 Wash. 221.

A letter written by one of the conspirators suggesting the line of evidence to be used by the two other defendants on the defense of the writer, which letter fell from her room, is sufficiently identified from its contents without proof of the handwriting or signature, and it is admissible against the other defendants in case attempted correspondence was going on between them at the time, and the other defendants were concerned in the offense, although the letter alone was not sufficient evidence of the conspiracy: State v. Dille, 44 Wash. 207.

In such a case there is sufficient prima facie evidence of a conspiracy to necessitate the submission of the question to the jury: Id.

Where the accused denied the writing of a note tacked upon the cabin of the deceased the morning after he was last seen alive, samples of the accused's handwriting, identified by competent evidence of their genuineness, are admissible in evidence as exhibits for comparison by experts, although the accused did not himself admit their genuineness on the stand: State v. Fillpot, 51 Wash. 223.

BURDEN OF PROOF, ETC.: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 770, §§ 79-83; State v. Lawson, 40 Wash. 455; O'Neill, In re, 41 Wash. 174; State v. Eubank, 33 Wash. 293; State v. Poole, 42 Wash. 192; State v. Clark, 34 Wash. 485.

The burden of proof can never be cast upon the defendant in a criminal prosecution of showing the nonexistence of facts constituting the crime with which he is charged: State v. Conahan, 10 Wash. 268.

No man ought to be convicted of a crime upon mere suspicion, or because he may have had an opportunity to commit it, or even because of bad character, and where circumstances are relied on for conviction they ought to be of such a character as to negative every reasonable hypothesis, except that of defendant's guilt: State v. Payne, 6 Wash. 563, 574.

In a prosecution for bigamy, the burden of proof is upon the defendant to show that the former marriage, proven by the state, was invalid by reason of the incompetence of the wife to enter into the relation: State v. Kniffen, 44 Wash. 485.

The prosecution is not required to produce for the consideration of the jury all the evidence within its knowledge which would have a tendency to throw light upon the matter in issue, irrespective of its tendency to acquit or convict the defendant.

but may confine its efforts to bringing out the facts favorable to its side: State v. Payne, 10 Wash. 546.

In a prosecution upon an information charging grand larceny, the evidence is sufficient to uphold a conviction when it appears that defendant, while pretending to play a game of cards, snatched the money of the prosecuting witness, claiming that it had been won by gambling: State v. Reis, 9 Wash. 329.

If the information alleges the ownership of the building burned in one Klingman, the ownership is sufficiently proven when the only evidence on the subject is in response to the question, "Do you know who the owner of the premises was or is?" to which the witness answered, "Yes, sir: Mr. C. E. Klingman": State v. Meyers, 9 Wash. 8.

Weight and sufficiency of the evidence: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 791-794, §§ 175-185; State v. Smith, 40 Wash. 615; State v. Williams, 36 Wash. 143; State v. Romano, 41 Wash. 241; State v. Fair, 35 Wash. 127; State v. Roller, 30 Wash. 692; State v. Fetterly, 33 Wash. 599; State v. Patchen, 37 Wash. 24; State v. Eubank, 33 Wash. 293; State v. Johnson, 36 Wash. 294; State v. Detherage, 35 Wash. 326.

The evidence in a criminal case cannot be said to be insufficient to warrant a conviction because based upon the evidence of a prosecuting witness who was a prostitute, as such fact only affects her credibility, which is a question for the jury, especially where the witness was corroborated: State v. Hill, 45 Wash. 694.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.—In a prosecution for homicide, resting on circumstantial evidence, in rebuttal of the circumstances offered by the territory to fix guilt upon defendant, it is error not to allow the prisoner to show that at the time of decedent's death there was a person in the neighborhood hostile to and who had threatened to kill deceased: Leonard v. Territory, 2 W. T. 381.

A conviction of the crime of murder, based upon circumstantial evidence, will not be set aside when all the facts and the circumstances appearing in evidence warrant the conclusion that the accused was guilty of the crime charged: State v. Smith, 9 Wash. 341.

Evidence chiefly circumstantial held insufficient to support a verdict of murder in the first degree: Miller v. Territory, 3 W. T. 554.

A verdict of murder is sufficiently sustained by evidence showing that a murder had been committed and a house robbed; that defendant was seen in the bushes less than an hour before its commission, as well as some days prior, watching the house; that part of the handle of the hammer with which the homicide had been done and most of the stolen money was found on his premises; that he had been in straitened circumstances, but had given his wife some money on the day of the homicide, claiming it as a portion of a payment made him on that day by a certain person, whose testimony was not produced at the trial, and that an alibi set up by him was not clearly established: State v. Craemer, 12 Wash. 217.

A conviction for arson is not sustained by purely circumstantial evidence creating a suspicion against the accused, unless he is connected with the crime beyond a reasonable doubt, or the circumstances are irreconcilable with his innocence; and where such evidence is consistent with the hypothesis of his innocence, and absolutely no motive was shown, the corpus delicti was not established beyond a reasonable doubt and the supreme court will reverse the judgment; although the trial court refused to set aside a verdict of guilty: State v. Pienick, 46 Wash. 522.

In a prosecution for murder, the defendant is entitled to a discharge where the evidence shows that by reason of the defendant's relation with deceased he had an opportunity to commit the crime, but that others had an equal opportunity; that the hatchet with which the crime was probably committed had been used in the fruit-stand formerly belonging to defendant, but at the time was in the actual occupancy of another; that defendant had stains, apparently of blood, around his finger nails, upon his arms and upon his shoes, but which were not proved to have been made by human blood; that his conduct on the day following the night of the murder, considered in the light of his personal peculiarities and the circumstances surrounding him, might be better explained upon the theory of his innocence than that of his guilt; and that a piece had been cut from his vest, not, as claimed by the prosecution, for the reason that it was covered with blood stains, but to serve as a patch for his trousers: State v. Pagano, 7 Wash. 549. See, also, State v. Downing, 24 Wash. 340.

Upon the trial of a person charged with the crime of murder committed in the perpetration of arson, he is not entitled to introduce proof showing the whereabouts, at the time of the fire, of a certain person hostile to the accused, when neither such proof nor the other circumstances in evidence tend to show the commission of the crime by such person: State v. Meyers, 12 Wash. 77.

Evidence is admissible in a murder trial to show that a third party had told defendant that the decedent threatened to kill defendant, if he kept on talking about his owing him money, as a circumstance tending to show the danger defendant believed himself to be in at the time of the murder: State v. Coella, 3 Wash. 99.

Evidence of a letter in a prosecution for murder, from deceased to a third person, asserting defendant's indebtedness to deceased is properly admitted, when it has already been shown that defendant made inquiries in regard to it prior to the time of its receipt: State v. Wilson, 10 Wash. 402.

Testimony of accomplices and codefendants: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 788, §§ 160-164; State v. Concannon, 25 Wash. 327; State v. Pearson, 37 Wash. 405; State v. Mann, 39 Wash. 144.

The evidence of an accomplice, uncorroborated in material matters, is insufficient to authorize a verdict of guilty, except in those cases where, from all the circumstances, the honest judgment is satisfied of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. Under the facts in this case, it is held that the testimony of the accomplice in the murder is untrustworthy, and the facts claimed to be in corroboration of his story are wholly immaterial: Edwards v. State, 2 Wash. 291; Rose v. State, 2 Wash. 311.

Corroborating circumstances: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 775, § 100; State v. Cushing, 17 Wash. 544; State v. Fetterly, 33 Wash. 599.

Although an information charging manslaughter may not show that accused bore the relation to the deceased of surgeon, and that death resulted from a surgical operation, evidence touching the character of the operation, the propriety of performing it, and subsequent treatment of deceased is admissible: State v. Gile, 8 Wash. 12; and proof of the consent of deceased to the operation causing death is a good defense only where the operation is performed with due care and skill: Id.

The reasonable necessity of employing spring-guns and other defensive machinery for the protection of property, which has resulted in death of a trespasser, is a question of fact which should be left to the jury: State v. Barr, 11 Wash. 482.

In a prosecution for homicide by the rigging of a spring-gun in a trunk, evidence that the defendant warned the deceased of the gun, while not a defense unless deceased deliberately attempted suicide, might be material on the question of malice: State v. Marfaudille, 48 Wash. 117.

In such a case, defendant's offer to prove that he did not intend to kill the deceased is inadmissible, since any intent was necessarily general and would not be disproved by intent as to any particular person: Id.

In such a case, it is error to assume that the law prohibited the setting of a spring-gun except when necessary to prevent a capital crime; since homicide for the prevention of any forcible and atrocious crime is justifiable: Id.

In a prosecution for cattle-stealing it is competent for a witness, in testifying as to the identity of the animal alleged to have been stolen, to state that it was such animal "to the best of his judgment and belief," as the question of the force to be given to his testimony is for the jury: State v. Murphy, 15 Wash. 98.

Although the evidence in a criminal case may not have been of the most satisfactory and convincing kind, yet the verdict of the jury should not be disturbed on appeal, if there was evidence tending to establish every material fact necessary to show the guilt of the defendant (State v. Kroenert, 13 Wash. 644, followed): Id.

In a prosecution for an assault with an attempt to commit sodomy upon the person of another, perpetrated upon a moving train, evidence is admissible of a prior assault committed upon the same train a couple of hours previously, although made in another state, for the purpose of showing the defendant's real intention in making the second assault: State v. Place, 5 Wash. 773. See further as to evidence of acts showing intent or malice or motive, State v. Oppenheimer, 41 Wash. 630.

Where inducements for sexual intercourse are held out by a man to a girl of twelve years of age, consisting in kissing her and fondling her and feeling of her person, and in representations to her that it was not wrong to have sexual intercourse, and that he would not hurt her, these representations being made and his conduct occurring upon a number of occasions when he attempted to have intercourse with her without accomplishing penetration, and also thereafter when he succeeded, they are sufficient, in view of the girl's tender age, to constitute the offense of seduction: State v. Carter, 8 Wash. 272.

Other offenses as evidence of offense charged: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 776, § 107; State v. Marselle, 43 Wash. 273; State v. Carpenter, 32 Wash. 254; State v. Fetterly, 33 Wash. 599; State v. Gottfreedson, 24 Wash. 398; State v. Wood, 33 Wash. 290; State v. Nelson, 39 Wash. 221; State v. Strodemier, 40 Wash. 608; State v. Mobley, 44 Wash. 549.

In a prosecution for rape, it is error to admit in evidence over objection testimony of a conversation had with defendant, in which he was alleged to have said, referring to the prosecutrix, "I suppose you want to get me in the same trouble with that old lady as you did with the little girl," and to permit the witness to answer the further question, "whether or not that trouble with the little girl, referred to in that conversation, related to some sexual matter between himself and the little girl": State v. Thompson, 14 Wash. 285.

In a prosecution for obtaining goods under false pretenses by the giving of a check upon a bank in which the defendant had no funds, it is error to allow the prosecution to introduce testimony of other checks having been given by defendant to other persons when he had no funds on deposit: State v. Bokien, 14 Wash. 403.

Upon trial of defendant for larceny of certain cattle, which the evidence shows had been slaughtered by him and the carcasses and hides fully disposed of, evidence is admissible that he had tried to conceal from the sheriff a sack containing ears cut from the heads of certain other cattle, which it was shown had been stolen, and which were not included in the issue on which he was being tried: State v. Humason, 5 Wash. 499.

If a defendant charged with stealing cattle has sought to show that the person alleged in the information as owner had sold the same, evidence of conversations between owner and parties to whom he had made a conditional sale, although not in the presence of defendant, may be given to show that such sale had been rescinded: Id.

Where the substance of the charge in an information for maintaining a nuisance is that the defendant unlawfully maintained a powder magazine in a thickly settled neighborhood, evidence is admissible for the purpose of showing that the explosives stored therein had been recklessly managed while being carried from vessel to magazine, and while being loaded upon cars for transportation: State v. Pagget, 8 Wash. 579.

HOMICIDE—SUFFICIENCY OF CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1399-1401, §§ 83-85; State v. Carey, 15 Wash. 549; State v. Vance, 29 Wash. 435; State v. Clark, 34 Wash. 485; State v. Erving, 19 Wash. 435; State v. Manderville, 37 Wash. 365; State v. McPhail, 39 Wash. 199.

CORPUS DELICTI: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 792, § 181; Id., p. 1388, § 34; Id., p. 1397, §§ 75, 76; State v. Nichols, 28 Wash. 628; State v. Gates, 28 Wash. 689; State v. Downing, 24 Wash. 340.

While in capital cases the corpus delicti, like every other material fact, must be proved beyond a reasonable doubt, it need not be proved by direct evidence. The law is satisfied when so proved by either circumstantial or direct evidence: Timmerman v. Territory, 3 W. T. 445.

In a prosecution for murder the corpus delicti is sufficiently proven when it is shown that the charred corpse of a man, with throat cut and bullet holes through his head and abdomen, was found among the burned ruins of a barn, that from certain physical peculiarities of teeth and hair, and also from the shape of the head and face, neighbors and friends recognized the corpse as being that of the owner of the premises, with whose murder the accused was charged: State v. Smith, 9 Wash. 341.

For proofs of corpus delicti, see State v. Munson, 7 Wash. 239.

In a prosecution for murder to which the defense of justifiable homicide was interposed, the facts of the case held to sufficiently prove the cause of the death: State v. Moody, 7 Wash. 395.

In a prosecution for arson the corpus delicti is not established by the fact of the burning of a building, as the presumption is that it was by accident or natural causes: State v. Pienick, 46 Wash. 522.

DYING DECLARATIONS: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1395-1397, §§ 64-67;

State v. Power, 24 Wash. 34; State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540; State v. Moody, 18 Wash. 165; State v. Crawford, 31 Wash. 260; State v. Baldwin, 15 Wash. 15.

Whether statements claimed to be dying declarations were such is to be decided by the judge presiding at the trial. The showing upon which the dying declarations were made in this case is not disclosed by the record. The presumption, therefore, is that such showing was sufficient: Thompson v. Territory, 1 W. T. 548.

See notes, infra, "Res Gestae."

If, in a trial for murder, the dying declarations of the deceased are offered in evidence, and a preliminary examination is made to determine whether such declarations were made by deceased in view of speedy death, the extent of such preliminary hearing is within the discretion of the trial court, and reviewable only when it appears that such discretion has been abused: Klehn v. Territory, 1 Wash. 584.

Where it is shown by competent testimony that after deceased had lost all hope or expectation of recovery, and while under a solemn sense of impending death, he stated that he had been "butchered" by the doctors, the evidence is admissible as a dying declaration, as to the cause of his death: State v. Gile, 8 Wash. 12.

If one witness has been improperly allowed to testify that in a conversation with a murdered man, the latter said he did not know who shot him, the testimony of another witness, who was present at the conversation, that the deceased, in answer to the inquiry who shot him, mentioned the name of defendant, is admissible as rebuttal, on the ground that it calls for a full conversation, of which a part only had been given: State v. Friedrich, 4 Wash. 205.

Dying declarations cannot be excluded on account of constitutional right of defendant to meet his witnesses face to face: State v. Baldwin, 15 Wash. 15.

Proof of conviction of an infamous crime may be given to affect the credibility of one making dying declarations, but cannot be urged as a ground for their exclusion: Id.; and the fact that, for some days after deceased had been shot, he had no fear of impending death, is not ground for their exclusion, when it appears that at the time they were made, his condition had grown more serious, and he had been told by the doctors he was about to die, and had said that he realized it: Id.

Where a dying declaration has been made to an attorney, who afterward, not in the presence of the deceased, reduced it to writing, but not always in the language of the deceased, even including incorrect statements in one or two minor matters, and the declaration is subsequently read to the deceased and signed by him, it is still admissible in evidence, as a question for the jury to pass upon: Id.

INSANITY: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 771, § 83; Id., p. 774, § 96; Id., p. 770.

§ 77; State v. Clark, 34 Wash. 485; State v. Glindemann, 34 Wash. 221; State v. Vance, 29 Wash. 435; State v. Stockhammer, 34 Wash. 262; State v. Smith, 26 Wash. 354; State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339.

Insanity is a matter of independent defense, and as such must be proven to the satisfaction of the jury, unless the facts upon which it is based are a part of the res gestae: McAllister v. Territory, 1 W. T. 360.

A mere blow inflicted upon defendant, nothing appearing to show its severity or other physical consequences resulting from it, is not evidence upon which insanity may be inferred: Id.

Upon a defense of insanity, where the state sought to show a rational state of mind at a certain time, by a particular statement made by defendant to his daughter, it is error to exclude evidence offered by the defendant as to his daughter's statement to him immediately preceding: State v. Constantine, 48 Wash. 218.

Upon an issue as to the sanity of the accused, a nonexpert witness may give his opinion as to the mental condition of the defendant in his own language; and it is error to strike out an answer that witness could not say whether he was sane or insane but that "his mind was disordered I should say": Id.

Upon the defense of insanity claimed to have been brought about by complaints made to him by the defendant's daughter respecting trouble with her husband, it is error to refuse to permit the daughter, who had detailed certain complaints made, to state whether that was the first time she had ever complained to defendant about such troubles: Id.

Upon an issue as to the sanity of the accused, after the admission of evidence as to statements made by defendant to his attorney just before the commission of the offense, which tended to show defendant's physical and mental condition, it is error to exclude evidence of what the attorney stated to the defendant: Id.

In a prosecution for homicide, committed by defendant after he had been drinking intoxicating liquor, opinions of a physician testifying as an expert, as to the probable effect thereof upon his mind, are admissible upon an issue as to defendant's sanity: State v. Bridgham, 51 Wash. 18.

Upon the defense of insanity it is proper to refuse to instruct that if the defendant's evidence raises a reasonable doubt as to his sanity, the state must remove the doubt by the preponderance of the evidence: State v. Craig, 52 Wash. 66. It is competent to prove insanity by the testimony of nonexpert witnesses: Id.

RES GESTAE: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 775, 776, §§ 101-106; State v. Burton, 27 Wash. 528; State v. Moody, 18 Wash. 165; State v. Hyde, 22 Wash. 551; State v. Webster, 21 Wash. 63; State v. Fal-setta, 43 Wash. 159; State v. Webster, 21 Wash. 63; State v. Power, 24 Wash. 34; State v. Smith, 26 Wash. 354; State v. Ripley, 32 Wash. 182.

In a prosecution for conducting a game of faro, testimony that chips and money were played for on a particular day, and that certain named persons were in the game, is competent as part of the res gestae: State v. Wilson, 9 Wash. 16.

The dying declarations of deceased calling witnesses to note the fact that he was unarmed is inadmissible as part of the res gestae: State v. Eddon, 8 Wash. 292.

In a prosecution for murder it is not error to allow a witness to testify that, at the time of the homicide, the deceased and two other persons were walking together on the sidewalk, and that, as they passed defendant, he suddenly drew a revolver from his pocket and shot the deceased, and almost immediately turned and fired at the two persons with him, such evidence being admissible as part of the res gestae: Blanton v. State, 1 Wash. 265.

In a prosecution for obtaining money under false pretenses, the question for the jury is not whether a person exercising ordinary prudence and caution would have been misled, but what was the effect of the false misrepresentations upon the mind of the person defrauded, and what was the result: State v. Knowlton, 11 Wash. 512; that other considerations mingled with the false pretense, having no influence upon the mind and conduct of the prosecutor, is immaterial, if the false pretense is the operative, moving cause of his parting with his property: Id.

Ante-mortem statements of deceased relating to the issues, made in the presence of the accused, are admissible, where she was at home in another room with the door open within easy hearing, and were made under such circumstances that she would without doubt have replied thereto if she did not wish to acquiesce therein; but statements made after the door between the rooms was closed, while the accused was engaged in conversation, although she might have heard and denied the same, are not made in her presence or under circumstances calling for a reply: State v. Baruth, 47 Wash. 283.

Ante-mortem statements of deceased, made in the presence of the accused, are admissible only so far as they relate to the shooting from which death resulted, its immediate cause, and the conduct of the parties at the time which was part of the res gestae; and statements of conduct at other times, or irrelevant to the issue, are inadmissible: Id.

Where two persons have been killed in an affray, statements of persons appearing on the scene shortly after and making an examination thereof, showing the conditions surrounding the bodies at the place of killing, are admissible in evidence: State v. Robinson, 12 Wash. 491.

Evidence relevant to offense charged also proving other crimes: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 777, § 108; State v. Hyde, 22 Wash. 551; State v. Norris, 27 Wash. 453; State v. Strodemier, 40 Wash. 608; State v. Dalton, 43 Wash. 278; State v. Patchen, 37 Wash. 24.

On the trial for the murder of a woman, evidence of the killing of her infant child is admissible, where the two homicides were committed at the same time and place, and by the same instrument: State v. Craemer, 12 Wash. 217.

Where the theory of the state in a prosecution for murder is that robbery is the motive, testimony is admissible to show the presence of defendant in the bushes near deceased's residence some thirteen days before the murder, and the finding of the defendant's revolver upon the premises some eighteen days after the crime: Id.

In a prosecution for murder, where the theory of the state is that the motive for the crime was robbery, it is not error to sustain an objection to the question as to what was the largest sum deceased ever had in the bank at one time, although the object is to show the habit of deceased to keep his money in bank and not in his room: State v. Coella, 8 Wash. 512.

In a prosecution for an assault with an intent to commit murder, evidence of quarrels and disputes between defendant and the person assaulted is competent as tending to show ill-will and motive: State v. Ackles, 8 Wash. 462.

Upon a prosecution for arson, evidence that the accused shipped merchandise from the building, five and seven days before the fire, is admissible to show motive and to connect the accused with the crime: State v. Mann, 39 Wash. 144.

To warrant a conviction under an information charging an assault with force with intent to rape a female under the age of sixteen years, an assault with force must be proved; and an instruction that the fact that she consented to the advances made constitutes no defense is erroneous: Whitcher v. State, 2 Wash. 286. [Overruled—State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 674.]

Acts and declarations of conspirators and codefendants: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 784, §§ 140, 141; State v. McCann, 16 Wash. 249; State v. Mann, 39 Wash. 144.

Upon a joint prosecution for robbery under claim that a conspiracy existed between defendant D. and the other defendants, conversations between D. and the prosecuting witness, had while the other defendants were not present, are properly admitted in evidence against D., and against the others if further evidence show concerted action between them: State v. Dilley, 44 Wash. 207.

There is sufficient evidence of concerted action on the part of defendants, jointly prosecuted for robbery, to admit evidence of conversations had with one of the defendants while the others were not present, where it appears that by such conversations the prosecuting witness was lured to the home of the defendants; where he was attacked and robbed by all of the defendants actively participating therein: Id.

In a prosecution for murder, wherein it is sought to show that the crime was the result of a concert of action among four persons to terrorize the community, the acts and statements of the defendant on trial and those of the others in his presence, prior to the commencement of the assault, are admissible in evidence for the purpose of placing the jury in possession of the circumstances leading up to the assault: State v. Payne, 10 Wash. 546.

FACTS in issue and relevant to issues: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 771-775, §§ 84-100; State v. McCann, 16 Wash. 249; State v. Farris, 26 Wash. 205; State v. McGilvery, 20 Wash. 240; State v. Riddell, 33 Wash. 324; State v. Fetterly, 33 Wash. 599; State v. Nelson, 39 Wash. 221; State v. Johnson, 36 Wash. 294; State v. Weisenberger, 42 Wash. 426; State v. Dolan, 17 Wash. 499; State v. Oppenheimer, 41 Wash. 630.

Acts part of series showing system or habit: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 778, § 111; State v. Bokien, 14 Wash. 403; State v. Pittam, 32 Wash. 137.

MATERIALITY AND COMPETENCY IN GENERAL: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 779-781, §§ 118-126; State v. Farris, 26 Wash. 205; State v. Melvern, 32 Wash. 7; State v. Dix, 33 Wash. 405; State v. Weisenberger, 42 Wash. 426.

Hearsay: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 783, § 139; State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670; State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339; State v. Royce, 38 Wash. 111; State v. McLain, 43 Wash. 124; State v. Weisenberger, 42 Wash. 426; State v. Ripley, 32 Wash. 182.

It is inadmissible, as hearsay, for a prosecutrix to testify that a third person told her that the accused had said he would not continue relations with her: State v. Craig, 52 Wash. 66.

Variance: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1483-1485, §§ 91-99; State v. Mendenhall, 24 Wash. 12; State v. Hoshor, 26 Wash. 643; State v. Anderson, 30 Wash. 14; State v. Stewart, 32 Wash. 103; State v. Morgan, 21 Wash. 355; State v. Cox, 39 Wash. 345; State v. Dolson, 22 Wash. 259; State v. Johnson, 36 Wash. 294; State v. Oleson, 35 Wash. 149; State v. Burns, 19 Wash. 52; State v. Phillips, 27 Wash. 364.

In a prosecution upon an information charging certain defendants with having killed the deceased by the use of a knife held by them, there is not a material variance when the proof shows that the knife was held and the blow struck by another than is charged in the information, it further appearing that defendant aided and abetted such person, and that the blow was in pursuance of a conspiracy on their part to terrorize the community: State v. Payne, 10 Wash. 545.

In a case for resisting an officer, where the information alleges that the warrant was issued by a justice of the peace for a certain precinct and county for the arrest of the defendant, the fact that in the warrant offered in evidence there were other names mentioned in addition to the defendant does not constitute a prejudicial variance: State v. Brown, 6 Wash. 609.

If the information in a prosecution for murder charges that the homicide was committed by means of striking and beating the deceased with "a heavy blunt instrument, a more particular description of which is to the prosecuting attorney unknown," the introduction in evidence of a broken oar, which had been found in the possession of the defendant, is not objectionable on the ground of variance, when it is not established on the trial what instrument it was that caused the death, other than it was a heavy blunt one, and it is not shown that a description of the instrument was known by the prosecuting attorney at the time of filing the information: State v. Carey, 15 Wash. 549.

As to ownership of property, see infra, § 2156, and notes.

In a prosecution for maintaining a nuisance on certain premises, it is not error to admit evidence of a flow of putrid matter from said premises onto a public highway, where it tends to show the maintenance of the nuisance at the place alleged, and the jury was instructed to confine their deliberations to a nuisance maintained on said premises: State v. Schaefer, 45 Wash. 9.

VENUE: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 793, § 182; State v. Michel, 20 Wash. 162; State v. Fetterly, 33 Wash. 599. See note to § 2013, supra.

It is not to the prejudice of the defendant that the lower court allowed the statute defining the boundaries of the county wherein the offense was committed to be admitted in evidence: Watts v. Territory, 1 W. T. 409.

In a prosecution for embezzlement, where there is proof that the moneys came into the hands of the accused in a certain county, and that his duties growing out of his trust were confined to that county, the proof is sufficient to prima facie establish the fact that his conversion of the funds was in the same county: State v. Whiteman, 9 Wash. 402.

The venue of a forgery is sufficiently established, although no witness testified directly that the crime was committed at a designated place, where there were many inferences from the testimony and a great deal of direct proof that it was committed in a certain county: State v. Gilluly, 50 Wash. 1.

REPUTATION OR CHARACTER OF DEFENDANT: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 779, §§ 113-117; State v. Surry, 23 Wash. 655; State v. Carpenter, 32 Wash. 254; State v. Coates, 22 Wash. 601.

Evidence of good character is always admissible in a criminal case; and, if it is sufficient to raise a reasonable doubt in the minds of the jury as to the guilt of the accused, it is their duty to acquit: Klehn v. Territory, 1 Wash. 584.

Evidence tending to show good reputation should be confined to a time not too remote from the date of the commission of the crime: State v. Barr, 11 Wash. 481.

General reputation cannot be proved by the testimony of a witness whose information is based on the story of one person: State v. Regan, 8 Wash. 506.

Evidence of the reputation of defendant for peace and quietude is admissible, in a prosecution for murder, on the question as to who was the aggressor in the affray in which the homicide was committed; and defendant is entitled to have the jury charged as to the weight to be given to such evidence: State v. Cushing, 14 Wash. 527.

It is not error to restrict the examination of the accused as to particular matters concerning his previous occupations for the purpose of establishing good character, where accused had been allowed to state the same generally and go as far as circumstances required: State v. Clem, 49 Wash. 273.

Evidence offered by the accused concerning his family and of whom it consisted is properly excluded when it would only distract the attention of the jury from the issue: Id.

Upon a prosecution for homicide, evidence that the defendant, had never before been arrested or accused is inadmissible to establish his general reputation for peace and quiet: State v. Marfaudille, 48 Wash. 117.

REPUTATION OR CHARACTER OF DECEASED: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1390, § 41; Id., p. 1394, § 60; State v. Cushing, 17 Wash. 544; State v. Lattin, 19 Wash. 57; State v. Crawford, 31 Wash. 260; State v. Ellis, 30 Wash. 369.

Evidence of the dangerous character of the deceased not admissible where there is no evidence tending to show an assault or threatened assault on his part: Smith v. United States, 1 W. T. 262.

In a prosecution for homicide it is not competent to show the peaceable disposition or character of deceased, or good reputation, unless assailed by the defense, although proof of good character of defendant may have been put in evidence: State v. Eddon, 8 Wash. 292.

WITNESSES, DEFENDANT AS.—If the prisoner testifies upon the trial, he subjects himself to the rules controlling other witnesses: Thompson v. Territory, 1 W. T. 548.

Instructions, see notes to § 2158, infra.

In a prosecution for forgery, where defendant testified that he had spent part of the money obtained after arrival at V. in payment of the prosecuting witness' obligations, it is proper to ask on cross-examination if he had not gambled it away en route to V., and whether he had not so stated to a certain person: State v. Hill, 45 Wash. 694.

Where the evidence in a prosecution for murder tends to show that the person who committed the crime had worn a certain pair of rubber boots at the time, and the defendant testifies that he cannot get the boots upon his feet and makes apparently extraordinary effort to put them on in the presence of the jury, it is not error to allow a shoemaker to measure defendant's feet and the boots and testify that a foot of defendant's size could wear the boot; nor is it improper to call other witnesses to put the boots on in the presence of the jury, and allow the shoemaker, after measuring their feet, to testify that he finds them as large as defendant's: State v. Nordstrom, 7 Wash. 506.

HUSBAND OR WIFE AS WITNESS.—In an action by a husband for the seduction of his wife, she cannot testify except with the consent of the husband: Speck v. Gray, 14 Wash. 589.

Bigamy is not an offense committed by one spouse against another; hence the first wife is not a competent witness in a prosecution against the husband under Balinger's Code, § 1214, disqualifying a wife except in prosecutions for a crime committed by one spouse against another: State v. Kniffen, 44 Wash. 485.

INTERPRETER AS WITNESS.—When an interpreter is necessary in the trial of a criminal case, he should be neither a witness nor an interested party: State v. Thompson, 14 Wash. 285.

It is no objection to the competency of the interpreter that he was subpoenaed as a witness, when it appears that he was subpoenaed for the purpose of having him available as an interpreter: State v. Michel, 20 Wash. 162.

OPINIONS, ETC.: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 786, 787, §§ 147-154; State v. Gates, 28 Wash. 689; State v. Anderson, 30 Wash. 14; State v. Stockhammer, 34 Wash. 262; State v. Rutledge, 37 Wash. 523; State v. Melvern, 32 Wash. 7; State v. Cushing, 17 Wash. 544; State v. Falsetta, 43 Wash. 159.

A witness in a murder trial testified that defendant said that "unless someone paid him he would take his life," and added,

"I often thought of what he said at the saloon, and one day, while in my room, I said to myself, 'My God! he said he would kill that man, and he did it'"; held incompetent as expression of opinion of defendant's guilt: State v. Coella, 3 Wash. 99.

The refusal of the court to permit an answer to a question, which merely asks for a conclusion of the witness, is not error: State v. Coella, 8 Wash. 512.

Where defendant charged with murder attempts to prove an alibi by testifying that he was in a certain saloon on the night of the murder, and the state places the saloon-keeper on the stand to rebut defendant's proof, and, for the purpose of proving that the witness had a real recollection that the defendant was not there, rather than a mere absence of recollection as to whether or not he had visited the saloon, it is not error when there is no other objection than the leading character of the question, for the saloon-keeper to testify that he knew on the day following the crime that defendant was suspected by the people of his locality: State v. Nordstrom, 7 Wash. 507.

If a witness has denied having a conversation with certain persons, in which he refused to tell where defendant was concealed for fear defendant would kill him, it is incompetent as hearsay evidence to allow such person to testify that the witness said, "he could not tell where the defendant was, for the Italians who were the friends of the defendant would kill him": State v. Coella, supra.

EXPERTS: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 787, §§ 155-159; State v. Gates, 28 Wash. 689; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514; State v. Melvern, 32 Wash. 7; State v. Underwood, 35 Wash. 558.

The testimony of nonexpert witness as to his opinion of defendant's sanity is inadmissible, unless he has first testified as to acts and conduct within his own knowledge which led him to form an opinion in the matter: State v. Brooks, 4 Wash. 328.

Expert testimony is inadmissible for the purpose of showing the effects upon the veracity of a witness occasioned by the daily use by him of a certain quantity of morphine: State v. Robinson, 12 Wash. 491.

The testimony of an opium consumer, while unreliable, is competent, but juries should be cautioned as to the credence to be given to it: State v. White, 10 Wash. 611.

IMPEACHING, ETC.—Statements of a witness, made out of court, cannot be offered in evidence to impeach his testimony, unless his attention be first directed to the time, place and person involved in the supposed contradiction: Thompson v. Territory, 1 W. T. 547.

It is not error to allow impeaching testimony when a witness has been asked if he had any conversation with a certain person at a given saloon in the month of July in reference to the case, and if he did not at that time make certain statements, which the counsel repeated and which the witness denied that he made, as the witness' attention must have been so directed to the particular statements in regard to which he was interrogated that he was in no way prejudiced, although the exact time was not called to his attention: State v. Walters, 7 Wash. 246.

If it is sought to impeach a witness by proof that the testimony given by him on the trial as to a certain matter was at variance with the statement made by him prior to the trial, the evidence of others who heard his statement is admissible, in rebuttal of the impeaching testimony: State v. Manville, 8 Wash. 523.

A witness may be asked on cross-examination, in order to impeach her credibility, whether she is a prostitute, and it is error to sustain an objection thereto, unless she claims the privilege of refusing to answer on the ground of criminating herself: State v. Coella, 3 Wash. 99.

Proof that defendant in a criminal prosecution has formerly been confined in a county jail is irrelevant; and a former conviction of a witness for the commission of a misdemeanor cannot be proved for the purpose of affecting his credibility: State v. Payne, 6 Wash. 563. See, also, State v. Gottfreedson, 24 Wash. 398.

Evidence tending to establish a different state of facts from that testified to by a witness is not such impeaching testimony as will permit the introduction of testimony in rebuttal to sustain the witness who has been contradicted: State v. Nelson, 13 Wash. 523.

Exclusion of impeaching testimony is not prejudicial error when the facts to which the witness has testified are testified to by a number of other witnesses: State v. Holmes, 12 Wash. 169.

Proof of the reason why the state does not, in a second trial, call a witness who testified for the state upon a former trial is immaterial: State v. Coella, supra.

Evidence of the reputation of a witness for truth and veracity in a city five or six miles from his residence may be shown in rebuttal of evidence attacking his character in that respect, where he does business in such city and has acquired a reputation for truth and veracity therein: State v. Cushing, 14 Wash. 527.

In a prosecution for rape where the prosecutrix is uncorroborated except by her evident condition of pregnancy, it is prejudicial error to exclude evidence offered by the defendant tending to show that, at the time of the alleged acts and while she was a member of his household, the prosecutrix was habitually away at night from 12 to 4 o'clock, as tending to account for her condition and reflecting upon her credibility: State v. Mobley, 44 Wash. 549.

EXCLUSION OF: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 803, § 223; State v. Armstrong, 37 Wash. 51; State v. Dalton, 43 Wash. 278; State v. Ilomaki, 40 Wash. 629.

If a witness for defendant in a criminal prosecution remains in the courtroom and hears the other witnesses testify, after an order for the separation of witnesses, defendant, if without fault, is entitled to the testimony of such witness, but the fact may be commented on to the jury as affecting witness' credibility: State v. Lee Doon, 7 Wash. 308; and it is not incumbent on defendant under such circumstances, in order to avoid the exclusion of his witnesses, to show that his evidence is material: Id.

See supra, § 1212, exclusion of witnesses, effect of.

Testimony, as to threats made by accused, is admissible even though general in character: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1390, § 43; State v. Nichols, 28 Wash. 628; State v. Crawford, 31 Wash. 260.

THREATS MADE BY DECEASED against defendant in a prosecution for murder, whether uncommunicated or made directly to defendant, are admissible upon the question whether or not deceased was the first assailant and whether or not he so acted at the time of the shooting as to induce in the mind of defendant an honest belief that deceased intended to kill him or do him great bodily harm: State v. Cushing, 14 Wash. 527; White v. Territory, 3 W.

T. 397; but are inadmissible where it is clear that the threats could have had no possible effect on his mind, so far as creating a fear of the other person is concerned, and that his assault was not made in self-defense: State v. McGonigle, 14 Wash. 594; distinguishing State v. Coella, 3 Wash. 99; see Leonard v. Territory, 2 W. T. 381.

Evidence of threats or of the dangerous character of deceased is inadmissible until there has been proof made of an overt act of attack on the part of the deceased, and that defendant's life was in apparent imminent danger therefrom: State v. Cushing, 17 Wash. 544.

Evidence of statements of the deceased, communicated to the defendant, as to his intention to enter upon land at all hazards, is admissible upon an issue as to self-defense: State v. Lattin, 19 Wash. 57.

DELIBERATION AND PREMEDITATION: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1389, §§ 37-39; Id., p. 1398, § 77; State v. Webster, 21 Wash. 63; State v. Weisenberg, 42 Wash. 426; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514; State v. Crawford, 31 Wash. 260.

Evidence of, on the question of murder in the first degree, sufficient to go to the jury is given by testimony that the accused, after some trouble with a person, went to a barn several hundred feet away, armed himself, and returning, deliberately fired upon such person or a man mistaken for him: State v. McGonigle, 14 Wash. 594.

§ 2153. (7232.) Proof of Marriage in Adultery, Bigamy, etc.

A recorded certificate of marriage, or a certified copy thereof, there being no decree of divorce, proves the marriage of a person for the purposes of this chapter. [L. '95, p. 372, § 5.]

"This chapter," L. '95, chapter 149, relating to incest, adultery and bigamy: See infra, § 2889 et seq.

§ 2154. (7117.) Receiving Stolen Property—Averments and Proof Necessary.

In any prosecution for the offense of buying, receiving, or aiding in the concealment of stolen property, money, or goods, known to have been stolen, or for bringing or aiding in bringing into this state any such property, money or goods, known to have been stolen, it shall not be necessary to aver, nor on the trial thereof to prove, that the person who stole such property has been convicted, nor that the larceny of such property, nor that any conspiracy or agreement between the defendant and any other person or persons concerning the stealing, buying, receiving, concealing, or bringing of such stolen property, was committed or entered into within the jurisdiction of the court trying the case. [Cf. L. '54, p. 84, § 50; Cd. '81, § 850; L. '90, p. 129, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 69.]

§ 2155. Corroborating Evidence in Case of Rape or Seduction.

No conviction shall be had for the offense of rape, or seduction, in this state upon the testimony of the female raped, or seduced, unless it is corroborated by such other evidence as tends to convict the defendant of the commission of the offense. [L. '07, p. 396, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2443. See note to §§ 2253 and 2301.

There is sufficient corroborative evidence, within the meaning of this section, where, in addition to evidence of similar acts during several years, circumstances and conditions showing opportunity at the time in question, and testimony of a physician establishing the fact of intercourse for a considerable period, it appeared that the defendant advised his wife to induce the prosecuting witness to leave the state, and his admissions showed that he had often taken liberties with the person of the prosecutrix: State v. Jonas, 48 Wash. 133.

Evidence of complaint made by the prosecutrix, soon after a rape, is admissible only as corroborative proof that the complainant was raped, and it is not such corroboration as "tends to convict the defendant of the commission of the offense," within the requirement of this section, since some substantial fact or circumstance independent of the statement of the prosecutrix is required: State v. Stewart, 52 Wash. 61.

Instructions singling out complaint made, when erroneous: Id.

§ 2156. (6944.) Variance as to Ownership of Property.

In the prosecution of any offense committed upon or in relation to or in any way effecting any real estate, or any offense committed in stealing, embezzling, destroying, injuring, or fraudulently receiving or concealing any money, goods, or other personal estate, it shall be sufficient, and shall not be deemed variance, if it be proved on trial that, at the time when such offense was committed, either the actual or constructive possession, or the general or special property, in the whole or any part of such real or personal estate, was in the person or community alleged in the indictment or other accusation to be the owner thereof. [L. '54, p. 99, § 133; Cd. '81, § 963; 2 H. C., § 1377.]

See supra, § 2076, variance as to ownership of property, when.

Cited in 6 Wash. 189; 35 Wash. 134.

Ownership, possession, or custody of property: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1485, § 99; State v. Fair, 35 Wash. 127; State v. Smith, 40 Wash. 615; State v. Wilson, 42 Wash. 56.

If the actual or constructive possession of a building is in a person alleged in the information for arson to be the owner, it is no variance if it be proved on the trial that he was in such possession at the time of the offense, although the actual ownership be shown to be in another: State v. Biles, 6 Wash. 186.

§ 2157. (6945.) Truth of Matter Charged as Libel a Defense.

In prosecution for libel, the truth thereof may be given in evidence to the jury, and if it appear to them that the matter charged as libelous was a crime punishable by a fine or imprisonment, and was true, and that the same was published with good motives and justifiable ends, the defendant shall be acquitted. [Cf. L. '69, p. 384, § 3; L. '79, p. 144, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1233; 2 H. C., § 1378.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to § 2253.

See supra, § 292, requisites of pleading in civil action.

See supra, § 2070, sufficiency of charge in libel.

§ 2158. (6946.) Court to Decide Questions of Law, Rules of Practice.

The court shall decide all questions of law which shall arise in the course of the trial, and the trial shall be conducted in the same manner as in civil actions. [Cf. L. '54, p. 119, § 111; Cd. '81, § 1088; L. '91, p. 60, § 70; 2 H. C., § 1310.]

See supra, § 339, and notes, manner of conducting jury trials in civil cases.

See supra, § 351, what may be taken to jury-room.

See supra, Title III, chapter 7, exceptions.

See Const., Art. IV, § 16, "judges shall not charge juries with respect to matters of fact nor comment thereon, but shall declare the law."

See infra, § 2167, and notes, duty to define degrees of offense.

See infra, § 2175, trial of question of insanity by jury; infra, § 2259, insanity no defense; and infra, § 2283, determination of insanity by court and medical experts.

Counsel for prosecution: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 798, §§ 206, 207; State v. Hawkins, 27 Wash. 375; State v. Hoshor, 26 Wash. 643.

Where private counsel of the state dental board assisted in prosecutions instituted by the board, it will be presumed that the prosecuting attorney consented thereto: Stern v. State Board of Dental Examiners, 50 Wash. 100.

It is within the discretion of the court to allow special counsel to aid the prosecuting attorney in the prosecution of a case, and such discretion will only be interfered with upon a showing of an abuse thereof: State v. Elswood, 15 Wash. 453.

Errors arising upon a ruling in regard to the right of argument cannot be urged upon appeal after waiver at the trial: State v. Ackles, 8 Wash. 462.

Query: Whether defendant by waiving argument, after the opening argument has been made, can cut off plaintiff's closing argument? Id.

Under § 339, supra, the accused has no option to refuse to state his defense upon the close of the plaintiff's case: State v. King, 50 Wash. 312.

Time for sessions and adjournments: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 799, § 211; State v. Craemer, 12 Wash. 217; State v. McCann, 16 Wash. 249; State v. Ripley, 32 Wash. 182.

ARGUMENTS AND CONDUCT OF COUNSEL: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 805-807, §§ 235-244; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514; State v. Hawkins, 27 Wash. 375; State v. Stentz, 30 Wash. 134; State v. Patchen, 37 Wash. 24; State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540; State v. Armstrong, 37 Wash. 51; State v. Wong Tung Hee, 41 Wash. 623; State v. Costello, 29 Wash. 366; State v. Ulsemer, 24 Wash. 657; State v. Smokalem, 37 Wash. 91.

The mere calling attention to how the defendant looks by the prosecuting attorney in his argument to the jury does not overstep the limits of fair debate and constitute prejudicial misconduct: State v. Bokien, 14 Wash. 403; and no valid objection can be made to remarks of counsel on evidence that has been admitted by the court, although it was improperly admitted: Id.

Remarks of the prosecuting attorney, apparently of a character amounting to misconduct on his part, will not warrant a reversal, when the record is fragmentary and indefinite on the subject and does not disclose under what circumstances the remarks were tendered: State v. Young, 13 Wash. 584.

The action of the court in allowing leading questions is a matter so largely within its discretion as to call for the interference of the appellate court only in extreme cases: State v. Elswood, supra.

As to right of counsel to read law to the jury, see State v. Coella, 3 Wash. 99, 116.

It is not reversible error for the prosecuting attorney to read a correct copy of the evidence to the jury, where the court at the time instructed that the jury were the exclusive judges of what the testimony was: State v. Churchill, 52 Wash. 210.

Although incompetent questions are asked by prosecuting attorney, for the purpose of prejudicing the jury against the accused, the refusal of the court to rebuke the attorney is not error, when, at the time objection thereto is taken, the court states to the jury that "they are to give no weight to that testimony which is ruled out": State v. Manville, 8 Wash. 523.

In a prosecution for seduction, in which three witnesses for the defendant testified that they previously had had sexual intercourse with the prosecutrix, it is an abuse of discretion and prejudicial error, depriving the defendant of a fair trial, to permit cross-examination to proceed to the extent of asking whether one of such witnesses had broken an engagement with another woman, whether one of them had been accused of bastardy, and allowing questions implying that they had had sexual intercourse with other women: State v. Belknap, 44 Wash. 605.

Refusal of the court upon its own motion to permit defendant's counsel in a murder case to ask a witness on cross-examination whether he is testifying by guess or by his own knowledge is prejudicial error, when the case is close to the border line between murder and manslaughter, and the witness was careless in his manner of testifying, often using the words "I guess," when rehearsing statements of fact: State v. Rutten, 13 Wash. 203.

The fact that the court asked counsel for defendant, in the presence of the jury, whether they had any objection to the separation of the jury before verdict, is not ground for reversal, in the absence of any proof that defendant was prejudiced thereby: State v. Holedger, 15 Wash. 443.

In the trial of a murder case, an exhibition on the part of the court, in the presence of the jury, of strong feeling against counsel for defense, culminating in a fine for contempt, occasioned merely by counsel's insisting on a right to be heard concerning an objection to the relevancy of the question propounded upon examination is such misconduct of the court as to constitute prejudicial error: State v. White, 10 Wash. 611.

A motion requiring the prosecution in a criminal case to call certain specified persons, who are alleged to have equal or superior knowledge of the facts with the witnesses already called by the prosecution, is a matter addressed to the discretion of the trial court, and its ruling thereto will not be disturbed unless a clear abuse of discretion is shown: State v. Payne, 10 Wash. 545.

Under § 351, supra, and the rule of liberal construction prescribed by § 144, supra, it was not error to permit the jury to take to their room a hat and blood-stained garments that had been admitted in evidence, and by necessary implication § 2181, infra, authorizes the court to permit such evidence to be taken to the jury-room: Doctor Jack v. Territory, 2 W. T. 101.

The distinction between an exhibit and the testimony of a witness, whether oral or in writing, pointed out: Id.

The jury is the tribunal instituted by law to pass upon questions of fact, and, where there is a conflict of testimony, the verdict will not be disturbed: State v. Manville, 8 Wash. 523.

When there is evidence tending to show every fact necessary to establish the guilt of defendant, the court is not warranted in taking the case from the jury: State v. Elswood, supra.

CONDUCT OF TRIAL IN GENERAL.—

Presence and conduct of witnesses, bystanders, or of others under indictment: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 799-801, §§ 214-219; State v. Dalton, 43 Wash. 278; State v. Anderson, 20 Wash. 193; State v. McGilvery, 20 Wash. 240; State v. Eubank, 33 Wash. 293; State v. Hyde, 22 Wash. 551; State v. Mann, 39 Wash. 144.

Error cannot be assigned on failing to grant a motion to view premises in a prosecution for a homicide, when the court delayed ruling "until later in the case," no exception was then taken, and the motion was not renewed, nor anything further done except the noting of an exception after the jury was instructed and had retired: State v. Fillpot, 51 Wash. 223.

Province of the court and jury—Questions of law or fact, weight and effect of, and inferences from, evidence, degree of offense: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 807, 808, §§ 247-253; State v. Cushing, 17 Wash. 544; State v. Crawford, 31 Wash. 260; State v. Eubank, 33 Wash. 293; State v. Yourex, 30 Wash. 611; State v. Boyse, 24 Wash. 514.

Direction of verdict: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 808, § 254; State v. O'Hara, 17 Wash. 525; State v. McCullum, 18 Wash. 394; State v. Hyde, 22 Wash. 551; State v. Eubank, 33 Wash. 293; State v. Stockhammer, 34 Wash. 262.

If defendant interposes a motion for a directed verdict in his favor, at the close of plaintiff's case, it is the duty of the court to deny it unless from a superficial examination it appears that the evidence is clearly insufficient to sustain the charge: State v. Wilson, 10 Wash. 402.

Scope of evidence—In chief: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 803, §§ 228, 229; State v. Kasper, 5 Wash. 174; State v. Burton, 27 Wash. 528; State v. Ripley, 32 Wash. 182; State v. Carpenter, 32 Wash. 254; State v. Fetterly, 33 Wash. 599; State v. Armstrong, 37 Wash. 51; State v. McPhail, 39 Wash. 199.

The order of admitting proof, before establishment of the corpus delicti, is within the discretion of the trial court: State v. Gohl, 46 Wash. 408.

Admission in rebuttal of evidence proper in chief—Reopening case for further evidence: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 804, §§ 230, 231; State v. Nelson, 13 Wash. 523; State v. Druxinman, 34 Wash. 257; State v. Sexton, 37 Wash. 110; State v. Constantine, 43 Wash. 102.

It is error to refuse to allow the defendant to contradict substantive evidence offered by the state as impeaching evidence, but which should have been introduced as part of the state's case in chief: State v. Constantine, 48 Wash. 218.

Objections to evidence—Waiver, time, sufficiency: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 805, §§ 232-234; State v. Yourex, 30 Wash. 611; State v. Melvern, 32 Wash. 7; State v. Douette, 31 Wash. 6.

Remarks and conduct of judge: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 800, §§ 215-217; State v. Burns, 19 Wash. 52; State v. Coates, 22 Wash. 601; State v. Surry, 23 Wash. 655; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514; State v. Eubank, 33 Wash. 293; State v. Glinde-man, 34 Wash. 221; State v. Hyde, 20 Wash. 234; State v. Crotts, 22 Wash. 245; State v. Pasquale, 39 Wash. 260; State v. Priest, 32 Wash. 74.

CHARGING JURY.—Remarks of court, etc. See supra, § 339, notes, on instructions; etc.

Subdivision 6 of § 339, supra, requires the court, in charging the jury, to state to them all matters of law necessary for their information in finding a verdict, with only such allusions to the evidence as may be necessary; but the court oversteps the bounds of a legal charge, though telling them the facts are for their decision alone, where, under the guise of an illustration of the meaning of circumstantial evidence, it devotes a long oral charge to an argument of the very facts of the case, taking up the material constituents of the territory's case, dovetailing the facts together, and deducing and announcing a conclusion to the jury: Freidrich v. Territory, 2 Wash. 358.

The fact that the court explains to the jury the nature and legal effect of defendant's plea is not open to the objection that it is a judicial comment on the facts instead of the law: State v. Carter, 15 Wash. 121.

The remark of the court to the jury preliminary to instructing them, that "you will be left to the determination between the demands of public justice and the defense of the prisoner at the bar," does not authorize the inference that public justice demands the defendant's conviction, and is not error: State v. Brooks, 4 Wash. 328.

The remark of the trial judge, while attempting to convey to the minds of the jury that it is not necessary to prove that a crime was committed on the exact day alleged in the information, that "it is only necessary to allege the date in order to identify the crime," does not assume that a crime has been committed: State v. Walters, 7 Wash. 246. See, also, State v. Straub, 16 Wash. 111.

Where the court, in excluding as exhibits in evidence certain boxes filled with dirt in which appeared impressions made by the feet of horses, referred thereto as "manufactured testimony," the language must be construed as applying to the manner in which the exhibit had been manufactured, and not to the course of the defense in conducting the cause: State v. Meyers, 12 Wash. 77.

Where the state's evidence fixed the date of an offense as being between the 12th and 15th of a certain month, and upon the defense of an alibi there was evidence that the defendant was home, sick in bed, during that period, it is misleading and error, instructing upon the subject of the alibi, to state that the exact date is immaterial and it is sufficient if the defendant committed the crime at any time within three years, etc.: State v. King, 50 Wash. 312.

Instructions invading province of jury—Comments on facts and evidence, assumptions, etc.: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 809-811, §§ 255-268; State v. Mitchell, 22 Wash. 64; State v. Vance, 29 Wash. 435; State v. Fenton, 30 Wash. 325; State v. Eubank, 33 Wash. 293; State v. Detherage, 35 Wash. 326; State v. McCann, 16 Wash. 249; State v. Carey, 15 Wash. 549; State v. Gates, 28 Wash. 689; State v. Howard, 33 Wash. 250; State v. Straub, 16 Wash. 111; State v. Stentz, 33 Wash. 444; State v. Manderville, 37 Wash. 365; State v. Williams, 36 Wash. 143; State v. Newton, 29 Wash. 373; State v. McPhail, 39 Wash. 199.

An instruction defining what would be employing an armed body of men, and authorizing the jury to find the defendant guilty if they believed that he committed specified acts constituting the offense within the definition, is not objectionable as a comment on the facts: State v. Gohl, 46 Wash. 108.

Instruction stating the evidence which had been introduced by the parties in support of their claims is a comment on the facts, and reversible error, if prejudicial: Id.

An instruction assuming as a fact that defendant had fled is not an unlawful comment on the evidence, where the defendant admitted and himself testified to the fact: State v. Belknap, 44 Wash. 605.

Requests for instructions: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 823, 824, §§ 313-318; State v. Johnson, 19 Wash. 410; State v. Douette, 31 Wash. 6; State v. Armstrong, 37 Wash. 51; State v. Weisenberger, 42 Wash. 426; State v. Messner, 43 Wash. 206; Smith v. United States, 1 W. T. 262; State v. Freidrich, 4 Wash. 204; State v. Murphy, 13 Wash. 229; State v. Webb, 20 Wash. 500; State v. Clark, 34 Wash. 485; State v. Wilson, 42 Wash. 56; State v. Rutten, 13 Wash. 203; State v. Cushing, 17 Wash. 544; State v. McCann, 16 Wash. 249; State v. Klein, 19 Wash. 368; State v. Vance, 29 Wash. 435; State v. Baldwin, 15 Wash. 15; State v. Anderson, 30 Wash. 14; State v. Churchill, 52 Wash. 210.

INSTRUCTIONS, GENERAL PRINCIPLES: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 812-823, §§ 270-312.

The jury are to be charged collectively, and not individually: State v. Robinson, 12 Wash. 191; State v. Williams, 13 Wash. 335; State v. Cushing, 17 Wash. 544; State v. Armstrong, 37 Wash. 51.

An instruction is not erroneous for the reason that it does not state all the elements necessary to warrant a conviction, if, taken in connection with what was said in immediate connection therewith, the law is fully stated: State v. Wilson, 9 Wash. 16, 21.

The attempt to define a crime is erroneous, if any of the essential elements thereof be omitted or any legal defense to which defendant is entitled ignored, and such omission is not cured by reason of other portions of the charge correctly stating the law: McClaine v. Territory, 1 Wash. 345, 353; citing People v. Wong Ah Ngow, 54 Cal. 151.

In charging the jury, when so requested, the court must define terms such as "malice" and "premeditation" in stating the statutory requisites of a crime: State v. Coella, 3 Wash. 99.

It is not error in instructing that it is the duty of the jury to give proper weight to the testimony of each witness to fail to give any definition of the meaning of proper weight: State v. Druxinman, 34 Wash. 257.

It is not error to refuse a request for instructions relative to a lesser degree of the offense charged, when there is no evidence tending to establish it: Smith v. United States, 1 W. T. 262.

See infra, § 2167, and notes, duty to define degrees of offense.

If the court in charging the jury reads the statute under which the information was drawn, the complete sense of which cannot be determined except by reading the whole thereof, inclusive of the penalty attached to the offense, it is not error: State v. John Port Townsend, 7 Wash. 462.

Subdivision 4 of § 339, supra, makes it reversible error for the court to refuse an instruction which is pertinent and consistent with the law and evidence, provided the refusal has worked an injury to the party requesting, but this would be the law without the statute: State v. Freidrich, 4 Wash. 204, 214. But if already given it need not be repeated: Leonard v. Territory, 2 W. T. 381.

It is not error to refuse an instruction defining and explaining circumstantial evidence in scientific legal terms drawn from text-writers, when an instruction given covers the material points in plainer language: State v. Freidrich, supra. Nor to refuse to give requested instructions when the court has fully and correctly stated the law of the case in the charge given: State v. Murphy, 13 Wash. 229; and see State v. Ruten, 13 Wash. 203; State v. Baldwin, 15 Wash. 15.

And if an instruction in a case is asked, which refers to facts of which there is no evidence to prove, it is error to give it: Miller v. Territory, 3 W. T. 554. If misleading, however, the judgment will be reversed: Id.; State v. Jones, 3 Wash. 175.

An instruction which does not correspond with the law is erroneous and should be refused: Leonard v. Territory, supra.

It is not error to refuse a charge containing abstract propositions not bearing upon the case at issue: Yelm Jim v. Territory, 1 W. T. 63; State v. Cushing, 17 Wash. 544.

In the prosecution of a police officer for shooting a person whom he suspected of having committed a crime and whom he was attempting to arrest, an instruction by the court on the right to arrest without warrant is not erroneous on the ground of being inapplicable to the evidence in the case: State v. Surry, 23 Wash. 655.

Construction of charge as a whole—Error cured by withdrawal or giving other instructions: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 822, §§ 311, 312; State v. Carter, 15 Wash. 121; State v. Crawford, 31 Wash. 260; State v. Surry, 23 Wash. 655; State v. Riddell, 33 Wash. 324; State v. Manderville, 37 Wash. 365; State v. Clark, 34 Wash. 485.

In a criminal prosecution, in which the only testimony introduced is on the part of the state, and there is no substantial conflict in that, but the proofs conclusively show the guilt of the defendant, errors committed in charging the jury are without prejudice: State v. Witherow, 15 Wash. 562.

It is not error for the judge, in charging the jury, to mention as a fact a thing which has been proved beyond all controversy: Edwards v. Territory, 1 W. T. 195.

The court may, after the return of the jury with its verdict, but before its reception, correct a mere erroneous instruction, and send the jury back for further deliberation: Doctor Jack v. Territory, 2 W. T. 101.

It is error for the court, in a criminal case, upon the request of the jury, but in the absence of the defendant, to repeat to the jury certain instructions given and orally explain the meaning thereof, although defendant's attorney was present and made no objection: Linbeck v. State, 1 Wash. 336. But see State v. Yourex, 30 Wash. 611.

The fact that oral instructions were given to the jury in the absence of defendant cannot be urged on appeal when it does not appear from the record what the instructions were, nor from any source that they were prejudicial, nor that the matter was called to the attention of the court upon a motion for a new trial: State v. Nichols, 15 Wash. 1.

Objections to instructions cannot be made in the appellate court unless excepted to below: Smith v. United States, 1 W. T. 262.

The refusal of the court to allow counsel to except orally in the presence of the jury to the instructions given is not error: State v. Coella, 8 Wash. 512.

Although there is no exception to the whole or a part of the charge on the ground that it is an argument upon the facts, yet, in a capital case, if there is prejudicial error, patent upon the face of the record, denying the accused a fair and impartial trial, these technical objections will not deprive defendant of a new trial: Freidrich v. Territory, 2 Wash. 358.

Where an instruction is a requested one, with only slight modifications made by the court, a general exception to the refusal as requested is insufficient, as the exception should be to the modification of the instruction: State v. Robinson, 12 Wash. 491.

Sufficiency of instructions as to corpus delicti, intent and malice, deliberation and premeditation, insanity: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 812, §§ 270-274; Id., p. 1404, § 101; State v. Burton, 27 Wash. 528; State v. Dolan, 17 Wash. 499; State v. Surry, 23 Wash. 655; State v. Straub, 16 Wash. 111; State v. Gin Pon, 16 Wash. 425; State v. Moody, 18 Wash. 165; State v. Hawkins, 23 Wash. 289; State v. Romano, 41 Wash. 241; State v. Williams, 36 Wash. 143; State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339.

Sufficiency of instructions as to intoxication, alibi, character: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 813, §§ 275-277; State v. Hawkins, 23 Wash. 289; State v. Burton, 27 Wash. 528; State v. Cushing, 17 Wash. 544; State v. Stentz, 33 Wash. 444; State v. Underwood, 35 Wash. 558.

Sufficiency of instructions as to presumptions and burden of proof: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 814, 815, §§ 278-284; State

v. Melvern, 32 Wash. 7; State v. Stentz, 33 Wash. 444; State v. Cushing, 17 Wash. 544; State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540; State v. Nichols, 15 Wash. 1; State v. Williams, 36 Wash. 143; State v. Dolan, 17 Wash. 499; State v. Romano, 41 Wash. 241; State v. Power, 24 Wash. 34; State v. Hoshor, 26 Wash. 643.

Sufficiency of instructions as to declarations of conspirators and codefendants, and testimony of accomplices: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 815, §§ 285, 286; State v. Johnny Tommy, 19 Wash. 270; State v. Coates, 22 Wash. 601; State v. Concannon, 25 Wash. 327; State v. Pearson, 37 Wash. 405; State v. Harras, 25 Wash. 416.

Sufficiency and requisites of instructions as to grade or degree of offense: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 819, § 297; State v. Dolan, 17 Wash. 499; State v. Young, 22 Wash. 273; State v. Dengel, 24 Wash. 49; State v. Fenton, 30 Wash. 795; State v. Bailey, 31 Wash. 89; State v. McPhail, 39 Wash. 199; State v. Lindgrind, 33 Wash. 440; State v. Underwood, 35 Wash. 558.

Error cannot be predicated upon the failure of the court to instruct the jury as to lesser offenses included in the charge, in the absence of specific requests therefor: State v. Parsons, 44 Wash. 299.

Written instructions—Form and language—Repetition: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 820, §§ 300-302; State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339; State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540; State v. Cushing, 17 Wash. 544; State v. Harras, 25 Wash. 416; State v. Clark, 34 Wash. 485.

REASONABLE DOUBT: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 818, §§ 292-294. All that is meant by the term "reasonable doubt" is that, considering all the circumstances in the case and all the testimony, both state's and defendant's, the jury must be satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt of the guilt of the defendant: State v. Kasper, 5 Wash. 174, 177.

A reasonable doubt is never an absolute, but always a relative, question. A reasonable doubt for a trial juror is such a doubt as a man of ordinary prudence, sensibility and decision, in determining an issue of like concern to himself as that before the jury to the defendant, would allow to have any influence whatever upon him, or make him pause or hesitate in arriving at his determination: Leonard v. Territory, 2 W. T. 381; criticised in State v. Gile, 8 Wash. 12, 23; see State v. Krug, 12 Wash. 288; State v. Harras, 25 Wash. 416.

Where the court charges the jury that "a doubt, to justify acquittal, must be reasonable, and it must arise from a candid and impartial investigation of all the evidence. If, after considering all the evidence in the case, you can say that you have an abiding conviction of the truth of the charge, then you are satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt, and should convict; if you have not such a conviction, you should acquit," it is not error to refuse an instruction on the same subject: State v. Gile, 8 Wash. 13; see State v. Krug, supra.

An instruction defining a reasonable doubt which is possibly open to the objection that it recognizes the right of the jury to require less positive proof of facts in cases of minor importance than those of a graver nature, is not prejudicial, when the instruction, taken as a whole, defines such doubt as one which would make a man of common prudence pause or hesitate to act thereon: State v. Rosener, 8 Wash. 42; State v. Carpenter, 32 Wash. 254.

The error of instructing a jury that proof beyond a reasonable doubt to warrant a conviction "does not require that the jury should be satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt, of each link of the chain of circumstances relied on to establish defendant's guilt," is not cured by the further instruction, "it is sufficient, if taking the testimony altogether, the jury are satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty": Leonard v. Territory, supra.

Where the court has rightfully and fully instructed the jury upon the question of reasonable doubt, to which no exception was taken, it is not error for the court to refuse an instruction upon the same subject asked for by defendant, although the latter is correct in law: Timmerman v. Territory, 3 W. T. 445.

It is not error to fail to define reasonable doubt in the absence of any request therefor: State v. Johnson, 19 Wash. 410.

DYING DECLARATIONS.—An instruction that dying declarations are to be treated as other evidence in the case is erroneous, as the same weight cannot be given to such testimony as when the witness is subject to cross-examination: State v. Ed-don, 8 Wash. 292; see State v. Powers, 24 Wash. 34.

CREDIBILITY of witnesses: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 816, §§ 287-289; State v. Hawkins, 23 Wash. 289; State v. Hoshor, 26 Wash. 643; see, also, State v. Fenton, 30 Wash. 325; State v. Patchen, 37 Wash. 24; State v. McPhail, 39 Wash. 199; State v. Ilomaki, 40 Wash. 629; State v. Rutledge, 37 Wash. 523. An instruction that "if you believe that any witness has sworn falsely in this case in regard to any material matter to the issue, you should distrust all his evidence," is properly refused. The jury must believe the testimony willfully false, and such instruction should also contain a modification, "except so far as it may be corroborated by other evidence in the case": State v. Freidrich, 4 Wash. 204.

A charge to the jury that they are warranted in disregarding the testimony of any witness if they believe that he has willfully testified falsely to any matter is not prejudicial, when the error of the court in not stating that the falsity should be in a material matter was not raised by the exception taken, nor the court's attention called to the inadvertence at the time: State v. Carter, 15 Wash. 121.

The failure to insert the word "willfully" before "falsely," in charging as to the effect upon the credibility of a witness who has testified falsely as to a material fact, does not constitute reversible error, as a witness does not testify falsely unless he makes a willful misstatement: State v. Kyle, 14 Wash. 550.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.—An instruction to the jury, that the fact that the prisoner does not disprove circumstances proven before them will give additional weight to such circumstances as are proved, if the jury believes the defendant has the means of disproving them if false, is erroneous: Leonard v. Territory, 2 W. T. 382.

An instruction was rightfully refused which was, "when circumstances alone are relied upon for conviction, each and every circumstance must be consistent with the other and with the whole chain; and each must point to the defendant exclusively as the guilty agent, and every link of the chain of circumstances must be so complete and consistent with the guilt of the defendant as to exclude every reasonable hypothesis of his innocence and so perfect and complete as to establish his guilt to a moral certainty": Timmerman v. Territory, 3 W. T. 445; see State v. Myers, 12 Wash. 77.

DEFENDANT AS WITNESS, ETC.: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 817, §§ 290, 291; State v. Ulsemer, 24 Wash. 657; State v. Melvern, 32 Wash. 7. Where the defendant in a criminal prosecution was not sworn as a witness in his own behalf, it is error for the court to fail to instruct that no inference of guilt should be drawn therefrom: Linbeck v. State, 1 Wash. 336; State v. Myers, 8 Wash. 177. See supra, § 2147, and notes.

In charging the jury as to the inference of guilt from defendant's silence, it is not erroneous to employ the words "no inference of guilt should arise in the minds of the jury," instead of the words used in the statute: State v. Krug, 12 Wash. 289.

Although it is proper to charge the jury that they have a right to consider the interest of the accused in the verdict, it is error to distinguish his testimony by further charging that they "are not required to receive blindly the testimony of such accused person as true; but you are to consider whether it is true and made in good faith or only for the purpose of avoiding conviction": State v. White, 10 Wash. 611.

Where a defendant, in a trial for murder, is a witness, it is proper to refuse to instruct: "In criminal cases and especially in cases of homicide, the statements made by defendant are of the utmost and essential importance": State v. Freidrich, 4 Wash. 204.

Where the accused appears as a witness in his own behalf, it is not error to charge that "in case of defendant you have a right to consider the great interest he has in your verdict": State v. Nordstrom, 7 Wash. 506. See supra, § 2147 and notes. See, also, State v. McCann, 16 Wash. 249; State v. Carey, 15 Wash. 549.

An instruction in a criminal trial calling the attention of the jury to the personal appearance and demeanor of defendant during the trial is improper: State v. Freidrich, supra.

If the evidence is of such a nature as to clearly warrant the verdict in a prosecution for murder, it will not be disturbed on account of an erroneous instruction as to the weight to be given to proof of good character of defendant: State v. Wilson, 10 Wash. 402.

It is prejudicial error, in giving an instruction as to an alibi, to preface the same by a remark that the court did not think it necessary, where the credibility of the accused on that point was directly in issue, as the same disparages the defense and infringes upon the province of the jury: State v. King, 50 Wash. 312.

IN PARTICULAR OFFENSES—ARSON. An instruction in a prosecution for arson where death ensues, under Code 1881, § 823, that "you must find from the evidence that the deceased was in the house at the time of the fire; that defendant knew he was there, and that the deceased came to his death in said house by reason of the burning of the house," is erroneous: McClaine v. Territory, 1 Wash. 345.

ASSAULT: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 275, § 16; State v. Dunn, 22 Wash. 67; State v. Surry, 23 Wash. 655. Under an information charging an assault with intent to commit murder in the second degree, it is not error to refuse to charge the jury that before they could find the defendant guilty, they must find that the shooting was done purposely and of his premeditated malice, as premeditation is not an element of the crime charged: State v. Ackles, 8 Wash. 462.

GAMING: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1320, § 14; State v. Fountain, 14 Wash. 236. An instruction held to properly state the law when it charges that it was not necessary that the jury find that the offense was committed upon the specific day charged in the information, but that it was sufficient if they found it was committed on any specific day within one year preceding the filing of the information: State v. Wilson, 9 Wash. 16.

EMBEZZLEMENT: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1022, § 20; State v. Boggs, 16 Wash. 143; State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 75. In charging embezzlement by a public officer for a misuse of public funds, it is not error to charge the jury that the purpose of the statute, under which the prosecution was had, was to restrain public officers from using for their own profit or in any other manner than is authorized and directed by law, the public money intrusted to them for safekeeping: State v. Krug, 12 Wash. 288.

In charging a public officer with embezzlement for the misuse of public funds for his individual profit, it is not error to charge that, if the defendant drew an instrument, signing the same as city treasurer, directing a bank in which money was deposited to the credit of the city to pay a given sum to a certain individual, and that the bank obeyed the direction and charged on its books the money to the city and lessened its credit in said sum, that such was a payment of money, and that the jury should construe the check or instrument merely as the instrumentality by which the city's money was transferred from the possession of the defendant to another, and, if the transfer was a profit, they must find the defendant guilty: Id.

Where a prosecution of a public officer for the embezzlement of public funds is had under § 2812, making the offense a felony, an instruction to the jury based on that theory is not erroneous, although another statute may provide for the punishment of such acts as misdemeanors: State v. Downing, 15 Wash. 413.

LARCENY: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1706-1708, §§ 34-39; State v. Harras, 25 Wash. 416; State v. Eubank, 33 Wash. 293; State v. Phillips, 37 Wash. 364; State v. Washing, 36 Wash. 485; State v. Skilbrick, 25 Wash. 555; State v. Bliss, 27 Wash. 463. In a trial for larceny, an instruction is erroneous which charges that there is no longer any such offense as being an accessory to a felony after the fact, and authorizes the jury to consider, as substantive proof of the crime charged in the indictment, such acts of defendant after its commission as, at common law, would only have tended to show that defendant was an accessory after the fact: State v. Jones, 3 Wash. 175.

LIBEL.—In a prosecution for criminal libel it is not error for the court to charge the jury that "the publisher of a libel is presumed to intend what the publication is likely to produce," although § 2777, infra, defining libel, may omit any reference to the matter of malice or intention constituting an element of the crime: State v. Nichols, 15 Wash. 1.

MAYHEM.—In a prosecution for mayhem for biting off a man's ear, in which the defendant's own testimony showed that he was engaged in a fight with the injured party, that the fight was being waged by such party without the use of weapons and without any attempt on his part to inflict great bodily injury, an instruction that the burden of proof was upon the defendant to show that he could not defend himself from bodily harm without resorting to such acts, while clearly erroneous, cannot be said to be prejudicial: State v. Conahan, 10 Wash. 268.

HOMICIDE: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1402-1409, §§ 90-111. It is not error to refuse to charge that a failure to prove a motive for the commission of the murder alleged would raise a strong presumption of the innocence of the accused: State v. Nordstrom, 7 Wash. 505.

A charge to the jury that if the killing of deceased has been proved beyond a reasonable doubt, the law pronounces such killing murder, is erroneous, although the court may have elsewhere defined murder in first and second degree: State v. White, 10 Wash. 611.

If the theory of the prosecution in trial for murder is that defendant procured, counseled, aided and abetted the killing, and the evidence all tends to support that position, it is error to charge that if the jury believe that defendant fired the fatal shot they may find him guilty: Id.

If the theory of the defense is that, while defendant was defending himself against assault, some person, unsolicited by him, and unknown to him, fired and killed his assailant in his defense, it is error to refuse a request that "if the jury believe from the evidence that the defendant did not procure or incite the person firing such shot to do so, then the jury must find the defendant not guilty": Id.

The refusal to instruct the jury as requested, upon defendant's theory of the case that death had been occasioned by a severe fall and not by the means charged in the information, is not erroneous, when the subject matter is covered by the general charge that, if it is possible to account for the death of the deceased upon any reasonable hypothesis other than that of the guilt of the defendant, it is their duty to do so and find the defendant not guilty, and by the further charge that, if the jury entertain any reasonable doubt upon any single fact or element necessary to constitute the offense, it is their duty to acquit him: State v. Carey, 15 Wash. 549.

An instruction in a murder case, that "in the case of the defendant you have the right to consider the great interest he has in the result of your verdict," is not objectionable on the ground of being a judicial comment upon the evidence: Id.

It is not error for the court to refuse to instruct the jury to find a verdict of not guilty in a prosecution for murder, when the state has proven the killing by defendant of deceased, the weapons used, and the condition in which the body was found, and has shown a motive for the killing: State v. Coella, 8 Wash. 512.

Where the court, in an instruction to the jury, has correctly defined a deadly weapon as one likely to produce death or "great bodily injury," it is not error for the court later in the same instruction to refer to such deadly weapon as one likely to produce death or "injury" upon the complaining witness, as the omission of the words "great bodily" in the second definition is not misleading to the jury nor contradictory of the first definition: State v. Rose-ner, 8 Wash. 42.

Province of court and jury in general: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1402, 1403, §§ 93-98; State v. McCann, 16 Wash. 249; State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540; State v. Yourex, 30 Wash. 611.

Refusal of an instruction defining communicated and uncommunicated threats, in a case of felonious homicide, when prisoner pleads self-defense and evidence tends to show such threats, is error: White v. Territory, 3 W. T. 397.

Whether defendant had time to cool his passions between the quarrel and the killing, a charge that "they must take into consideration the mental power, habits, circumstances and situation in which the defendant was at the time, and the jury must believe beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant under the circumstances did cool his passions before they can find him guilty of murder in the first degree," is erroneous: State v. Holmes, 12 Wash. 170.

In murder causing death by a discharge of a heavily loaded spring-gun, caused by pushing open the door of a dwelling-house, the defendant is not entitled to an instruction that he had an absolute right to set the gun as he did, when there was no one in the dwelling-house whose life could have been endangered by any burglary committed therein: State v. Barr, 11 Wash. 482.

Grade or degree of offense: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1408, 1409, §§ 116-121; State v. Clark, 34 Wash. 485; State v. Young, 22 Wash. 273; State v. Dolan, 17 Wash. 499; State v. Melvern, 32 Wash. 7; State v. McPhail, 39 Wash. 199; State v. Cushing, 17 Wash. 544; State v. Howard, 33 Wash. 250; State v. Lindgrind, 33 Wash. 440; State v. Underwood, 35 Wash. 558; State v. Yourex, 30 Wash. 611.

Held, not error for the court to withhold from the jury instructions relative to manslaughter in a case charging murder, telling them, however, that if, having deliberated, they desire instruction on that subject, the court would so instruct them: Smith v. United States, 1 W. T. 262.

It is not error to refuse a request to instruct to the effect that where one of two combatants kills a third person, who interferes, without reasonable notice, to prevent one of the contestants from killing the other, such killing cannot be murder in the first degree: McAllister v. Territory, 1 W. T. 360.

A request to instruct that if, while two persons are engaged in fighting, a third person assaults one of the combatants and is killed by him, such killing is no more than manslaughter, is properly refused: Id.

Under an information for murder in the second degree, there being no evidence tending to show that the fatal blow was accidental or in self-defense, it was not necessary, in charging the jury, to so qualify the instructions as to meet a case of accident or self-defense: Doctor Jack v. Territory, 2 W. T. 101.

An instruction that does not leave the jury to find that the homicide, if committed, was justifiable or excusable, that does not make malice essential to murder in either degree, nor inform the jury, in order to constitute murder in either degree, that malice, and not merely the killing, must be deliberate and premeditated, does not correspond with the law: Leonard v. Territory, 2 W. T. 382.

If the court has charged that the statements made by the injured party hours after the receipt of his injury are incompetent and inadmissible, but that when statements are made by the injured party in the presence or hearing of defendant, it is the acts, words and conduct of accused, and not statements of deceased, that are evidence, it is not error to refuse to add that "if the injured party, prior to death, is confronted with the defendant and accuses him of having committed the act, and the defendant immediately denies it, the statements of deceased are to be wholly disregarded": State v. Freidrich, 4 Wash. 204.

It seems that an instruction in a prosecution for murder which informs the jury that it is not necessary to constitute murder in the first degree that any appreciable space of time should elapse between the formation of the intention to kill and the killing, but they may be as instantaneous as successive thoughts, is erroneous under our statutes, as it eliminates the element of deliberation which distinguishes murder in the first degree from murder in the second degree: State v. Rutten, 13 Wash. 203.

SELF-DEFENSE: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1407, 1408, §§ 111-114; State v. Ellis, 30 Wash. 369; State v. Stockhammer, 34 Wash. 262; State v. Manderville, 37 Wash. 365; State v. McCann, 16 Wash. 249; State v. Stentz, 33 Wash. 444; State v. Weisenberger, 42 Wash. 426.

The rule of self-defense is, that if a man is placed in such a position that a reasonably prudent man by the circumstances surrounding him, would have in good faith a well-founded belief that his life was in peril, he will be justified in using such means in self-defense, and to such an extent as may fairly appear to be necessary in such defense: White v. Territory, 3 W. T. 397.

An instruction as to the appearance of danger justifying the taking of life approved: Watts v. Territory, 1 W. T. 409.

If the court in the course of a charge to the jury states plainly and emphatically that the defendant might invoke the law of self-defense to protect his life or person from great "bodily harm," it is not prejudicial error to also charge that "there can be no successful setting up of self-defense by a defendant unless to save his own life or his person from dreadful harm or severe calamity": State v. Carter, 15 Wash. 121.

While an instruction may be so inapt as to imply that it was the duty of defendant to have retreated when assaulted, unless it would have been more hazardous to have done so, it cannot be held prejudicial when the jury are also charged "that a person being where he had a right to be and without fault is violently assaulted, may, without retreating, repel force by force": Id.; citing State v. Cushing, 14 Wash. 527.

The fact that the court charges the jury in one place in its instructions that the defendant claims the homicide was in self-defense on the part of defendant, "to prevent death to himself or serious bodily injury," is not prejudicial when other parts of the instructions make it clear that the defendant had the right to act upon apparent, as distinguished from actual, danger: State v. Carter, supra.

An instruction upon self-defense directing the jury to consider "all" the facts and circumstances bearing on the question and surrounding defendant at the time, sufficiently includes defendant's "knowledge derived from personal observation": State v. Churchill, 52 Wash. 210.

INSANITY OR INTOXICATION.—Instructions as to good character, insanity or intoxication: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1406, §§ 105-107; State v. Stentz, 33 Wash. 444; State v. Hawkins, 23 Wash. 289; State v. Clark, 34 Wash. 485; State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339.

Upon the defense of insanity, an instruction is contradictory and misleading where the jury is told that the defendant would not be accountable for his crime if he was suffering from mental disease so complete that every faculty and power of his mind was affected by it, and that in consequence he was not capable of a single sound, healthy mental action, although other instructions favorable to the defendant were given; since it denies to him the defense of partial insanity: State v. Craig, 52 Wash. 66.

The jury should be instructed that the test of defendant's sanity is whether he had sufficient capacity at the time to distinguish between right and wrong with reference to the act charged: Id.

Upon the defense of insanity, the power to choose between right and wrong being a relative question of fact to be determined by the jury, any instruction that invites the jury to go further than to answer the question, Had the accused sufficient capacity at the time to distinguish between right and wrong with reference to the act committed? or that leads the jury into unknown paths, is prejudicially erroneous, even though involved instructions may be regarded as more favorable to the accused than those requested; since he was non compos mentis and entitled to the protection of the law if he did not have the mental power to choose between right and wrong with reference to the act charged, and if such affection was the efficient cause of the act: Id.

POSSESSION OF STOLEN PROPERTY: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1707, § 39; State v. Harras, 25 Wash. 416; State v. Bliss, 27 Wash. 463; State v. Eubank, 33 Wash. 293.

Where defendant requests a charge that "the bare possession of stolen property alone is not sufficient to sustain a verdict of guilty," it is not error, within the constitutional prohibition, to add, "it is only a circumstance tending to show guilt": State v. Duncan, 7 Wash. 336. See State v. Walters, 7 Wash. 246, where the law on this subject is enunciated and instruction criticised.

A charge that possession of recently stolen property, if unexplained, might be taken as conclusive evidence of guilt of accused, is erroneous, where it is not claimed by the prosecution that defendant stole the property, and the only ground of accusation is the possession of the stolen property: State v. Humason, 5 Wash. 499.

RAPE: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 2457, § 35; State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670; State v. Patchen, 37 Wash. 24; State v. Griffin, 43 Wash. 591.

Although an instruction to the jury in the prosecution for an assault with intent to commit rape may improperly charge them, "the law presumes that a person intends all the natural, probable and usual consequences of his acts," still such charge is harmless error when coupled with an admonition to acquit "unless the assault was made under such circumstances as show beyond a reasonable doubt that he intended to accomplish his purpose, at all events, against any resistance which she might offer": State v. Courtemarch, 11 Wash. 446.

In a prosecution for rape it is proper to refuse an instruction cautioning the jury against conviction upon the uncorroborated evidence of the prosecutrix: State v. Mobley, 44 Wash. 549.

ROBBERY.—Upon a prosecution for robbery it is proper to instruct that the degree of force is immaterial if it was sufficient to compel the prosecuting witness to part with his money: State v. Parsons, 44 Wash. 299.

§ 2159. (6947.) Custody of Jury.

Juries in criminal cases shall not be allowed to separate, except by consent of the defendant and the prosecuting attorney, but shall be kept together, without meat or drink, unless otherwise ordered by the court, to be furnished at the expense of the county. [L. '54, p. 119, § 114; Cd. '81, § 1089; 2 H. C., § 1311.]

This section seems to be superseded, except in felony cases, by § 346, supra; and especially as to the last clause.

See supra, § 345, separation of jury in civil cases, admonition.

See supra, § 349, manner of keeping jury while deliberating.

See supra, § 352, return of jury for further instructions.

See supra, § 353, discharge without verdict.

Custody, conduct, and deliberation of jury: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 825, §§ 321-330; State v. Stockhammer, 34 Wash. 262; State v. Rogan, 18 Wash. 43; State v. Barkuloo, 18 Wash. 141; State v. Mason, 19 Wash. 94; State v. Harras, 22 Wash. 67; State v. Johnny Tommy, 19 Wash. 270; State v. Burns, 19 Wash. 52; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514; State v. Cushing, 14 Wash. 527; State v. Yourex, 30 Wash. 611; State v. Webster, 21 Wash. 63; State v. Moody, 18 Wash. 165; State v. McCormick, 20 Wash. 94; State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339; State v. Parker, 25 Wash. 405.

This section is only applicable to juries sworn to try a cause, and not to jurors sworn on their voir dire to answer touching their qualifications to serve, although they may have been passed for cause: State v. Voorhies, 12 Wash. 53.

It is reversible error to allow the jury, in a prosecution of a criminal offense, to separate without the consent of defendant, during the progress of the trial: State v. Place, 5 Wash. 773.

The separation of the jury in capital cases, after final submission and before verdict, is error, though verdict may have been signed and sealed before separation, and defendant's counsel may have consented thereto; the provision of this section only authorizes separation during the progress of the trial: Anderson v. State, 2 Wash. 183.

The fact that the bailiff informed the jury that, if they did not return a verdict by a certain hour, he would keep them locked up all night, does not amount to misconduct when the statement was made, not for the purpose of influencing the jury in their action, but to inform them that it was the intention of the court to go home at that hour, and that, if the verdict was not returned before that time, it could not be till morning: State v. Zettler, 15 Wash. 625.

Defendant cannot afterward complain if he consented to the separation of the jury in a capital case: Hartigan v. Territory, 1 W. T. 447.

Allowing one or more jurors to retire for a necessary purpose under direct supervision of a sworn officer is not a separation of the jury: Edwards v. Territory, 1 W. T. 195.

Misconduct in separating must, under § 401, supra, be shown by affidavit: Lybarger v. State, 2 Wash. 552.

They may take the written charge of the judge, and a copy of the statutes: Edwards v. Territory, 1 W. T. 195; but taking papers or documents not allowed by court, and to the prejudice of the substantial rights of defendant, is ground for a new trial: See § 2181, infra.

§ 2160. (6948.) Court may Order View of Place of Crime.

The court may order a view by any jury impaneled to try a criminal case. [L. '54, p. 120, § 115; Cd. '81, § 1090; 2 H. C., § 1312.]

See supra, § 344, and notes, jury may view premises.

Cited in 18 Wash. 674.

If there is no material controversy with regard to the premises where a homicide has been committed, it is not error to refuse to allow the jury to view the scene: State v. Coella, 8 Wash. 512.

It is not error to allow the jury in a criminal case to view the premises where the alleged crime was committed without the presence of the defendant: State v. Lee Doon, 7 Wash. 308.

The refusal of the court to direct a view of the premises by the jury is not error, when there is no showing of an abuse of the discretion given the trial judge by this section: State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670.

§ 2161. (6949.) Separate Trial.

When two or more defendants are indicted or informed against jointly, any defendant requiring it shall be tried separately. [Cf. L. '54, p. 120, § 116; Cd. '81, § 1091; L. '91, p. 60, § 71; 2 H. C., § 1313.]

See supra, § 2175, trial of question of insanity.

Cited in 19 Wash. 95; 48 Wash. 75.

Under this section a defendant is entitled as of right to a severance up to the assignment of the cause for trial, from which time until the jury is sworn to try the cause the matter of granting a severance is within the discretion of the court: State v. Mason, 19 Wash. 947.

After the jury has been called, it is too late to demand, as a matter of right, separate trials of defendants jointly charged: State v. Bush, 41 Wash. 13.

One jointly indicted has no right to demand that he be jointly tried with his co-defendant, especially where it appears that he was the only real party defendant: State v. Merchant, 48 Wash. 69.

§ 2162. (6950.) Discharging One Defendant to Give Evidence—Effect of.

When two or more persons are included in one prosecution, the court may, at any time before the defendant has gone into his defense, direct any defendant to be discharged, that he may be a witness for the state. A defendant may also, when there is not sufficient evidence to put him on his defense, at any time before the evidence is closed, be discharged by the court, for the purpose of giving evidence for a codefendant. The order of discharge is a bar to another prosecution for the same offense. [L. '54, p. 120, § 117; Cd. '81, § 1092; 2 H. C., § 1314.]

Cited in 2 Wash. 294.

It is not error, under this section, to allow one indicted with the prisoner, but not put upon trial with him, to be used as a witness for the state prior to his discharge: Edwards v. State, 2 Wash. 291.

§ 2163. (6951.) Mistake in Charge, Defendant to be Held, When.

When it appears, at any time before verdict or judgment, that a mistake has been made in charging the proper offense, the defendant shall not be discharged if there appear to be good cause to detain him in custody; but the court must recognize him to answer the offense shown, and if necessary, recognize the witnesses to appear and testify. [L. '54, p. 120, § 118; Cd. '81, § 1093; 2 H. C., § 1315.]

Cited in 10 Wash. 238; 14 Wash. 666.

The only purpose of the proceeding authorized by this section is to allow the filing of a new information covering the actual offense: State v. Hansen, 10 Wash. 235, 238.

The order on motion of the state quashing an information, and for leave to file a new one, will not work a loss of jurisdiction over the person of defendant, although the record does not disclose the grounds of the court's action, but under the recital "The court after having been fully advised in the premises grants said motion," it will be presumed that sufficient cause existed to warrant the action of the court, as under this section, when it appears at any time before judgment that a mistake has been made in charging the proper offense, the defendant shall not be discharged, if there be good cause to detain him, but the court must recognize him to answer the offense shown: Id.; State v. Reiff, 14 Wash. 664.

§ 2164. (6952.) Venue may be Corrected and Action Certified to Proper County.

When it appears, at any time before verdict or judgment, that the defendant is prosecuted in a county not having jurisdiction, the court may order the venue of the indictment or information to be corrected, and direct that all papers and proceedings be certified to the superior court of the proper county, and recognize the defendant and witnesses to appear at such court, on a day specified in the order, and the prosecution shall proceed in the latter court in the same manner as if it had been there commenced. [L. '54, p. 120, § 119; Cd. '81, § 1094; L. '91, p. 60, § 72; 2 H. C., § 1316.]

See supra, § 2012, to be tried in county where crime committed.

§ 2165. (6953.) Discharge of Jury Without Prejudice to Further Prosecution.

When a jury has been impaneled in either case contemplated in the last two preceding sections, such jury may be discharged without prejudice to the prosecution. [L. '54, p. 120, § 120; Cd. '81, § 1095; L. '91, p. 60, § 73; 2 H. C., § 1317.]

§ 2166. (6954.) When Conviction or Acquittal a Bar.

When the defendant has been convicted or acquitted upon an indictment or information of an offense consisting of different degrees, the conviction or acquittal shall be a bar to another indictment or information for the offense charged in the former, or for any lower degree of that offense, or for an offense necessarily included therein. [L. '54, p. 120, § 121; Cd. '81, § 1096; L. '91, p. 60, § 74; 2 H. C., § 1318.]

See supra, § 2113, conviction or acquittal a bar, when.

See infra, § 2316, same subject.

A defendant has been once in jeopardy and cannot be tried again for the same offense, when he has been arraigned upon an information sufficiently charging the crime of which he is accused, a lawful jury has been impaneled and sworn, and a court of competent jurisdiction has ordered the discharge of the accused at the close of the case made by the state: State v. Hubbell, 18 Wash. 482.

§ 2167. (6955.) Jury may Find Any Degree of Offense.

Upon an indictment or information for an offense consisting of different degrees, the jury may find the defendant not guilty of the degree charged in the indictment or information, and guilty of any degree inferior thereto, or of an attempt to commit the offense. [L. '54, p. 120, § 122; Cd. '81, § 1097; L. '91, p. 60, § 75; 2 H. C., § 1319.]

See supra, § 2158, and notes, court to determine law, etc.

See infra, § 2263, convictions for lesser degrees or attempts.

Cited in 11 Wash. 247; 12 Wash. 351; 17 Wash. 599; 21 Wash. 285; 22 Wash. 276; 32 Wash. 302; 39 Wash. 203; 43 Wash. 227.

Conviction of offense included in charge: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1485-1487, §§ 100-106; State v. Klein, 19 Wash. 368; State v. Michel, 20 Wash. 162; State v. Snider, 32 Wash. 299; State v. Marselle, 43 Wash. 273; State v. Keen, 10 Wash. 93; State v. Dingle, 24 Wash. 49; State v. Cronin, 20 Wash. 512; State v. Howard, 33 Wash. 250; State v. Underwood, 35 Wash. 558; State v. Yandell, 34 Wash. 409; State v. Romans, 21 Wash. 284.

Under this section, it is the duty of the jury to determine the degree, and the supreme court cannot reduce it for insufficiency of the evidence: State v. Symes, 17 Wash. 596.

The jury are to determine from the evidence the degree of murder: Leschi v. Territory, 1 W. T. 13.

The court should define the degrees of the crime and give the jury the liberty of saying which degree is proved by the facts: Freidrich v. Ty., 2 Wash. 358, 369.

One charged with murder in the first degree as an accessory before the fact cannot be properly convicted of manslaughter, the legal character of the offense of manslaughter being such as to exclude the possibility of an accessory before the fact: State v. Robinson, 12 Wash. 349; see, also, State v. Robinson, 12 Wash. 491.

If defendant is indicted under § 2808, infra, defining embezzlement, and declaring the offender guilty of larceny, a verdict that defendant is not guilty of the offense charged, but guilty of petit larceny, is equivalent to acquittal: State v. Weydeman, 3 Wash. 399.

Upon a charge of larceny from the person, defendant may be convicted of petit larceny, as the same is but a lesser degree of the same offense: State v. Clem, 49 Wash. 273.

§ 2168. (6956.) In Other Cases Degree of Guilt.

In all other cases, the defendant may be found guilty of an offense the commission of which is necessarily included within that with which he is charged in the indictment or information. [Cf. L. '54, p. 120, § 123; Cd. '81, § 1098; L. '91, p. 61, § 76; 2 H. C., § 1320.]

See last section and notes.

Cited in 17 Wash. 511; 20 Wash. 164; 32 Wash. 303.

Under the information charging accused with an assault with intent to commit murder, a verdict of "guilty of assault with a deadly weapon with an intent to do bodily harm," is erroneous, as such verdict convicts him of an offense other than the one alleged in the information: State v. Ackles, 8 Wash. 462; State v. Largent, 9 Wash. 691; State v. Manning, 9 Wash. 695.

Where defendant is charged with "assault with intent to kill," a verdict of guilty of a part of the crime charged must specify the particular offense of which the accused is found guilty: State v. Snider, 32 Wash. 299.

The jury may find a defendant guilty of any offense which is necessarily included in the charge in the indictment: Clarke v. Territory, 1 W. T. 68; Timmerman v. Territory, 3 W. T. 445.

Thus a conviction for manslaughter may be had under an indictment charging murder in the first degree: White v. Territory, 3 W. T. 397.

§ 2169. (6957.) Verdict as to One or More Where Several are Charged.

On an indictment or information against several, if the jury cannot agree upon a verdict as to all, they may render a verdict as to those in regard to whom they do agree, on which a judgment shall be entered accordingly. [Cf. L. '54, p. 120, § 124; Cd. '81, § 1099; L. '91, p. 61, § 77; 2 H. C., § 1321.]

§ 2170. (6958.) Reconsideration Where Jury Mistakes the Law.

When there is a verdict of conviction in which it appears to the court that the jury have mistaken the law, the court may explain the reason for that opinion, and direct the jury to reconsider the verdict; and if after such reconsideration they return the same verdict, it must be entered, but it shall be good cause for new trial. When there is a verdict of acquittal, the court cannot require the jury to reconsider it. [Cf. L. '54, p. 121, § 125; Cd. '81, § 1100; L. '91, p. 61, § 78; 2 H. C., § 1322.]

See supra, §§ 359, 361, polling jury and receiving verdict.

§ 2171. (6960.) Rendition of Verdict.

When the jury have agreed upon their verdict, they must be conducted into court by the officer having them in charge. Their names must then be called, and if all appear, their verdict must be rendered in open court; and if all do not appear, the rest must be discharged without giving a verdict, and the cause must be tried again. [Cf. L. '54, p. 121, § 127; Cd. '81, § 1102; L. '91, p. 61, § 80; 2 H. C., § 1324.]

See infra, § 2176, verdict on defense of insanity.

Cited in 18 Wash. 46.

If at the time of a verdict the defendant is in court, and makes no objection to the form of the verdict and takes no exception to its reception by the court, it must be presumed, in aid of the judgment, that the defendant consents to the verdict, and error cannot be subsequently assigned on account thereof: State v. Greer, 11 Wash. 245.

Jury may be discharged on a holiday on account of inability to agree: State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 515.

A verdict may be received on a nonjudicial day: State v. Straub, 16 Wash. 111.

A verdict of guilty upon an insufficient information, set aside at the instance of the defendant, is a mistrial and does not constitute jeopardy: State v. Riley, 36 Wash. 441.

§ 2172. (6961.) Form of Verdict, Punishment Fixed by Court.

When the defendant is found guilty, the court, and not the jury, shall fix the amount of fine and the punishment to be inflicted. The verdict of the jury may be substantially in the following form:—

"We, the jury, in the case of the state of Washington, plaintiff, against —, defendant, find the defendant (guilty or not guilty, as the case may be).

(Signed) A. B. Foreman."

[Cf. L. '54, p. 121, § 128; L. '65, p. 101, § 1; Cd. '81, § 1103; 2 H. C., § 1335.]

See infra, § 2176, verdict on plea of insanity.

Cited in 3 Wash. 673; 14 Wash. 418; 20 Wash. 516.

The jury in a criminal case are in the box for but one purpose, viz., to say whether or not the accused is guilty, and this section prescribes the form of verdict covering but one alternative, which they must decide: In re Permstick, 3 Wash. 672, 673.

In case of murder, a verdict against the prisoner of "guilty as charged, and that he suffer death," will be treated as a verdict of murder in the first degree: Leschi v. Territory, 1 W. T. 13.

If some counts in an indictment are good and some bad, a verdict is presumed to be based on the good counts: Id.

Objections against form of verdict held insufficient in State v. Bokien, 14 Wash. 403, 418.

"We, the jury in the case of the Territory of Washington against J. H. T., find the defendant guilty," is a substantial compliance with the above section, and is good as a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree: Timmerman v. Territory, 3 W. T. 445.

The form of verdict, prescribed by this section is directory merely, and any verdict which clearly indicates the conclusion reached is sufficient: State v. Cronin, 20 Wash. 512.

Error cannot be assigned in that the clerk prepared the form of the verdict, as it is immaterial who prepares the form: State v. Klein, 38 Wash. 475.

§ 2173. "Criminally Insane," Defined—Mental Irresponsibility.

Any person who shall have committed a crime while insane, or in a condition of mental irresponsibility, and in whom such insanity or mental irresponsibility continues to exist, shall be deemed criminally insane within the meaning of this act. No condition of mind induced by the voluntary act of a person charged with a crime shall be deemed mental irresponsibility within the meaning of this act. [L. '07, p. 33, § 1.]

"Act," in this section, refers to §§ 2173-2176, and § 5974 et seq.

See infra. §§ 2259, 2283, insanity no defense, and notes to those sections.

This section was not expressly repealed or covered by the act of 1909: See notes to §§ 2253, 2301.

§ 2174. Insanity—How Pleaded.

When it is desired to interpose the defense of insanity or mental irresponsibility on behalf of one charged with a crime, the defendant, his counsel or other person authorized by law to appear and act for him, shall at the time of pleading to the information or indictment file a plea in writing in addition to the plea or pleas required or permitted by other laws than this, setting up (1) his insanity or mental irresponsibility at the time of the commission of the crime charged, and (2) whether the insanity or mental irresponsibility still exists, or (3) whether the defendant has become sane or mentally responsible between the time of the commission of the crime and the time of the trial. The plea may be interposed at any time thereafter, before the submission of the cause to the jury, if it be proven that the insanity or mental irresponsibility of the defendant at the time of the crime was not before known to any person authorized to interpose a plea. [L. '07, p. 33, § 2.]

§ 2175. Special Verdict on Acquittal, When Plea of Insanity Interposed.

If the plea of insanity or mental irresponsibility be interposed, and evidence upon that issue be given, the court shall instruct the jury when giving the charge, that in case a verdict of acquittal of the crime charged be returned, they shall also return special verdicts finding (1) whether the defendant committed the crime and if so, (2) whether they acquit him because of his insanity or mental irresponsibility at the time of its commission, (3) whether the insanity or mental irresponsibility continues and exists at the time of the trial, and (4) whether, if such condition of insanity or mental irresponsibility does not exist at the time of the trial, there is such likelihood of a relapse or recurrence of the insane or mental irresponsible condition, that the defendant is not a safe person to be at large. Forms for the return of the special verdicts shall be submitted to the jury with the forms for the general verdicts. [L. '07, p. 33, § 3.]

Under the constitution a person cannot be put on trial while insane: State ex rel. Mackintosh v. Superior Court, 45 Wash. 248.

Under Bal. Code, § 6959, requiring insane unsafe to be at large to be confined after acquittal, an acquittal on the ground of insanity is conclusive that defendant is "manifestly dangerous," and the condition is presumed to continue: State ex rel. Thompson v. Snell, 46 Wash. 327.

Commitment of such a person does not deprive him his liberty without due process of law, and is not contrary to the humane spirit of the laws: Id.

Insanity is a question for the jury: State v. Churchill, 52 Wash. 210.

Instructions on the subject of insanity: See Id.

§ 2176. Verdict—Findings—Discharge or Commitment.

If the jury find by their special verdicts that the defendant committed the crime charged, that he is acquitted because of his insanity or mental irresponsibility at the time of its commission, and that before the trial he has become a sane or mentally responsible person, and is not liable to a relapse or recurrence of the insane or mentally irresponsible condition, and is a safe person to be at large, he shall be discharged. If the jury find that the defendant committed the crime charged, that he is acquitted because of his insanity or mental irresponsibility at the time of its commission, and that the insanity or mental irresponsibility still exists, or, if it does not exist, that he is so liable to a relapse or recurrence of the insane or mentally irresponsible condition as to be an unsafe person to be at large, the court shall enter judgment in accordance therewith, and shall order the defendant committed as a criminally insane person until such time as he shall be discharged as hereinafter provided. [L. '07, p. 34, § 4. Cf. L. '54, p. 121, § 126; Cd. '81, § 1101; L. '91, p. 61, § 79; 2 H. C., § 1323.]

Compare, § 2283, infra. See note to § 2253.

See infra, §§ 5974-5978, confinement and discharge of the criminal insane. Compare § 2283, infra.

See infra, § 8520, rules for insane convicts.

The state has power to confine dangerous insane persons: In re Brown, 39 Wash. 160.

§ 2177. Trial for Second Offense—Felonies.

It shall be the duty of the prosecuting attorney of any county, as soon as he has knowledge that a person indicted or informed against for felony, has been once or twice before convicted of any crime which under the laws of this state would amount to a felony, either within this state or elsewhere, to file and serve upon such person another information, setting forth [forth] the fact of such former conviction or convictions, with the time and place when and where such former convictions occurred. [L. '03, p. 125, § 1.]

Compare, §§ 2285, 2286, infra, on this subject. See note to § 2253.

See infra, § 8554, second term convicts.

§ 2178. Trial of Fact of Former Conviction.

If the defendant pleads guilty to the principal charge, or, if after trial, he shall be found guilty of such principal charge by a jury, unless the defendant admit the fact of such former conviction or convictions, the court shall immediately, if such further information was served before the trial upon the principal charge, or if served after the commencement of the trial then within five days and before sentence, impanel a jury to try the fact of such former conviction or convictions, and if such jury find, from the record thereof, or other competent evidence that such person has been once or twice before convicted of a crime, which under the laws of this state would amount to a felony, such jury shall make a return of such fact to the court. In case that such jury find that such person has been but once before convicted of a felony, the return shall show the time of his sentence under such former conviction. [L. '03, p. 126, § 2.]

See note to last section.

§ 2179. Cumulative Sentence for Felonies.

In every case where a person is convicted of a felony and the jury impaneled for that purpose, in the manner provided in section 2178, find that the person has been once before convicted of a crime, either in this state or elsewhere, which under the laws of this state would amount to felony, or if such person admit the fact of such former conviction in open court, he shall be sentenced to a term in the penitentiary of not less than double the time of the sentence upon the former conviction; and in case that such jury find or the said person admits in open court that he has been twice before convicted of crimes, either within or without this state, which under the laws of this state would amount to felony, he shall be sentenced to the penitentiary for the term of his natural life. [L. '03, p. 126, § 3.]

See note to § 2177, supra.

See infra, § 8554, second term convicts.

Under this section, one who is charged and found guilty of having been twice before convicted of felonies and sentenced therefor, must on the third conviction be punished by life imprisonment: State v. Bush, 41 Wash. 13.

§ 2180. Trial for Second Offense—Petit Larceny, etc.—Cumulative Sentence.

It shall be the duty of the prosecuting attorney of any county, as soon as he has knowledge that a person charged with the offense of petit larceny has been once or twice before convicted of the offense of petit larceny or of any crime which under the laws of this state would amount to a felony, either within this state or elsewhere, to file in the superior court an information charging said person with petit larceny and another information charging said person with having been before convicted of petit larceny, or a crime amounting to a felony, and serve copies of such informations upon such person, and if such person has been charged with said offense of petit larceny before any magistrate, upon said magistrate; and thereupon such magistrate shall certify all proceedings in the case to the superior court; and such proceedings shall be had as provided in section 2178 of this code. In case upon the trial and proceedings had in the superior court the defendant shall be found guilty of petit larceny and the jury impaneled for that purpose shall fail to find the fact of such former conviction, the court shall sentence the defendant as in other cases of petit larceny; in case the jury impaneled for that purpose shall find the fact of such former conviction the court shall sentence the defendant to the penitentiary for any term provided by law as the punishment for the crime of grand larceny. [L. '03, p. 126, § 4.]

See note to § 2177, supra.

CHAPTER XVIII.

NEW TRIAL AND ARREST OF JUDGMENT.

§ 2181. (6965.) When New Trial may be Granted.

An application for a new trial must be made before judgment, and may be granted for the following causes materially affecting a substantial right of the defendant:—

1. When the jury has received any evidence, paper, document, or book not allowed by the court;
2. Misconduct of the jury;
3. Newly discovered evidence material for the defendant, which he could not have discovered with reasonable diligence, and produced at the trial;
4. Accident or surprise;
5. Error of law occurring at the trial and excepted to by the defendant;
6. When the verdict is contrary to law and evidence; but not more than two new trials shall be granted for these causes alone. [Cf. L. '54, p. 121, § 130; Cd. '81, § 1105; L. '91, p. 61, § 81; 2 H. C., § 1326.]

See supra, § 399, and notes, grounds for new trial in civil cases.

See notes to § 2159, misconduct of jury, etc.

See infra, § 2183, and notes, arrest of judgment.

Cited in 25 Wash. 415; 42 Wash. 61; 47 Wash. 6.

NEW TRIAL: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 829-834, §§ 342-367.

The provisions of chapter 8, title 29, of Code of Civil Procedure respecting new trials does not apply to criminal cases: Thompson v. Territory, 1 W. T. 547.

Granting or refusing a new trial is a matter within the discretion of the lower court: Smith v. United States, 1 W. T. 262.

A new trial should not be granted when made apparent by the proofs that it would avail nothing: Tolmie v. Dean, 1 W. T. 46. The hearing and denial of motions for a new trial and in arrest of judgment may be had in the absence of defendant: State v. Greer, 11 Wash. 244.

A motion for a new trial failing to point out definitely any statutory grounds should be overruled: Bradshaw v. Territory, 3 W. T. 265; see State v. Largent, 9 Wash. 691.

Disqualification of jurors—Misconduct of or affecting jurors: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 830, 831, §§ 346-351; State v. Hall, 24 Wash. 255; State v. Parker, 25 Wash. 405; State v. Druxinman, 34 Wash. 257; State v. Underwood, 35 Wash. 558; State v. Strodemier, 41 Wash. 159; State v. Shuck, 38 Wash. 270; State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670; State v. Smokalem, 37 Wash. 91.

MISCONDUCT OF COURT: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 800, § 215; State v. Wroth, 15 Wash. 621.

The supreme court will grant a new trial for gross misconduct of the trial court: State v. Coella, 3 Wash. 99; Id., 8 Wash. 513.

A verdict in a prosecution for murder cannot be impeached for misconduct of the jury by an affidavit of defendant based upon information and belief as to the facts charged: State v. Murphy, 13 Wash. 229.

ERROR OF LAW.—The exclusion of testimony of the prisoner on account of drunkenness, will not justify a new trial, unless the materiality of the testimony is first shown: Fox v. Territory, 2 W. T. 297.

SURPRISE: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 831, § 353; State v. John Port Townsend, 7 Wash. 462; State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670.

A hypothetical opinion expressed by a juror prior to trial and not made known at trial, that if what he had read about the case was true the accused ought to be convicted on general principles, is not alone sufficient cause for granting a new trial: State v. Gile, 8 Wash. 12.

VERDICT CONTRARY TO LAW.—A new trial should be granted when a conviction is had on evidence not connecting defendant with the crime beyond a reasonable doubt: State v. Payne, 6 Wash. 563, 574.

VERDICT CONTRARY TO EVIDENCE: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 831, § 352; State v. Smith, 9 Wash. 341; State v. Symes, 17 Wash. 596.

Where it is evident from the verdict that the jury has made a mistake in the name of the only defendant found guilty, it is not error to require the three defendants to stand up and be identified: State v. Moran, 46 Wash. 596.

NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 831, 832, §§ 354-360; State v. Power, 24 Wash. 34; State v. Vance, 29 Wash. 435; State v.

Webb, 20 Wash. 500; State v. Hyde, 22 Wash. 551; State v. Detherage, 35 Wash. 326; State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670.

If a new trial is claimed on the ground of newly discovered evidence, the application should not be granted when the legitimate effect of the whole evidence would not require the jury to find a different verdict: Leschi v. Territory, 1 W. T. 13, 29.

Although the refusal to grant a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence is largely within the discretion of the trial court, yet, if it appears that the evidence is material, and could not have been discovered with reasonable diligence, the ruling will be reversed: State v. Stowe, 3 Wash. 206.

If a defendant has been misled into not making proper preparation for his defense by the statement of the prosecuting attorney that he did not intend to further prosecute the defendant, the defendant will be entitled to a new trial upon a showing of newly discovered evidence: State v. John Port Townsend, 7 Wash. 463.

It is not an abuse of discretion for the trial court to refuse a new trial upon the ex parte affidavit of a man who confesses the commission of the crime, of which defendant is convicted, when there is no attempt to show affiant's residence or whether defendant could procure his attendance at court at a future time, or whether affiant would swear to the matters set forth in the affidavit if he should attend: State v. Miller, 3 Wash. 131.

Where the defendant had sworn on the trial that he could not get on certain rubber boots, he is not entitled to a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence showing that, while it was possible for him to get the boots on, he could not have worn them: State v. Nordstrom, 7 Wash. 507.

Where the testimony adduced at the trial was exclusively that of Indians given through interpreters, defendant is entitled on a proper showing to a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence, although cumulative in character, when the newly discovered evidence is shown to be that of a white witness: State v. John Port Townsend, 7 Wash. 463.

If the object of evidence is to prove an alibi, the ruling making newly discovered cumulative evidence insufficient to command a new trial has no application: State v. Stowe, 3 Wash. 206.

The fact that a portion of a jury were induced to unite upon a verdict of murder in the first degree, upon the representation of another juror that the judge might sentence the prisoner thereunder to imprisonment for life instead of imposing the death sentence, does not constitute misconduct of the jury, as the jury have nothing to do with the penalty to be imposed: State v. Holmes, 12 Wash. 169.

It is an abuse of discretion and error to deny a new trial, asked on the ground of newly discovered evidence, after conviction of statutory rape upon a female under the age of consent, where the conviction rested almost entirely upon the evidence of the prosecutrix, and she subsequently made affidavit, and testified in court on the hearing of the motion for new trial, that her testimony was false and that defendant had never had sexual intercourse with her, explaining that she was coerced to give false testimony: State v. Powell, 51 Wash. 372.

The general rule that a new trial will not be granted for newly discovered evidence to impeach a witness applies in a prosecution for burglary, where the newly discovered evidence merely tended to contradict the owner's identification of the property, and the owner did not assume to positively identify it, identification having been made by another witness: State v. Beeman, 51 Wash. 557.

A new trial for newly discovered evidence is properly denied where the same is merely cumulative: State v. Bridgham, 51 Wash. 18.

A new trial will not be granted in a criminal case to secure the evidence of a witness now a resident in the east, when it is only shown that counsel believe he will be present at the new trial; nor when his evidence would be only cumulative: State v. Beeman, 51 Wash. 557.

WRIT OF CORAM NOBIS.—When writ of coram will not lie, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 835, § 376; State ex rel. Davis v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 339; State v. Armstrong, 41 Wash. 601; Wilson v. State, 46 Wash. 416.

§ 2182. (6966.) Application, How Made.

When the application is made for a cause mentioned in the first, second, third, and fourth subdivisions of the preceding section, the facts on which it is based shall be set out in an affidavit. [L. '54, p. 122, § 131; Cd. '81, § 1106; 2 H. C., § 1327.]

Cited in 42 Wash. 61; 25 Wash. 415.

Application for new trial: See Remington's Digest, p. 833, §§ 361-365; State v. Webb, 20 Wash. 500; State v. Wilson, 42 Wash. 56; State v. Miller, 3 Wash. 131; State v. Parker, 25 Wash. 405.

Under § 401, supra, the question of the misconduct of the jury on motion for a new trial can only be raised by affidavit: Lybarger v. State, 2 Wash. 552, 562.

§ 2183. (6967.) Judgment may be Arrested, When.

Judgment may be arrested on the motion of the defendant for the following causes:—

1. No legal authority in the grand jury to inquire into the offense charged, by reason of its not being within the jurisdiction of the court;

2. That the facts as stated in the indictment or information do not constitute a crime or misdemeanor. [Cf. L. '54, p. 122, § 132; Cd. '81, § 1107; L. '91, p. 62, § 82; 2 H. C., § 1328.]

Cited in 22 Wash. 554.

Arrest of judgment: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 834, §§ 366, 367; State v. Hyde, 22 Wash. 551.

Under this section, subdivision 2, the rule of aider by verdict does not apply to such defect: State v. Carey, 4 Wash. 424.

A motion in arrest of judgment on the ground that the information does not state facts sufficient to constitute a crime may be interposed by defendant even after having gone into two trials of the case on the merits without objection: State v. Feamster, 12 Wash. 461.

Where there is nothing in the record to show the absence of the conditions which must exist in order to warrant the prosecution of a public offense by information, the accused cannot complain of the overruling of his motion in arrest of judgment, made on the insufficiency of the information in that regard: State v. Smith, 9 Wash. 341.

Right to move, lost when: State v. Barkuloo, 18 Wash. 52.

§ 2184. (6968.) Judgment Arrested Without Motion, When.

The court may also, on its views of any of these defects, arrest the judgment without motion. [L. '54, p. 122, § 133; Cd. '81, § 1108; 2 H. C., § 1329.]

§ 2185. (6969.) Defendant may be Recommitted After Arrest of Judgment.

When judgment is arrested in any case, and there is reasonable ground to believe that the defendant can be convicted of an offense, properly charged, the court may order the defendant to be recommitted, or admitted to bail anew, to answer a new indictment [or information]. [L. '54, p. 122, § 134; Cd. '81, § 1109; 2 H. C., § 1330.]

§ 2186. (6970.) Exceptions as in Civil Cases.

Exceptions may be taken by the defendant, as in civil cases, on any matter of law by which his substantial rights are prejudiced. [L. '54, p. 122, § 135; Cd. '81, § 1110; 2 H. C., § 1331.]

See supra, § 381 et seq., exceptions in civil cases, and notes.

See infra, § 2224, final record to contain what.

Bill of exceptions—Statement of facts: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 842, 843, §§ 408-413; State v. Johnny Tommy, 19 Wash. 270; Yelm Jim v. Territory, 1 W. T. 63; Hartigan v. Territory, 1 W. T. 447;

State v. Payne, 6 Wash. 563; State v. Humason, 4 Wash. 413; State v. Straub, 16 Wash. 111; State v. McGonigle, 14 Wash. 594; State v. Picani, 5 Wash. 343.

CHAPTER XIX.

JUDGMENT, AND THE ENFORCEMENT THEREOF.

§ 2187. (6975.) Judgment on Verdict.

When the defendant is found guilty, the court shall render judgment accordingly, and the defendant shall be liable for all costs, unless the court or jury trying the cause expressly find otherwise. [L. '54, p. 121, § 129; Cd. '81, § 1104; 2 H. C., § 1332.]

See infra, §§ 2190, 2198, pronouncing judgment.

See infra, § 2228 et seq., cost bills in criminal cases.

See infra, § 8541, conviction to be certified to state auditor.

Cited in 1 Wash. 414; 29 Wash. 60; 44 Wash. 618.

Judgment and sentence: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 834, 835, §§ 368-379; State v. Dunlap, 25 Wash. 292; State v. Nordstrom, 21 Wash. 403; Davis v. Catron, 22 Wash. 183; State v. McLain, 43 Wash. 124; State v. Symes, 17 Wash. 596.

Costs: 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 688, 689, §§ 98-102; State v. McFadden, 42 Wash. 1; State v. Armstrong, 29 Wash. 57; State v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 445; Clallam County v. Hall, 23 Wash. 85.

The only exception to the general rule that defendant on conviction must pay all costs is found in this section: Foster v. Territory, 1 Wash. 411, 414.

A judgment under § 2926, infra, imposing a fine of five hundred dollars and costs, without fixing the period of imprisonment for nonpayment of fine, is not void when construed in connection with § 2227, supra, and § 2206, infra: Id.

If defendant has been sentenced for a term beyond the power of the court to impose for the crime charged, he will not be discharged on a reversal of the judgment, but the case will be remanded with instructions to the court below to sentence the defendant as upon a conviction for simple assault: Watson v. State, 2 Wash. 504.

As to excessive sentences, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 854, § 461; p. 848, § 440; State v. Bliss, 27 Wash. 463; State v. Newton, 29 Wash. 373; State v. Patchen, 37 Wash. 24; State v. Mobley, 44 Wash. 549; State v. Ryan, 34 Wash. 597.

Upon an improper sentence, the case will be remanded for a proper one: State v. King, 50 Wash. 312; State v. Gilluly, 50 Wash. 1.

The supreme court will not reduce an excessive sentence: State v. Van Waters, 36 Wash. 358.

§ 2188. (6976.) Judgment a Lien on Realty, When.

Judgments for fines in all criminal actions rendered are and may be made liens upon the real estate of the defendant in the same manner and with like effect as judgments in civil actions. [Cd. '81, § 1111; 2 H. C., § 1333.]

See supra, § 445 et seq., judgment liens in civil cases.

See infra, § 2204, stay of execution.

§ 2189. (6977.) Fines, Disposition—Penalty for Neglect to Pay Over.

All fines imposed on any person by the provisions of this code, where the same shall be collected, shall be paid to the county treasurer of the county where such conviction shall have been had, to go into the general county fund. The county treasurer shall give duplicate receipts therefor, one of which shall be filed with the county auditor; and all officers refusing or neglecting to pay over any fines within one month after they shall have been received shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined in fourfold the amount of such fines so received. [L. '54, § 128; Cd. '81, § 1113; 2 H. C., § 1335.]

See supra, § 966, disposition of fines and forfeitures generally.

See infra, § 2230, costs and other moneys collected in criminal cases belong to county.

Cited in 7 Wash. 447; 15 Wash. 416.

Under our system of county organization, the general rule is that counties are burdened with the entire cost of the administration of the criminal laws within their boundaries; and, in return, they receive and appropriate to their own use all fines and costs collected in criminal cases: State v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 445, 447.

It is not error to impose a fine without the imprisonment: State v. Dunlap, 25 Wash. 292.

§ 2190. (6978.) Judgment Pronounced, When.

After verdict of guilty or finding of the court against the defendant, if the judgment be not arrested or a new trial granted, the court must pronounce judgment. [L. '54, p. 123, § 136; Cd. '81, § 1114; 2 H. C., § 1336.]

See infra, § 2198, defendant to be informed of verdict.

Where the clerk of the court failed to enter an order in a criminal action, the court may make the record speak the truth by the filing of an order nunc pro tunc: State v. Williams, 43 Wash. 505.

§ 2191. Suspension of Sentence on Person Under Twenty-one.

If any person under the age of twenty-one years shall be convicted in the superior court of the state of Washington, upon trial before the court or court[s] and jury on a plea of not guilty, or before the court upon a plea of guilty, of any misdemeanor or felony, the court, in its discretion, may withhold and suspend sentence and order the accused to be released during good behavior; and the court shall have power to order his or her rearrest and pronounce sentence whenever the conduct of the accused shall, in the opinion of the court, make such action proper. [L. '05, p. 49, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to § 2253.

See infra, § 2280, suspension of sentence.

§ 2192. Recognizance may be Required—Dismissal After Five Years.

The court when sentence is withheld and suspended may order the person convicted to enter into recognizance to be approved by the court for his or her presence before the court at all times whenever the court shall require and the person so convicted shall report to the court from time to time as the court shall direct, and the court shall after five years, if the party, during said time, has been law-abiding, of good habits, sober and industrious, vacate and set aside the conviction and dismiss the case, which fact of good behavior, shall be shown to the court by petition and satisfactory proof. [L. '05, p. 49, § 2.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to § 2253.

§ 2193. Indeterminate Sentence to Penitentiary—Court not to Fix Limit.

Every person convicted of a felony or other crime punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary, except treason and murder, if judgment be not suspended or new trial granted, shall be sentenced to the penitentiary, except in the cases where the law provides for the sending of such convicted persons to the reform school, and in cases where the court is empowered to suspend sentence; but the court imposing such sentence shall not fix the limit or duration of the sentence, but the term of imprisonment of any person so convicted shall not exceed the maximum nor be less than the minimum term provided by law for the crime for which the person was convicted and sentenced: Provided, that in all cases when the maximum sentence, in the discretion of the court, may be for life or any number of years, the court imposing the sentence shall fix the maximum sentence: Provided, further, that in all cases when no maximum sentence is fixed by law, the court imposing sentence shall fix such minimum, which minimum shall not be less than six months, nor more than five years, the release of such person to be determined as hereinafter provided. [L. '07, p. 341, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2281. See note to § 2253.

Where the crime of forgery was committed on April 11, 1907, the accused cannot be sentenced under the law [the above section] approved March 13, 1907, page 341, which went into effect June 11, 1907; since § 8554, infra (§ 8 of above act), provides that a person found guilty of a crime committed prior to the taking effect of the law shall be sentenced under the law in force at the time of the offense: State v. Gilluly, 50 Wash. 1.

§ 2194. Certain Criminals may be Sentenced to Reformatory.

All provisions of existing laws requiring the courts of this state to sentence male criminals between the ages of sixteen and thirty, convicted of any criminal offense, to the Washington penitentiary shall, from and after the turning over of the buildings of the Washington state reformatory to the board of managers as provided for in section 8591, of this code, apply to said Washington state reformatory, so far as to enable courts to sentence the class of prisoners mentioned in section 8585 of this code to the Washington state reformatory. [L. '07, p. 389, § 12.]

See infra, § 8585, certain criminals to be sentenced to reformatory.

See infra, § 8595, definite sentences not void.

§ 2195. Indeterminate Sentence to Reformatory.

Every sentence to the Washington state reformatory of a person hereinafter convicted of a felony, shall be a general sentence to imprisonment in the Washington state reformatory, giving the location thereof, and the courts of this state imposing such sentence shall not fix or limit the duration thereof. The term of such imprisonment of any prisoner so convicted and sentenced shall be terminated by the board of managers of the Washington state reformatory as authorized by this act, but such imprisonment shall not exceed the maximum provided by law for the crime for which the person was convicted, nor be less than the minimum term provided by law for a felony; and a person sentenced to the Washington state reformatory shall, within thirty days after his sentence, unless the execution thereof be suspended, be conveyed to the Washington state reformatory by the state board of control in the manner prescribed in section 8955 of this code, and delivered into the custody of the superintendent of the Washington state reformatory, together with a certified copy of the sentence of the court, and there be safely kept until released by the board of managers of the Washington state reformatory, or until said prisoner be pardoned by the governor, and if the execution of the sentence be suspended, and the judgment be afterward affirmed, the defendant shall be conveyed to the Washington state reformatory within thirty days after the court directs the execution of the sentence. [L. '07, p. 390, § 13.]

See infra, § 8585, certain criminals to be sentenced to reformatory.

See infra, § 8595, credits at reformatory and discharge by governor.

§ 2196. (6979.) Presence of Defendant, When Necessary.

For the purpose of judgment, if the conviction be for an offense punishable by imprisonment, the defendant must be personally present; if for a fine only he must be personally present, or some responsible person must undertake for him to secure the payment of the judgment and costs; judgment may then be rendered in his absence. [L. '54, p. 123, § 137; Cd. '81, § 1115; 2 H. C., § 1337.]

See supra, § 2145, presence at trial.

§ 2197. (6980.) Warrant for Defendant, When.

If in any case the defendant is not present when his personal attendance is necessary, the court may order the clerk to issue a warrant for his arrest, which may be served in any county in this state, as a warrant of arrest in other cases. [L. '54, p. 123, § 138; Cd. '81, § 1116; 2 H. C., § 1338.]

See infra, § 2199, bench-warrant for defendant's arrest.

§ 2198. (6981.) Defendant to be Informed of Verdict.

When the defendant appears for judgment, he must be informed by the court of the verdict of the jury, and asked whether he have any legal cause to show why judgment should not be pronounced against him. [L. '54, p. 123, § 139; Cd. '81, § 1117; 2 H. C., § 1339.]

See supra, § 2190, judgment on verdict.

§ 2199. (6982.) Bench-warrant, Forfeiture of Bail, etc.

If the defendant have been discharged on bail, or have deposited money instead thereof, and do not appear for judgment when his personal appearance is necessary, the court, in addition to the forfeiture of the recognizance, or of the money deposited, may direct the clerk to issue a bench warrant for his arrest. [L. '54, p. 123, § 140; Cd. '81, § 1118; 2 H. C., § 1340.]

See supra, § 2197, warrant for arrest to bring defendant in.

§ 2200. (6983.) Commitment Until Fine and Costs Paid.

When the defendant is adjudged to pay a fine and costs, the court shall order him to be committed to the custody of the sheriff until the fine and costs are paid or secured as provided by law. [L. '54, p. 123, § 141; Cd. '81, § 1119; 2 H. C., § 1341.]

§ 2201. (6984.) Execution as in Civil Actions for Fine and Costs.

Upon a judgment for fine and costs, and for all adjudged costs, execution shall be issued against the property of the defendant, and returned in the same manner as in civil actions. [L. '54, p. 123, § 142; Cd. '81, § 1120; 2 H. C., § 1342.]

§ 2202. (6985.) Recognizance to Keep the Peace—Exception.

Every court before whom any person shall be convicted upon an indictment or information for an offense not punishable with death or imprisonment in the penitentiary may, in addition to the punishment prescribed by law, require such person to recognize with sufficient sureties in a reasonable sum to keep the peace, or to be of good behavior, or both, for any term not exceeding one year, and to stand committed until he shall so recognize. [Cf. L. '54, p. 123, § 143; Cd. '81, § 1121; L. '91, p. 62, § 83; 2 H. C., § 1343.]

§ 2203. (6986.) Proceedings upon Breach of Bond.

In case of the breach of the conditions of any such recognizance the same proceedings shall be had that are by law prescribed in relation to recognizances to keep the peace. [L. '54, p. 123, § 144; Cd. '81, § 1122; 2 H. C., § 1344.]

See supra, § 1936 et seq., provisions relating to recognizances to keep the peace.

§ 2204. (6987.) Stay upon Judgment Sixty Days.

Every defendant against whom a judgment has been rendered for fine and costs may stay the execution for the fine assessed and costs for sixty days from the rendition of the judgment, by procuring one or more sufficient sureties, to enter into a recognizance in open court, acknowledging themselves to be bail for such fine and costs. [L. '54, p. 124, § 145; Cd. '81, § 1123; 2 H. C., § 1345.]

The following section, being § 1112 of the Code of 1881, appears to be covered by the provisions of the above section, and the latter, being the later enactment, is considered as controlling:

"§ 1112. The defendant may have a stay of execution for the same length of time and in the same manner as provided by law in civil actions, and with like effect; and the same proceedings may be had therein."

Section 1334 of 2 Hill's Code, providing for stay of execution as in civil cases, is omitted as in conflict with the above provisions.

See infra, § 2232, stay of execution on forfeited recognizance.

§ 2205. (6988.) Qualification and Liability of Sureties.

Such sureties shall be approved by the clerk, and the entry of the recognizance shall be written immediately following the judgment, and signed by the bail, and shall have the same effect as a judgment; and if the fine or costs be not paid at the expiration of the sixty days, a joint execution shall issue against the defendant and the bail, and an execution against the body of the defendant, who shall be committed to jail, to be released as provided in this code in committal for default to pay or secure the fine and costs. [L. '54, p. 124, § 146; Cd. '81, § 1124; 2 H. C., § 1346.]

§ 2206. (6989.) Judgment of Fine and Costs, How Enforced.

If any person ordered into custody until the fine and costs adjudged against him be paid shall not, within five days pay or cause the payment of the same to be made, the clerk of the court shall issue a warrant to the sheriff commanding him to imprison such defendant in the county jail until such fine and costs are paid, or until he has been imprisoned in such jail one day for every three dollars of such fine and costs; but execution may at any time issue against the property of the defendant as in other cases. [Cf. L. '54, p. 124, § 147; Cd. '81, § 1125; L. '83, p. 38, § 1; L. '91, p. 62, § 84; 2 H. C., § 1347.]

§ 2207. (6990.) Certified Transcript—Mittimus.

When any person shall be sentenced to be imprisoned in the penitentiary or county jail, the clerk of the court shall, as soon as may be, make out and deliver to the sheriff of the county, or his deputy, a transcript, from the minutes of the court, of such conviction and sentence, duly certified by such clerk, which shall be sufficient authority for such sheriff to execute the sentence, who shall execute it accordingly. [L. '54, p. 124, § 148; Cd. '81, § 1126; 2 H. C., § 1348.]

§ 2208. (6991.) Form of Sentence to Penitentiary.

In every case where imprisonment in the penitentiary is awarded against any convict, the form of the sentence shall be, that he be punished by confinement at hard labor; and he may also be sentenced to solitary imprisonment for such term as the court shall direct, not exceeding twenty days at any one time; and in the execution of such punishment the solitary [imprisonment] shall precede the punishment by hard labor, unless the court shall otherwise order. [L. '54, p. 124, § 149; Cd. '81, § 1127; 2 H. C., § 1349.]

§ 2209. (6992.) Fine and Costs, How Worked Out.

When a defendant is committed to jail on failure to pay any fines and costs, he shall, under the order of the county commissioners, work out the amount of the fine and costs at the rate of two dollars per day; and in case he shall so work out the fine and costs, or in case he shall not be able to work, or the county commissioners fail to provide work, and he shall have been confined in the county jail one day for every two dollars of such fine and costs, no execution shall issue therefor. When any defendant is in the custody of the sheriff by virtue of a sentence of imprisonment in the county jail, and if there be no county jail in the county, he shall, under the order of the county commissioners, cause such person to work his unexpired term of imprisonment in such manner as said county commissioners may direct. [Cf. L. '54, p. 124, § 151; L. '77, p. 206, § 8; Cd. '81, § 1129; 2 H. C., § 1350.]

§ 2210. (6993.*) Death Warrant, Contents, Return.

When judgment of death is rendered following conviction and no appeal is taken, or the judgment has been affirmed on appeal, a death warrant shall be issued by the clerk of the trial court, which said warrant shall be signed by a judge of said court and attested by the clerk thereof under the seal of the court. Said warrant shall be directed to the superintendent of the state penitentiary of the state of Washington, and shall state the conviction of the person named therein and the judgment of the court, and appoint a day in which the judgment shall be executed by the superintendent of the state penitentiary, which shall not be less than thirty nor more than ninety days from the date of final judgment. [L. '01, Ex. Ses., p. 17, § 1. Cf. L. '54, p. 125, § 152; L. '60, p. 159, § 291; Cd. '81, § 1130; 2 H. C., § 1351.]

This section does not apply to crimes committed prior to its taking effect, which are governed by the laws existing at the time of their commission: See infra, § 2221.

The amendment of 1901, p. 100, was repealed by Laws '01, Ex. Ses., p. 3, § 1, before the former took effect.

The day for carrying into effect a sentence of death should not be designated in the judgment, but in the warrant for the execution: Timmerman v. Territory, 3 W. The order of the lower court fixing the day of execution of one convicted of murder is not reviewable on appeal, and hence an appeal from such order affords no ground for an application for a stay of execution of the death sentence: State v. Seaton, 27 Wash. 120; State v. Boyce, 25 Wash. 422.

§ 2213. Order to Sheriff to Deliver to State Penitentiary.

At the time of the issuance of said death warrant an order shall be issued by the clerk of the court, which shall be signed by the judge and attested by the clerk under the seal of the court. Said order shall direct the sheriff to hold the person condemned to death, who shall be named therein, in safe custody and forthwith deliver said person, together with the death warrant, into the hands of the superintendent of the state penitentiary. [L. '01, Ex. Ses., p. 18, § 2.]

§ 2214. Custody and Execution of Condemned at Penitentiary.

Upon delivery to him of said death warrant, and of the person therein named, the superintendent of the state penitentiary shall take the person condemned to be executed and keep said person in said custody within the said state penitentiary until the day appointed in the warrant for the execution, upon which appointed day he shall carry out the mandate contained in said warrant by executing said condemned person within the walls of the state penitentiary in the manner provided by law. And between the date of receiving such condemned person and the date fixed in such warrant for his execution, such superintendent shall not suffer or permit any person to visit, converse or communicate with such condemned person excepting the attendants in the state penitentiary, legal, spiritual and medical advisers, and the members of the immediate family of the condemned person, which visits and communications shall be under and subject to the rules and regulations of the state penitentiary. [L. '01, Ex. Ses., p. 18, § 3.]

§ 2215. Record, of Death Warrant and Return, by Superintendent.

The superintendent of the state penitentiary shall keep in his office as part of the public records a book in which shall be entered a copy of the death warrant and his return made thereon, together with a complete statement of his acts in pursuance of said warrant. [L. '01, Ex. Ses., p. 18, § 4.]

§ 2216. Return of Warrant to Clerk of Court.

Within twenty days after said execution the superintendent of the state penitentiary shall return said death warrant to the clerk of the court from which same was issued with his return thereon, showing all proceedings had by him thereunder. [L. '01, Ex. Ses., p. 19, § 5.]

§ 2217. Return of Execution of Order by Sheriff.

The sheriff to whom the above-named order is issued and delivered shall immediately execute such order and return the same into court within twenty days after he has delivered the death warrant and the person named therein into the hands of the superintendent of the state penitentiary, with his return thereon showing all proceedings had by him thereunder. [L. '01, Ex. Ses., p. 19, § 6.]

§ 2218. Clerk to File Returns.

The clerk of the court from which the death warrant and the order to the sheriff were issued shall, upon receipt of the returns from the superintendent of the state penitentiary and from the sheriff hereinbefore directed, file same with the records in the case and subjoin to the record of conviction and sentence a brief abstract of such returns. [L. '01, Ex. Ses., p. 19, § 7. Cf. L. '54, p. 125, § 154; Cd. '81, § 1132; 2 H. C., § 1353; Bal. Code, § 6995.]

§ 2221. Saving Clause.

The provisions of this act shall not apply to any act done or crime heretofore committed, and all acts and crimes heretofore done or committed shall be prosecuted and punished under the laws existing at the time of the commission of said acts or crimes in the same manner as if this act had not been enacted, and all such existing laws and especially sections 6993 and 6995 of Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington are hereby continued in force as to all such acts and crimes committed prior to the taking effect of this act. [L. '01, Ex. Ses., p. 19, § 10.]

"Act" in this and preceding section refers to § 2210 and §§ 2213-2221.

Saving clause in the act of 1909: See infra, § 2294.

The Ballinger sections referred to are superseded (except as saved in this section) by §§ 2210, 2218, supra. They are as follows:

Bal. Code, § 6993: "When judgment of death is rendered, a warrant signed by the judge and attested by the clerk, under the seal of the court, shall be drawn and delivered to the sheriff; it shall state the conviction and judgment, and appoint a day in which the judgment shall be executed, which shall not be less than thirty nor more than ninety days from the time of judgment. And the sheriff or officer to whom said warrant was delivered shall return the same within twenty days after the time fixed for the execution."

Bal. Code, § 6995: "The sheriff shall return and file with the clerk the warrant, with a statement of his doings thereon, and the clerk shall subjoin a brief abstract of such statement to the record of conviction and sentence."

§ 2222. (6996.) Proceedings on Failure to Execute Death Sentence.

Whenever the time appointed for the execution of a prisoner shall have passed, from any cause, the court by whom the time was fixed, or the judge or judges thereof, shall cause the prisoner to be brought immediately before the said court, judge or judges, and proceed to appoint a day for the carrying into effect the sentence of death. § 2223. (6997.) Governor may Grant Pardons, etc.

Whenever a prisoner has been sentenced to death, the governor shall have power to commute such sentence to imprisonment for life at hard labor; and in all cases in which the governor is authorized to grant pardons or commute sentence of death, he may, upon the petition of the person convicted, commute a sentence or grant a pardon upon such conditions and with such restrictions and under such limitations as he may think proper; and he may issue his warrant to all proper officers to carry into effect such pardon or commutation, which warrant shall be obeyed and executed instead of the sentence, if any, which was originally given. The governor may also, on good cause shown, grant respites or reprieves, from time to time, as he may think proper. [L. '54, p. 128, § 174; Cd. '81, § 1136; 2 H. C., § 1356.]

Under this section, the provision that he may "issue his warrant to carry into effect such pardon," is not limited to the issuance of the warrant granting the pardon, but reposes power in the governor to issue a warrant revoking a pardon which expressly provides that violation of its conditions shall cause its revocation, in the absence of any other statutory provision for determining when the conditions are violated: Spencer v. Kees, 47 Wash. 276.

A prisoner who is pardoned upon condition that he should be placed under the care and surveillance of Dr. B., and that he should remain with and be supported by his relatives as long as he lives, is shown to have violated the conditions of the pardon where he remained with his relatives only a few days, was permitted to support himself, was married, visited houses of prostitution and frequently became intoxicated: Id.

§ 2224. (6998.) Final Record shall Contain What.

The clerk of the court shall make a final record of all the proceedings in a criminal prosecution within six months after the same shall have been decided, which shall contain a copy of the minutes of the challenge to the panel of the grand jury, the indictment or information, journal entries, pleadings, minutes of challenges to panel of petit jurors, judgment, orders, or decision, and bill of exceptions. [Cf. L. '54, p. 125, § 156; Cd. '81, § 1134; L. '91, p. 63, § 85; 2 H. C., § 1355.]

RECORD OF THE ACTION.—Presumptions in capital cases are not made in favor of the regularity of the proceedings in the trial court: Shapoonmash v. United States, 1 W. T. 188. The record must show that the prisoner was present when the jury rendered their verdict, and what disposition was made of the jury on adjournment from one day until the next during the trial: Id. The action of the court below in granting or refusing instructions cannot be reviewed unless there is a statement or bill of exceptions showing the evidence to which the instructions pertain: Thompson v. Territory, 1 W. T. 548.

CHAPTER XX.

COSTS IN CRIMINAL CASES.

§ 2225. (1627.) Costs—How Taxed Where Complaint Unfounded or Malicious.

When any person shall be brought before a court, justice of the peace, or other committing magistrate of any county, city, or town in this state, having jurisdiction of the alleged offense, charged with the commission of a crime or misdemeanor, and such complaint upon examination shall appear to be unfounded, no costs shall be payable by such acquitted party, but the same shall be chargeable to the county, city, or town for or in which the said complaint is triable; but if the court, justice of the peace, or other magistrate trying said charge shall decide the complaint was frivolous or malicious, the judgment or verdict shall also designate who is the complainant, and may adjudge that said complainant pay the costs. In such cases a judgment shall thereupon be entered for the costs against said complainant, who shall stand committed until such costs be paid or discharged by due process of law. [L. '69, p. 418, § 1; Cd. '81, § 2103; 1 H. C., § 3050.]

See supra, §§ 1942, 1954, costs against complainant when.

Cited in 3 Wash. 673; 8 Wash. 450; 19 Wash. 348; 37 Wash. 587; 40 Wash. 10.

Query: Is provision relative to commitment until costs paid constitutional? See Const., Art. I, § 17.

The superior court has no authority, upon acquittal of a defendant in a criminal case, to enter a judgment for costs against the complaining witness, although the court may find that the complaint is frivolous and without probable cause: Town of Ilwaco v. Miller, 8 Wash. 449; In re Permstick, 3 Wash. 672. But see, contra, Colby v. Backus, 19 Wash. 347.

A jury in a criminal case has no authority, on the acquittal of the defendant, to find that the complaint was malicious and without probable cause, and a judgment on such verdict, that complaining witness pay the costs of the trial and stand committed to the county jail until payment, is void: In re Permstick, 3 Wash. 672.

The provisions of this section and §§ 1942, 1954, supra, authorizing the taxing of costs against complaining witness, apply only to cases of examinations before magistrates, and to complaints submitted to grand juries for investigation: Town of Ilwaco v. Miller, supra, 449, 450.

§ 2226. (1628.) Enforcing Costs Against Complainant.

When a grand jury, upon a complaint submitted to them for investigation, fail to find a bill of indictment for an offense against the laws of the state, they shall also inquire whether the complaint is frivolous or malicious, and decide whether the county or complainant shall pay the costs, and make return of their finding in open court. Any complainant adjudged by said grand jury as liable for the costs shall forthwith be brought into court, and sentenced to pay the same or stand committed until such judgment is satisfied or complied with. [L. '69, p. 418, § 2; Cd. '81, § 2104; 1 H. C., § 3051.]

See notes to last section.

See supra, § 2044.

§ 2227. (1629.) Jury Fee to be Taxed to Defendant, When.

Every person convicted of a crime, or held to bail to keep the peace, shall be liable to all the costs of the proceedings against him, including, when tried by a jury in the superior court, twelve dollars for a jury fee, and when tried by a jury before a committing magistrate, six dollars for jury fee, for which judgment shall be rendered and collection had as in cases of fines. The jury fee, when collected for a case tried by the superior court, shall be paid to the clerk, to be by him applied as the jury fee in civil cases is applied. [L. '69, p. 418, § 3; Cd. '81, § 2105; 1 H. C., § 3052.]

See infra, § 2206.

The last part of this section appears to be obsolete.

This section provides that on conviction the defendant shall be liable to pay the costs in all cases: Foster v. Territory, 1 Wash. 411, 414.

A prisoner, when convicted, is chargeable with a jury fee of twelve dollars, which goes into the cost bill against him: State v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 445, 448. See State v. Armstrong, 29 Wash. 57; State v. McFadden, 42 Wash. 1.

§ 2228. (1630.) Cost Bills, How Made and Certified.

In all convictions for felony, whether capital or punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary, the clerk of the superior court shall forthwith, after sentence, tax the costs in the case. The cost bill shall be made out in triplicate, and be examined by the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the trial was had. After which the judge of the superior court shall allow and approve such bill or so much thereof as is allowable by law. The clerk of the superior court shall thereupon, under his hand, and under the seal of the court, certify said triplicate cost bills, and shall file one with the papers of the cause, and shall transmit one to the state auditor and one to the county auditor of the county in which said felony was committed. Costs in criminal prosecutions: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 687-689, §§ 92-102; State v. Rutledge, 40 Wash. 9; State ex rel. Langhorne v. Superior Court, 32 Wash. 80; Spokane v. Smith, 37 Wash. 583; Colby v. Backus, 19 Wash. 347; State v. Graves, 13 Wash. 485; State ex rel. Crawford v. Evenson, 18 Wash. 609; State v. McFadden, 42 Wash. 1; State v. Armstrong, 29 Wash. 57; Lamey v. Coffman, 11 Wash. 301; Clallam County v. Hall, 23 Wash. 85.

The state is not liable to the county in convictions for a felony for such costs as clerk's and sheriff's fees, fees and mileage of jurors, stenographers' charges, and expenses incurred for plat of scene of crime, nor fees of defendant's witnesses in the preliminary examination: State v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 445.

But the state is liable for defendant's witnesses appearing and testifying at the trial, when the cost bill has been properly certified and approved: Id.

A person convicted of murder is entitled, on appeal, to a transcript of the record at the expense of the public, on showing inability to pay the clerk's fees therefor: State v. Fenimore, 2 Wash. 370.

The constitutional provision (Art. I, § 22) relieving an accused person from advancing fees before final judgment, has reference only to the "final judgment" in the trial court: Stowe v. State, 2 Wash. 124; citing State v. Fenimore, 2 Wash. 371.

County commissioners cannot be compelled, for the benefit of the accused, in a criminal prosecution, to pay for a copy of a stenographer's report of the trial: Id.

In contempt proceedings, brought on relation of private parties the discharge of the defendant will throw the costs on the county, as in criminal cases: State v. Milligan, 4 Wash. 29.

Where the only error committed by a magistrate in a criminal trial was in taxing costs under a law which had been repealed, the superior court should, in reviewing said action in certiorari, retax the costs and affirm the judgment: State v. White, 8 Wash. 230.

As to duty of county auditor to draw warrants in payment of costs, see State ex rel. Crawford v. Evenson, 18 Wash. 609.

§ 2229. (1631.) Payment of Amount Stated in Cost Bill.

Upon the receipt of the cost bill as provided for in the last preceding section, the county auditor shall draw warrants for the amounts due each person, as certified in said cost bill, which warrants shall be paid as other county warrants are paid. On receipt of the certified copy of said cost bill, the state auditor shall examine and audit said bill and allow the same or so much thereof as may be allowable against the state, and shall credit the amount so allowed to the county from whence the bill came as so much state tax paid. The state auditor shall immediately notify the state treasurer and county auditor, each of whom shall credit and charge accordingly. [Cd. '81, § 2107; L. '83, p. 35, § 1; 1 H. C., § 3053.]

§ 2230. (1632.) Costs and Other Moneys Collected Belong to County.

All costs collected against any person convicted of crime or misdemeanor, and all sums collected on recognizances of persons accused, or of witnesses in criminal cases for fines and forfeitures shall belong to the county from which the case came. [L. '63, p. 425, § 12; L. '69, p. 421, § 11; Cd. '81, § 2112; 1 H. C., § 3054.]

CHAPTER XXI.

FORFEITURE OF RECOGNIZANCES IN CRIMINAL ACTIONS.

§ 2231. (7004.) Forfeiture of Recognizance, Judgment, Execution.

In criminal cases where a recognizance for the appearance of any person, either as a witness or to appear and answer, shall have been taken and a default entered, the recognizance shall be declared forfeited by the court. and at the time of adjudging such forfeiture said court shall enter judgment against the principal and sureties named in such recognizance for the sum therein mentioned, and execution may issue thereon the same as upon other judgments. [L. '67, p. 103, § 1137; 2 H. C., § 1357.]

See supra, § 1957, manner of taking and conditions of before magistrates.
See supra, § 2078, right of defendant to give bail.
See supra, § 2090, forfeiture of bail.

§ 2232. (7005.) Stay of Execution on Forfeited Recognizance.

The parties, or either of them, against whom such judgment may be entered in the superior or supreme courts, may stay said execution for sixty days by giving a bond, with two or more sureties, to be approved by the clerk, conditioned for the payment of such judgment at the expiration of sixty days, unless the same shall be vacated before the expiration of that time. [Cf. L. '67, p. 103, § 2; Cd. '81, § 1138; L. '91, p. 63, § 86; 2 H. C., § 1358.]

See supra, § 2204, stay on judgment for fines and costs.

§ 2233. (7006.) Judgment Vacated on Defendant's Production, When.

If a bond be given and execution stayed, as provided in the last preceding section, and the person for whose appearance such recognizance was given shall be produced in court before the expiration of said period of sixty days, the judge may vacate such judgment upon such terms as may be just and equitable; otherwise execution shall forthwith issue as well against the sureties in the new bond as against the judgment debtors. [Cf. L. '67, p. 193, § 3; Cd. '81, § 1139; L. '91, p. 63, § 87; 2 H. C., § 1359.]

§ 2234. (7007.) Recognizances Before Magistrates, Forfeiture, Action.

All recognizances taken and forfeited before any justice of the peace or magistrate shall be forthwith certified to the clerk of the superior court of the county; and it shall be the duty of the prosecuting attorney to proceed at once by action against all the persons bound in such recognizances, and in all forfeited recognizances, whatever, or such of them as he may elect to proceed against. [L. '54, p. 128, § 175; Cd. '81, § 1166; 2 H. C., § 1360.]

See supra, § 2031, action on forfeited recognizance before magistrates, suit on.

§ 2235. (7008.) Action on Recognizance not to be Barred, etc.

No action brought on any recognizance given in any criminal proceeding whatever shall be barred or defeated, nor shall judgment be arrested thereon, by reason of any neglect or omission to note or record the default of any principal or surety at the time when such default shall happen, or by reason of any defect in the form of the recognizance, if it sufficiently appear, from the tenor thereof, at what court or before what justice the party or witness was bound to appear, and that the court or magistrate before whom it was taken was authorized by law to require and take such recognizance; and a recognizance may be recorded after execution awarded. [Cf. L. '54, p. 129, § 176; Cd. '81, § 1167; L. '91, p. 63, § 88; 2 H. C., § 1361.]

Bail: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 329-331, §§ 1-8; State v. Lewis, 35 Wash. 261; McAlmond v. Bevington, 23 Wash. 315; State ex rel. Grass v. White, 40 Wash. 560.

It is no defense to action on bail bond voluntarily given that the conditions of the bond are more onerous than the statute permits: Ainsworth v. Territory, 3 W. T. 270. Neither can defendant take the ground that the bond was not declared forfeited because of the fact that the journal had not been signed by the judge. Such signature is unnecessary to make journal entries valid: Id.

§ 2236. (7009.) Costs, Liability for—How Taxed and Paid.

No prisoner or person under recognizance who shall be acquitted by verdict or discharged because no indictment is found against him, or, for want of prosecution, shall be liable for any costs or fees of any officer, or for any charge of subsistence while he was in custody, but in every such case the fees of the defendant's witnesses, and of the officers for services rendered at the request of the defendant, and charges for subsistence of the defendant while in custody, shall be taxed and paid as other costs and charges in such cases. [Cf. L. '54, p. 129, § 177; L. '77, p. 207, § 10; Cd. '81, § 1168; 2 H. C., § 1382.]

CHAPTER XXII.

SEARCH-WARRANTS.

§ 2237. (7010.) When Issued.

When complaint shall have been made on oath to any magistrate authorized to issue warrant in criminal cases that personal property has been stolen or embezzled, or obtained by false tokens or pretenses, and that the complainant believes that it is concealed in any particular house or place, the magistrate, if he be satisfied that there is a reasonable cause for such belief shall issue a warrant for such property. [L. '54, p. 100, § 1; Cd. '81, § 967; 2 H. C., § 1383.]

See supra, §§ 50, 51, who are magistrates.

The fourth amendment to the constitution of the United States prohibits unreasonable searches and seizures, and provides that "no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized." The constitution of Washington provides that "no person shall be disturbed in his private affairs, or his home invaded, without authority of law": Art. I, § 7.

Cited in 43 Wash. 477.

§ 2238. (7011.) Additional Grounds for Issuing Warrant.

Any such magistrate, when satisfied that there is reasonable cause, may also, upon like complaint made on oath, issue search-warrant in the following cases, to wit:—

1. To search for and seize any counterfeit or spurious coin, or forged instruments, or tools, machines, or materials prepared or provided for making either of them;

2. To search for and seize any gaming apparatus used or kept and to be used in any unlawful gaming-house, or in any building, apartment, or place resorted to for the purpose of unlawful gaming. [L. '54, p. 101, § 2; Cd. '81, § 968; 2 H. C., § 1384.]

See infra, § 2479, search for gambling apparatus.

See infra, § 2982, search-warrants to seize fighting birds, etc.

Cited in 9 Wash. 337, 339.

Under a statute permitting the destruction of gambling apparatus seized and held as evidence upon the trial, where the record is silent as to how the apparatus came into the possession of the sheriff, the court cannot presume that such possession was wrongfully obtained, or that the recitals and order of the court directing the destruction were unauthorized: Way v. Territory, 1 Wash. 415.

§ 2239. (7012.) To Whom Directed—Contents of.

All such warrants shall be directed to the sheriff of the county or his deputy, or to any constable of the county, commanding such officer to search the house or place where the stolen property or other things for which he is required to search are believed to be concealed, which place and property or things to be searched for shall be designated and described in the warrant, and to bring such stolen property or other things, when found, and the person in whose possession the same shall be found, before the magistrate, who shall issue the warrant, or before some other magistrate or court having cognizance of the case. [L. '54, p. 101, § 3; Cd. '81, § 969; 2 H. C., § 1385.]

Cited in 43 Wash. 477.

§ 2240. (7013.) Execution of Warrant, Custody and Disposition of Property.

When any officer, in the execution of a search-warrant, shall find any stolen or embezzled property, or shall seize any other things for which a search is allowed by this chapter, all the property and things so seized shall be safely kept by the direction of the court or magistrate so long as shall be necessary for the purpose of being produced in evidence on any trial; and as soon as may be afterwards, all such stolen and embezzled property shall be restored to the owner thereof, and all other things seized by virtue of such warrant shall be destroyed under direction of the court or magistrate. [L. '54, p. 101, § 4; Cd. '81, § 970; 2 H. C., § 1386.]

See infra, § 2478, seizure and disposition of apparatus.

CHAPTER XXIII.

PROCEEDINGS RELATING TO FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE.

§ 2241. (7015.) Governor's Agent to Demand Fugitive—Proceedings.

The governor of this state may appoint agents to demand of the executive authority of any state or territory any fugitive from justice, or any other person charged with felony or any other crime in this state; and whenever an application shall be made to the governor for that purpose, the prosecuting attorney, when required by the governor, shall forthwith investigate the ground of such application, and report to the governor all material circumstances which may come to his knowledge, with an abstract of the evidence and his opinion as to the expediency of the demand; but the governor may, in any case, appoint such agents without requiring the opinion of or any report from the prosecuting attorney, and the accounts of the agents appointed for such purposes shall in all cases be audited by the state auditor and paid from the state treasury. [Cf. L. '54, p. 102, § 5; Cd. '81, § 971; L. '91, p. 65, § 98; 2 H. C., § 1387.]

The right of extradition between the several states of the United States is derived from Art. IV, § 2, of the federal constitution.

§ 2242. (7016.) Demand on Governor—Proceedings.

When a demand shall be made upon the governor of this state by the executive of any state or territory, in any case authorized by the constitution and laws of the United States, for the delivery over of any person charged in such state or territory with treason, felony, or any other crime, the prosecuting attorney, or any other prosecuting officer, when required by the governor, shall forthwith investigate the ground of such demand, and report to the governor all material facts which may come to his knowledge as to the situation and circumstances of the person so demanded, especially as to whether he is held in custody or is under recognizance to answer for any offense against the laws of this state or of the United States, or by force of any civil process, and also whether such demand is made according to law, so that such person ought to be delivered up; and if the governor be satisfied that such demand is conformable to law, and ought to be complied with, he shall issue his warrant, under the seal of the state, authorizing the agents who make such demand either forthwith, or at such time as shall be designated by the warrant, to take and transport such person to the line of the state at the expense of such agents, and shall also by such warrant require the civil officers within this state to afford all needful assistance in the execution thereof. [L. '54, p. 102, § 6; Cd. '81, § 972; 2 H. C., § 1388.]

Extradition—Authority — Persons subject — Proceedings: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1239-1241, §§ 1-8; In re Gillis, 38 Wash. 156; Poor v. Cudihee, 37 Wash. 609; In re Maney, 20 Wash. 509; In re Foye, 21 Wash. 250; In re Baker, 21 Wash. 259; In re Sylvester, 21 Wash. 263; State v. Roller, 30 Wash. 692; Armstrong v. Van de Vanter, 21 Wash. 682; State v. Boggs, 16 Wash. 143.

§ 2243. (7017.) Warrant for Fugitive, Issuance of.

Whenever any person shall be found within this state charged with an offense committed in any state or territory, and liable by the constitution and laws of the United States to be delivered on the demand of the executive of such state or territory, any court or magistrate authorized to issue warrants in criminal cases may, upon complaint under oath setting forth the offense, and such other matters as are necessary to bring the offense within the provisions of law, issue a warrant to bring the person so charged before the same or some other court or magistrate so authorized within the state, to answer such complaint as in other cases. [L. '54, p. 102, § 7; Cd. '81, § 973; 2 H. C., § 1389.]

Cited in 40 Wash. 563.

This section requires a legal charge of crime made in the state having jurisdiction of the offense; and a person cannot be arrested and held in this state upon an un-authenticated warrant from another state and a complaint, filed in a court of this state, reciting that the party is a fugitive from justice: State ex rel. Grass v. White, 40 Wash. 560.

§ 2244. (7018.) Examination by Court or Magistrate.

If, upon the examination of the persons charged, it shall appear to the court or magistrate, by proof in addition to the oath of the complainant, that there is reasonable cause to believe that the complaint is true, and that such person may be lawfully demanded of the governor, he shall, if not charged with a capital crime, be required to recognize, with sufficient sureties, in a reasonable sum, to appear before such court or magistrate at a future day, allowing a reasonable time to obtain a warrant of the executive, and to abide the order of the court or magistrate; and if such person shall not so recognize, he shall be committed to prison, and there be detained until such day, in like manner as if the offense charged had been committed in this state; and if the person so recognizing shall fail to appear according to the conditions of his recognizance, he shall be defaulted, and the like proceedings shall be had as in the case of other recognizances entered into before such court or magistrate; but if such person be charged with a capital crime, he shall be committed to prison, and there be detained until the day so appointed for his appearance before the court or magistrate. [L. '54, p. 103, § 8; Cd. '81, § 974; 2 H. C., 1390.]

Cited in 40 Wash. 563.

Rights and liabilities of accused after extradition: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1241, § 9; State v. Roller, 30 Wash. 692; State v. Lindegrind, 33 Wash. 440.

In the case of extradition, a prisoner extradited upon a certain charge may be tried for an offense slightly different from the charge, if nothing appears to suggest fraud in procuring the extradition: Harland v. Territory, 3 W. T. 131.

§ 2245. (7019.) Discharge, When.

If the person recognized or committed shall appear before the court or magistrate upon the day ordered, he shall be discharged, unless he be demanded by some persons authorized by the warrant of the executive to receive him. or unless the court or magistrate shall see cause to commit him, or require of him to recognize anew for his appearance at some other day; and if, when ordered, he shall not so recognize, he shall be committed and be detained as before provided. Whenever the person so appearing shall be recognized, committed, or discharged, any person authorized by the warrant of the executive may at all times take him into custody, and the same shall be a discharge of the recognizance, if any. and shall not be deemed an escape. [L. '54, p. 103, § 9; Cd. '81, § 975; 2 H. C., § 1391.]

§ 2246. (7020.) Complainant Liable for Costs, When.

The complainant in such cases shall be answerable for the actual costs and charges, and for the support in prison of any person so committed, and shall advance to the jailer one week's board at the time of commitment, and so from week to week, so long as such person shall remain in jail; and if he fails to do so, the jailer may forthwith discharge the person from his custody. [L. '54, p. 103, § 10; Cd. '81, § 976; 2 H. C., § 1392.]

CHAPTER XXIV.

REWARDS FOR THE APPREHENSION OF FUGITIVES.

§ 2247. (7022.) Standing Rewards by Governor for Certain Offenses.

The governor shall offer a standing reward of two hundred dollars for the arrest of each person who shall place any obstruction on any railroad track, or who shall misplace any switch, rail, or ties on any such road, whereby the life of any person passing over said road may be endangered; and for the arrest of each person engaged in the robbing or attempting to rob any person upon, or having in charge, in whole or in part, any stage-coach, wagon, railroad train, or other conveyance engaged in carrying passengers, or any private conveyance within this state, the reward to be paid to the person making such arrest, out of any money in the [state] treasury not otherwise appropriated, immediately upon the conviction of the person so arrested; but no reward shall be paid except after such conviction. [L. '77, p. 283, § 1; Cd. '81, § 1290; 1 H. C., § 2941.]

See infra, § 8988, subd. 8, rewards for fugitives.

§ 2248. (7023.) Auditor to Draw Warrant.

The auditor of state shall draw a warrant upon the treasurer for the amount of the reward, upon presentation to him of a certificate of the clerk of the court where the conviction was had, of such conviction, and the finding of the court that the satisfactory proof was made that the person claiming the reward is entitled thereto, under the provision of the preceding section. [L. '77, p. 284, § 2; Cd. '81, § 1291; 1 H. C., § 2942.]

§ 2249. (7024.) Rewards by County Commissioners, When.

The county commissioners in the several counties of this state, when in their opinion the public good requires it, are hereby authorized to offer and pay a suitable reward, not to exceed five hundred dollars in any one case, to any person or persons who, in consequence of such offer, apprehends, brings back, and secures any person or persons convicted of or charged with any criminal offense, if the offense be a felony. [L. '86, p. 124, § 1; 1 H. C., § 2943.]

§ 2250. (7025.) Payment of Rewards Offered by Commissioners.

Whenever any such reward has been offered by any board of county commissioners for the apprehension of any person or persons convicted of or charged with any criminal offense, if the offense be a felony, the person or persons who shall first apprehend, bring back, and secure such person or persons so charged shall be entitled to such reward, and the board of county commissioners who have offered such reward are authorized to draw a warrant or warrants on the county treasurer for the amount of such reward, who shall pay the amount of said warrant or warrants out of any money in the county treasury not otherwise appropriated. [L. '86, p. 124, § 2; 1 H. C., § 2944.]

§ 2251. (7026.) Conflicting Claims for, How Determined.

When more than one claimant applies for the payment of any reward, offered by any board of county commissioners, such commissioners shall determine, in their respective counties, to whom the same shall be paid, and if to more than one person, in what proportion to each, and their determination shall be final and conclusive. [L. '86, p. 124, § 3; 1 H. C., § 2945.]

§ 2252. State to Pay Expense of Foreign Government in Returning Fugitive.

The state auditor is hereby authorized to audit and allow all just and legal claims which any foreign government or its officers may have against this state, in accordance with the general fee-bills for like services, for the capture, detention, and keeping of any criminal who has escaped from this state and taken refuge in any foreign jurisdiction; and upon the allowance of any such claim, he shall draw his warrant upon the state treasury therefor; and the state treasurer is hereby required to pay the same out of any funds in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated. [L. '75, p. 115, § 1; 1 H. C., § 2946.]

It has been considered that this section applied only to claims existing at the time of its enactment.

CHAPTER I.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

§ 2253. Classification of Crimes.

A crime is an act or omission forbidden by law and punishable upon conviction by death, imprisonment, fine or other penal discipline. Every crime which may be punished by death or by imprisonment in the state penitentiary is a felony. Every crime punishable by a fine of not more than two hundred and fifty dollars, or by imprisonment in a county jail for not more than ninety days, is a misdemeanor. Every other crime is a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 890, § 1.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4747; N. Y. P. C., § 3.

Former laws, see infra, § 2722.

Some of the provisions of this and the next chapter are inconsistent with the Criminal Code of Procedure, Title XIII. Whether the general clause in the title of this act, "rights and custody of persons accused or convicted of crime," is sufficient to authorize amendments to the Code of Procedure, or implied repeals thereof, is doubted, especially as this act does not purport to be a Code of Procedure, or a complete act on the "rights and custody" of accused persons. The inconsistent provisions of Title XIII are accordingly all retained. See, also, note to § 2304.

For cases bearing on this title, see former laws on the same subject.

§ 2254. Persons Punishable.

The following persons are liable to punishment:

1. A person who commits in the state any crime, in whole or in part.
2. A person who commits out of the state any act which, if after committed within it, would be larceny, and is afterward found in the state with any of the stolen property.
3. A person who, being out of the state, counsels, causes, procures, aids, or abets another to commit a crime in this state.
4. A person who, being out of the state, abducts or kidnaps, by force or fraud, any person, contrary to the laws of the place where the act is committed, and brings, sends or conveys such person into this state.
5. A person who commits an act without the state which affects persons or property within the state, or the public health, morals or decency of the state, which, if committed within the state, would be a crime. [L. '09, p. 890, § 2.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4750; N. Y. P. C., § 16.

Former laws, see supra, § 2010.

§ 2255. Duress of Married Woman No Defense.

It is no defense for a married woman charged with the commission of a crime, that the alleged act committed by her was committed in the presence of her husband. [L. '09, p. 891, § 3.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4752; N. Y. P. C., § 24.

§ 2256. Duress as a Defense.

Whenever any crime, except murder, is committed or participated in by two or more persons, any one of whom participates only under compulsion by another engaged therein, who by threats creates a reasonable apprehension in the mind of such participator that in case of refusal he is liable to instant death or grievous bodily harm, such threats and apprehension constitute duress, which will excuse such participator from criminal prosecution. [L. '09, p. 891, § 4.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4753.

§ 2257. Responsibility of Children.

Children under the age of eight years are incapable of committing crime. Children of eight and under twelve years of age are presumed to be incapable of committing crime, but this presumption may be removed by proof that they have sufficient capacity to understand the act or neglect, and to know that it was wrong. Whenever in legal proceedings it becomes necessary to determine the age of a child, he may be produced for inspection, to enable the court or jury to determine the age thereby; and the court may also direct his examination by one or more physicians, whose opinion shall be competent evidence upon the question of his age. [L. '09, p. 891, § 5.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4753; N. Y. P. C., §§ 18, 19.

§ 2258. Intoxication No Defense.

No act committed by a person while in a state of voluntary intoxication shall be deemed less criminal by reason of his condition, but whenever the actual existence of any particular purpose, motive or intent is a necessary element to constitute a particular species or degree of crime, the fact of his intoxication may be taken into consideration in determining such purpose, motive or intent. [L. '09, p. 891, § 6.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4755; N. Y. P. C., § 22.

§ 2259. Insanity, Idiocy, Imbecility, Criminal Propensity, No Defense.

It shall be no defense to a person charged with the commission of a crime, that at the time of its commission, he was unable by reason of his insanity, idiocy or imbecility to comprehend the nature and quality of the act committed, or to understand that it was wrong; or that he was afflicted with a morbid propensity to commit prohibited acts; nor shall any testimony or other proof thereof be admitted in evidence. [L. '09, p. 892, § 7.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., §§ 20, 21, 23.

Insanity as a defense, in title on "Procedure," see §§ 2173-2176, which were not expressly repealed by the act of 1909.

See infra, § 2283, determination of insanity by court and medical experts.

See infra, §§ 5953-5970, determination of insanity and commitment of criminal insane.

The right to "trial by jury" is guaranteed by the 6th Amendment to the Federal Constitution; but the State Constitution, Art. I, § 21, provides that the right to trial by jury "shall remain inviolate."

§ 2260. Principal Defined.

Every person concerned in the commission of a felony, gross misdemeanor or misdemeanor, whether he directly commits the act constituting the offense, or aids or abets in its commission, and whether present or absent; and every person who directly or indirectly counsels, encourages, hires, commands, induces or otherwise procures another to commit a felony, gross misdemeanor or misdemeanor, is a principal, and shall be proceeded against and punished as such. The fact that the person aided, abetted, counseled, encouraged, hired, commanded, induced or procured, could not or did not entertain a criminal intent, shall not be a defense to any person aiding, abetting, counseling, encouraging, hiring, commanding, inducing or procuring him. [L. '09, p. 892, § 8.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4758; N. Y. P. C., §§ 28, 29.

See supra, § 2007, and notes, distinctions relating to accessory abolished.

§ 2261. Accessory Defined.

Every person not standing in the relation of husband or wife, brother or sister, parent or grandparent, child or grandchild, to the offender, who after the commission of a felony shall harbor, conceal or aid such offender with intent that he may avoid or escape from arrest, trial, conviction or punishment, having knowledge that such offender has committed a felony or is liable to arrest, is an accessory to the felony. [L. '09, p. 892, § 9.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4759; N. Y. P. C., § 30.

See supra, § 2008, accessory in the Code of Procedure.

§ 2262. Trial and Punishment of Accessories.

Every accessory to a felony may be indicted, tried and convicted either in the county where he became an accessory, or where the principal felony was committed; and whether the principal offender has or has not been convicted, or is or is not amenable to justice, or has been pardoned or otherwise discharged after conviction; and, except where a different punishment is specially provided by law, such accessory shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 892, § 10.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4760; N. Y. P. C., § 32.

See supra, § 2009, trial of accessories.

See supra, § 2017, venue of action against accessories.

See infra, § 2787, accessories in arson.

§ 2263. Conviction of Lesser Crime.

Upon the trial of an indictment or information, the defendant may be convicted of the crime charged therein, or of a lesser degree of the same crime, or of an attempt to commit the crime so charged, or of an attempt to commit a lesser degree of the same crime. Whenever the jury shall find a verdict of guilty against a person so charged, they shall in their verdict specify the degree or attempt of which the accused is guilty. [L. '09, p. 893, § 11.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4757; N. Y. P. C., § 35.

See supra, § 2167, jury may find any degree of offense, when.

§ 2264. Attempts, How Punished.

An act done with intent to commit a crime, and tending but failing to accomplish it, is an attempt to commit that crime; and every person who attempts to commit a crime, unless otherwise prescribed by statute, shall be punished as follows:

(1.) If the crime attempted is punishable by death or life imprisonment, the person convicted of the attempt shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than twenty years.

(2.) In every other case he shall be punished by imprisonment in such manner as may be prescribed for the commission of the completed offense, for not more than half the longest term, or by a fine of not more than half the largest sum, prescribed upon conviction for the commission of the offense attempted, or by both such fine and imprisonment; but nothing herein shall protect a person who, in an unsuccessful attempt to commit one crime, does commit another and different one, from the punishment prescribed for the crime actually committed; and a person may be convicted of an attempt to commit a crime, although it appears on the trial that the crime was consummated, unless the court in its discretion shall discharge the jury and direct the defendant to be tried for the crime itself. [L. '09, p. 893, § 12.]

See infra, § 3274, attempts in misdemeanors against animals.

§ 2265. Punishment of Felony When not Fixed by Statute.

Every person convicted of a felony for which no punishment is specially prescribed by any statutory provision in force at the time of conviction and sentence, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years, or by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 894, § 13.]

§ 2266. Punishment of Misdemeanor When not Fixed by Statute.

Every person convicted of a misdemeanor for which no punishment is prescribed by any statute in force at the time of conviction and sentence, shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than ninety days, or by a fine of not more than two hundred and fifty dollars. [L. '09, p. 894, § 14.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2984.

§ 2267. Punishment of Gross Misdemeanor When not Fixed by Statute.

Every person convicted of a gross misdemeanor for which no punishment is prescribed in any statute in force at the time of conviction and sentence, shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 894, § 15.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2984.

§ 2268. Nonfeasance in Office.

Whenever any duty is enjoined by law upon any public officer or other person holding any public trust or employment, their willful neglect to perform such duty, except where otherwise specially provided for, shall be a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 894, § 16.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2724.

§ 2269. Prohibited Acts.

Whenever the performance of any act is prohibited by any statute, and no penalty for the violation of such statute is imposed, the committing of such act shall be a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 894, § 17.]

See infra, § 2724, identical enactment.

§ 2270. Acts Punishable Elsewhere.

An act or omission punishable as a crime in this state is not less so because it is also punishable under the laws of another state, government or country, unless the contrary is expressly declared in the law relating thereto. [L. '09, p. 894, § 18.]

§ 2271. Foreign Conviction or Acquittal.

Whenever, upon the trial of any person for a crime, it appears that the offense was committed in another state or country, under such circumstances that the courts of this state had jurisdiction thereof, and that the defendant has already been acquitted or convicted upon the merits, upon a criminal prosecution under the laws of such state or country, founded upon the act or omission with respect to which he is upon trial, such former acquittal or conviction is a sufficient defense. [L. '09, p. 895, § 19.]

§ 2272. Conviction or Acquittal in Other County.

Whenever, upon the trial of any person for a crime, it shall appear that the defendant has already been acquitted or convicted upon the merits, of the same crime, in a court having jurisdiction of such offense in another county of this state, such former acquittal or conviction is a sufficient defense. [L. '09, p. 895, § 20.]

Compare § 2113, supra, when a bar.

§ 2273. Punishment for Contempt.

A criminal act which at the same time constitutes contempt of court, and has been punished as such, may also be punished as a crime, but in such case the punishment for contempt may be considered in mitigation. [L. '09, p. 895, § 21.]

See infra, § 2372, criminal contempt.

§ 2274. Sending Letter, When Complete.

Whenever any statute makes the sending of a letter criminal, the offense shall be deemed complete from the time it is deposited in any postoffice or other place, or delivered to any person, with intent that it shall be forwarded; and the sender may be proceeded against in the county wherein it was so deposited or delivered, or in which it was received by the person to whom it was addressed. [L. '09, p. 895, § 22.]

§ 2275. Omission, When not Punishable.

No person shall be punished for an omission to perform an act when such act has been performed by another acting in his behalf, and competent to perform it. [L. '09, p. 895, § 23.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4770.

§ 2276. Commitment to Washington State Training School.

Whenever any boy between the ages of eight and sixteen years, or any girl between the ages of eight and eighteen years, shall be found guilty of any crime, except murder or manslaughter, the court may, in its discretion, order such person committed to the Washington state training school to remain, in case of a boy, until he shall arrive at the age of eighteen years and, in case of a girl, until she shall arrive at the age of nineteen years, unless sooner paroled or legally discharged. [L. '09, p. 896, § 24.]

§ 2277. Commitment to Washington State Reformatory.

Whenever any male person, between the ages of sixteen and thirty years, never before convicted in this state or elsewhere of any crime which under the laws of this state would amount to a felony, shall be convicted of any felony except murder, arson in the first degree, or robbery, the court may, in its discretion order such person to be committed to and confined in the Washington state reformatory. [L. '09, p. 896, § 25.]

Compare supra, §§ 2194, 2195, and infra, § 8585, commitment to state reformatory.

§ 2278. Transfer of Prisoners.

Whenever in their judgment, the welfare of any prisoner or prisoners confined in any penal institution shall require that any prisoner be removed from one institution to another, the board having control of such institution shall have authority to order such removal. [L. '09, p. 896, § 26.]

See infra, § 2284, transfer of insane prisoners.

See infra, §§ 8536 and 8955, transportation of convicts and insane.

§ 2279. Employment of Prisoners.

The sheriff of each county shall employ all male persons sentenced to imprisonment in the county jail thereof in such manner and at such places within the county as may be directed by the board of county commissioners of such county. [L. '09, p. 896, § 27.]

See supra, §§ 1933, 2209, fines, how worked out.

See supra, §§ 1977, 1978, employment of vagrants.

See infra, §§ 8493, 8494, prisoners sentenced to labor when.

§ 2280. Suspending Sentences.

Whenever any person under the age of twenty-one years shall be convicted of any crime except murder, burglary in the first degree, arson in the first degree, robbery, carnal knowledge of a female child under the age of ten years, or rape, the court may in its discretion, at the time of imposing sentence upon such person, direct that such sentence be stayed and suspended until otherwise ordered by such court. [L. '09, p. 896, § 28.]

See supra, § 2191, suspending sentences. See note to § 2253.

§ 2281. Indeterminate Sentences.

Whenever any person shall be convicted of any felony for which no fixed period of confinement is imposed by law, the court shall, in addition to any fine or forfeiture which he may impose, direct that such person be confined in the state penitentiary, or in the Washington state reformatory, as the case may be, for a term not less than the minimum nor greater than the maximum term of imprisonment prescribed by law for the offense of which such person shall be convicted; and where no minimum term of imprisonment is prescribed by law, the court shall fix the same in his discretion at not less than six months nor more than five years; and where no maximum term of imprisonment is prescribed by law, the court shall fix such maximum term of imprisonment. [L. '09, p. 897, § 29.]

For former laws, see supra, § 2193, indeterminate sentence to penitentiary. See note to § 2253.

See supra, § 2195, indeterminate sentence to reformatory not repealed.

§ 2282. The Board having Control to Determine Period of Imprisonment.

The state board of control, acting in conjunction with the warden of the state penitentiary, or the board of managers of the Washington state reformatory, acting in conjunction with the superintendent of such reformatory, as the case may be, may at any time after the expiration of the minimum term of imprisonment for which such prisoner was committed thereto, direct that any prisoner confined in such institution shall be released on parole upon such terms and conditions as in their judgment they may prescribe in each case. [L. '09, p. 897, § 30.]

§ 2283. Confinement of Insane Prisoners.

Whenever, in the judgment of the court trying the same, any person convicted of a crime shall have been at the time of its commission unable by reason of his insanity, idiocy or imbecility, to comprehend the nature and quality of his act, or to understand that it was wrong, or shall be at the time of his conviction or sentence insane or an idiot or imbecile, such court may in its discretion direct that such person be confined for treatment in one of the state hospitals for the insane or in the insane ward of the state penitentiary, until such person shall have recovered his sanity. In determining whether any person convicted of a crime was at the time of the commission thereof unable by reason of his insanity, idiocy or imbecility to comprehend the nature and quality of his act, or to understand that it was wrong, or is at the time of his conviction or sentence insane or an idiot or imbecile, the court may take counsel with one or more experts in the diagnosis and treatment of insanity, idiocy and imbecility, and may make such personal or other examination of the defendant as in his judgment may be necessary to aid in the determination. [L. '09, p. 897, § 31.]

See note to § 2253. This section would fall, also, in case § 2259 is held unconstitutional, or ineffectual as a repeal of §§ 2173-2176. See note to § 2175.

See supra, § 2176, acquittal and confinement of insane unsafe to be at large.

See infra, §§ 5974-5978, confinement and discharge of the criminal insane.

§ 2284. Removal of Insane Convict.

Whenever in the judgment of the state board of control the welfare of any person confined in any penal institution, or in any institution for the care of the insane, shall require that he be removed for treatment or confinement to another institution for the care of the insane, or to the insane ward of the state penitentiary, they shall be authorized to order such removal, but whenever a change is made in the location of any such inmate, a record open to the public shall be made and the relatives of such inmate shall be notified of the change. [L. '09, p. 898, § 32.]

See supra, § 2278, removal of prisoners for any cause.

§ 2285. Imprisonment on Two or More Convictions.

Whenever a person shall be convicted of two or more offenses before sentence has been pronounced for either, the imprisonment to which he is sentenced upon the second or other subsequent conviction shall commence at the termination of the first or other prior term or terms of imprisonment to which he is sentenced; and whenever a person while under sentence of felony shall commit another felony and be sentenced to another term of imprisonment, such latter term shall not begin until the expiration of all prior terms. [L. '09, p. 898, § 33.]

Compare §§ 2177-2180, supra, on this subject. See note to § 2253.

§ 2286. Habitual Criminals.

Every person convicted in this state of any crime of which fraud or intent to defraud is an element, or of petit larceny, or of any felony, who shall previously have been convicted, whether in this state or elsewhere, of any crime which under the laws of this state would amount to a felony, or who shall previously have been twice convicted, whether in this state or elsewhere, of petit larceny, or of any misdemeanor or gross misdemeanor of which fraud or intent to defraud is an element, shall be adjudged to be an habitual criminal and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not less than ten years.

Every person convicted in this state of any crime of which fraud or intent to defraud is an element, or of petit larceny, or of any felony, who shall previously have been twice convicted, whether in this state or elsewhere, of any crime which under the laws of this state would amount to a felony, or who shall previously have been four times convicted, whether in this state or elsewhere, of petit larceny, or of any misdemeanor or gross misdemeanor of which fraud or intent to defraud is an element, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for life. [L. '09, p. 899, § 34.]

Compare §§ 2177-2180, supra, on this subject.
See infra, § 8554, second term convicts.

§ 2287. Prevention of Procreation.

Whenever any person shall be adjudged guilty of carnal abuse of a female person under the age of ten years, or of rape, or shall be adjudged to be an habitual criminal, the court may, in addition to such other punishment or confinement as may be imposed, direct an operation to be performed upon such person, for the prevention of procreation. [L. '09, p. 899, § 35.]

United States Const., Art. VIII, prohibits cruel or unusual punishments.

§ 2288. Convicts Protected—Forfeitures Abolished.

Every person sentenced to imprisonment in any penal institution shall be under the protection of the law, and any unauthorized injury to his person shall be punished in the same manner as if he were not so convicted or sentenced. A conviction of crime shall not work a forfeiture of any property, real or personal, or of any right or interest therein. All forfeitures in the nature of deodands, or in case of suicide or where a person flees from justice, are abolished. [L. '09, p. 899, § 36.]

Forfeitures abolished, see Const., Art. I, § 15.

§ 2289. Conviction of Public Officer Forfeits Office.

The conviction of a public officer of any felony or malfeasance in office shall entail, in addition to such other penalty as may be imposed, the forfeiture of his office, and shall disqualify him from ever afterwards holding any public office in this state. [L. '09, p. 900, § 37.]

§ 2290. Convict as Witness.

Every person convicted of a crime shall be a competent witness in any civil or criminal proceeding, but his conviction may be proved for the purpose of affecting the weight of his testimony, either by the record thereof, or a copy of such record duly authenticated by the legal custodian thereof, or by other competent evidence, or by his cross-examination, upon which he shall answer any proper question relevant to that inquiry, and the party cross-examining shall not be concluded by his answer thereto. [L. '09, p. 900, § 38.]

See supra, § 2147, competency of witnesses.

§ 2291. Incriminating Testimony not to be Used.

In every case where it is provided in this act that a witness shall not be excused from giving testimony tending to criminate himself, no person shall be excused from testifying or producing any papers or documents on the ground that his testimony may tend to criminate or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture; but he shall not be prosecuted or subjected to a penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any action, matter or thing concerning which he shall so testify, except for perjury or offering false evidence committed in such testimony. [L. '09, p. 900, § 39.]

See infra, § 2451, in abortion and selling drugs.

See infra, § 2480, in gambling and swindling.

See infra, § 2568, in criminal anarchy.

§ 2292. Intent to Defraud.

Whenever an intent to defraud shall be made an element of an offense, it shall be sufficient if an intent appears to defraud any person, association or body politic or corporate whatsoever. [L. '09, p. 900, § 40.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2820.

§ 2293. Crimes on Railway Trains, Boats, etc.

The route traversed by any railway car, coach, train or other public conveyance, and the water traversed by any boat shall be criminal districts; and the jurisdiction of all public offenses committed on any such railway car, coach, train, boat or other public conveyance, or at any station or depot upon such route, shall be in any county through which said car, coach, train, boat or other public conveyance may pass during the trip or voyage, or in which the trip or voyage may begin or terminate. [L. '09, p. 900, § 41.]

See Const., Art. I, § 22, right to trial by jury of county where offense is alleged to have been committed.

§ 2294. Application to Prior Offenses.

Nothing contained in any provisions of this act shall apply to an offense committed or act done at any time before the day when this act shall take effect. Such an offense shall be punished according to, and such act shall be governed by, the provisions of law existing when it is done or committed, in the same manner as if this act had not been passed. [L. '09, p. 901, § 42.]

See supra, § 2006, general saving clause.

See supra, § 2221, general saving clause in act of 1901, Ex. Ses., p. 19.

§ 2295. Application to Existing Civil Rights.

Nothing in this act shall be deemed to affect any civil right or remedy existing at the time when it shall take effect, by virtue of the common law or of the provision of any statute. [L. '09, p. 901, § 43.]

The title to this act seems to limit its scope to criminal matters. See note to § 2304.

§ 2296. Civil Remedies Preserved.

The omission to specify or affirm in this act any liability to any damages, penalty, forfeiture or other remedy, imposed by law, and allowed to be recovered or enforced in any civil action or proceeding, for any act or omission declared punishable herein, shall not affect any right to recover or enforce the same. [L. '09, p. 901, § 44.]

See note to last section.

§ 2297. Proceedings to Impeach, etc., Preserved.

The omission to specify or affirm in this act any ground of forfeiture of a public office or other trust or special authority conferred by law, or any power conferred by law to impeach, remove, depose or suspend any public officer or other person holding any trust, appointment or other special authority conferred by law, shall not affect such forfeiture or power, or any proceeding authorized by law to carry into effect such impeachment, removal, deposition or suspension. [L. '09, p. 901, § 45.]

§ 2298. Rule of Construction.

Every provision of this act shall be construed according to the fair import of its terms. [L. '09, p. 902, § 46.]

§ 2299. Common Law to Supplement Statute.

The provisions of the common law relating to the commission of crime and the punishment thereof, in so far as not inconsistent with the institutions and statutes of this state, shall supplement all penal statutes of this state and all persons offending against the same shall be tried in the superior courts of this state. [L. '09, p. 902, § 47.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2723.

§ 2300. To be Construed as Continuation of Former Acts.

The provisions of this act, in so far as they are substantially the same as existing statutes, shall be construed as continuations thereof and not as new enactments. [L. '09, p. 902, § 48.]

See next section, apparently inconsistent with this section.

§ 2301. Act as Measure of Law.

No statute, law or rule is continued in force because it is consistent with the provisions of this act on the same subject; but in all cases provided for by this act, all statutes, laws and rules heretofore in force in this state, whether consistent or not with the provisions of this act, unless expressly continued in force by it, are repealed and abrogated. [L. '09, p. 902, § 49.]

See supra, § 2300, consistent statutes construed as continuations of earlier acts.

See infra, § 2304, all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith repealed.

Much that is "provided for by this act on the same subject" was already covered by special legislation of a purely regulative nature enforced by and imposing fines and penalties for misdemeanors or offenses created. In view of the restricted title of this act, and of the inconsistency between this and other sections, it seems that a reasonable construction of this section would limit its application strictly to the provisions embraced in the old Penal Code. Accordingly, all special legislation imposing regulative fines and penalties for misdemeanors or offenses created are retained as concurrent or additional remedies not included within the title of this act.

There are a number of sections of the old Penal Code not "provided for by this act on the same subject" and not inconsistent with any provisions of this act, the repeal of which, accordingly, depends entirely upon the schedule of repealed acts in § 2304, infra. In view of the fact that these sections are not mentioned in the title and that many other sections of the old Penal Code are not mentioned, repealed, or affected, these sections may be still in force. From a cursory inspection, it would seem that the following sections repealed by the schedule in § 2304 might not be "provided for by this act on the same subject," or inconsistent with any provision of this act, viz.:

LIST OF ACTS NOT PROVIDED FOR ON SAME SUBJECT:

§ 2762, cruelty to children.
 § 2771, reckless shooting, etc.
 §§ 2772, 2773, flourishing and exhibiting dangerous weapons, etc.
 § 2804, presumption from possession of range stock.
 § 2813, allegations and proof on embezzlement of public funds.
 § 2817, secreting or destroying wills.
 § 2834, malicious injury to vessels.
 §§ 2846, 2847, misrepresentations of pedigree.
 § 2850, drawing check without funds.
 § 2864, failure to attend as witness.
 § 2877, willful inhumanity to prisoners.

 §§ 2949, 2950, obstructing highways.
 § 2952, failure of road supervisor to perform duty.
 § 2962, selling liquor without a license.
 § 2964, allowing minor to play cards.
 § 2965, minor misrepresenting age.
 § 2966, sale of liquor to Indians.
 §§ 2982, 2983, proceedings to prevent cock-fights, trial, etc.
 See, also, §§ 2517, 2751, 2788, 2802, 2812, 2825-2830, 2838, 2890, 2942, 2955, 2975, 2981, 2988.

§ 2302. Repeal does not Revive Former Law.

The repeal or abrogation by this act of any existing law shall not revive any former law heretofore repealed, nor affect any right already existing or accrued or any action or proceeding already taken, except as in this act provided; nor does it repeal any private statute or statute affecting civil rights or liabilities not expressly repealed. [L. '09, p. 902, § 50.]

The title of this act seems to limit its scope to criminal matters. See note to § 2304. See supra, §§ 2295, 2296, no civil rights affected.

§ 2303. Definition of Terms.

In construing the provisions of this act, save when otherwise plainly declared or clearly apparent from the context, the following rules shall be observed:

(1.) Each of the words "neglect," "negligence," "negligent," and "negligently" shall import a want of such attention to the nature or probable consequences of an act or omission as an ordinarily prudent man usually exercises in his own business.

(2.) Each of the words "corrupt" and "corruptly" shall import a wrongful desire to acquire or cause some pecuniary or other advantage to himself or another, by the person to whom applicable.

(3.) "Malice" and "maliciously" shall import an evil intent, wish or design to vex, annoy or injure another person. Malice may be inferred from an act done in willful disregard of the rights of another, or an act wrongfully done without just cause or excuse, or an act or omission of duty betraying a willful disregard of social duty.

(4.) The word "knowingly" imports a knowledge that the facts exist which constitute the act or omission of a crime, and does not require knowledge of its unlawfulness; knowledge of any particular fact may be inferred from the knowledge of such other facts as should put an ordinarily prudent man upon inquiry.

(5.) Whenever an intent to defraud constitutes a part of a crime, it is not necessary to aver or prove an intent to defraud any particular person.

(6.) The word "boat" shall include ships, steamers and other structures adapted to navigation or movement from place to place by water.

(7.) The word "signature" shall include any memorandum, mark, or sign made with intent to authenticate any instrument or writing, or the subscription of any person thereto.

(8.) The word "writing" shall include printing.

(9.) The word "property" shall include both real and personal property.

(10.) The term "real property" shall include every estate, interest and right in lands, tenements and hereditaments, corporeal or incorporeal.

(11.) The term "personal property" shall include dogs and all domestic animals and birds, water, gas and electricity, all kinds or descriptions of money, chattels and effects, all instruments or writings completed and ready to be delivered or issued by the maker, whether actually delivered or issued or not, by which any claim, privilege, right, obligation or authority, or any right or title to property real or personal, is, or purports to be, or upon the happening of some future event may be evidenced, created, acknowledged, transferred, increased, diminished, encumbered, defeated, discharged or affected, and every right and interest therein.

(12.) The word "bond" shall include an undertaking.

(13.) Words in the present tense shall include the future tense; and in the masculine shall include the feminine and neuter genders; and in the singular shall include the plural; and in the plural shall include the singular.

(14.) The word "person" shall include a corporation or joint stock association; and whenever it is used to designate a party whose property may be the subject of the offense, it shall also include the state, or any other state, government or country which may lawfully own property within this state.

(15.) The term "judge" shall include every judicial officer authorized, alone or with others, to hold or preside over a court of record.

(16.) Any person shall be deemed an "owner" of any property who has a general or special property in the whole or any part thereof, or lawful possession thereof, either actual or constructive.

(17.) The words "dwelling-house" shall include every building or structure which shall have been usually occupied by a person lodging therein at night, and whenever it shall be so constructed as to consist of two or more parts or rooms occupied or intended to be occupied, whether permanently or temporarily, by different tenants separately by usually lodging therein at night, or for any other separate purpose, each part shall be deemed a separate dwelling-house of the tenant occupying the same.

(18.) The word "building" shall include every house, shed, boat, water craft, railway car, tent or booth, whether completed or not, suitable for affording shelter for any human being, or as a place where any property is or shall be kept for use, sale or deposit.

(19.) The word "night-time" shall include the period between sunset and sunrise; the word "daytime" the period between sunrise and sunset.

(20.) The word "break," when used in connection with the crime of burglary, shall include:

(a) Breaking or violently detaching any part, internal or external, of a building;

(b) Opening, for the purpose of entering therein, any outer door of a building or of any room, apartment or set of apartments therein separately used and occupied, or any window, shutter, scuttle or other thing used for covering or closing any opening thereto or therein, or which gives passage from one part thereof to another;

(c) Obtaining entrance into such building or apartment by any threat or artifice, used for that purpose, or by collusion with any person therein;

(d) Entering such building, room or apartment by or through any pipe, chimney or other opening, or by excavating or digging through or under a building or the walls or foundation thereof.

(21.) The word "enter," when constituting an element or part of a crime, shall include the entrance of the offender, or the insertion of any part of his body, or of any instrument or weapon held in his hand and used or intended to be used to threaten or intimidate a person, or to detach or remove property.

(22.) The term "railway" or "railroad" shall include all railways, railroads and street railways, whether operated by steam, electricity or any other motive power.

(23.) The words "indicted" and "indictment" shall include "informed against" and "information"; and the words "informed against" and "information" shall include the words "indicted" and "indictment."

(24.) The words "officer" and "public officer" shall include all assistants, deputies, clerks and employees of any public officer and all persons exercising or assuming to exercise any of the powers or functions of a public officer.

(25.) The word "juror" shall include a talesman, and extend to jurors in all courts, whether of record or not.

(26.) The word "prisoner" shall include any person held in custody under lawful arrest.

(27.) The word "prison" shall mean any place designated by law for the keeping of persons held in custody under process of law, or under lawful arrest. [L. '09, p. 902, § 51.]

§ 2304. Acts Repealed.

All acts or parts of acts enumerated in the following schedule, and all acts, and parts of acts in conflict with the provisions hereof, are hereby repealed.

SCHEDULE OF ACTS REPEALED.

Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington, sections 3485, 3486, 3766, 4372, 4376, 6724, 6727 to 6736, inclusive; 6773 to 6776 inclusive; 6866, 6908, 6910 to 6916, inclusive; 6925 to 6927, inclusive; 6945; 7035 to 7071, inclusive; 7073 to 7089, inclusive; 7094 to 7101, inclusive; 7103 to 7116, inclusive; 7118 to 7126, inclusive; 7128 to 7132, inclusive; 7136 to 7142, inclusive; 7144, 7145, 7146a, 7147, 7154, 7155, 7156, 7160, 7165 to 7168, inclusive; 7175, 7176, 7185 to 7231, inclusive; 7233 to 7256, inclusive; 7259, 7260, 7261, 7264, 7265, 7266, 7268, 7269, 7275 to 7286, inclusive; 7288, 7293 to 7296, inclusive; 7298 to 7301, inclusive; 7305, 7306, 7310 to 7317, inclusive; 7322, 7323, 7324, 7334 to 7343, inclusive; 7404, 7405, 7435 to 7440, inclusive;

Laws of Washington, 1901, chapters 17, 25, 34, 40, 59, 145, 154;

Laws of Washington, 1903, chapters 5, 13, 14, 45, 51, 52, 55, 56, 112, 123, 128, 131, section 1;

Laws of Washington, 1905, chapters 24, 33, 42, 49, 77, 98, 158, 179;

Laws of Washington, 1907, chapters 35, 39, 103, 128, 148, 155, 169, 170. [L. '09, p. 906, § 52.]

This title embraces chapter 249, Laws of 1909, commonly called the "Penal Code of 1909." Although it is not a complete penal code, it embraces more than a mere definition of "Crimes and Punishments." The title of the act is: "An act relating to crimes and punishments, and the rights and custody of persons accused or convicted of crime, and repealing certain acts."

In view of the general nature of the title of this act, a doubt exists as to the effect of this schedule of acts repealed. Accordingly, in so far as the repealed acts seem not in conflict with other provisions of this act, or not clearly embraced in the title of this act, they are all retained. The former conflicting laws defining crimes and punishments are retained in the appendix. This schedule of acts repealed will, therefore, be found herein, in the order named in this section, in the following sections of this compilation: 2983, 3200, 3201, 5561, 9317, 9321, 1967, 1970 to 1979 inclusive; 2722 to 2725, inclusive; 2078, 2117, 2119 to 2125, inclusive; 2131 to 2133, inclusive; 2157, 2726 to 2762, inclusive; 2763 to 2779, inclusive; 2784 to 2791, inclusive; 2792 to 2806, inclusive; 2807 to 2815, inclusive; 2816 to 2820, inclusive; 2821 to 2827, inclusive; 2828, 2830, 2831, 2832, 2833, 2834, 2835, 2836, 2843 to 2845, inclusive; 2846, 2847, 2851 to 2894, inclusive; 2896 to 2922, inclusive; 2923, 2924, 2925, 2926, 2927, 2928, 2929, 2930, 2936 to 2947, inclusive; 2948, 2949 to 2952, inclusive; 2953 to 2956, inclusive; 2957, 2958, 2960 to 2967, inclusive; 2969, 2970, 2971, 2972 to 2981, inclusive; 2982 to 2989, inclusive; 2888, 2840, 2793, 2841, 2740, 2829, 2990, 2792, 2801, 2842; 2780 to 2783, inclusive; 2931, 2932, 2917, 2970, 2837, 2838, 2839, 2902, 2903, 2729, 2848, 2191, 2192, 2757, 3672, 2850, 2799, 2959, 2991, 2935, 3896, 3897, 5933, 6570, 6571, 2968, 2193; 8548 to 8554, inclusive; 2989, 2155.

This list includes all of the schedule except chapter 179, Laws of 1905, which was held void in Leonard v. Bassindale, 46 Wash. 301.

A number of the above sections sought to be repealed are part of the Criminal Code of Procedure, Title XIII; and many other sections of that title are embraced within, impliedly repealed by, or inconsistent with, various sections of this act. Title XIII is, however, retained in its entirety, because of the doubt as to whether the general clause in the title of this act, "rights and custody of persons accused or convicted of crime," is sufficient to authorize amendments or implied repeals of the Criminal Code of Procedure; especially as this act does not purport to cover procedure, or to be a complete act on the "rights and custody" of accused persons.

The above schedule of repealed acts does not include all of the old Penal Code nor all the later penal enactments: See note to § 2697, infra.

The above schedule of repealed acts embraces a number of sections of the old Penal Code which are not covered by, nor in conflict or inconsistent with, any of the provisions of this act: See note to § 2301, supra, for acts not "provided for by this act on the same subject."

CHAPTER II.

RIGHTS OF ACCUSED.

§ 2305. Right to Counsel.

Whenever a defendant shall be arraigned upon the charge that he has committed any felony, and shall request the court to appoint counsel to assist in his defense, and shall by his own oath or such other proof as may be required satisfy the court that he is unable, by reason of poverty, to procure counsel, the court shall appoint counsel, not exceeding two, for such defendant, to be paid, upon its order by the county in which such proceeding is had, compensation not exceeding ten dollars per day for each counsel, for the number of days such counsel is actually employed in court upon the trial. [L. '09, p. 906, § 53.]

See, supra, § 2095, right to counsel.

As to conflict between this chapter and the Criminal Code of Procedure, see note to § 2253, supra.

§ 2306. Witnesses.

Every person accused of crime shall have the right to meet the witnesses produced against him face to face: Provided, that whenever any witness whose deposition shall have been taken pursuant to law by a magistrate, in the presence of the defendant and his counsel, shall be absent, and cannot be found when required to testify upon any trial or hearing, so much of such deposition as the court shall deem admissible and competent shall be admitted and read as evidence in such case. [L. '09, p. 907, § 54.]

Compare §§ 2131 and 2132, supra.

The proviso to this section is believed to be unconstitutional. See notes to § 2131, supra.

§ 2307. Right to Subpoena.

Every person charged with the commission of a crime shall have the right upon the trial of such charge to be heard in person or by counsel, and to produce witnesses and proofs in his favor and to have compulsory process to compel the attendance of all witnesses who may be necessary for his proper defense. [L. '09, p. 907, § 55.]

Compare § 2132, supra.

See Const., Art. I, § 22, covering this subject.

§ 2308. Presumption of Innocence—Conviction of Lowest Degree, When.

Every person charged with the commission of a crime shall be presumed innocent until the contrary is proved by competent evidence beyond a reasonable doubt: and when an offense has been proved against him, and there exists a reasonable doubt as to which of two or more degrees he is guilty, he shall be convicted only of the lowest. [L. '09, p. 907, § 56.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4784.

See supra, § 2263, jury to determine degree.

§ 2309. Conviction, When had.

No person informed against or indicted for a crime shall be convicted thereof, unless by admitting the truth of the charge in his plea, by confession in open court, or by the verdict of a jury, accepted and recorded by the court. [L. '09, p. 907, § 57.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4785.

For former laws, see § 2133, supra.

§ 2310. Bail, When Allowable.

Every person charged with an offense, except that of murder in the first degree, where the proof is evident or the presumption great, may be bailed by sufficient sureties, and bail shall justify and have the same rights as in civil cases, except as otherwise provided by law. The amount of bail in each case shall be determined by the court in its discretion and may from time to time be increased or decreased as circumstances may justify. [L. '09, p. 908, § 58.]

Compare § 2078, supra, right to bail as fixed by Title XIII, on procedure.

§ 2311. Proceedings Within Thirty Days.

Whenever a person has been held to answer to any criminal charge, if an indictment be not found or information filed against him within thirty days, the court shall order the prosecution to be dismissed, unless good cause to the contrary be shown. [L. '09, p. 908, § 59.]

See supra, § 2119, identical enactment.

§ 2312. Trial Within Sixty Days.

If a defendant indicted or informed against for an offense, whose trial has not been postponed upon his own application, be not brought to trial within sixty days after the indictment is found or the information filed, the court shall order it to be dismissed, unless good cause to the contrary is shown. [L. '09, p. 908, § 60.]

See supra, § 2120, identical enactment.

§ 2313. Discharge of Defendant and Bail upon Dismissal.

Whenever the court shall direct any criminal prosecution to be dismissed, the defendant shall, if in custody, be discharged therefrom, or if admitted to bail, his bail shall be exonerated, and if money has been deposited instead of bail it shall be refunded to the person depositing the same. [L. '09, p. 908, § 61.]

See supra, § 2122, identical enactment.

§ 2314. Nolle Prosequi.

The court may, either upon its own motion or upon application of the prosecuting attorney, and in furtherance of justice, order any criminal prosecution to be dismissed; but in such case the reason of the dismissal must be set forth in the order, which must be entered upon the record. No prosecuting attorney shall hereafter discontinue or abandon a prosecution except as provided in this section. [L. '09, p. 908, § 62.]

Compare § 2123, supra. See note to § 2253.

See supra, § 2124, nolle prosequi abolished.

§ 2315. Dismissal, When a Bar.

An order dismissing a prosecution under the provisions of sections 2311, 2312, or 2314 shall bar another prosecution for a misdemeanor or gross misdemeanor where the prosecution dismissed charged the same misdemeanor or gross misdemeanor, but in no other case shall such order of dismissal bar another prosecution. [L. '09, p. 909, § 63.]

Compare § 2125, supra.

§ 2316. Acquittal, When a Bar.

No order of dismissal or directed verdict of not guilty on the ground of a variance between the indictment or information and the proof, or on the ground of any defect in such indictment or information, shall bar another prosecution for the same offense. Whenever a defendant shall be acquitted or convicted upon an indictment or information charging a crime consisting of different degrees, he cannot be proceeded against or tried for the same crime in another degree, nor for an attempt to commit such crime, or any degree thereof. [L. '09, p. 909, § 64.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4792.

Compare § 2117, supra, acquittal on ground of no variance. See note to § 2253.

Compare § 2166, supra, acquittal on charge consisting of different degrees.

CHAPTER III.

CRIMES AGAINST THE SOVEREIGNTY OF THE STATE.

§ 2317. Treason Defined—Penalty.

Treason against the people of the state consists in—

1. Levying war against the people of the state, or
2. Adhering to its enemies, or
3. Giving them aid and comfort.

Treason is punishable by death.

No person shall be convicted for treason unless upon the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act or by confession in open court. [L. '09, p. 909, § 65.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., §§ 37, 38; Minn. Code, § 4793.

Treason is defined by Const., Art. I, § 27.

§ 2318. Levying War.

To constitute levying war against the state an actual act of war must be committed. To conspire to levy war is not enough. When persons arise in insurrection with intent to prevent, in general, by force and intimidation, the execution of a statute of this state, or to force its repeal, they shall be guilty of levying war. But an endeavor, although by numbers and force of arms, to resist the execution of a law in a single instance, and for a private purpose, is not levying war. [L. '09, p. 909, § 66.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4750; N. Y. P. C., § 40.

§ 2319. Misprision of Treason.

Every person having knowledge of the commission of treason, who conceals the same, and does not, as soon as may be, disclose such treason to the governor or a judge of the supreme court or a superior court, shall be guilty of misprision of treason and punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years or in a county jail for not more than one year. [L. '09, p. 910, § 67.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4794.

CHAPTER IV.

CRIMES BY OR AGAINST PUBLIC OFFICERS.

The subchapters of this act are preserved as enacted. For other crimes herein by or against public officers, not included in this subchapter, see infra:

- § 2569, Misappropriation and falsification of accounts by public officer.
- § 2570, Other violations by officers.
- § 2571, Misappropriation, by municipal treasurers.
- § 2584, False certificate to certain instruments.
- § 2605, Grand larceny by officers.
- § 2611, Oppression under color of office.
- § 2612, Extortion by public officer.
- § 2613, Blackmail.
- § 2616, Personating an officer.
- § 2627, Fraudulently presenting claim to public officer.
- § 2671, Solemnizing unlawful marriage.
- § 2672, Obstructing public officer.

Officers' failure to prosecute, and enforce laws, see infra, §§ 2918, 2927, 2928, 2930, 2952, 5286, 5400, and specific heads.

§ 2320. Bribery of Public Officer.

Every person who shall give, offer or promise, directly or indirectly, any compensation, gratuity or reward to any executive or administrative officer of the state, with intent to influence him with respect to any act, decision, vote, opinion or other proceeding, as such officer; or who shall give, offer or promise, directly or indirectly, any compensation, gratuity or reward to a member of the legislature, or attempt, directly or indirectly, by menace, deceit, suppression of truth or other corrupt means, to influence such member to give or withhold his vote, or to absent himself from the house of which he is a member or from any committee thereof; or who shall give, offer or promise, directly or indirectly, any compensation, gratuity or reward to a judicial officer, juror, referee, arbitrator, appraiser, assessor or other person authorized by law to hear or determine any question, matter, cause, proceeding or controversy, with intent to influence his action, vote, opinion or decision thereupon; or shall give, offer or promise, directly or indirectly, any compensation, gratuity or reward to a person executing any of the functions of a public officer other than as hereinbefore specified, with intent to influence him with respect to any act, decision, vote or other proceeding in the exercise of his powers or functions, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years, or by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 910, § 68.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4799; N. Y. P. C., §§ 44, 66, 71, 78.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2867, 2868, 2869.

See infra, §§ 4963, 4969, bribery of voter.

§ 2321. Asking or Receiving Bribe.

Every executive or administrative officer or person elected or appointed to an executive or administrative office who shall ask or receive, directly or indirectly, any compensation, gratuity or reward, or any promise thereof, upon an agreement or understanding that his vote, opinion or action upon any matter then pending, or which may by law be brought before him in his official capacity, shall be influenced thereby; and every member of either house of the legislature of the state who shall ask or receive, directly or indirectly, any compensation, gratuity or reward, or any promise thereof, upon an agreement or understanding that his official vote, opinion, judgment or action shall be influenced thereby, or shall be given in any particular manner, or upon any particular side of any question or matter upon which he may be required to act in his official capacity; and every judicial officer, and every person who executes any of the functions of a public office not hereinbefore specified, and every person employed by or acting for the state or for any public officer in the business of the state, who shall ask or receive, directly or indirectly, any compensation, gratuity or reward, or any promise thereof, upon an agreement or understanding that his vote, opinion, judgment, action, decision or other official proceeding shall be influenced thereby, or that he will do or omit any act or proceeding or in any way neglect or violate any official duty, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years, or by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 911, § 69.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4800; N. Y. P. C., §§ 45, 67, 72.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2867, 2868, 2869.

§ 2322. Juror, etc., Accepting Bribe.

Every juror, referee, arbitrator, appraiser, assessor, or other person authorized by law to hear or determine any question, matter, cause, controversy or proceeding, who shall ask or receive, directly or indirectly, any compensation, gratuity or reward, or any promise thereof, upon an agreement or understanding that his vote, opinion, action, judgment or decision shall be influenced thereby, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years, or by fine of not more than five thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 911, § 70.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4801; N. Y. P. C., § 74.

For former laws, see infra, § 2867.

§ 2323. Bribing Witness.

Every person who shall give, offer or promise, directly or indirectly, any compensation, gratuity or reward to any witness or person who may be called as a witness upon an agreement or understanding that the testimony of such witness shall be thereby influenced, or who shall willfully attempt by any other means to induce any witness or person who may be called as a witness to give false testimony, or to withhold true testimony, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years, or by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 912, § 71.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4802; N. Y. P. C., § 113.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2860, 2888.

See infra, § 2363, tampering with witness.

§ 2324. Witness Accepting Bribe.

Every person who is or may be a witness upon a trial, hearing, investigation or other proceeding before any court, tribunal or officer authorized to hear evidence or take testimony, who shall ask or receive, directly or indirectly, any compensation, gratuity or reward, or any promise thereof, upon an agreement or understanding that his testimony shall be influenced thereby, or that he will absent himself from the trial, hearing or other proceeding, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years, or by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 912, § 72.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4803; N. Y. P. C., § 80.

§ 2325. Influencing Juror.

Every person who shall influence, or attempt to influence, improperly, a juror in a civil or criminal action or any proceeding, or any person chosen or appointed as an arbitrator or referee, in respect to his verdict, judgment, report, award or decision in any cause or matter pending or about to be brought before him, in any case or in any manner not hereinbefore provided for, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 912, § 73.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4804; N. Y. P. C., § 75.

For former laws, see infra, § 2868.

§ 2326. Juror, etc., Promising Verdict, etc.

Every juror and every person chosen or appointed arbitrator or referee, who shall make any promise or agreement to give a verdict, judgment, report, award or decision for or against any party, or who shall willfully receive any communication, book, paper, instrument or information relating to a cause or matter pending before him, except according to the regular course of proceeding upon the trial or hearing of such cause or matter, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 913, § 74.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4805; N. Y. P. C., § 173.

§ 2327. Misconduct of Officer Drawing Jury.

Every person charged by law with the preparation of any jury list or list of names from which any jury is to be drawn, and every person authorized by law to assist at the drawing of a grand or petit jury to attend a court or term of court or to try any cause or issue, who shall—

(1.) Place in any such list any name at the request or solicitation, direct or indirect, of any person; or

(2.) Designedly put upon the list of jurors, as having been drawn, any name which was not lawfully drawn for that purpose; or

(3.) Designedly omit to place upon such list any name which was lawfully drawn; or

(4.) Designedly sign or certify a list of such jurors as having been drawn which were not lawfully drawn; or

(5.) Designedly and wrongfully withdraw from the box or other receptacle for the ballots containing the names of such jurors any paper or ballot lawfully placed or belonging there and containing the name of a juror, or omit to place therein any name lawfully drawn or designated, or place therein a paper or ballot containing the name of a person not lawfully drawn, and designated as a juror; or

(6.) In drawing or impaneling such jury, do any act which is unfair, partial or improper in any respect;

Shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 913, § 75.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4806; N. Y. P. C., § 76.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2863, 2865.

§ 2328. Soliciting Jury Duty.

Every person who shall, directly or indirectly, solicit or request any person charged with the duty of preparing any jury list to put his name, or the name of any other person, on any such list, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 914, § 76.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4807.

For former laws, see infra, § 2862.

§ 2329. Misconduct of Officer in Charge of Jury.

Every person to whose charge a jury shall be committed by a court or magistrate, who shall knowingly, without leave of such court or magistrate, permit them or any one of them to receive any communication from any person, to make any communication to any person, to obtain or receive any book, paper or refreshment, or to leave the jury-room, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 914, § 77.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4808; N. Y. P. C., § 77.

§ 2330. Offender a Competent Witness.

Every person offending against any of the provisions of law relating to bribery or corruption shall be a competent witness against another so offending and shall not be excused from giving testimony tending to criminate himself. [L. '09, p. 914, § 78.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4809; N. Y. P. C., § 79.

Compare §§ 2149, 2150, supra.

§ 2331. Interfering With Public Officer.

Every person who, by means of any threat, force or violence, shall attempt to deter and prevent any executive or administrative officer from performing any duty imposed upon him by law, or who shall knowingly resist by force or violence any executive or administrative officer in the performance of his duty, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 914, § 79.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4810; N. Y. P. C., §§ 46, 47.

For former laws, see infra, § 2874.

See, also, infra, § 2366, and notes.

§ 2332. Offering Reward for Appointment.

Every person who shall give, offer or promise, directly or indirectly, any compensation, gratuity or reward, in consideration that he or another person shall be appointed to a public office, or to a clerkship, deputation or other subordinate position in such office, or that he or any other person shall be permitted to exercise, perform or discharge any prerogative or duty or receive any emolument of such office, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 914, § 80.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4811; N. Y. P. C., § 52.

§ 2333. Grafting.

Every person who shall ask or receive any compensation, gratuity or reward, or any promise thereof, upon the representation that he can, directly or indirectly, or in consideration that he shall, or shall attempt to, directly or indirectly, influence any public officer, whether executive, administrative, judicial or legislative, to refuse, neglect, or defer the performance of any official duty; or who shall ask or receive any compensation, gratuity or reward, or any promise thereof, the right to retain or receive which shall be conditioned that such person shall, directly or indirectly, successfully influence by any means whatever any executive, administrative or legislative officer, in respect to any act, decision, vote, opinion or other proceeding, as such officer; or who shall ask or receive any compensation, gratuity or reward, or any promise thereof, upon the representation that he can, directly or indirectly, or in consideration that he shall, or shall attempt to, directly or indirectly, influence any public officer, whether executive, administrative, judicial or legislative, in respect to any act, decision, vote, opinion or other proceeding, as such officer, unless it be clearly understood and agreed in good faith between the parties thereto, on both sides, that no means or influence shall be employed except explanation and argument upon the merits, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor, and, in any prosecution, under the third clause of this section, evidence of the means actually employed to influence such officer shall be admitted as proof of the means originally contemplated by the defendant. [L. '09, p. 915, § 81.]

§ 2334. Misconduct of Public Officer.

Every public officer who shall—

(1.) Ask or receive, directly or indirectly, any compensation, gratuity or reward, or promise thereof, for omitting or deferring the performance of any official duty; or for any official service which has not been actually rendered, except in case of charges for prospective costs or fees demandable in advance in a case allowed by law; or

(2.) Be beneficially interested, directly or indirectly, in any contract, sale, lease or purchase which may be made by, through or under the supervision of such officer, in whole or in part, or which may be made for the benefit of his office, or accept, directly or indirectly, any compensation, gratuity or reward from any other person beneficially interested therein; or

(3.) Employ or use any person, money or property under his official control or direction, or in his official custody, for the private benefit or gain of himself or another;

Shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor, and any contract, sale, lease or purchase mentioned in subdivision 2 hereof shall be void. [L. '09, p. 915, § 82.]

§ 2344. Custodian Suffering Escape.

Every person who shall allow a prisoner lawfully in his custody to escape, or shall connive at or assist such escape, or shall omit any act or duty by reason of which omission such escape is occasioned, contributed to or assisted, shall, if he connive at or assist such escape, be guilty of a felony; and in any other case, of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 918, § 92.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4825; N. Y. P. C., § 89.
For former laws, see infra, §§ 2871, 2872.

§ 2345. Ministerial Officer Permitting Escape.

Every officer who shall ask or receive, directly or indirectly, any compensation, gratuity or reward, or promise thereof, to procure, assist, connive at or permit any prisoner in his custody to escape, whether such escape shall be attempted or not, or shall commit any unlawful act tending to hinder justice, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 918, § 93.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4826.
For former laws, see infra, § 2872.

§ 2346. Concealing Escaped Prisoner.

Every person who shall conceal, or harbor for the purpose of concealment, a prisoner who has escaped or is escaping from custody, shall be guilty of a felony if the prisoner is held upon a charge or conviction or sentence of felony, and of a misdemeanor if the prisoner is held upon a charge or conviction of a gross misdemeanor or misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 919, § 94.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4827; N. Y. P. C., § 91.

§ 2347. Injury to Public Record.

Every person who shall willfully and unlawfully remove, alter, mutilate, destroy, conceal or obliterate a record, map, book, paper, document or other thing filed or deposited in a public office, or with any public officer, by authority of law, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 919, § 95.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4828; N. Y. P. C., § 94.

§ 2348. Injury to and Misappropriation of Record.

Every officer who shall mutilate, destroy, conceal, erase, obliterate or falsify any record or paper appertaining to his office, or who shall fraudulently appropriate to his own use or to the use of another person, or secrete with intent to appropriate to such use, any money, evidence of debt or other property intrusted to him by virtue of his office, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years, or by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 919, § 96.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4829.

§ 2349. Offering False Instrument for Filing or Record.

Every person who shall knowingly procure or offer any false or forged instrument to be filed, registered or recorded in any public office, which instrument, if genuine, might be filed, registered or recorded in such office under any law of this state or of the United States, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years, or by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 919, § 97.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4830; N. Y. P. C., § 95.

§ 2350. False Report.

Every public officer who shall knowingly make any false or misleading statement in any official report or statement, under circumstances not otherwise prohibited by law, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 920, § 98.]

See infra, § 9130, listing property for taxation.

§ 2352. Knowledge of Materiality not Necessary.

It shall be no defense to a prosecution for perjury in the first degree that the defendant did not know the materiality of his false statement or that it did not in fact affect the proceeding in or for which it was made. It shall be sufficient that it was material and might have affected such proceeding. [L. '09, p. 920, § 100.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4833; N. Y. P. C., § 99.
For former laws, see infra, § 2855.

§ 2353. Perjury—Second Degree.

Every person who, whether orally or in writing, and whether as a volunteer or in a proceeding or investigation authorized by law, shall knowingly swear falsely concerning any matter whatsoever, shall be guilty of perjury in the second degree and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year. [L. '09, p. 920, § 101.]

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2851, 2858.

§ 2354. "Oath" and "Swear" Defined.

The term "oath" shall include an affirmation and every other mode authorized by law of attesting the truth of that which is stated. A person who shall state any matter under oath shall be deemed to "swear" thereto. [L. '09, p. 920, § 102.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2852.

§ 2355. Irregularity in Administering Oath or Incompetency of Witness No Defense.

It shall be no defense to a prosecution for perjury that an oath was administered or taken in an irregular manner or that the defendant was not competent to give the testimony, deposition, certificate or affidavit of which falsehood is alleged. It shall be sufficient that he actually gave such testimony or made such deposition, certificate or affidavit. [L. '09, p. 921, § 103.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4832; N. Y. P. C., §§ 97, 98.
For former laws, see infra, §§ 2853, 2854.

§ 2356. Deposition—When Complete.

The making of a deposition, certificate or affidavit shall be deemed to be complete when it is subscribed and sworn to or affirmed by the defendant with intent that it be uttered or published as true. [L. '09, p. 921, § 104.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4384; N. Y. P. C., § 100.
For former laws, see infra, § 2856.

§ 2357. Statement of What One does not Know to be True.

Every unqualified statement of that which one does not know to be true is equivalent to a statement of that which he knows to be false. [L. '09, p. 921, § 105.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4835; N. Y. P. C., § 101.
For former laws, see infra, § 2857.

§ 2358. Offering False Evidence.

Every person who, upon any trial, hearing, inquiry, investigation or other proceeding authorized by law, shall offer or procure to be offered in evidence, as genuine, any book, paper, document, record or other instrument in writing, knowing the same to have been forged or fraudulently altered, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years. [L. '09, p. 921, § 106.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4838.

§ 2359. Committal of Witness—Detention of Documents.

Whenever it shall appear probable to a judge, justice of the peace, magistrate, or other officer lawfully authorized to conduct any hearing, proceeding or investigation, that a person who has testified before him has committed perjury in any testimony so given, or offered any false evidence, he may, by order or process for that purpose, immediately commit such person to jail or take a recognizance for his appearance to answer such charge. In such case he may detain any book, paper, document, record or other instrument produced before him or direct it to be delivered to the prosecuting attorney. [L. '09, p. 921, § 107.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4836; N. Y. P. C., §§ 102, 104.

§ 2360. Subornation of Perjury.

Every person who shall willfully procure another to commit perjury, in either degree, or to offer any false evidence, shall be guilty of subornation of perjury and shall be punished in the same manner as if he had himself committed the perjury so procured or offered the false evidence so offered. [L. '09, p. 922, § 108.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4837; N. Y. P. C., § 105.
For former laws, see infra, § 2860.

§ 2361. Attempt to Suborn Perjury.

Every person who, without giving, offering or promising a bribe, shall incite or attempt to procure another to commit perjury, in either degree, or to offer any false evidence, or to withhold true testimony, though no perjury be committed or false evidence or true testimony withheld, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 922, § 109.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4841.
For former laws, see infra, § 2861.
See infra, § 2264, attempts, how punished.

§ 2362. Destroying Evidence.

Every person who, with intent to conceal the commission of any felony, or to protect or conceal the identity of any person committing the same, or with intent to delay or hinder the administration of the law or to prevent the production thereof at any time, in any court or before any officer, tribunal, judge or magistrate, shall willfully destroy, alter, erase, obliterate or conceal any book, paper, record, writing, instrument or thing, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 922, § 110.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4839; N. Y. P. C., § 110.

§ 2363. Tampering with Witness.

Every person who shall willfully prevent or attempt to prevent, by persuasion, threats or otherwise, any person from appearing before any court, or officer authorized to subpoena witnesses, as a witness in any action, proceeding or investigation, with intent thereby to obstruct the course of justice, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 922, § 111.]

§ 2367. Compounding Crimes.

Every person who shall ask or receive, directly or indirectly, any compensation, gratuity or reward, or any promise thereof, upon an agreement or understanding that he will compound or conceal a crime or violation of a statute, or abstain from testifying thereto, delay a prosecution therefor or withhold any evidence thereof, except in a case where a compromise is allowed by law, shall be guilty—

(1.) Of a felony and punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years, where the agreement or understanding relates to a felony;

(2.) Of a misdemeanor, where the agreement or understanding relates to a gross misdemeanor or misdemeanor, or to a violation of statute for which a pecuniary penalty or forfeiture is prescribed.

In any proceeding against a person for compounding a crime, it shall not be necessary to prove that any person has been convicted of the crime or violation of statute in relation to which an agreement or understanding herein prohibited was made. [L. '09, p. 923, § 115.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4849; N. Y. P. C., §§ 125, 126.
For former laws, see infra, § 2866.

§ 2368. Intimidating Public Officer.

Every person who shall, directly or indirectly, address any threat or intimidation to a public officer or to a juror, referee, arbitrator, appraiser or assessor, or to any other person authorized by law to hear or determine any controversy or matter, with intent to induce him, contrary to his duty to do or make or omit or delay any act, decision or determination, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 924, § 116.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4850; N. Y. P. C., § 127.

§ 2369. Malicious Prosecution.

Every person who shall, maliciously and without probable cause therefor, cause or attempt to cause another to be arrested or proceeded against for any crime of which he is innocent—

(1.) If such crime be a felony, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years; and,

(2.) If such crime be a gross misdemeanor or misdemeanor, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 924, § 117.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2779.

§ 2370. Barratry.

Every person who shall bring on his own behalf, or instigate, incite or encourage another to bring, any false suit at law or in equity in any court of this state, with intent thereby to distress or harass a defendant therein; and every person, being an attorney or counselor at law, who shall personally, or through the agency of another, solicit employment as such attorney, in any suit pending or prospective, or, with intent to obtain such employment, shall, directly or indirectly, loan any money or give or promise to give any money, property or other consideration to the person from whom such employment is sought, shall be guilty of barratry and be punished as for a misdemeanor; and in case the person offending is an attorney, he may, in addition thereto, be disbarred from practicing law in this state. [L. '09, p. 924, § 118.]

§ 2371. Buying Demand or Promising Reward by Justice or Constable.

Every justice of the peace or constable who shall, directly or indirectly, buy or be interested in buying anything in action for the purpose of commencing a suit thereon before a justice of the peace, or who shall give or promise any valuable consideration to any person as an inducement to bring, or as a consideration for having brought, a suit before a justice of the peace, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 924, § 119.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4853; N. Y. P. C., §§ 137, 138.

§ 2372. Criminal Contempt.

Every person who shall commit a contempt of court of any one of the following kinds shall be guilty of a misdemeanor:

(1.) Disorderly, contemptuous or insolent behavior committed during the sitting of the court, in its immediate view and presence, and directly tending to interrupt its proceeding or to impair the respect due to its authority; or,

(2.) Behavior of like character in the presence of a referee, while actually engaged in a trial or hearing pursuant to an order of court, or in the presence of a jury while actually sitting in the trial of a cause or upon an inquest or other proceeding authorized by law; or,

(3.) Breach of the peace, noise or other disturbance directly tending to interrupt the proceedings of a court, jury or referee; or,

(4.) Willful disobedience to the lawful process or mandate of a court; or,

(5.) Resistance, willfully offered, to its lawful process or mandate; or,

(6.) Contumacious and unlawful refusal to be sworn as a witness, or after being sworn, to answer any legal and proper interrogatory; or,

(7.) Publication of a false or grossly inaccurate report of its proceedings; or,

(8.) Assuming to be an attorney or officer of a court or acting as such without authority. [L. '09, p. 925, § 120.]

§ 2381. Falsely Auditing and Paying Claims.

Every public officer or person holding or discharging the duties of any public office or place of trust under the state or in any county, town or city, a part of whose duty it is to audit, allow or pay, or take part in auditing, allowing or paying, claims or demands upon the state or such county, town or city, who shall knowingly audit, allow or pay, or, directly or indirectly, consent to or in any way connive at the auditing, allowance or payment of any claim or demand against the state or such county, town or city, which is false or fraudulent or contains any charge, item or claim which is false or fraudulent, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 927, § 129.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4865; N. Y. P. C., § 165.

§ 2382. Conspiracy.

Whenever two or more persons shall conspire—

- (1.) To commit a crime; or
- (2.) Falsely and maliciously to procure another to be arrested or proceeded against for a crime; or
- (3.) Falsely to institute or maintain any action or proceeding; or
- (4.) To cheat or defraud another out of any property by unlawful or fraudulent means; or
- (5.) To prevent another from exercising any lawful trade or calling, or from doing any other lawful act, by force, threats or intimidation, or by interfering or threatening to interfere with any tools, implements or property belonging to or used by another, or with the use or employment thereof; or
- (6.) To commit any act injurious to the public health, public morals, trade or commerce, or for the perversion or corruption of public justice or the due administration of the law; or
- (7.) To accomplish any criminal or unlawful purpose, or to accomplish a purpose, not in itself criminal or unlawful, by criminal or unlawful means;

Every such person shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 928, § 130.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4867; N. Y. P. C., § 168.

For former laws, see infra, § 2779.

§ 2383. Overt Act not Necessary.

In any proceeding for [a] violation of section 2382, it shall [not] be necessary to prove that any overt act was done in pursuance of such unlawful conspiracy or combination. [L. '09, p. 928, § 131.]

§ 2384. Corporation to Forfeit Franchise.

Every corporation, whether foreign or domestic, which shall violate any provision of section 2382, shall forfeit every right and franchise to do business in this state. The attorney general shall begin and conduct all actions and proceedings necessary to enforce the provisions of this section. [L. '09, p. 928, § 132.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5169.

CHAPTER V.

CRIMES AGAINST THE PERSON.

§ 2385. Suicide Defined.

Suicide is the intentional taking of one's own life. [L. '09, p. 929, § 133.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4869; N. Y. P. C., § 172.

§ 2386. Attempting Suicide.

Every person who, with intent to take his own life, shall commit upon himself any act dangerous to human life, or which, if committed upon or toward another person and followed by death as a consequence, would render the perpetrator chargeable with homicide, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than two years, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars. [L. '09, p. 929, § 134.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4870; N. Y. P. C., § 174.

For former laws, see infra, § 2734.

§ 2387. Aiding Suicide.

Every person who, in any manner, shall willfully advise, encourage, abet or assist another in taking his own life shall be guilty of manslaughter. [L. '09, p. 929, § 135.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4871; N. Y. P. C., § 175.

For former laws, see infra, § 2734.

§ 2388. Abetting Attempt at Suicide.

Every person who, in any manner, shall willfully advise, encourage, abet or assist another person in attempting to take the latter's life shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years. [L. '09, p. 929, § 136.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4872; N. Y. P. C., § 176.

§ 2389. Incapacity of Person Aided No Defense.

The fact that the person attempting to take his own life was incapable of committing crime shall not be a defense to a prosecution under either of sections 2387 or 2388. [L. '09, p. 929, § 137.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4873; N. Y. P. C., § 177.

§ 2390. Homicide—Defined and Classified.

Homicide is the killing of a human being by the act, procurement or omission of another and is either (1) murder, (2) manslaughter, (3) excusable homicide or (4) justifiable homicide. [L. '09, p. 929, § 138.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4874; N. Y. P. C., §§ 178, 180.

§ 2391. Proof of Death and of Killing by Defendant.

No person shall be convicted of murder or manslaughter unless the death of the person alleged to have been killed and the fact of killing by the defendant, as alleged, are each established as independent facts beyond a reasonable doubt. [L. '09, p. 930, § 139.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4875; N. Y. P. C., § 181.

§ 2392. Murder in the First Degree.

The killing of a human being, unless it is excusable or justifiable, is murder in the first degree when committed either—

(1.) With a premeditated design to effect the death of the person killed, or of another; or

(2.) By an act imminently dangerous to others and evincing a depraved mind, regardless of human life, without a premeditated design to effect the death of any individual; or

(3.) Without a design to effect death, by a person engaged in the commission of, or in an attempt to commit, or in withdrawing from the scene of, a robbery, rape, burglary, larceny or arson in the first degree; or (4.) By maliciously interfering or tampering with or obstructing any switch, frog, rail, roadbed, sleeper, viaduct, bridge, trestle, culvert, embankment, structure or appliance pertaining to or connected with any railway, or any engine, motor or car of such railway.

Murder in the first degree shall be punishable by death or by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for life, in the discretion of the court. [L. '09, p. 930, § 140.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., §§ 183, 186.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2726, 2728; murder in arson, see § 2786, infra.

§ 2393. Murder in the Second Degree.

The killing of a human being, unless it is excusable or justifiable, is murder in the second degree when—

(1.) Committed with a design to effect the death of the person killed or of another, but without premeditation; or

(2.) When perpetrated by a person engaged in the commission of, or in an attempt to commit, or in withdrawing from the scene of, a felony other than those enumerated in section 2392.

Murder in the second degree shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not less than ten years. [L. '09, p. 931, § 141.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., §§ 184, 187.

For former laws, see infra, § 2729.

§ 2394. Killing in Duel.

Every person who shall fight or participate in, as second or assistant, any duel within this state, in which any person is killed, or who, by previous appointment made within this state, shall fight or participate in, as second or assistant, any duel out of the state, in which any person is killed, shall be guilty of murder in the second degree; and, in the latter case, may be proceeded against in any county in this state. [L. '09, p. 931, § 142.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4878; N. Y. P. C., § 185.

For former laws, see infra, § 2730.

§ 2395. Manslaughter.

In any case other than those specified in sections 2392, 2393 and 2394, homicide, not being excusable or justifiable, is manslaughter.

Manslaughter is punishable by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than twenty years, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both fine and imprisonment. [L. '09, p. 931, § 143.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., §§ 188, 189, 192.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2733, 2737.

§.2396. Killing Unborn Quick Child.

The willful killing of an unborn quick child, by any injury committed upon the mother of such child, is manslaughter. [L. '09, p. 931, § 144.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4882; N. Y. P. C., §§ 190, 191.

§ 2397. Killing Unborn Quick Child by Administering Drugs.

Every person who shall provide, supply or administer to a woman, whether pregnant or not, or shall prescribe for or advise or procure a woman to take any medicine, drug or substance, or shall use or employ, or cause to be used or employed, any instrument or other means, with intent thereby to procure the miscarriage of a woman, unless the same is necessary to preserve her life, in case the death of the woman or of any quick child of which she is pregnant is thereby produced, shall be guilty of manslaughter. [L. '09, p. 931, § 145.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4882; N. Y. P. C., §§ 190, 191.
For former laws, see infra, § 2758.

§ 2398. Woman Taking Drugs.

Every woman quick with child who shall take or use, or submit to the use of, any drug, medicine or substance, or any instrument or other means, with intent to procure her own miscarriage, unless the same is necessary to preserve her own life or that of the child whereof she is pregnant, and thereby causes the death of such child, shall be guilty of manslaughter. [L. '09, p. 932, § 146.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4885.
See infra, § 2449, attempted abortion.

§ 2399. Owner of Vicious Animal.

If the owner or custodian of any vicious or dangerous animal, knowing its propensities, shall willfully or negligently allow it to go at large, and such animal while at large shall kill a human being not himself in fault, such owner or custodian shall be guilty of manslaughter. [L. '09, p. 932, § 147.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4887.
For former laws, see infra, § 3200.

§ 2400. Killing by Overloading Passenger Vessel.

Every person navigating a vessel for gain who shall willfully or negligently receive so many passengers or such a quantity of other lading on board, that by means thereof such vessel shall sink, be upset or injured, and thereby a human being shall be drowned or otherwise killed, shall be guilty of manslaughter. [L. '09, p. 932, § 148.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4888.
For former laws, see infra, § 2735.

§ 2401. Reckless Operation of Steamboat or Engine.

Every person having charge of a steamboat used for the conveyance of passengers, or of a boiler or engine thereof, who, from ignorance, recklessness or gross negligence, or for the purpose of excelling another boat in speed, shall create or allow to be created such an undue quantity of steam as to burst the boiler or other apparatus in which it is generated or contained, or to break any apparatus or machinery connected therewith, whereby the death of a human being is occasioned; and every engineer or other person having charge of a steam boiler, steam engine or other apparatus for generating or applying steam, who, willfully or from ignorance or gross negligence, shall create or allow to be created such an undue quantity of steam as to burst the boiler, engine or apparatus, or to cause any other accident, whereby the death of a human being is occasioned, shall be guilty of manslaughter. [L. '09, p. 932, § 149.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4889.

For former laws, see infra, § 2736.

§ 2402. Liability of Intoxicated Physician.

Every physician or surgeon, or person practicing as such, who, being in a state of intoxication, or under the influence of any narcotic drug, shall prescribe or administer any poison, drug or medicine, or do any other act as a physician, to another person, which, though done without design, shall cause the death of the latter, shall be guilty of manslaughter. [L. '09, p. 933, § 150.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4890; N. Y. P. C., § 200.

See infra, § 2942, injury from prescription by intoxicated physician.

§ 2403. Keeping Explosive Unlawfully.

Every person who shall make or keep gunpowder, or any other explosive substance, in a city or village, in any quantity or manner prohibited by law or by ordinance of such municipality, if an explosion thereof shall occur whereby the death of a human being is occasioned, shall be guilty of manslaughter. [L. '09, p. 933, § 151.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4891; N. Y. P. C., § 201.

For former laws, see infra, § 8308.

See infra, § 2504, keeping explosives unlawfully.

§ 2404. Homicide, When Excusable.

Homicide is excusable when committed by accident or misfortune in doing any lawful act by lawful means, with ordinary caution and without any unlawful intent. [L. '09, p. 933, § 152.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4893; N. Y. P. C., § 203.

See note to § 2726, infra.

§ 2405. Justifiable Homicide by Public Officer.

Homicide is justifiable when committed by a public officer, or person acting under his command and in his aid, in the following cases:

(1.) In obedience to the judgment of a competent court.

(2.) When necessary to overcome actual resistance to the execution of the legal process, mandate or order of a court or officer, or in the discharge of a legal duty.

(3.) When necessary in retaking an escaped or rescued prisoner who has been committed, arrested for, or convicted of a felony; or in arresting a person who has committed a felony and is fleeing from justice; or in attempting, by lawful ways or means, to apprehend a person for a felony actually committed; or in lawfully suppressing a riot or preserving the peace. [L. '09, p. 933, § 153.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4894; N. Y. P. C., § 204.

§ 2406. Homicide by Other Person, When Justifiable.

Homicide is also justifiable when committed either—

(1.) In the lawful defense of the slayer, or his or her husband, wife, parent, child, brother or sister, or of any other person in his presence or company, when there is reasonable ground to apprehend a design on the part of the person slain to commit a felony or to do some great personal injury to the slayer or to any such person, and there is imminent danger of such design being accomplished; or

(2) In the actual resistance of an attempt to commit a felony upon the slayer, in his presence, or upon or in a dwelling, or other place of abode, in which he is. [L. '09, p. 934, § 154.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4895; N. Y. P. C., § 205.

§ 2407. "Maiming" Defined—How Punished.

Every person who, with intent to commit a felony, or to injure, disfigure or disable another, shall willfully inflict upon him an injury which—

(1.) Seriously disfigures his person by any mutilation thereof; or

(2.) Destroys or displaces any member or organ of his body; or

(3.) Seriously diminishes his physical vigor by the injury of any member or organ;

Shall be guilty of maiming and be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years, and the willful infliction of the injury shall be prima facie evidence of the intent. [L. '09, p. 934, § 155.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4896; N. Y. P. C., § 206.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2738, 2739.

§ 2408. Instrument or Manner of Maiming.

To constitute maiming it is immaterial by what means or instrument or in what manner the injury was inflicted. [L. '09, p. 934, § 156.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4898; N. Y. P. C., § 209.

§ 2409. Recovery from Injury, When a Defense.

Whenever upon a trial for maiming another person it shall appear that the injury inflicted will not result in any permanent disfiguration of appearance, diminution of vigor, or other permanent injury, no conviction for maiming shall be had, but the defendant may be convicted of assault in any degree. [L. '09, p. 934, § 157.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4899; N. Y. P. C., § 210.

§ 2410. Kidnaping Defined—How Punished.

Every person who shall willfully—

(1.) Seize, confine or inveigle another with intent to cause him without authority of law to be secretly confined or imprisoned, or in any way held to service, or with intent to extort or obtain money or reward for his return, release, or disposition, or to lead, take, entice away, or detain, a child under the age of sixteen years with intent to conceal him from his parent, guardian or other person having lawful care or control of him, or to steal any article upon his person; or

(2.) Abduct, entice, or by force or fraud unlawfully take or carry away another to or from a place without the state, and shall afterward send, bring or keep such person, or cause him to be kept or secreted within this state;

Shall be guilty of kidnaping, and punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not less than ten years. [L. '09, p. 935, § 158.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4900; N. Y. P. C., § 211.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2740, 2741.

See infra, § 2439, abduction.

§ 2411. Selling Services of Person Kidnaped.

Every person, who within this state or elsewhere, shall sell or in any manner transfer for any term, the services or labor of any person who has been forcibly taken, inveigled, or kidnaped in or from this state, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years. [L. '09, p. 935, § 159.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4901; N. Y. P. C., § 214.

§ 2412. Venue—Effect of Consent.

Any proceeding for kidnaping may be instituted either in the county where the offense was committed or in any county through or in which the person kidnaped or confined was taken or kept while under confinement or restraint. Upon a trial for violation of section 2410 or 2411, the consent thereto of the person kidnaped or confined shall not be a defense unless it appears satisfactorily to the jury that such person was above the age of sixteen years and that his consent was not extorted by threats, duress or fraud. [L. '09, p. 935, § 160.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4903; N. Y. P. C., §§ 217, 220.

For former laws, see infra, § 2742.

§ 2413. Assault in First Degree Defined—How Punished.

Every person who, with intent to kill a human being, or to commit a felony upon the person or property of the one assaulted, or of another—

(1.) Shall assault another with a firearm or any deadly weapon or by any force or means likely to produce death; or

(2.) Shall administer to or cause to be taken by another, poison or any other destructive or noxious thing so as to endanger the life of another person, shall be guilty of assault in the first degree and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not less than five years. [L. '09, p. 936, § 161.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4903; N. Y. P. C., §§ 217, 220.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2748, 2750.

§ 2414. Assault in the Second Degree—How Punished.

Every person who, under circumstances not amounting to assault in the first degree—

(1.) With intent to injure, shall unlawfully administer to or cause to be taken by another, poison or any other destructive or noxious thing, or any drug or medicine the use of which is dangerous to life or health; or

(2.) With intent thereby to enable or assist himself or any other person to commit any crime, shall administer to, or cause to be taken by, another, chloroform, ether, laudanum or any other intoxicating narcotic or anaesthetic; or

(3.) Shall willfully inflict grievous bodily harm upon another with or without a weapon; or

(4.) Shall willfully assault another with a weapon or other instrument or thing likely to produce bodily harm; or

(5.) Being armed with a deadly weapon shall willfully assault another with a whip; or

(6.) Shall assault another with intent to commit a felony, or to prevent or resist the execution of any lawful process or mandate of any court officer, or the lawful apprehension or detention of himself or another person; or

(7.) While hunting any game or other animals or birds, shall shoot another;

Shall be guilty of assault in the second degree and be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 936, § 162.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4904; N. Y. P. C., §§ 218, 221.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2749, 2750.

§ 2415. Assault in the Third Degree—How Punished.

Every person who shall commit an assault or an assault or battery not amounting to assault in either the first or second degrees, shall be guilty of assault in the third degree, and shall be punished as for a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 937, § 163.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4905; N. Y. P. C., §§ 219, 222.

For former laws, see infra, § 2746.

See infra, § 2442, indecent assault.

See infra, § 4694, abuse of pupil.

§ 2416. Force, When Lawful.

The use, attempt, or offer to use force upon or toward the person of another shall not be unlawful in the following cases:

(1.) Whenever necessarily used by a public officer in the performance of a legal duty, or a person assisting him and acting under his direction;

(2.) Whenever necessarily used by a person arresting one who has committed a felony and delivering him to a public officer competent to receive him into custody;

(3.) Whenever used by a party about to be injured, or by another lawfully aiding him, in preventing or attempting to prevent an offense against his person, or a malicious trespass, or other malicious interference with real or personal property lawfully in his possession, in case the force is not more than shall be necessary;

(4.) Whenever used in a reasonable and moderate manner by a parent or his authorized agent, a guardian, master, or teacher in the exercise of lawful authority to restrain or correct his child, ward, apprentice or scholar;

(5.) Whenever used by a carrier of passengers or his authorized agent or servant, or other person assisting them at their request in expelling from a carriage, railway car, vessel, or other vehicle, a passenger who refuses to obey a lawful and reasonable regulation prescribed for the conduct of passengers, if such vehicle has first been stopped and the force used is not more than shall be necessary to expel the offender with reasonable regard to his personal safety;

(6.) Whenever used by any person to prevent an idiot, lunatic or insane person from committing an act dangerous to himself or another, or in enforcing necessary restraint for the protection of his person, or his restoration to health, during such period only as shall be necessary to obtain legal authority for the restraint or custody of his person. [L. '09, p. 937, § 164.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4906; N. Y. P. C., § 223.

See infra, § 4694, abuse of pupil.

§ 2417. Provoking Assault.

Every person who shall by word, sign or gesture, willfully provoke, or attempt to provoke, another person to commit an assault or breach of the peace, shall be guilty of misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 938, § 165.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2747.

§ 2418. Robbery Defined.

Robbery is the unlawful taking of personal property from the person of another, or in his presence, against his will, by means of force or violence or fear of injury, immediate or future, to his person or property, or the person or property of a member of his family, or of anyone in his company at the time of the robbery. Such force or fear must be used to obtain or retain possession of the property, or to prevent or overcome resistance to the taking; in either of which cases the degree of force is immaterial. If used merely as a means of escape, it does not constitute robbery. Such taking constitutes robbery whenever it appears that, although the taking was fully completed without the knowledge of the person from whom taken, such knowledge was prevented by the use of force or fear. Every person who shall commit robbery shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not less than five years. [L. '09, p. 938, § 166.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4907; N. Y. P. C., §§ 224, 225, 226, 227, 228, 229, 230, 231, 232, 233.

For former laws, see infra, § 2792.

§ 2419. Duel, How Punished.

Every person who shall fight a duel or engage in any combat with another with a deadly weapon, by previous agreement, or upon a previous quarrel, although no death or wound shall ensue, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years. [L. '09, p. 938, § 167.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4911; N. Y. P. C., § 234.

For former laws, see infra, § 2743.

§ 2420. Challenger, Abettor, etc.

Every person who shall challenge another to fight a duel, or who shall send a written or verbal message purporting or intended to be a challenge to fight a duel, or an invitation to a combat with deadly weapons, or shall accept such a challenge or message, or shall knowingly carry or deliver such challenge or message, or be present at the time appointed for such duel or combat, or when the same is fought, either as second, aide, or surgeon, or who shall advise, or abet, or give any countenance or assistance to such duel or combat upon previous agreement, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years. [L. '09, p. 939, § 168.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4912; N. Y. P. C., § 235.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2732, 2744.

§ 2421. Attempt to Induce Challenge, Posting.

Every person who shall send or use to another any word or sign whatever with intent to provoke or induce such person to give or receive a challenge to fight a duel, or who shall post or advertise another for not fighting a duel or for not sending or accepting a challenge to fight a duel, or who, in writing or in print, shall use reproachful or contemptuous language to or concerning anyone for not sending or accepting a challenge to fight a duel, or for not fighting a duel, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 939, § 169.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4913; N. Y. P. C., §§ 237, 238.

§ 2422. Duel Outside State, Venue.

Every person who shall leave the state with intent to elude any provision of sections 2419 or 2420, or to commit any act outside of the state punished by the provisions thereof, if committed in the state, shall be guilty of the same offense and subject to the same punishment as if the act had been committed or was to have been consummated in the state and may be proceeded against and tried in any county therein, but a former conviction or acquittal in another state or county for the same offense shall be a bar to further proceedings against him for such offense. [L. '09, p. 939, § 170.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4914; N. Y. P. C., §§ 239, 240.

For former laws, see infra, § 2731.

See Const., Art. I, § 22, right to trial by jury of county where offense committed.

§ 2423. Witnesses.

Every person offending against any provision contained in sections 2419 to 2422, inclusive, shall be a competent witness against any other offender in the same transaction, and shall not be excused from giving testimony tending to incriminate himself. [L. '09, p. 940, § 171.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4915; N. Y. P. C., § 241.

§ 2424. Libel Defined.

Every malicious publication by writing, printing, picture, effigy, sign or otherwise than by mere speech, which shall tend:

(1.) To expose any living person to hatred, contempt, ridicule or obloquy, or to deprive him of the benefit of public confidence or social intercourse; or

(2.) To expose the memory of one deceased to hatred, contempt, ridicule or obloquy; or

(3.) To injure any person, corporation or association of persons in his or their business or occupation, shall be a libel. Every person who publishes a libel shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 940, § 172.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4916; N. Y. P. C., §§ 242, 243. For former laws, see infra, § 2777.

§ 2425. How Justified or Excused—Malice, When Presumed.

Every publication having the tendency or effect mentioned in section 2424 shall be deemed malicious unless justified or excused. Such publication is justified whenever the matter charged as libelous charges the commission of a crime, is a true and fair statement, and was published with good motives and for justifiable ends. It is excused when honestly made in belief of its truth and fairness and upon reasonable grounds for such belief, and consists of fair comments upon the conduct of any person in respect of public affairs, made after a fair and impartial investigation. [L. '09, p. 940, § 173.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4917; N. Y. P. C., § 244.

§ 2426. Publication Defined.

Any method by which matter charged as libelous may be communicated to another shall be deemed a publication thereof. [L. '09, p. 940, § 174.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4918; N. Y. P. C., § 245.

For former laws, see infra, § 2778.

§ 2427. Liability of Editors and Others.

Every editor or proprietor of a book, newspaper or serial, and every manager of a copartnership or corporation by which any book, newspaper or serial is issued, is chargeable with the publication of any matter contained in any such book, newspaper or serial, but in every prosecution for libel the defendant may show in his defense that the matter complained of was published without his knowledge or fault and against his wishes by another who had no authority from him to make such publication, and was retracted by him as soon as known with an equal degree of publicity. [L. '09, p. 941, § 175.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4919; N. Y. P. C., § 246.

§ 2428. Report of Proceedings Privileged.

No prosecution for libel shall be maintained against a reporter, editor, proprietor, or publisher of a newspaper for the publication therein of a fair and true report of any judicial, legislative or other public and official proceeding, or of any statement, speech, argument or debate in the course of the same, without proving actual malice in making the report. The editor or proprietor of a book, newspaper or serial shall be proceeded against in the county where such book, newspaper or serial is published. [L. '09, p. 941, § 176.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4920; N. Y. P. C., §§ 247, 248.

§ 2429. Venue.

Every other person publishing a libel in this state may be proceeded against in any county where such libelous matter was published or circulated, but a person shall not be proceeded against for the publication of the same libel against the same person in more than one county. [L. '09, p. 941, § 177.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4921; N. Y. P. C., §§ 249, 250, 251.

§ 2430. Privileged Communications.

Every communication made to a person entitled to or concerned in such communication, by one also concerned in or entitled to make it, or who stood in such relation to the former as to offer a reasonable ground for supposing his motive to be innocent, shall be presumed not to be malicious, and shall be termed a privileged communication. [L. '09, p. 941, § 178.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4922; N. Y. P. C., § 253.

§ 2431. Furnishing Libelous Information.

Every person who shall willfully state, deliver or transmit by any means whatever, to any manager, editor, publisher, reporter or other employee of a publisher of any newspaper, magazine, publication, periodical or serial, any statement concerning any person or corporation, which, if published therein, would be a libel, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 941, § 179.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., § 254a.

§ 2432. Threatening to Publish Libel.

Every person who shall threaten another with the publication of a libel concerning the latter, or his spouse, parent, child, or other member of his family, and every person who offers to prevent the publication of a libel upon another person upon condition of the payment of, or with intent to extort money or other valuable consideration from any person, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 942, § 180.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4923; N. Y. P. C., § 254.

§ 2433. Slander of Woman.

Every person who, in the presence or hearing of any person other than the female slandered, whether she be present or not, shall maliciously speak of or concerning any female of the age of twelve years or upward, not a common prostitute, any false or defamatory words or language which shall injure or impair the reputation of any such female for virtue or chastity or which shall expose her to hatred, contempt or ridicule, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Every slander herein mentioned shall be deemed to be malicious unless justified, and shall be justified when the language charged as slanderous, false or defamatory is true and fair, and was spoken with good motives and for justifiable ends. [L. '09, p. 942, § 181.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4924.

§ 2434. Testimony Necessary to Convict.

No conviction shall be had under the provisions of the preceding section of this act, upon the testimony of the woman slandered unsupported by other evidence. [L. '09, p. 942, § 182.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4925.

CHAPTER VI.

CRIMES AGAINST MORALITY, DECENCY, ETC.

§ 2435. Rape.

Rape is an act of sexual intercourse with a female not the wife of the perpetrator committed against her will and without her consent. Every person who shall perpetrate such an act of sexual intercourse with a female of the age of ten years or upward not his wife:

(1.) When, through idiocy, imbecility or any unsoundness of mind, either temporary or permanent, she is incapable of giving consent; or

(2.) When her resistance is forcibly overcome; or

(3.) When her resistance is prevented by fear of immediate and great bodily harm which she has reasonable cause to believe will be inflicted upon her; or

(4.) When her resistance is prevented by stupor or weakness of mind produced by an intoxicating narcotic or anesthetic agent administered by or with the privity of the defendant; or

(5.) When she is at the time unconscious of the nature of the act, and this is known to the defendant;

Shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not less than five years. [L. '09, p. 942, § 183.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4926; N. Y. P. C., § 278.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2753, 2754.

§ 2436. Carnal Knowledge of Children.

Every person who shall carnally know and abuse any female child under the age of eighteen years, not his wife, shall be punished as follows:

(1.) When such child is under the age of ten years, by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for life;

(2.) When such child is ten and under fifteen years of age, by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not less than five years;

(3.) When such child is fifteen and under eighteen years of age, and of previously chaste character, by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year. [L. '09, p. 943, § 184.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4927; N. Y. P. C., § 278.

For former laws, see infra, § 2753.

§ 2437. Sexual Intercourse and Carnal Knowledge Defined.

Any sexual penetration, however slight, is sufficient to complete sexual intercourse or carnal knowledge. [L. '09, p. 943, § 186 (185).]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4928.

§ 2438. Compelling a Woman to Marry.

Every person who, by force, menace, or duress, shall compel a woman against her will to marry him or to marry any other person, or to be defiled, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than twenty years, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 943, § 186.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4929; N. Y. P. C., § 281.

For former laws, see infra, § 2755.

§ 2439. Abduction.

Every person who—

(1.) Shall take a female under the age of eighteen years for the purpose of prostitution or sexual intercourse, or without the consent of her father, mother, guardian or other person having legal charge of her person, for the purpose of marriage; or

(2.) Shall inveigle or entice an unmarried female of previously chaste character into a house of ill-fame or assignation, or elsewhere, for the purpose of prostitution; or

(3.) Shall take or detain a woman unlawfully against her will, with intent to compel her by force, menace or duress, to marry him or another person, or to be defiled; or

(4.) Being the parent, guardian or other person having legal charge of the person of a female under the age of eighteen years, shall consent to her taking or detention by any person for the purpose of prostitution or sexual intercourse or for any obscene, indecent or immoral purpose;

Shall be guilty of abduction and punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 944, § 187.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4930; N. Y. P. C., § 282.
For former laws, see infra, §§ 2756, 2935.
See supra, § 2410, kidnaping.

§ 2440. Placing Female in House of Prostitution.

Every person who—

(1.) Shall place a female in the charge or custody of another person for immoral purposes, or in a house of prostitution, with intent that she shall live a life of prostitution, or who shall compel any female to reside with him or with any other person for immoral purposes, or for the purposes of prostitution, or shall compel any such female to reside in a house of prostitution or to live a life of prostitution; or

(2.) Shall ask or receive any compensation, gratuity or reward, or promise thereof, for or on account of placing in a house of prostitution or elsewhere any female for the purpose of causing her to cohabit with any male person or persons not her husband; or

(3.) Shall give, offer, or promise any compensation, gratuity or reward, to procure any female for the purpose of placing her for immoral purposes in any house of prostitution, or elsewhere, against her will; or

(4.) Being the husband of any woman, or the parent, guardian or other person having legal charge of the person of a female under the age of eighteen years, shall connive at, consent to, or permit her being or remaining in any house of prostitution or leading a life of prostitution; or

(5.) Shall live with or accept any earnings of a common prostitute, or entice or solicit any person to go to a house of prostitution for any immoral purpose, or to have sexual intercourse with a common prostitute.

Shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years or by a fine of not more than two thousand dollars. [L. '09, p. 944, § 188.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., §§ 282a, 282b.
For former laws, see infra, §§ 2902, 2903.

§ 2441. Seduction.

Every person who shall seduce and have sexual intercourse with any female of previously chaste character, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both fine and imprisonment. Provided, that if at any time before judgment upon an information or indictment, a defendant shall marry such female, the court shall order all further proceedings stayed; and if at any time within three years from the date of such marriage the defendant shall wrongfully fail to support or provide for or shall wrongfully desert or abandon such wife, said proceeding shall be revived and continued in the same manner as though no marriage had taken place, and in the trial of such cause the wife shall be competent to testify and may testify against her husband. [L. '09, p. 945, § 189.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4931; N. Y. P. C., § 284.
For former laws, see infra, § 2757.

§ 2442. Indecent Assault.

Every person who shall take any indecent liberties with, or on the person of any female of chaste character, without her consent, or with or on the person of any female under the age of eighteen years, of chaste character, with or without her consent, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 946, § 190.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4932.

§ 2443. Corroborating Evidence Necessary.

No conviction shall be had for violation of any of the foregoing provisions of this chapter upon the testimony of the female upon or against whom the crime was committed, unless supported by other evidence. [L. '09, p. 946, § 191.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., §§ 283, 286.

Compare § 2155, supra. See note to § 2253.

§ 2444. Abandonment of Wife or Child.

Every person who shall willfully and without lawful excuse desert, or willfully neglect or refuse to provide for the support and maintenance of, his wife, or child under the age of sixteen years, either said wife or child being in necessitous circumstances, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than three years, or in the county jail for not more than one year, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both fine and imprisonment: Provided, that, before trial, with the consent of the defendant, or after conviction, the court may, in its discretion, require the defendant to enter into a recognizance in such amount as the court may fix, with or without sureties, conditioned that such defendant will faithfully pay weekly, such sum and for such a time as the court may direct, to or for the benefit of such wife or child, and so long as the defendant shall faithfully comply with the conditions of such recognizance, all proceedings in such action, or upon such judgment, shall be stayed; but if the defendant shall fail to comply with the conditions of such recognizance, or shall fail to comply with any order for his appearance in said court, such proceeding shall be revived and continued as if no stay had taken place. [L. '09, p. 946, § 192.]

Compare Minn. Code, §§ 4933, 4934.

See infra, § 5933, penalty for wife desertion.

§ 2445. Keepers of Concert Saloons, etc.

Every person who—

(1.) Shall admit to or allow to remain in any [drinking saloon] dance-house, public pool or billiard hall, concert saloon, or in any place except a restaurant or dining-room, where intoxicating liquors are sold or given away, or in any place of entertainment injurious to health or morals, owned, kept or managed by him, in whole or in part, any person under the age of twenty-one years, [or any female person, whether as employee, visitor or patron; or in any of the places hereinbefore enumerated shall sell or give, or permit to be sold or given, any intoxicating liquor to any such minor or female person; or,]

(2.) Shall suffer or permit any such person to play any game of skill or chance, in any such place, or in any place adjacent thereto, or to be or remain therein, or admit or allow to remain in any reputed house of prostitution or assignation, or in any place where opium, or any preparation thereof, is smoked, or where any narcotic drug is used, any person under the age of twenty-one years; or,

(3.) Shall sell, or give, or permit to be sold, or given to any person under the age of twenty-one years any intoxicating liquor, cigar, cigarette, cigarette paper or wrapper, or tobacco in any form; or,

(4.) Shall sell, or give, or permit to be sold or given to any person under the age of eighteen years, any revolver, pistol, or toy pistol;

Shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor.

It shall be no defense to a prosecution for a violation of this section that the person acted, or was believed by the defendant to act, as agent or representative of another. [L. '09, p. 947, § 193; L. '09, Ex. Ses., p. 66, § 1.]

Compare Minn. Code, §§ 4936, 4937, 4938; N. Y. P. C., § 290.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2919-2923, 2963, 2967, 2971.

This section was amended by Laws of 1909, Ex. Ses., p. 66, the title of which was as follows: "An Act to amend sections 193 and 437 of an act entitled 'An act relating to crimes and punishments and the rights and custody of persons accused or convicted of crime, and repealing certain acts,' being sections 193 and 437 of chapter 249 of the Session Laws of the regular session of the legislature of 1909, and declaring an emergency." A doubt exists as to the validity of this title. The words in brackets are added by the amendment. The title is probably sufficient under the rule in In re Donnellan, 49 Wash. 460.

For violations of liquor laws, etc., see note to § 2696, infra.

§ 2446. Employment of Minors Prohibited.

Every person who shall employ, or cause to be employed, exhibit or have in his custody for exhibition or employment any minor actually or apparently under the age of eighteen years; and every parent, relative, guardian, employer or other person having the care, custody, or control of any such minor, who shall in any way procure or consent to the employment of such minor—

(1.) In begging, receiving alms, or in any mendicant occupation; or,

(2.) In any indecent or immoral exhibition or practice; or,

(3.) In any practice or exhibition dangerous or injurious to life, limb, health or morals; or,

(4.) As a messenger for delivering letters, telegrams, packages or bundles, to any known house of prostitution or assignation;

Shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 948, § 194.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4939.

See notes to next section.

§ 2447. Employment of Children.

Every person who shall employ, and every parent, guardian or other person having the care, custody or control of such child, who shall permit to be employed, by another, any male child under the age of fourteen years or any female child under the age of sixteen years at any labor whatever, in or in connection with any store, shop, factory, mine or any inside employment not connected with farm or house work, without the written permit thereto of a judge of a superior court of the county wherein such child may live, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 948, § 195.]

For former laws, see infra, § 6570.

See infra, § 5490, hours for employment in bakeries.

See infra, § 4715, forbidden employment of children.

See infra, §§ 6567-6571, employment of female and child labor.

§ 2448. Abortion Defined.

Every person who, with intent thereby to produce the miscarriage of a woman, unless the same is necessary to preserve her life or that of the child whereof she is pregnant, shall—

(1.) Prescribe, supply, or administer to a woman, whether pregnant or not, or advise or cause her to take any medicine, drug or substance; or,

(2.) Use, or cause to be used, any instrument or other means;

Shall be guilty of abortion, and punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years, or in the county jail for not more than one year. [L. '09, p. 948, § 196.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4942.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2758, 2759.

See supra, § 2398, taking drugs to produce miscarriage.

§ 2449. Pregnant Woman Attempting Abortion.

Every pregnant woman who shall take any medicine, drug or substance, or use or submit to the use of any instrument or other means, with intent thereby to produce her own miscarriage, unless the same is necessary to preserve her life or that of the child whereof she is pregnant, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars. [L. '09, p. 948, § 197.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4943.

See last section, and § 2398, supra.

§ 2450. Selling Drugs, etc.

Every person who shall manufacture, sell or give away any instrument, drug, medicine, or other substance, knowing or intending that the same may be unlawfully used in procuring the miscarriage of a woman, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 949, § 198.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4944.

§ 2451. Evidence.

In any prosecution for abortion, attempting abortion, or selling drugs unlawfully, no person shall be excused from testifying as a witness on the ground that said testimony would tend to incriminate himself. [L. '09, p. 949, § 199.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4945.

§ 2452. Concealing Birth.

Every person who shall endeavor to conceal the birth of a child by any disposition of its dead body, whether the child died before or after its birth, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 949, § 200.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4946.

§ 2453. Bigamy Defined—How Punished—Exceptions.

Every person who, having a husband or wife living, shall marry another person, or continue to cohabit with such second husband or wife in this state, shall be guilty of bigamy and be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years: Provided, that this section shall not extend to a person—

(1.) Whose former husband or wife has been absent for five years exclusively then last past, without being known to him or her within that time to be living, and believed to be dead; or,

(2.) Whose former marriage has been pronounced void, annulled or dissolved by a court of competent jurisdiction. [L. '09, p. 949, § 201.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4947.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2896-2898.

§ 2454. Punishment of Consort.

Every person who shall knowingly enter into a bigamous marriage with another, or, after such marriage, continue to cohabit with such other, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars. [L. '09, p. 950, § 202.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4948.

For former laws, see infra, § 2899.

§ 2455. Incest.

Whenever any male and female persons, nearer of kin to each other than second cousins, computing by the rules of the civil law, whether of the half or the whole blood, shall have sexual intercourse together, both shall be guilty of incest and punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years. [L. '09, p. 950, § 203.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4949.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2891, 2892.

See infra, § 7151, marriage within prohibited degrees of consanguinity.

§ 2456. Crime Against Nature.

Every person who shall carnally know in any manner any animal or bird; or who shall carnally know any male or female person by the anus, or with the mouth or tongue; or who shall voluntarily submit to such carnal knowledge; or who shall attempt sexual intercourse with a dead body, shall be guilty of sodomy and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years. [L. '09, p. 950, § 204.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4950.

For former laws, see infra, § 2889.

§ 2457. Adultery.

Whenever any married woman shall have sexual intercourse with a man other than her husband, whether married or not, both shall be guilty of adultery and punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than two years or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars: Provided, that no prosecution for violation of this section shall be commenced except on complaint of the husband or wife, nor after one year from the commission of the offense. [L. '09, p. 950, § 205.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4951.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2893, 2894.

§ 2458. Lewdness.

Every person who shall lewdly and viciously cohabit with another not the husband or wife of such person, and every person who shall be guilty of open or gross lewdness, or make any open and indecent or obscene exposure of his person, or of the person of another, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 950, § 206.]

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2894, 2901, living in a state of adultery.

§ 2459. Obscene Literature.

Every person who—

(1.) Shall sell, lend, or give away, or have in his possession with intent to sell, lend, give away or show any obscene or indecent book, magazine, pamphlet, newspaper, story paper, writing, picture, drawing, photograph, or any article or instrument of indecent or immoral character; or who shall design, copy, draw, photograph, print, utter, publish or otherwise prepare such a book, picture, drawing, paper or other article; or write or print any circular, advertisement or notice of any kind, or give oral information stating when, where, how or of whom such an indecent or obscene article or thing can be purchased or obtained; or,

(2.) Shall sell, lend, give away or have in his possession with intent to sell, lend, give away or show any book, pamphlet, magazine, newspaper or other printed paper devoted to the publication, or largely made up of criminal news, police reports, accounts of criminal deeds, or pictures and stories of deeds of bloodshed, lust or crime; or,

(3.) Shall exhibit within the view of any minor any of the books, papers or other things, hereinbefore enumerated; or,

(4.) Shall hire, use or employ, or having custody or control of his person shall permit any minor to sell, give away, or in any manner distribute any article hereinbefore mentioned; or,

(5.) Shall cause to be performed or exhibited, or engage in the performance or exhibition of any obscene, indecent or immoral show, act or performance;

Shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 951, § 207.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4954.

For former laws, see infra, § 2911.

§ 2460. Indecent Articles, etc.

Every person who shall expose for sale, loan or distribution, any instrument or article, or any drug or medicine, for the prevention of conception, or for causing unlawful abortion; or shall write, print, distribute or exhibit any card, circular, pamphlet, advertisement or notice of any kind, stating when, where, how, or of whom such article or medicine can be obtained, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 951, § 208.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4955.

For former laws, see infra, § 2911.

§ 2461. Prohibited Publications.

Every person who shall publish, and every proprietor, manager or editor who shall permit to be published, in any book, newspaper, magazine or other printed publication circulated wholly or in part in this state—

(1.) Any detailed account of the commission or attempted commission of the crime of rape, carnal knowledge, seduction, adultery, sodomy or any other sexual crime, or of the trial of any person charged therewith; or,

(2.) Any detailed account of the execution of any person convicted of crime; or,

(3.) Any detailed statement of any evidence of indecent, obscene or immoral acts offered in any trial or proceeding; or,

(4.) Any interview with, advertisement for, communication from or account of the actions of any public prostitute, except upon a matter concerning public welfare;

Shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 952, § 209.]

For former laws, see § 2911, infra.

§ 2462. Advertising Cures.

Every person who shall publish, and every proprietor, manager or editor who shall permit to be published in any publication whatever, and every person who shall cause to be displayed or distributed in any public manner any card or notice advertising any treatment or cure for any venereal disease or any disease or weakness of the sexual organs caused by sexual vice or abuse, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 952, § 210.]

See, also, § 2710, infra.

§ 2463. Advertising for Divorce Business.

Every person who shall cause to be published in any newspaper, magazine or other publication, or who shall cause or allow to be posted or distributed in any place frequented by the public any card or notice offering to procure or obtain, or to aid in procuring or obtaining any divorce or the dissolution or nullification of any marriage, or offering to appear or act as attorney or counsel in any suit for divorce, alimony, or the dissolution or nullification of any marriage, either in this state or elsewhere, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 952, § 211.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5166.

For former laws, see infra, § 2900.

§ 2464. Lotteries Defined—A Nuisance—Drawing, How Punished.

A lottery is a scheme for the distribution of money or property by chance, among persons who have paid or agreed to pay a valuable consideration for the chance, whether it shall be called a lottery, raffle, gift enterprise, or by any other name, and is hereby declared unlawful and a public nuisance.

Every person who shall contrive, propose or draw a lottery, or shall assist in contriving, proposing or drawing a lottery, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 953, § 212.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4959.

For former laws, see infra, § 2923.

§ 2465. Selling Tickets, Advertising.

Every person who shall sell, give, or in any way whatever furnish or transfer to or for another, a ticket, chance, share or interest, or any paper, certificate or instrument purporting to be or to represent a ticket, chance, share or interest in, or dependent upon the event of, a lottery, to be drawn within or without the state; or who by writing, printing, circular or letter, or in any other way shall advertise or publish the account of a lottery in or out of the state, stating how, when or where the same is to be or has been drawn, or what are the prizes therein, or any of them, or the price of a ticket, or any share or interest therein, or where or how it may be obtained, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 953, § 213.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4960.

For former laws, see infra, § 2923.

§ 2466. Disposal of Property by Lottery—Keeping Office—Letting Building.

Every person who shall offer for sale or distribution in any way any real or personal property, or any interest therein, to be determined by lot or chance, dependent upon the drawing of a lottery in or out of the state; or who shall sell, furnish or procure in any manner a chance or share, or any interest in property offered for sale or distribution in violation of this section, or a ticket or other evidence of any such chance, share or interest; or who shall open, set up, or keep for himself or another, an office or place for registering the number of tickets in a lottery in or out of the state, or for making, receiving, or registering any bets or stakes for the drawing or result of such lottery; or who shall advertise or in any way publish any account of an opening, setting up, or keeping of such an office or place; or who shall knowingly let, or permit to be used, any building or portion thereof for any of the purposes specified in this subdivision;

Shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 953, § 214.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4961.

§ 2467. Insuring Lottery Tickets—Advertising Offers to Insure.

Every person who shall insure, or receive any consideration for insuring, for or against the drawing of a ticket, share or interest in a lottery, or a number of such ticket, share or interest; or who shall receive any valuable consideration, upon an agreement to pay money or deliver property in the event that a ticket, share or interest, or a number of such a ticket, share or interest in a lottery shall prove fortunate or unfortunate, or shall be drawn or not drawn in a proper way or in a proper order; or who shall promise or agree or offer to pay money or deliver property, or to do or forbear to do any act for the benefit of any person, with or without consideration, upon any accident or contingency dependent upon the drawing thereof, or of any number or ticket therein, or who, by writing, printing, circular or letter, or in any way, shall advertise or publish an offer, notice or proposition in violation of the provisions of this section;

Shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 954, § 215.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4962.

§ 2468. Lotteries Out of State—Advertisement by Nonresidents.

The provisions of this subdivision are applicable to lotteries drawn, or to be drawn out of the state, whether authorized or not by the laws of the state or country where they are to be drawn, in the same manner as to those in the state, and every provision of law relating to advertising lotteries or offers to insure lottery tickets, shall be applicable, whenever the advertisement was published, or the letter or circular sent or delivered, through or in the state, though the person causing or procuring the same to be published, sent or delivered was out of the state at the time of so doing. [L. '09, p. 954, § 216.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4963.

§ 2469. Conducting Gambling.

Every person who shall open, conduct, carry on or operate, whether as owner, manager, agent, dealer, clerk, or employee, and whether for hire or not, any gambling game or game of chance, played with cards, dice, or any other device, or any scheme or device whereby any money or property or any representative of either, may be bet, wagered or hazarded upon any chance, or any uncertain or contingent event, shall be a common gambler, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years. [L. '09, p. 955, § 217.]

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2924-2926, 2931.

§ 2470. Gambling.

Every person who shall bet, wager or hazard any money or property, or any representative of either, upon any game, scheme or device, opened, conducted, carried on or operated in violation of the last section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 955, § 218.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2924 et seq.

§ 2471. Swindling.

Every person who, by color, or aid of any trick or sleight of hand performance, or by any fraud or fraudulent scheme, cards, dice, or device, shall win for himself or for another any money or property, or representative of either, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years. [L. '09, p. 955, § 219.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4969.

§ 2472. Possession of Gambling Devices.

Every person who shall have in his possession or shall permit to be placed or kept in any building or boat, or part thereof, owned, leased or occupied by him, any table, slot machine, or any other article, device or apparatus of a kind commonly used for gambling, or operated for the losing or winning of any money or property, or any representative of either, upon any chance or uncertain or contingent event, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 955, § 220.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4965.

For former law, see infra, § 2932.

Possession of slot machines as prima facie evidence, and disposition of fines, see infra, §§ 2933, 2934.

§ 2473. Poolselling and Book-making.

Every person, whether acting in his own behalf, or as an agent, servant or employee of another person within or outside of this state, who shall sell any pool, make any book, or receive, record, register, transmit or forward any bet or wager, or any money or property or thing of value designed or intended to be bet, wagered or hazarded, upon the result of any contest or trial of skill, speed or endurance between men or beasts, whether such contest or trial take place within or outside of this state, or upon the result of any lot, chance, casualty, or uncertain or contingent event whatever, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years. [L. '09, p. 956, § 221.]

See infra, § 2721, race-track gambling.

§ 2474. Allowing Building to be Used.

Every person being in possession or control of any tent, building, float or vessel, or part thereof, who shall knowingly permit the same, or any part thereof, to be used for gambling, swindling, poolselling, or book-making, or for betting, wagering or hazarding money or property, or any representative of either, upon any game, scheme or device, or upon the result of any lot, chance, or uncertain or contingent event whatever, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 956, § 222.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2926.

§ 2475. Bucket-shop Defined.

A bucket-shop is hereby defined to be a shed, tent, tenement, booth, building, float or vessel, or any part thereof, wherein may be made contracts respecting the purchase or sale upon margin or credit of any commodities, securities, or property, or option for the purchase thereof, wherein both parties intend that such contract shall or may be terminated, closed and settled; either;

(1.) Upon the basis of the market prices quoted or made on any board of trade or exchange upon which such commodities, securities or property may be dealt in; or,

(2.) When the market prices for such commodities, securities or property shall reach a certain figure in any such board of trade or exchange; or,

(3.) On the basis of the difference in the market prices at which said commodities, securities or property are, or purport to be, bought and sold. [L. '09, p. 956, § 223.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., § 355a.

§ 2476. Maintaining Bucket-shop—Penalty.

Every person, whether in his own behalf, or as agent, servant or employee of another person, within or outside of this state, who shall open, conduct or carry on any bucket-shop, or make or offer to make any contract described in the last section, or with intent to make such a contract, or assist therein, shall receive, exhibit, or display, any statement of market prices of any commodities, securities, or property, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years. [L. '09, p. 957, § 224.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., § 355b.

§ 2477. Written Statement to be Furnished—Presumption.

Every person, whether in his own behalf, or as the servant, agent or employee of another person, within or outside of this state, who shall buy or sell for another, or execute any order for the purchase or sale of any commodities, securities or property, upon margin or credit, whether for immediate or future delivery, shall, upon written demand therefor, furnish such principal or customer with a written statement containing the names of the persons from whom such property was bought, or to whom it has been sold, as the case may be, the time when, the place where, the amount of, and the price at which the same was either bought or sold; and if such person shall refuse or neglect to furnish such statement within forty-eight hours after such written demand, such refusal shall be prima facie evidence as against him that such purchase or sale was made in violation of section 2476. [L. '09, p. 957, § 225.]

§ 2478. Seizure and Disposition of Gambling Devices.

It shall be the duty of all peace officers to search for and seize all tables, slot machines, or other article, machine, device or apparatus of the kind commonly used for gambling, or operated for the winning or losing of money or property, or any representative of either, upon any chance or uncertain or contingent event, and all property useful in the operation or maintenance of a bucket-shop, and take the same before a magistrate. If in the judgment of such magistrate any of such articles may be useful as evidence in the trial of any case, he may order the same held for such trial or delivered to the prosecuting attorney; otherwise, he shall order the same to be forthwith destroyed. After the final hearing and disposition of any case in which any of said articles may be held or used as evidence, whether such case result in a conviction or acquittal, the magistrate or judge having jurisdiction of such case shall forthwith order all such articles destroyed. [L. '09, p. 957, § 226.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., §§ 355c, 345, 346, 347.
See supra, §§ 2237-2240, search-warrants.

§ 2479. Bunco-steering.

Every person who shall entice or induce another, upon any pretense, to go to any place where any gambling game, scheme or device, or any trick, sleight-of-hand performance, fraud or fraudulent scheme, cards, dice or device, is being conducted or operated; or while in such place shall entice or induce another to bet, wager or hazard any money or property, or representative of either, upon any such game, scheme, device, trick, sleight-of-hand performance, fraud or fraudulent scheme, cards, dice, or device, or to execute any obligation for the payment of money, or delivery of property, or to lose, advance, or loan any money or property, or representative of either, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years. [L. '09, p. 957, § 227.]

§ 2480. Evidence—Testimony of Player.

No person shall be excused from giving testimony concerning any offense committed by another against any of the provisions of sections 2469 or 2473, inclusive by reason of his having bet or played at the prohibited game or device. [L. '09, p. 957, § 228.]

§ 2481. Pawnbrokers and Second-hand Dealers—Duty to Record Transactions.

It shall be the duty of every pawnbroker and second-hand dealer doing business in any city of the first class in this state to maintain in his place of business a book or other permanent record in which shall be legibly written in the English language, at the time of each loan, purchase or sale, a record thereof containing—

- (1.) The date of the transaction;
- (2.) The name of the person or employee conducting the same;
- (3.) The name, age, street and house number, and a general description of the dress, complexion, color of hair, and facial appearance of the person with whom the transaction is had;
- (4.) The name and street and house number of the owner of the property bought or received in pledge;
- (5.) The street and house number of the place from which the property bought or received in pledge was last removed;
- (6.) A description of the property bought or received in pledge, which in the case of watches shall contain the name of the maker and the number of both the works and the case, and in the case of jewelry shall contain a description of all letters and marks inscribed thereon: Provided, that when the article bought or received is furniture, or the contents of any house or room actually inspected on the premises, a general record of the transaction shall be sufficient;

(7.) The price paid or the amount loaned;

(8.) The names and street and house numbers of all persons witnessing the transaction; and

(9.) The number of any pawn ticket issued therefor. [L. '09, p. 959, § 229.]

Query, whether this and the following sections are within the title of the act. See note to § 2304, supra.

§ 2482. Inspection of Records and Goods.

Such record, and all goods received, shall at all times during the ordinary hours of business be open to the inspection of the prosecuting attorney or of any peace officer. [L. '09, p. 959, § 230.]

See note to last section.

§ 2483. Report to Chief of Police.

Every pawnbroker and second-hand dealer doing business in any city of the first and second class shall, before noon of each day, furnish to the chief of police of such city, on such forms as such chief of police may provide therefor, a full, true and correct transcript of the record of all transactions had on the preceding day, and having good cause to believe that any property in his possession has been previously lost or stolen, he shall forthwith report such fact to the chief of police, together with the name of the owner, if known, and the date when, and the name of the person from whom the same was received by him. [L. '09, p. 960, § 231.]

See note to § 2481.

§ 2484. Retention of Property.

No property bought or received in pledge by any pawnbroker or second-hand dealer shall be removed from his place of business, except when redeemed by the owner thereof, within four days after the receipt thereof shall have been reported to the chief of police as herein provided. [L. '09, p. 960, § 232.]

See note to § 2481.

§ 2485. Penalty.

Every pawnbroker or second-hand dealer, and every clerk, agent or employee of such pawnbroker or second-hand dealer, who shall—

(1.) Fail to make an entry of any material matter in his book or record kept as provided for in section 2483; or,

(2.) Make any false entry therein; or,

(3.) Falsify, obliterate, destroy or remove from his place of business such book or record; or,

(4.) Refuse to allow the prosecuting attorney or any peace officer to inspect the same, or any goods in his possession, during the ordinary hours of business; or,

(5.) Report any material matter falsely to the chief of police; or,

(6.) Having forms provided therefor, shall fail before noon of each day to furnish the chief of police with a full, true and correct transcript of the record of all transactions had on the previous day, it being the intent of this section that Saturday's business may be reported on Monday; or,

(7.) Fail to report forthwith to the chief of police the possession of any property which he may have good cause to believe has been lost or stolen, together with the name of the owner, if known, and the date when, and the name of the person from whom the same was received by him; or,

(8.) Remove, or allow to be removed from his place of business, except upon redemption by the owner thereof, any property received, within four days after the receipt thereof shall have been reported to the chief of police; or,

(9.) Receive any property from any person under the age of twenty-one years, any common drunkard, any habitual user of narcotic drugs, any habitual criminal, any person in an intoxicated condition, any known thief or receiver of stolen property, or any known associate of such thief or receiver of stolen property, whether such person be acting in his own behalf or as the agent of another;

Shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 960, § 233.]

See note to § 2481.

§ 2486. Rates of Interest and Sale of Pledged Property.

All pawnbrokers are authorized to charge and receive interest at the rate of three per cent a month for money loaned on the security of personal property actually received in pledge, and every person who shall ask or receive a higher rate of interest or discount on any such loan, or on any actual or pretended sale, or redemption of personal property, or who shall sell any property held for redemption within ninety days after the period for redemption shall have expired, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 961, § 234.]

See note to § 2481.

See infra, § 6251, legal rate of interest.

§ 2487. "Pawnbroker" Defined.

Every person engaged, in whole or in part, in the business of loaning money on the security of pledges, deposits or conditional sales of personal property, shall be deemed to be a pawnbroker. [L. '09, p. 961, § 235.]

§ 2488. "Second-hand Dealer" Defined.

Every person engaged in whole or in part in the business of buying or selling second-hand personal property, metal junk, or melted metals, shall be deemed to be a second-hand dealer. [L. '09, p. 961, § 236.]

§ 2489. Rights of Sepulture—Dissection, When Permitted.

The right to dissect the dead body of a human being shall be limited to cases specially provided by statute or by the direction or will of the deceased; cases where a coroner is authorized to hold an inquest upon the body, and then only as he may authorize dissection; and cases where the husband, wife or next of kin charged by law with the duty of burial shall authorize dissection for the purpose of ascertaining the cause of death, and then only to the extent so authorized. Every person who shall make, cause or procure to be made any dissection of the body of a human being, except as hereinbefore provided, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 962, § 237.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4975.

For former laws, see infra, § 2913.

See infra, § 7052, undertaker acting without a license.

Dissection when permitted, see infra, §§ 8408-8411.

§ 2490. Burial or Cremating.

Except in cases of dissection provided for in the last section, and where a dead body shall rightfully be carried through or removed from the state for the purpose of burial elsewhere, every dead body of a human being lying within this state, and the remains of any dissected body, after dissection, shall be decently buried, or cremated within a reasonable time after death. [L. '09, p. 962, § 238.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4976.

See infra, § 5443, interment, transportation, etc., without burial permit.

§ 2491. Opening Grave—Stealing Body—Receiving Same.

Every person who shall remove the dead body of a human being, or any part thereof, from a grave, vault, or other place where the same has been buried or deposited awaiting burial or cremation, without authority of law, with intent to sell the same, or for the purpose of securing a reward for its return, or for dissection, or from malice or wantonness, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both.

Every person who shall purchase or receive, except for burial or cremation, any such dead body, or any part thereof, knowing that the same has been removed contrary to the foregoing provisions, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than three years, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both.

Every person who shall open a grave or any other place of interment, temporary or otherwise, or a building where such dead body is deposited while awaiting burial or cremation, with intent to remove said body or any part thereof, for the purpose of selling or demanding money for the same, for dissection, from malice or wantonness, or with intent to sell or remove the coffin or of any part thereof, or anything attached thereto, or any vestment, or other article interred, or intended to be interred with the body, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than three years or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 962, § 239.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4977.

For former laws, see infra, § 2913.

§ 2492. Interfering with Dead Body or Funeral.

Every person who shall arrest or attach the dead body of a human being upon a debt or demand, or shall detain or claim to detain it for any debt or demand, or upon any pretended lien or charge; or who, without authority of law, shall obstruct or detain a person engaged in carrying or accompanying the dead body of a human being to a place of burial or cremation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 963, § 240.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4978.

§ 2493. Opening Road Through Cemetery.

Every person who shall make or open any road, or construct any railway, turnpike, canal, or other public easement over, through, in, or upon, such part of any inclosure as may be used for the burial of the dead, without authority of law or the consent of the owner thereof, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 963, § 241.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4979.

§ 2494. Sabbath-breaking—Defined.

Every person who, on the first day of the week, shall promote any noisy or boisterous sport or amusement, disturbing the peace of the day; or who shall conduct or carry on, or perform or employ any labor about any trade or manufacture, except livery-stables, garages and works of necessity or charity conducted in an orderly manner so as not to interfere with the repose and religious liberty of the community; or who shall open any drinking saloon, or sell, offer or expose for sale, any personal property, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, that meals, without intoxicating liquors, may be served on the premises or elsewhere by caterers, and prepared tobacco, milk, fruit, confectionery, newspapers, magazines, medical and surgical appliances may be sold in a quiet and orderly manner. In works of necessity or charity is included whatever is needful during the day for the good order or health or comfort of a community; but keeping open a barber-shop, shaving or cutting hair shall not be deemed a work of necessity or charity, and nothing in this section shall be construed to permit the sale of uncooked meats, groceries, clothing, boots or shoes. [L. '09, p. 963, § 242.]

Compare Minn. Code, §§ 4980, 4981; N. Y. P. C., §§ 259, 260, 262, 266, 267, 269.
For former laws, see infra, §§ 2915, 2916, 2917.

§ 2495. Obstructing View of Saloon.

Every person being the owner or manager of or an employee in any drinking saloon who shall obstruct the view of the inside thereof from the outside by means of any screen, shade or other devices on any day shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 964, § 243.]

See infra, §§ 2694-2696, liquor sales.

§ 2496. Observance of Other Day.

It shall be a sufficient defense to a prosecution for performing work or labor on the first day of the week that the defendant uniformly keeps another day of the week as holy time and that the act complained of was done in such manner as [will] not disturb others in the observance of the Sabbath. [L. '09, p. 964, § 244.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4952; N. Y. P. C., § 264.

§ 2497. Service of Process on the Sabbath Prohibited.

Every person who shall serve any legal process on the Sabbath day, except in case of a breach, or apprehended breach, of the peace, or when sued out for the apprehension of a person charged with a crime, or where such service is expressly authorized by statute, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 964, § 245.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4983; N. Y. P. C., § 268.

§ 2498. Preventing Religious Act.

Every person who by threats or violence shall willfully prevent another person from performing any lawful act enjoined upon or recommended to him by the religion which he professes, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 965, § 246.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4984; N. Y. P. C., § 273.
See next section.

§ 2499. Disturbing Religious Meeting.

Every person who shall willfully disturb, interrupt, or disquiet any assemblage of people met for religious worship—

(1.) By noisy, rude or indecent behavior, profane discourse, either within the place where such meeting is held, or so near it as to disturb the order and solemnity of the meeting; or,

(2.) By exhibiting shows or plays, or promoting any racing of animals, or gaming of any description, or engaging in any boisterous or noisy amusement; or,

(3.) By disturbing in any manner, without authority of law within one mile thereof, free passage along a highway to the place of such meeting, or by maliciously cutting or otherwise injuring or disturbing a harness, conveyance, tent or other property belonging to any person in attendance upon such meeting;

Shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 965, § 247.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4985; N. Y. P. C., §§ 274, 275.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2766, 2767.

See infra, § 4697, disturbing public school.

CHAPTER VII.

CRIMES AGAINST PUBLIC HEALTH AND SAFETY.

§ 2500. Public Nuisance.

A public nuisance is a crime against the order and economy of the state. Every place

(1.) Wherein any gambling, swindling game or device, book-making, pool-selling, or bucket-shop or any agency therefor shall be conducted, or any article, apparatus or device useful therefor shall be kept; or,

(2.) Wherein any fighting between men or animals or birds shall be conducted; or,

(3.) Wherein any intoxicating liquors are kept for unlawful use, sale or distribution; or,

(4.) Where vagrants resort; and

Every act unlawfully done and every omission to perform a duty, which act or omission

(1.) Shall annoy, injure or endanger the safety, health, comfort, or repose of any considerable number of persons; or,

(2.) Shall offend public decency; or,

(3.) Shall unlawfully interfere with, befoul, obstruct, or tend to obstruct, or render dangerous for passage, a lake, navigable river, bay, stream, canal or basin, or a public park, square, street, alley or highway; or,

(4.) Shall in any way render a considerable number of persons insecure in life or the use of property;

Shall be a public nuisance. [L. '09, p. 965, § 248.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4987; N. Y. P. C., § 385.

For former laws, see infra, § 2960.

See infra, § 6073, refusing to remove combustible material.

See infra, § 6278, druggist, room for sale of liquor.

See infra, § 6304, place of selling liquor a nuisance.

See infra, § 7992, pollution of water supply.

See infra, §§ 8307-8323, public nuisances, defined.

§ 2501. Unequal Damage.

An act which affects a considerable number of persons in any of the ways specified in section 2500, is not less a public nuisance because the extent of the damages is unequal. [L. '09, p. 966, § 249.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., § 386.

§ 2502. Maintaining or Permitting Nuisance.

Every person who shall commit or maintain a public nuisance, for which no special punishment is prescribed; or who shall willfully omit or refuse to perform any legal duty relating to the removal of such nuisance; and every person who shall let, or permit to be used, any building or boat, or portion thereof, knowing that it is intended to be, or is being used, for committing or maintaining any such nuisance, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 966, § 250.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4988; N. Y. P. C., §§ 387, 388.

§ 2503. Abatement of Nuisance.

Any court or magistrate before whom there may be pending any proceeding for a violation of section 2502, shall, in addition to any fine or other punishment which it may impose for such violation, order such nuisance abated, and all property unlawfully used in the maintenance thereof destroyed by the sheriff at the cost of the defendant. [L. '09, p. 966, § 251.]

See, also, infra, § 8321.

§ 2504. Keeping Explosives Unlawfully.

Every person who shall make or keep any explosive or combustible substance in any city or village, or carry it through the streets thereof in a quantity, or manner prohibited by law, or by ordinance of such municipality; and every person who, by careless, negligent or unauthorized use or management of any such explosive or combustible substance, shall injure or cause injury to the person or property of another, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 966, § 252.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 4989.

See supra, § 2403, killing by explosives unlawfully kept.

See infra, § 2652, endangering life by explosives.

See infra, § 2653, damaging building.

§ 2505. Possession of Uninspected Oils and Effacing Brands from Oil Barrels.

Every person who shall sell, or offer for sale, or have in his possession with intent to sell, or who shall knowingly use for illuminating purposes, any oil, or other petroleum product, which shall not have been tested and approved by the state oil inspector, or who shall sell or dispose of any empty oil barrel, cask or package without thoroughly removing and effacing all inspection brands thereon, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 967, § 253.]

See infra, §§ 6055-6058, selling oils without inspection.

§ 2506. Transporting Explosives.

Any person who shall put up for sale, or who shall deliver to any warehouseman, dock, depot, or common carrier, any package, cask or can containing benzine, gasoline, naphtha, nitroglycerine, dynamite, powder or other explosive or combustible substance, without having printed thereon in a conspicuous place in large letters the word "Explosive," shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 967, § 254.]

Former laws, see § 2959, infra.

§ 2507. Person Omitting to Label Drugs, or Labeling Them Wrongly.

Every person who, in putting up any drug, medicine, or food, or preparation used in medical practice, or making up any prescription, or filling any order for drugs, medicines, food or preparation shall put any untrue label, stamp or other designation of contents upon any box, bottle or other package containing a drug, medicine, food or preparation used in medical practice, or substitute or dispense a different article for or in lieu of any article prescribed, ordered, or demanded, or put up a greater or less quantity of any ingredient specified in any such prescription, order or demand than that prescribed, ordered, or demanded, or otherwise deviate from the terms of the prescription, order, or demand by substituting one drug for another, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, however, that, except in the case of physician's prescriptions, nothing herein contained shall be deemed or construed to prevent or impair or in any manner affect the right of an apothecary, druggist, pharmacist or other person to recommend the purchase of an article other than that ordered, required or demanded, but of a similar nature, or to sell such other article in place or in lieu of an article ordered, required or demanded, with the knowledge and consent of the purchaser. [L. '09, p. 967, § 255.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., § 401.

See infra, § 3049, sale of fertilizers without label.

See infra, § 3068, sale of impure seeds.

§ 2508. Selling Poison Without Labeling and Recording the Sale.

It shall be unlawful for any person to sell at retail or furnish any of the poisons named in the schedules hereinafter set forth, without affixing or causing to be affixed to the bottle, box, vessel or package, a label containing the name of the article and the word "poison" distinctly shown, with the name and place of business of the seller, all printed in red ink, together with the name of such poison printed or written thereon in plain, legible characters, which schedules are as follows, to wit:

SCHEDULE "A."

Arsenic, cyanide of potassium, hydrocyanic acid, cocaine, morphine, strychnia and all other poisonous vegetable alkaloids and their salts, oil of bitter almonds, containing hydrocyanic acid, opium and its preparations, except paregoric and such others as contain less than two grains of opium to the ounce.

SCHEDULE "B."

Aconite, belladonna, cantharides, colchicum, conium, cotton root, digitalis, ergot, hellebore, henbane, phytolacca, strophanthus, oil of tansy, veratrum viride and their pharmaceutical preparations, arsenical solutions, carbolic acid, chloral hydrate, chloroform, corrosive sublimate, creosote, croton oil, mineral acids, oxalic acid, paris green, salts of lead, salts of zinc, white hellebore or any drug, chemical or preparation which, according to standard works on medicine or materia medica, is liable to be destructive to adult human life in quantities of sixty grains or less. Every person who shall dispose of or sell at retail or furnish any poisons included under schedule A shall, before delivering the same, make or cause to be made an entry in a book kept for that purpose, stating the date of sale, the name and address of the purchaser, the name and the quantity of the poison, the purpose for which it is represented by the purchaser to be required and the name of the dispenser, such book to be always open for inspection by the proper authorities, and to be preserved for at least five years after the last entry. He shall not deliver any of said poisons to any minor, intoxicated person, or person known to be of unsound mind, or to any person without satisfying himself that the purchaser is aware of its poisonous character and that the said poison is to be used for a legitimate purpose. The foregoing portions of this section shall not apply to the dispensing of medicines, or poisons on physicians' prescriptions. Wholesale dealers in drugs, medicines, pharmaceutical preparations or chemicals shall affix or cause to be affixed to every bottle, box, parcel or outer inclosure of an original package containing any of the articles enumerated under said schedule A, a suitable brand in red ink with the word "poison" upon it. Every person who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 968, § 256.]

§ 2509. Regulating the Sale of Narcotic Drugs.

It shall be unlawful for any person to sell, furnish or dispose of any opium, morphine, alkaloid cocaine, or alpha or beta eucaine, or any derivative, mixture or preparation of any of them, except upon the signed prescription of a physician duly licensed under the laws of this state, which prescription shall be retained by the person dispensing the same, shall be filled but once, and of which no copy shall be taken by any person. The person dispensing the same shall at the time thereof indorse on the back of such prescription the name and street and house number of the person to whom dispensed; and the proprietor or manager of the store where dispensed shall keep all such prescriptions in a permanent file, separate from all other prescriptions, in his place of business for the period of two years after the same shall have been dispensed, and shall at any time allow the same to be inspected, and copies thereof to be made by any peace officer, the prosecuting attorney of the county where sold, or any authorized inspector of drugs:

Provided, that nothing herein contained shall prohibit any manufacturer or licensed druggist from selling or delivering any of the drugs named to a person known to be a licensed physician or licensed druggist, nor prohibit a physician from dispensing the same in good faith to his patients, nor prohibit the sale of patent or proprietary medicines containing opium or morphine, in combination or compound with other active elements wherein the dose of opium is less than one-quarter grain, or the dose of morphine is less than one-twentieth grain. Every person who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 969, § 257.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., § 405a.

See on this subject §§ 2942, 2944, 6275, infra.

§ 2510. Fraudulent Prescription by Physician.

Every physician who shall sell or give to or prescribe for any person any opium, morphine, alkaloid cocaine, or alpha or beta eucaine, or any derivative, mixture or preparation of any of them, or any intoxicating liquor, except to a patient believed in good faith to require the same for medicinal use, and in quantities proportioned to the needs of such patient, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. § 2511. Presenting Fraudulent Prescription:

Every person who shall falsely make, forge or alter, or, knowing the same to have been falsely made, forged or altered, shall present to any druggist a physician's prescription with intent by means thereof to procure from such druggist any opium, morphine, alkaloid cocaine, or alpha or beta eucaine, or any derivative, mixture or preparation of any of them, or any intoxicating liquor, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 970, § 259.]

§ 2512. Regulating the Sale of Milk and Cream in Cities.

Every person who, in any city of the first class, shall sell or deliver, or offer for sale, or have in his possession with intent to sell or deliver any milk or cream without having a permit therefor duly issued by the commissioner of health, health officer, or inspector of milk in such city, or without having such permit displayed in a conspicuous manner in his place of business, or without having the number of such permit and the name of the owner thereof painted in a conspicuous manner on both outer sides of every wagon or other vehicle used for the sale or delivery of milk or cream, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 971, § 260.]

See on this subject, infra, § 5469.

§ 2513. Regulating the Sale of Milk and Cream Generally.

Every person who shall sell, or deliver, or offer for sale, or have in his possession with intent to sell or deliver—

(1.) Any unwholesome milk or cream; or,

(2.) Any milk containing less than 8.75 per cent of milk solids, exclusive of fat, or less than 3.25 per cent of fat, except in the manner and under the conditions prescribed for the sale of skimmed milk; or,

(3.) Any skimmed milk, except under the title "skimmed milk" and in cans or bottles plainly stamped in some prominent and conspicuous manner with the words, "skimmed milk"; and every person who shall sell or serve or keep for sale or service in any hotel, restaurant or boarding-house any skimmed milk without having displayed in a conspicuous manner in every room where so sold or served, placards bearing in large letters the words, "Skimmed Milk Sold Here"; or,

(4.) Any skimmed milk containing less than 9.3 per cent of milk solids, exclusive of fat; or,

(5.) Any cream containing less than eighteen per cent of fat, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 971, § 261.]

§ 2514. "Unwholesome" Defined.

Milk or cream shall be deemed unwholesome in the following cases:

(1.) When any foreign substance has been added thereto or placed therein for the purpose of thickening, coloring or preserving the same; or,

(2.) When it contains any pathogenic bacteria or germs, pus cells, or blood cells; or,

(3.) When it contains more than two hundred thousand bacteria or germs of all kinds to the cubic centimetre; or,

(4.) When any water has been added thereto; or,

(5.) When any part of it has been drawn from a cow fed on refuse or unwholesome food; or,

(6.) When any part of it has been drawn from a dirty cow or cow kept in an unclean shed, barn or yard, or has been milked by unclean milkers; or,

(7.) When any part of it has been contaminated; or,

(8.) When any part it has been drawn from an unhealthy cow; or,

(9.) When any part of it has been exposed to any contagious or infectious disease; or,

(10.) When any part of it has been drawn from a cow within ten days before or five days after parturition, or in any case before such cow shall be free from fever.

No milk or cream once unwholesome can thereafter be rendered wholesome or salable. [L. '09, p. 971, § 262.]

See supra, § 2499, disturbing religious meeting.

See infra, § 4697, disturbing school.

§ 2548. Riot Defined.

Whenever three or more persons, having assembled for any purpose, shall disturb the public peace by using force or violence to any other person, or to property, or shall threaten or attempt to commit such disturbance, or to do any unlawful act by the use of force or violence, accompanied with the power of immediate execution of such threat or attempt, they shall be guilty of a riot. [L. '09, p. 980, § 296.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5014; N. Y. P. C., § 449.
For former laws, see infra, §§ 2763, 2764.

§ 2549. Riot—Penalty.

Every person who shall be guilty of riot or of participating therein, by being present at, or by instigation, permitting or aiding the same shall be punished as follows:

(1.) If the purpose of the assembly or the acts done therein, or intended by the persons engaged, shall be to resist the enforcement of a statute of this state or of the United States, or to obstruct any public officer of this state or the United States in serving or executing any process or other mandate of a court, or in the performance of any other duty, or if at the time of the riot the offender shall carry a firearm or any other dangerous weapon, or shall be disguised, by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars.

(2.) If the offender shall direct, advise, encourage or solicit other persons present or participating in a riot or assembly to acts of force or violence, by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than two years, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars.

(3.) In every other case, by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars. [L. '09, p. 981, § 297.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2764.

§ 2550. Unlawful Assembly.

Whenever three or more persons shall assemble with intent—

(1.) To commit any unlawful act by force; or,

(2.) To carry out any purpose in such manner as to disturb the public peace; or,

(3.) Being assembled, shall attempt or threaten any act tending toward a breach of the peace, or an injury to persons or property, or any unlawful act—such an assembly is unlawful, and every person participating therein by his presence, aid or instigation, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 981, § 298.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5016; N. Y. P. C., § 451.
Former laws, see infra, § 2764.

§ 2551. Remaining After Warning.

Every person who shall remain present at the place of an unlawful meeting after having been warned to disperse by a magistrate or public officer, unless as a public officer or at the request of such officer he is assisting in dispersing the same, or in protecting persons or property or in arresting offenders, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 981, § 299.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5017; N. Y. P. C., § 454.
Former laws, see infra, § 2765.

§ 2552. Destruction of Property.

Whenever any of the persons so unlawfully assembled, shall pull down or destroy any dwelling-house or other building, or any shop, steamboat or vessel, he shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars. [L. '09, p. 982, § 300.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5018.
Former laws, see infra, § 2768.

§ 2553. Disguised and Masked Persons.

Any assemblage of three or more persons, disguised by having their faces painted, discolored, colored or concealed, shall be unlawful; and every person so disguised present thereat, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor; but nothing herein shall be construed as prohibiting any peaceful assemblage for a masquerade or fancy dress ball or entertainment. [L. '09, p. 982, § 301.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., § 452.

§ 2554. Owner of Premises Allowing Masqueraders.

Every person, being the owner, lessee or occupant of any building, boat, or part thereof, who shall knowingly permit therein any unlawful assemblage of masked persons, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 982, § 302.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., § 453.

§ 2555. Combination to Resist Process.

Every person who shall enter into a combination with another to resist the execution of any legal process or other mandate of a court of competent jurisdiction, under circumstances not amounting to a riot, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 982, § 303.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5019; N. Y. P. C., § 457.
See supra, § 2366, resisting officer.

§ 2556. Prize-fighting—Aiding, Betting or Stake-holding.

Every person who shall engage in, instigate, aid, encourage, or do any act to further an encounter or fight with or without weapons, between two or more persons, or a fight commonly called a ring or prize-fight, or an encounter commonly called a sparring match, with or without gloves, or who shall send a challenge or acceptance of a challenge for such an encounter or fight; or who shall carry or deliver such a challenge or acceptance, or shall train or assist any person in training or preparing for such an encounter or fight; or who shall bet, stake or wager money or other property upon the result of such encounter or fight; or hold or undertake to hold any money or other property so staked or wagered, to be delivered to, or for the benefit of the winner thereof, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be so construed as to interfere with members of private clubs sparring or fencing for exercise among themselves. [L. '09, p. 982, § 304.]

Compare Minn. Code, §§ 5020, 5021; N. Y. P. C., § 458.
For former laws as to affrays, see infra, §§ 2769, 2908, 2909, 2910.

§ 2557. Apprehension of Persons About to Fight.

Whenever it shall be made to appear to any magistrate that there are reasonable grounds to apprehend that an offense specified in section 2556 is about to be committed within his jurisdiction, or by any person therein, he shall issue his warrant for the arrest of the person or persons so about to offend, and if upon any such person being brought before him it shall appear that there is reasonable ground to believe that he is about to commit such an offense he shall require him to give bond to the state, approved by him, in a sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, with or without sureties, conditioned that such person shall not within one year thereof commit such an offense. On failure to furnish such bond such person shall be committed to the county jail. [L. '09, p. 983, § 305.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5022; N. Y. P. C., § 463.
For former laws, see infra, § 2910.

§ 2558. Forcible Entry and Detainer.

Every person who shall unlawfully use, or encourage or assist another in unlawfully using, any force or violence in entering upon or detaining any lands or other possessions of another; and every person who, having removed or been removed therefrom pursuant to the order or direction of any court, tribunal or officer, shall afterwards return to settle or reside unlawfully upon, or take possession of, such lands or possessions, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 983, § 306.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5023; N. Y. P. C., §§ 465, 466.
For former laws, see infra, § 2821.

§ 2559. Aiming or Discharging Firearms.

Every person who shall aim any gun, pistol, revolver or other firearm, whether loaded or not, at or toward any human being, or who shall willfully discharge any firearm, air gun or other weapon, or throw any deadly missile in a public place, or in any place where any person might be endangered thereby, although no injury result, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 984, § 307.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5024.
For former laws, compare §§ 2371-2373.

§ 2560. Use of Firearms by Minor.

No minor under the age of fourteen years shall handle or have in his possession or under his control, except while accompanied by or under the immediate charge of his parent or guardian, any firearm of any kind for hunting or target practice or for other purposes. Every person violating any of the foregoing provisions, or aiding or knowingly permitting any such minor to violate the same, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 984, § 308.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5025.
See supra, § 2445, giving toy pistol, revolver, etc.

§ 2561. Offenses in Public Conveyances.

Every person who shall willfully use profane, offensive, or indecent language or engage in any quarrel in any public conveyance, or interfere with or annoy any passenger therein, or, having refused to pay the proper fare, shall fail to leave any such conveyance upon demand, or, with intent to avoid the payment of fare shall ride upon any car or engine not commonly used for the carriage of passengers, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 984, § 309.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5026.

§ 2562. Criminal Anarchy Defined.

Criminal anarchy is the doctrine that organized government should be overthrown by force or violence, or by assassination of the executive head or of any of the executive officials of government, or by any unlawful means. The advocating of such doctrine either by word of mouth or writing is a felony. [L. '09, p. 984, § 310.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., § 468a.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2781, 2782.

§ 2563. Advocacy of Criminal Anarchy.

Every person who—

(1.) By word of mouth or writing shall advocate, advise or teach the duty, necessity or propriety of overthrowing or overturning organized government by force or violence, or by assassination of the executive head or of any of the executive officials of government, or by any unlawful means; or

(2.) Shall print, publish, edit, issue or knowingly circulate, sell, distribute or publicly display any book, paper, document, or written or printed matter in any form containing or advocating, advising or teaching the doctrine that organized government should be overthrown by force, violence or any unlawful means; or,

(3.) Shall openly, willfully and deliberately justify by word of mouth or writing the assassination or unlawful killing or assaulting of any executive or other officer of the United States or of any state or of any civilized nation having an organized government because of his official character, or any other crime, with intent to teach, spread or advocate the propriety of the doctrines of criminal anarchy; or

(4.) Shall organize or help to organize or become a member of or voluntarily assemble with any society, group or assembly of persons formed to teach or advocate such doctrine,

Shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years, or by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 984, § 311.]

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2781, 2782.

§ 2564. Publishing Matter Inciting Breach of Peace.

Every person who shall willfully print, publish, edit, issue, or knowingly circulate, sell, distribute or display any book, paper, document, or written or printed matter, in any form, advocating, encouraging or inciting, or having a tendency to encourage or incite the commission of any crime, breach of the peace or act of violence, or which shall tend to encourage or advocate disrespect for law or for any court or courts of justice, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 985, § 312.]

§ 2565. Liability of Editors and Others.

Every editor or proprietor of a book, newspaper or serial and every manager of a partnership or incorporated association by which a book, newspaper or serial is issued, is chargeable with the publication of any matter contained in such book, newspaper or serial. But in every prosecution therefor, the defendant may show in his defense that the matter complained of was published without his knowledge or fault and against his wishes by another who had no authority from him to make the publication, and was retracted by him as soon as known. [L. '09, p. 985, § 313.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2782.

§ 2566. Assemblages of Anarchists.

Whenever two or more persons assemble for the purpose of advocating or teaching the doctrines of criminal anarchy, as defined in section 2562, such an assembly is unlawful, and every person voluntarily participating therein by his presence, aid or instigation, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years, or by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars, or both. [L. '09, p. 986, § 314.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2783.

§ 2567. Permitting Premises to be Used for Assemblages of Anarchists.

Every owner, agent, superintendent, janitor, caretaker or occupant of any place, building or room, who shall willfully and knowingly permit therein any assemblage of persons prohibited by section 2566, or who, after notification that the premises are so used, shall permit such use to be continued, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 986, § 315.]

§ 2568. Witness' Privilege.

No person shall be excused from giving evidence upon an investigation or prosecution for any of the offenses specified in sections 2563 or 2566, upon the ground that the evidence might tend to criminate himself. [L. '09, p. 986, § 316.]

CHAPTER IX.

CRIMES AGAINST PROPERTY.

§ 2569. Misappropriation and Falsification of Accounts by Public Officer.

Every public officer, and every other person receiving money on behalf or for or on account of the people of the state or of any department of the state government or of any bureau or fund created by law in which the people are directly or indirectly interested, or for or on account of any county, city, town or any school, diking, drainage or irrigation district, who—

(1.) Shall appropriate to his own use or the use of any person not entitled thereto, without authority of law, any money so received by him as such officer or otherwise; or

(2.) Shall knowingly keep any false account, or make any false entry or erasure in any account, of or relating to any money so received by him; or

(3.) Shall fraudulently alter, falsify, conceal, destroy or obliterate any such account; or

(4.) Shall willfully omit or refuse to pay over to the state, its officer or agent authorized by law to receive the same, or to such county, city, town or such school, diking, drainage or irrigation district or to the proper officer or authority empowered to demand and receive the same, any money received by him as such officer when it is a duty imposed upon him by law to pay over and account for the same, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than fifteen years. [L. '09, p. 986, § 317.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5029.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2878, 2879.

§ 2570. Other Violations by Officers.

Every officer or other person mentioned in section 2569, who shall willfully disobey any provision of law regulating his official conduct in cases other than those specified in said section, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 987, § 318.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5030.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2878, 2879.

§ 2571. Misappropriation, etc., by Treasurer.

Every state, county, city or town treasurer who shall willfully misappropriate any moneys, funds or securities received by or deposited with him as such treasurer, or who shall be guilty of any other malfeasance or willful neglect of duty in his office, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years or by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars. [L. '09, p. 987, § 319.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5031.

See infra, § 9032, embezzlement by state treasurer.

See § 2569, misappropriation by public officer.

§ 2572. Arson—First Degree.

Every person who shall willfully—

(1.) Burn or set on fire in the night-time the dwelling-house of another, or any building in which there shall be at the time a human being; or

(2.) Set any fire manifestly dangerous to any human life, shall be guilty of arson in the first degree and be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not less than five years. [L. '09, p. 987, § 320.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5036; N. Y. P. C., § 486.

For former laws, see infra, § 2784.

§ 2573. Arson—Second Degree.

Every person who, under circumstances not amounting to arson in the first degree, shall willfully burn or set on fire any building, or any structure or erection appurtenant to or adjoining any building, or any wharf, dock, threshing-machine, threshing-engine, bridge or trestle, or any hay, grain, crop or timber, whether cut or standing, or any lumber, shingle or other timber products, shall be guilty of arson in the second degree, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years, or by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars. [L. '09, p. 988, § 321.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5037; N. Y. P. C., § 487.

§ 2574. Contiguous Fires.

Whenever any building or structure which may be the subject of arson in either the first or second degree shall be so situated as to be manifestly endangered by any fire and shall subsequently be set on fire thereby, any person participating in setting such fire shall be deemed to have participated in setting such building or structure on fire. [L. '09, p. 988, § 322.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5039.

§ 2575. "Set on Fire" Defined.

A building, structure or any property mentioned in section 2573 shall be deemed "set on fire," whenever any part thereof or anything therein shall be scorched, charred or burned. [L. '09, p. 988, § 323.]

§ 2576. Ownership of Building.

To constitute arson it shall not be necessary that another person than the defendant should have had ownership in the building or structure set on fire. [L. '09, p. 988, § 324.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5040.

§ 2577. Preparation is Attempt.

Any willful preparation made by any person with a view to setting fire to any building or structure shall be deemed to be an attempt to commit the crime of arson, and shall be punished as such. [L. '09, p. 988, § 325.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2790, identical section.

See supra, § 2264, attempts, how punished.

§ 2578. Burglary—First Degree.

Every person who, with intent to commit some crime therein, shall enter in the night-time, the dwelling-house of another in which there shall be at the time a human being—

(1.) Being armed with a dangerous weapon; or

(2.) Arming himself therein with such weapon; or

(3.) Being assisted by a confederate actually present; or

(4.) Who, while engaged in the night-time in effecting such entrance, or in committing any crime in such building or in escaping therefrom, shall assault any person; or

(5.) Who, with intent to commit some crime therein, shall break and enter any bank, postoffice, railway express or railway mail-car, shall be guilty of burglary in the first degree and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not less than five years. [L. '09, p. 989, § 326.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., § 496.

For former laws, see infra, § 2794.

§ 2579. Burglary—Second Degree.

Every person who, with intent to commit some crime therein shall, under circumstances not amounting to burglary in the first degree, enter the dwelling-house of another or break and enter, or, having committed a crime therein, shall break out of, any building or part thereof, or a room or other structure wherein any property is kept for use, sale or deposit, shall be guilty of burglary in the second degree and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than fifteen years. [L. '09, p. 989, § 327.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2794.

§ 2580. Presumption of Intent.

Every person who shall unlawfully break and enter or unlawfully enter any building or structure enumerated in sections 2578 and 2579 shall be deemed to have broken and entered or entered the same with intent to commit a crime therein, unless such unlawful breaking and entering or unlawful entry shall be explained by testimony satisfactory to the jury to have been made without criminal intent. [L. '09, p. 989, § 328.]

For former laws, see infra, § 2795.

§ 2581. Crime in Building—Punished Separately.

Every person who, in the commission of a burglary shall commit any other crime, shall be punished therefor as well as for the burglary, and may be prosecuted for each crime separately. [L. '09, p. 990, § 329.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5045.

§ 2582. Making or Having Burglar Tools.

Every person who shall make or mend or cause to be made or mended, or have in his possession in the day or night time, any engine, machine, tool, false key, pick lock, bit, nippers or implement adapted, designed or commonly used for the commission of burglary, larceny or other crime, under circumstances evincing an intent to use or employ, or allow the same to be used or employed in the commission of a crime, or knowing that the same is intended to be so used, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. The possession thereof except by a mechanic, artificer or tradesman at and in his established shop or place of business, open to public view, shall be prima facie evidence that such possession was had with intent to use or employ or allow the same to be used or employed in the commission of a crime. [L. '09, p. 990, § 330.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5046; N. Y. P. C., § 508.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2796, 2797.

§ 2583. Forgery—First Degree.

Every person who, with intent to defraud, shall forge any writing or instrument by which any claim, privilege, right, obligation or authority, or any right or title to property, real or personal, is or purports to be, or upon the happening of some future event may be, evidenced, created, acknowledged, transferred, increased, diminished, encumbered, defeated, discharged or affected, or any request for the payment of money or delivery of property or any assurance of money or property, or any writing or instrument for the identification of any person, or any public record or paper on file in any public office, or any certified or authenticated copy of such record or paper, or any entry in any public or private record of account, or any judgment, decree, order, mandate, return, writ or process of any court, tribunal, judge, justice of the peace, commissioner or magistrate, or the official return or report of, or a license issued by, any public officer, or any pleading, demurrer, motion, affidavit, appearance, notice, cost-bill, statement of facts, bill of exceptions or proposed statement of facts, or bill of exceptions in any action or proceeding whether pending or not, or the draft of any bill or resolution that has been presented to either house of the legislature of this state, whether engrossed or not, or the great seal of this state, the seal of any public officer, court, notary public or corporation, or any public seal authorized or recognized by the laws of this or any other state or government, or any impression of any such seal; or shall forge or counterfeit any coin or money of any state or government, or any bank or treasury bill, any note or postage or revenue stamp; or who, without authority shall make or engrave any plate in the form or similitude of any writing, instrument, seal, coin, money, stamp or thing which may be the subject of forgery, shall be guilty of forgery in the first degree, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than twenty years. [L. '09, p. 990, § 331.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5048; N. Y. P. C., §§ 509, 511.
For former laws, see infra, § 2816.

§ 2584. False Certificate to Certain Instruments.

Every officer authorized to take a proof or acknowledgment of an instrument which by law may be recorded, who shall willfully certify falsely that the execution of such instrument was acknowledged by any party thereto, or that the execution thereof was proved, shall be guilty of forgery in the first degree. [L. '09, p. 991, § 332.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5049; N. Y. P. C., § 510.
See supra, § 2380, false certificates by officers.

§ 2585. Forgery—Second Degree.

Every person who, with intent to injure or defraud shall—

(1.) Make any false entry in any public or private record or account; or (2.) Fail to make a true entry of any material matter in any public or private record or account; or

(3.) Forge any letter or written communication or copy or purported copy thereof, or send or deliver, or connive at the sending or delivery of any false or fictitious telegraph message or copy or purported copy thereof, whereby or wherein the sentiments, opinions, conduct, character, purpose, property, interests or rights of any person shall be misrepresented or may be injuriously affected, or, knowing any such letter, communication or message or any copy or purported copy thereof to be false, shall utter or publish the same or any copy or purported copy thereof as true, shall be guilty of forgery in the second degree, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years, or by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars. [L. '09, p. 991, § 333.]

Compare Minn. Code, §§ 5051, 5053; N. Y. P. C., §§ 514, 515.
See infra, § 4839, forgery in primary elections.
See infra, § 8900, forgery in land registrations.

§ 2586. Falsely Indicating Person as Corporate Officer.

The false making or forging of any instrument or writing purporting to have been issued by or in behalf of a corporation or association, state or government and bearing the pretended signature of any person therein falsely indicated as an agent or officer of such corporation, association, state or government, is forgery in the same degree as if that person were in truth such officer or agent of such corporation, association, state or government. [L. '09, p. 992, § 334.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5059; N. Y. P. C., § 519.

§ 2587. Uttering Forged Instruments, Coins, etc., Forgery.

Every person who, knowing the same to be forged or altered, and with intent to defraud, shall utter, offer, dispose of or put off as true, or have in his possession with intent so to utter, offer, dispose of or put off any forged writing, instrument or other thing, the false making, forging or altering of which is punishable as forgery, shall be guilty of forgery in the same degree as if he had forged the same. [L. '09, p. 992, § 335.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5060.

For former laws, see infra, § 2816.

§ 2588. True Writing Signed by Wrongdoer's Name.

Whenever the false making or uttering of any instrument or writing is forgery in any degree, every person who, with intent to defraud shall offer, dispose of or put off such an instrument or writing subscribed or indorsed in his own name or that of any other person, whether such signature be genuine or fictitious, under the pretense that such subscription or indorsement is the act of another person of the same name, or that of a person not in existence, shall be forgery in the same degree. [L. '09, p. 992, § 336.]

§ 2589. Misconduct in Signing a Petition.

Every person who shall willfully sign the name of another person or of a fictitious person, or for any consideration, gratuity or reward shall sign his own name to or withdraw his name from any referendum or other petition circulated in pursuance of any law of this state or any municipal ordinance; or in signing his name to such petition shall willfully subscribe to any false statement concerning his age, citizenship, residence or other qualifications to sign the same; or knowing that any such petition contains any such false or wrongful signature or statement, shall file the same, or put the same off with intent that it should be filed, as a true and genuine petition, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 993, § 337.]

§ 2590. Definitions.

Within the provisions of this subdivision relating to forgery, a "written instrument," or a "writing," shall include an instrument partly written and partly printed or wholly printed with a written signature thereto, or any signature or writing purporting to be a signature of or intended to bind an individual, partnership, corporation or association or an officer thereof.

The words "forge," "forgery," "forged," and "forging," shall include false making, "counterfeiting" and the alteration, erasure or obliteration of a genuine instrument in whole or in part, the false making or counterfeiting of the signature of a party or witness, real or fictitious, and the placing or connecting together with intent to defraud, of different parts or the whole of several genuine instruments.

A plate is in the "form and similitude," of the genuine instrument forged, if the finished parts of the engraving thereupon shall resemble or conform to the similar parts of the genuine instrument. [L. '09, p. 993, § 338.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5047.

⁴ "This subdivision" in this section refers to §§ 2585 to 2590, inclusive.

§ 2591. Possession of Counterfeit Coin.

Every person who shall have in his possession a counterfeit of any gold or silver coin, whether of the United States or any foreign country or government, knowing the same to be counterfeit, with intent to sell, utter, use, circulate or export the same as true or as false, or to cause the same to be so uttered or used, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years, or by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 994, § 339.]

§ 2593. False Certificate of Registration of Animals—False Representation as to Breed.

Every person who, by color or aid of any false pretense, representation, token or writing shall obtain from any club, association, society or company for the improvement of the breed of cattle, horses, sheep, swine, fowls or other domestic animals or birds, a certificate of registration of any animal or bird in a herd-book, or other register of any such association, society or company, or a transfer of any such registration, and every person who shall knowingly represent an animal or bird for breeding purposes to be of a greater degree of any particular strain of blood than such animal actually possesses, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 994, § 341.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5064; N. Y. P. C., § 566a.
For former laws, see §§ 2846, 2847.

§ 2594. Removing Lawful Brands.

Every person who shall willfully deface, obliterate, remove or alter any mark or brand placed by or with the authority of the owner thereof on any shingle bolt, log or stick of timber, or on any horse, mare, gelding, mule, cow, steer, bull, sheep, goat or hog, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both fine and imprisonment. [L. '09, p. 994, § 342.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5065.
For former laws, see §§ 2814, 2816, 2841, infra.

§ 2595. Imitating Lawful Brand.

Every person who, in any county, shall place upon any property, any brand or mark in the likeness or similitude of another brand or mark filed with the county auditor of such county by the owner thereof as a brand or mark for the designation or identification of a like kind of property, shall—

(1.) If done with intent to confuse or commingle such property with, or to appropriate to his own use, the property of such other owner, be guilty of a felony, and be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both fine and imprisonment; or

(2.) If done without such intent, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 995, § 343.]

Former laws, see infra, § 2816.

See infra, § 3160, violating private brands of stock.

§ 2596. Counterfeiting Trademark, Brand, etc.

Every person who shall use or display or have in his possession with intent to use or display, the genuine label, trademark, term, design, device, or form of advertisement of any person, corporation, association or union, lawfully filed for record in the office of the secretary of state, or the exclusive right to use which is guaranteed to any person, corporation, association or union, by the laws of the United States, without the written authority of such person, corporation, association or union, or who shall willfully forge or counterfeit or use or display or have in his possession with intent to use or display any representation, likeness, similitude, copy or imitation of any genuine label, trademark, term, design, device, or form of advertisement, so filed or protected, or any die, plate, stamp or other device for manufacturing the same, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 995, § 344.]

See infra, § 5456, and notes, sale of misbranded articles.

§ 2598. When Deemed Affixed.

A label, trademark, term, design, device or form of advertisement shall be deemed to be affixed to any goods, wares, merchandise, mixture, preparation or compound whenever it is in any manner placed in or upon either the article itself, or the box, bale, barrel, bottle, case, cask or other vessel or package, or the cover, wrapper, stopper, brand, label or other thing in, by or with which the goods are packed, inclosed or otherwise prepared for sale or distribution. [L. '09, p. 996, § 346.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5071.

§ 2599. Fraudulent Registration of Trademark.

Every person who shall for himself, or on behalf of any other person, corporation, association or union, procure the filing of any label, trademark, term, design, device or form of advertisement, with the secretary of state by any fraudulent means, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 996, § 347.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5075.

§ 2600. Form and Similitude, Defined.

A plate, label, trademark, term, design, device or form of advertisement is in the form and similitude of the genuine instrument imitated if the finished parts of the engraving thereupon shall resemble or conform to the similar parts of the genuine instrument. [L. '09, p. 996, § 348.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5047.

§ 2601. Larceny.

Every person who, with intent to deprive or defraud the owner thereof—

(1.) Shall take, lead or drive away the property of another; or

(2.) Shall obtain from the owner or another the possession of or title to any property by color or aid of any order for the payment or delivery of property or money or any check or draft, knowing that the maker or drawer of such order, check or draft was not authorized or entitled to make or draw the same, or by color or aid of any fraudulent or false representation, personation or pretense or by any false token or writing or by any trick, device, bunco game or fortune-telling; or

(3.) Having any property in his possession, custody or control, as bailee, factor, pledgee, servant, attorney, agent, employee, trustee, executor, administrator, guardian or officer of any person, estate, association or corporation, or as a public officer, or a person authorized by agreement or by competent authority to take or hold such possession, custody or control, or as a finder thereof, shall secrete, withhold or appropriate the same to his own use or to the use of any person other than the true owner or person entitled thereto; or

(4.) Having received any property by reason of a mistake, shall with knowledge of such mistake secrete, withhold or appropriate the same to his own use or to the use of any person other than the true owner or person entitled thereto; and

(5.) Every person who, knowing the same to have been so appropriated, shall bring into this state, or buy, sell, receive or aid in concealing or withholding any property wrongfully appropriated, whether within or outside of this state, in such manner as to constitute larceny under the provisions of this act—

Steals such property and shall be guilty of larceny. [L. '09, p. 997, § 349.]

§ 2602. Commission or Part Ownership No Defense.

It shall be no defense to a prosecution for larceny that the accused was entitled to a commission out of the money or property appropriated, as compensation for collecting or receiving the same for or on behalf of the owner thereof, or that the money or property appropriated was partly the property of another and partly the property of the accused; but it shall not be larceny for any bailee, factor, pledgee, servant, attorney, agent, employee, or trustee, executor, administrator, guardian, officer or other person to retain his reasonable collection fee or charges. [L. '09, p. 998, § 350.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5079.

§ 2603. Sale of Mortgaged Property—When Larceny.

Every person who shall sell or mortgage any personal property which is at the time mortgaged or upon which any lien has been or may lawfully be filed, without informing the purchaser or mortgagee thereof, before the payment of the purchase price or money loaned, of the several amounts of all such mortgages and liens, shall be deemed to have made a false representation within the meaning of section 2601, subdivision 2. [L. '09, p. 998, § 351.]

For former laws, see infra, § 3669.

See infra, §§ 2629, 3669, removal of mortgaged property.

§ 2604. Contractor Failing to Pay for Labor or Material.

Every person having entered into a contract to supply any labor or materials for the value or price of which any lien might lawfully be filed upon the property of another, who shall receive the full price or consideration thereof, or the amount of any account stated thereon, shall be deemed within the meaning of section 2601, subdivision 3, to receive the same as the agent of the party with whom such contract was made, his successor or assign, for the purpose of paying all claims for labor and materials supplied. [L. '09, p. 998, § 352.]

§ 2605. Grand Larceny—Penalty.

Every person who shall steal or unlawfully obtain, appropriate, bring into this state, buy, sell, receive, conceal or withhold in any manner specified in section 2601—

(1.) Property of any value by taking the same from the person of another or from the body of a corpse; or

(2.) Property of any value by taking the same from any building that is on fire or by taking the same after it has been removed from a building in consequence of an alarm of fire; or

(3.) A record of a court or officer, or a writing, instrument or record kept, filed or deposited according to law with or in the keeping of any public officer or officers; or

(4.) From any range or pasture, any horse, mare, gelding, foal or filly, ass or mule, one or more head of neat cattle or any sheep; or

(5.) Property of the value of more than twenty-five dollars, in any manner whatever,

Shall be guilty of grand larceny and be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than fifteen years.

Every other larceny shall be petit larceny and shall be a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 998, § 353.]

§ 2606. Value—How Ascertained.

The value of all instruments not having a market value, whether issued or delivered or not, by which any claim, privilege, right, obligation or authority or any right or title to property, real or personal, is, or purports to be, or upon the happening of some future event may be, evidenced, created, acknowledged, transferred, increased, diminished, encumbered, defeated, discharged or affected, shall be deemed to be the amount of money due thereon or secured to be paid thereby and unpaid, or which in any contingency might be collected thereon or thereby, or the value of the property transferred or affected or the title to which is shown thereby, or the sum which might be recovered for the want thereof, as the case may be. In every other case not otherwise regulated by statute, "value" shall be deemed to mean market value. [L. '09, p. 999, § 354.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5090; N. Y. P. C., §§ 545-547.

§ 2607. Stealing Railway Tickets.

If any person in the employ of a railway or steamboat company shall fraudulently neglect to cancel or to return to the proper officer or agent of such company, any ticket, coupon or pass, with intent to permit the same to be used in fraud of any railway or steamboat company, or if any person shall steal or fraudulently stamp, print, sign, sell or put into circulation any such ticket, coupon or pass, he shall be guilty of larceny. [L. '09, p. 1000, § 355.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5186.

§ 2608. Claim of Title—When Ground of Defense.

In any prosecution for larceny it shall be a sufficient defense that the property was appropriated openly and avowedly under a claim of title preferred in good faith, even though the claim be untenable. [L. '09, p. 1000, § 356.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5091; N. Y. P. C., § 548.

§ 2609. Restoration of Stolen Property—Duty of Officers.

The officer arresting any person charged as principal or accessory in any robbery or larceny shall use reasonable diligence to secure the property alleged to have been stolen, and after seizure shall be answerable therefor while it remains in his hands, and shall annex a schedule thereof to his return of the warrant.

Whenever the prosecuting attorney shall require such property for use as evidence upon the examination or trial, such officer, upon his demand, shall deliver it to him, and take his receipt therefor, after which such prosecuting attorney shall be answerable for the same. [L. '09, p. 1000, § 357.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5095.

§ 2610. Extortion.

Every person, who, under circumstances not amounting to robbery, shall extort or gain any money, property or advantage, or shall induce or compel another to make, subscribe, execute, alter or destroy any valuable security or instrument or writing affecting or intended to affect any cause of action or defense, or any property, by means of force or any threat, either—

- (1.) To accuse any person of a crime; or

§ 2629. Destruction or Removal of Mortgaged Property.

Every person being in possession thereof, who shall remove, conceal or destroy or connive at or consent to the removal, concealment or destruction of any personal property or any part thereof, upon which a mortgage, lien, conditional sales contract or lease exists, in such a manner as to hinder, delay or defraud the holder of such mortgage, lien or conditional sales contracts, or such lessor, or who, with intent to hinder, delay or defraud the holder of such mortgage, lien or conditional sales contract, or such lessor, shall sell, remove, conceal or destroy or connive at or consent to the removal, concealment or destruction of such property, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor.

In any prosecution under this section any allegation containing a description of the mortgage, lien, conditional sales contract or lease by reference to the date thereof and names of the parties thereto, shall be sufficiently definite and certain. [L. '09, p. 1006, § 377.]

See supra, § 2603, sale of mortgaged personalty.

See infra, §§ 3669, 3672, removal of mortgaged personalty.

§ 2630. Mock Auctions.

Every person who shall obtain any money or property from another or shall obtain the signature of another to any writing the false making of which would be forgery, by color or aid of any false or fraudulent sale of property or pretended sale of property by auction, or by any of the practices known as mock auction, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years or in the county jail for not more than one year, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both fine and imprisonment.

Every person who shall buy or sell or pretend to buy or sell any goods, wares or merchandise, exposed to sale by auction, if an actual sale, purchase and change of ownership therein does not thereupon take place, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 1007, § 378.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., § 574.

See infra, § 5314, unlawful sales by auctioneers.

§ 2631. Fraudulent Removal of Property.

Every person who, with intent to defraud a prior or subsequent purchaser thereof, or to prevent any of his property being made liable for the payment of any of his debts, or levied upon by an execution or warrant of attachment, shall remove any of his property, or secrete, assign, convey or otherwise dispose of the same, or with intent to defraud a creditor shall remove, secrete, assign, convey or otherwise dispose of any of his books or accounts, vouchers or writings in any way relating to his business affairs, or destroy, obliterate, alter or erase any of such books of account, accounts, vouchers or writing or any entry, memorandum or minute therein contained, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 1007, § 379.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., § 587.

See infra, § 3672, fraudulent disposition of personal property.

§ 2632. Knowingly Receiving Fraudulent Conveyance.

Every person who shall receive any property or conveyance thereof from another, knowing that the same is transferred or delivered to him in violation of, or with the intent to violate section 2631, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 1008, § 380.]

§ 2633. Fraud in Assignment for Benefit of Creditors.

Every person who, having made, or being about to make, a general assignment of his property to pay his debts, shall by color or aid of any false or fraudulent representation, pretense, token or writing induce any creditor to participate in the benefits of such assignments, or to give any release or discharge of his claim or any part thereof, or shall connive at the payment in whole or in part of any false, fraudulent or fictitious claim, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 1008, § 381.]

§ 2634. Willful Destruction of Vessel.

Every person who shall wreck, burn, sink, scuttle or otherwise injure or destroy a vessel or its cargo, or willfully permit the same to be done, with the intent to prejudice or defraud an insurer or any other person, or who shall fit out a vessel, or shall load any cargo on board thereof with intent to permit or cause the same to be wrecked, sunk or otherwise injured or destroyed, and thereby defraud or prejudice an insurer or other person, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than twenty years. [L. '09, p. 1008, § 382.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5112; N. Y. P. C., §§ 575, 576.

§ 2635. Making False Manifest, Invoice, etc.

Every person who shall prepare, make or subscribe a false or fraudulent manifest, invoice, bill of lading, ship's register, or protest, with intent to defraud another, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 1009, § 383.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5113; N. Y. P. C., § 577.

§ 2636. Fraudulent Destruction of Insured Property.

Every person who, with intent to defraud or prejudice the insurer thereof, shall willfully injure or destroy any property not specified or included hereinbefore in this subdivision, which is insured at the time against loss or damage by fire or other causality [casualty], shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years, or by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 1000, § 384.]

"This subdivision" in this section refers to §§ 2634 to 2636, inclusive.
Compare Minn. Code, § 5114.

§ 2637. Using False Weights and Measures.

Every person who shall injure or defraud another by using, with knowledge that the same is false, a false weight, measure or other apparatus for determining the quantity of any commodity or article of merchandise, or by knowingly misrepresenting the quantity thereof bought or sold; or who shall retain in his possession any weight or measure, knowing it to be false, unless it appears beyond a reasonable doubt that it was so retained without intent to use it or permit it to be used in violation of the foregoing provisions of this section, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 1009, § 385.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5115; N. Y. P. C., §§ 580, 581.

For former laws, see infra, §§ 2844, 2845.

§ 2638. Fraud in Stock Subscription.

Every person who shall sign the name of a fictitious person to any subscription for or any agreement to take stock in any corporation existing or proposed, and every person who shall sign to any such subscription or agreement the name of any person, knowing that such person does not intend in good faith to comply with the terms thereof, or upon any understanding or agreement that the terms of such subscription or agreement are not to be complied with or enforced, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 1009, § 386.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5116.

See infra, §§ 3339, 3340, false pretenses as to incorporation.

§ 2639. Fraudulent Issue of Stock, Scrip, etc.

Every officer, agent or other person in the service of a joint stock company or corporation, domestic or foreign, who, willfully and knowingly with intent to defraud, shall—

(1.) Sell, pledge or issue or cause to be sold, pledged or issued, or sign or execute or cause to be signed or executed, with intent to sell, pledge or issue, or cause to be sold, pledged or issued, any certificate or instrument purporting to be a certificate or evidence of ownership of any share or shares of such company or corporation, or any conveyance or encumbrance of real or personal property, contract, bond, or evidence of debt, or writing purporting to be a conveyance or encumbrance of real or personal property, contract, bond or evidence of debt of such company or corporation, without being first duly authorized by such company or corporation, or contrary to the charter or laws under which such company or corporation exists, or in excess of the power of such company or corporation, or of the limit imposed by law or otherwise upon its power to create or issue stock or evidence of debt; or,

(2.) Reissue, sell, pledge or dispose of, or cause to be reissued, sold, pledged or disposed of, any surrendered or canceled certificate or other evidence of the transfer of ownership of any such share or shares:

Shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years, or by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 1010, § 387.]

§ 2643. Warehouseman or Carrier Refusing to Issue Receipt.

Every person or corporation, and every officer, agent and employee thereof, receiving any goods, wares or merchandise, for sale or on commission, for storage, carriage or forwarding, who, having an opportunity to inspect the same, shall fail or refuse to deliver to the owner thereof a receipt duly signed, bearing the date of issuance, describing the goods, wares or merchandise received and the quantity, quality and condition thereof, and specifying the terms and conditions upon which they are received, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 1011, § 391.]

§ 2644. Fictitious Bill of Lading and Receipt.

Every person or corporation engaged wholly or in part in the business of a common carrier or warehouseman, and every officer, agent or employee thereof, who shall issue any bill of lading, receipt or other voucher by which it shall appear that any goods, wares or merchandise have been received by such carrier or warehouseman, unless the same have been so received and shall be at the time actually under his control, or who shall issue any bill of lading, receipt or voucher containing any false statement concerning any material matter, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. But no person shall be convicted under this section for the reason that the contents of any barrel, box, case, cask or other closed vessel or package mentioned in the bill of lading, receipt or voucher did not correspond with the description thereof in such instrument, if such description corresponds substantially with the mark on the outside of such barrel, box, case, cask, vessel or package, unless it appears that the defendant knew that such marks were untrue. [L. '09, p. 1012, § 392.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5121; N. Y. P. C., § 629.

For former laws, see infra, § 2818.

§ 2645. Warehouseman Fraudulently Mixing Goods.

Every person mentioned in section 2644, who shall fraudulently mix or tamper with any goods, wares or merchandise under his control, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 1012, § 393.]

§ 2646. Duplicate Receipt.

Every person mentioned in section 2644, who shall issue any second or duplicate receipt or voucher of the kind specified in said section, while a former receipt or voucher for the goods, wares or merchandise specified in such second receipt is outstanding and uncanceled, without writing across the face of the same the word "Duplicate," in a plain and legible manner, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 1012, § 394.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5123; N. Y. P. C., § 631.

§ 2647. Bill of Lading or Receipt must be Canceled on Redelivery of Property.

Each person mentioned in section 2644, who shall deliver to another any goods, wares or merchandise for which a bill of lading, receipt or voucher has been issued, unless such bill of lading, receipt or voucher is surrendered and canceled or a lawful and sufficient bond or undertaking is given therefor at the time of such delivery, or unless, in case of a partial delivery, a memorandum thereof is indorsed upon such bill of lading, receipt or voucher, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 1013, § 395.]

See infra, § 3389, fraudulent negotiation of bill of lading.

See infra, § 3376, criminal prosecutions for violation of regulations.

§ 2648. Regulating Sale of Passage Tickets.

It shall be the duty of every person or corporation engaged wholly or in part in the business of carrying passengers for hire, to provide every agent authorized to sell its passage tickets in this state, with a certificate of his authority, attested by its seal and the signature of its manager, secretary or general passenger agent, which shall contain a designation of the place of business at which such authority shall be exercised.

Every person and every corporation or association, and every officer, agent or employee thereof who shall sell, exchange or transfer, or have in his possession with intent to sell, exchange or transfer, or maintain, conduct or operate any office or place of business for the sale, exchange or transfer of any passage ticket or pass or part thereof, or any other evidence of a right to travel upon any railroad or boat, whether the same be owned or operated within or without the limits of this state, in any place except his place of business, or within such place of business without having rightfully in his possession and posted in a conspicuous place therein the certificate of authority hereinabove provided for, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 1013, § 396.]

See infra, §§ 8720-8724, sale of railroad tickets.

§ 2649. Redemption of Unused Passage Ticket.

Every person or corporation engaged wholly or in part in the business of carrying passengers for hire in this state, and every authorized ticket agent thereof, to whom there shall be presented by the holder thereof, within one year after its expiration, any passage ticket or part thereof, or other evidence of right to travel, wholly or in part upon the railroad or boat of such person or corporation, which shall be wholly or partially unused, who shall fail to redeem the same within three days after presentation, upon the following terms, to wit:

- (1.) When wholly unused, for the price paid therefor; and
- (2.) When partially unused, for the price paid therefor, less the regular toll or charge for the passage had;

Shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars, and in addition thereto shall forfeit to the holder of such ticket or part thereof or other evidence of a right to travel, three times the redeemable value thereof. [L. '09, p. 1013, § 397.]

See infra, §§ 8725, 8726, redemption of unsold railroad tickets.

§ 2650. Malicious Mischief—Injury to Railway.

Every person who, in such manner as might, if not discovered, endanger the safety of any engine, motor, car or train, or any person thereon, shall in any manner interfere or tamper with or obstruct any switch, frog, rail, road-bed, sleeper, viaduct, bridge, trestle, culvert, embankment, structure or appliance pertaining to or connected with any railway, or any train, engine, motor, or car on such railway; and every person who shall discharge any firearm or throw any dangerous missile at any train, engine, motor or car on any railway, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than twenty-five years. [L. '09, p. 1014, § 398.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5124; N. Y. P. C., § 635.

For former laws, see infra, § 2727.

§ 2651. Attempt to Commit Train Robbery.

Every person who, with intent to commit any robbery, burglary or larceny, shall go upon or board any train, motor, car or engine; mask, extinguish or alter any light or other signal; exhibit or compel any other person to exhibit any false light or signal; or stop any such train, car or engine or slacken the speed thereof or compel or attempt to compel any other person in charge or control thereof to stop such train, car or engine or slacken the speed thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not less than five years. [L. '09, p. 1014, § 399.]

See supra, § 2264, attempts to commit crime.

§ 2652. Endangering Life and Property by Explosives.

Every person who shall maliciously place any explosive substance or material in, upon, under, against or near any building, car, vessel, railroad track or structure, in such manner or under such circumstances as to destroy or injure the same if exploded, shall be guilty of a felony, and if the circumstances and surroundings are such that the safety of any person might be endangered by the explosion thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than twenty years; and in every other case by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years. [L. '09, p. 1015, § 400.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5125.

See supra, § 2403, killing by explosives unlawfully kept.

See supra, § 2504, keeping explosives unlawfully.

See supra, § 2506, transporting explosives.

§ 2653. Damaging Building, etc., by Explosion.

Every person who shall maliciously, by the explosion of gunpowder or any other explosive substance or material, destroy or damage any building, car, vessel, railroad track or structure, shall be punished as follows:

(1.) If thereby the life or safety of a human being is endangered, by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than twenty years.

(2.) In every other case by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than five years. [L. '09, p. 1015, § 401.]

Compare N. Y. P. C., § 636.

§ 2654. False Signals for Vessels, etc.

Every person who, in such manner as might, if not discovered, endanger a vessel, railway engine, motor, train or car, shall show, mask, extinguish, alter or remove any light or signal, or exhibit any false light or signal, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years. [L. '09, p. 1015, § 402.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5127.

§ 2655. Injury to United States Light.

Every person who shall willfully break, injure, deface or destroy any lighthouse station, post, platform, step, lamp or other structure pertaining to such lighthouse station, or shall extinguish or tamper with any light erected by the United States upon or along the navigable waters of this state to aid in the navigation thereof, in case no punishment is provided therefor by the laws of the United States, shall be punished as follows:

(1.) Whenever such act may endanger the safety of any vessel navigating such waters, or jeopardize the safety of any person or property in or upon such vessel, by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than ten years.

(2.) In all other cases by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by both. [L. '09, p. 1015, § 403.]

Compare Minn. Code, § 5128.

§ 2656. Injuring Public Utilities.

Every person who shall willfully or maliciously remove, damage or destroy:

(1.) A highway or a private way laid out by authority of law, or a bridge upon such public or private road, or willfully or maliciously causes to be placed thereon any substance or thing dangerous to any person or animal traveling thereon or which might injure or puncture the tire of any vehicle; or,

(2.) A pile or other material fixed in the ground and used for securing any bank or dam of any river or other water, or any dike, dock, quay, jetty or lock; or,

(3.) A buoy or beacon lawfully placed in any waters within this state; or,

(4.) A tree, rock, post or other monument erected or marked for the purpose of designating a point on the boundary of the state, of a county, city, town or a farm, tract or lot of land, or any mark or inscription thereon; or,

(5.) A mile-board, mile-stone or guide-post erected upon a highway, or any inscription thereon; or,

(6.) A telegraph, telephone or electric transmission line or any part thereof, or any appurtenance thereto, or apparatus connected with the operation thereof; or,

(7.) A fence, gate, cattle-guard, bridge, water-tank, mile-post, car, engine, motor or other useful structure on the line of any railway; or,

(8.) A pipe or main for conducting gas, water or oil, or any works erected for the purpose of supplying buildings therewith, or any appurtenance or appendage thereto; or,

(9.) A sewer or drain, or a pipe or main connected therewith or forming a part thereof; or,

(10.) A ditch or flume lawfully erected for carrying water or draining land; or,

(11.) Any engine, hose, hose-cart, truck, ladder, extinguisher or other apparatus used by any fire company or fire department, or any rope, wire, bell, signal, instrument or apparatus for the communication of alarms of fire or police calls; or,

(12.) Any public building, or building used for educational, scientific, charitable or religious purpose, or any useful or ornamental thing therein; or,

(13.) Any work of literature or art or copy thereof, object of curiosity or scientific interest, statue, picture or engraving, displayed, kept or erected in any public building, street, park or other public place or in any collection, exhibition, museum, fair, gallery or library, or in any building devoted to educational, scientific, charitable or religious purposes; or,

(14.) A monument erected in any cemetery, street, park or other public place; or,

(15.) A sign or notice erected or posted by any officer under lawful authority, or by the owner or occupant of the premises where posted; or,

(16.) A legal notice or other legal paper posted in compliance with the requirement of any statute of this state, or under the direction or order of a court; and,

Every person—

(17.) Who shall moor any vessel, scow, barge, raft or boom to any bridge or to any buoy or beacon lawfully in any waters within this state; or,

(18.) Who shall intercept, read or in any manner interrupt or delay the sending of a message over any telegraph or telephone line; or,

(19.) Who shall erect or maintain any unlawful structure in any stream or river;

Shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 1016, § 404.]

Every person who, with intent to injure or defraud, shall—

(1.) Break or deface the seal of any gas, electric, steam or water meter; or,

(2.) Obstruct, alter, injure or prevent the action of any meter or other instrument used to measure or register the quantity of gas, electricity, steam or water supplied to a consumer thereof; or,

(3.) Make any connections by means of a wire, pipe, conduit or otherwise with any wire, main or pipe used for the delivery of gas, electricity, steam or water to a consumer thereof, in such manner as to take gas, electricity, steam or water from said wire, main or pipe without its passage through the meter or other instrument provided for registering the amount or quantity consumed; or use any gas, electricity, steam or water so obtained; or,

(4.) Make any connection or reconnection with such wire, main or pipe, or turn on or off, or in any manner interfere with any valve, stop-cock or other appliances connected therewith; or,

(5.) Prevent by the erection of any device or construction, or by any other means, free access to any meter or other instrument for registering or measuring the amount of gas, electricity, steam or water consumed, or interfere with, obstruct or prevent, by any means, the reading or inspection of such meter or instrument, by the person, company or corporation owning the same; or,

(6.) Take or use any water from any irrigation flume, ditch or lateral, without the consent of the owners thereof, or open, close or interfere with any gate connected therewith;

Shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 1018, § 405.]

§ 2659. Injury to Property.

Every person who shall willfully—

(1.) Cut down, destroy or injure any wood, timber, grain, grass or crop, standing or growing, or which has been cut down and is lying upon the lands of another, or of the state; or,

(2.) Cut down, girdle or otherwise injure a fruit, shade or ornamental tree standing on the land of another or of the state, or in any road or street; or,

(3.) Dig, take or carry away without lawful authority or consent, from any lot or land in any city, or town, or from any lands included within the limits of a street or avenue in such city or town, any earth, soil or stone; or,

(4.) Enter without the consent of the owner or occupant, any orchard, garden or vineyard, with intent to take, injure or destroy anything there grown or growing; or,

(5.) Cut down, destroy or in any way injure any shrub, tree, vine or garden produce grown or growing within any such orchard, garden or vineyard, or any framework or erection therein; or,

(6.) Damage or deface any building or part thereof, or throw any stone or other missile at any building or part thereof; or,

(7.) Destroy or damage, with intent to prevent or delay the use thereof, any engine, machine, tool or implement intended for use in trade or husbandry; or,

(8.) Untie, unfasten or liberate, without authority, the horse or team of another; or lead, ride or drive away, without authority, the horse, team, automobile or other vehicle of another from the place where left by the owner or person in charge thereof; or,

(9.) Kill, maim or disfigure any animal belonging to another, or expose any poisons or noxious substance with intent that it should be taken by such animal; or,

(10.) Take, carry away, interfere with or disturb any oysters or other shell-fish of another in any river, bay, or other water of this state, or remove, pull up or destroy any stake or buoy used for designating any oyster-bed; or,

(11.) Intrude or place any hovel, shanty or building upon or within the limits of any lot or piece of land within any city or town, without the consent of the owner, or within the boundaries of any street in such city or town; or,

(12.) Kill, wound or trap any animal or bird within the limits of any cemetery, park or pleasure ground, or remove therefrom or destroy the young of any such animal or the egg of any such bird; or,

(13.) Injure, destroy or tamper with any rope, line, cable or chain with which any vessel, scow, boom, beacon or buoy shall be anchored or moored, or the steering-gear, bell gear, engine, machinery, lights or other equipment of any vessel; or,

(14.) Place upon or affix to any real property or any rock, tree, wall, fence or other structure thereupon, without the consent of the owner thereof, any word, character or device designed to advertise any article, business, profession, exhibition, matter or event; or,

(15.) Suffer any animal to go upon the inclosed right of way of any railway company, or leave open any gate or bars so that an animal might stray upon such right of way;

Shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '09, p. 1019, § 407.]

CHAPTER XI.

CRIMES UNDER ACTS NOT REPEALED BY THE PENAL CODE OF 1909.

§ 2697. (2953.) Selling Cigarettes Containing Injurious Drug—Penalty.

Any person [selling or giving away cigarettes without a license, or] selling or giving away any cigarette or cigarettes containing any injurious drug, narcotic or other deleterious matter, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall on conviction thereof be subject to a fine of fifty dollars for each offense, or be imprisoned for sixty days in a common jail or penitentiary, and any person [having a license, or any person not licensed,] who sells or gives away any cigarette or cigarettes, of any and every kind whatsoever, to a minor under the age of eighteen years, shall be subjected to the same penalty as herein provided. [L. '95, p. 126, § 5.]

Superseded as to words in brackets by § 2968, infra.

All of the existing provisions of the old Criminal Code relating to crimes and punishments, as well as the later penal enactments, which were not expressly repealed by the act of 1909, are retained in this compilation; but this chapter embraces only part of such enactments, most of which are placed under specific subjects. See the following sections: 3257; 5144 to 5149, inclusive; 3289, 3265, 3123, 3340, 5232, 6284, 6285, 5315, 5316, 5317, 6566, 8293, 8294, 8385; 5342 to 5344, inclusive; 5354, 5353, 5352, 5356, 5358, 5357, 5372, 5358½, 5326, 5355; 5336 to 5338, inclusive; 5380 to 5383, inclusive; 5208, 5195; 5197 to 5207, inclusive; 5188, 5189, 8717; 3284 to 3288, inclusive; 4958 to 4971, inclusive.

As to sale of cigarettes, see § 2536, supra.

§ 2698. (2954.) Sale of Any Cigarettes Except in Original Package.

Any person selling cigarettes of any and every kind whatsoever, except in an original and full package, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall on conviction thereof be subject to the same penalty as in the section last above provided. [L. '95, p. 126, § 6.]

This section may have been superseded by § 2968, infra, covering much more than this section; but in so far as the acts are not inconsistent, the penalty for the violation of this section is greater than that fixed by § 2968.

§ 2699. (2955.) Sale to Minors—Civil Liability to Parents of Minor.

In addition to the penalty above provided for, the sale or giving away of cigarettes to a minor under the age of eighteen years, the parent or guardian of such minor or any individual or association suing in behalf or for the benefit of such minor, may prosecute, in a civil action, any person so violating this chapter, for the penalty of two hundred and fifty dollars and the costs of the action, one-half of which amount shall be paid to any person as his moiety share who furnished the information upon which the action is brought and penalty recovered. [L. '95, p. 126, § 7.]

See note to § 2697.

§ 2700. Same—Wrappers or Substitutes—Persuading Minor to Smoke.

It shall hereafter be unlawful in the state of Washington for any corporation, company, firm or person to sell, barter, furnish or give away, directly or indirectly, to any minor under eighteen years of age any cigarette, cigarette wrappers or any substitute for either; or to procure for, or to persuade, advise, counsel or compel any minor under said age to smoke cigarettes or for any minor under said age to smoke any cigarette. [L. '01, p. 261, § 1.]

A portion at least of this section was not superseded by § 2968, infra.

§ 2701. Same—Penalty—Duty of Prosecutors.

Any such corporation, company, firm or person, violating any of the provisions of the preceding section shall, for the first offense, upon conviction thereof, be fined in any sum not more than fifty dollars, nor less than ten dollars; and for a second and any subsequent offense, such corporation, company, firm or person shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined in any sum not more than five hundred dollars nor less than ten dollars, and to which may be added imprisonment in the county jail for any period not exceeding sixty days. It is hereby made the special duty of prosecuting attorneys to enforce the provisions of this act, and he may summon any minor under eighteen years of age who may have or had had in his possession any cigarettes, and compel him to testify before the mayor of a city or a justice of the peace as to where and of whom he obtained such cigarettes. [L. '01, p. 262, § 2.]

"Act" in this section refers to §§ 2700, 2701.

§ 2702. (7133.) Counterfeiting Uncoined Gold, etc.

Any person who shall counterfeit any kind or species of gold dust, gold bullion or bars, lumps, pieces of nuggets of gold, or any description whatsoever of uncoined gold, currently passing in this state, or shall alter or put off any kind of uncoined gold mentioned in this section, for the purpose of defrauding any person or persons, body, politic or corporate, or shall make any instrument for counterfeiting any kind [of] uncoined gold as aforesaid, knowing the purpose for which such instrument was made, or shall knowingly have in his possession and secretly keep any instrument for the purpose of counterfeiting any kind of uncoined gold as aforesaid, every such person so offending, or any person or persons aiding or abetting in or about said offense or offenses shall be deemed guilty of counterfeiting, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term not less than one year nor more than fourteen years. [L. '62, p. 15, § 7; Cd. '81, § 857; 2 H. P. C., § 66.]

CHAPTER I.

CLASSIFICATION OF OFFENSES.

§ 2722. (6773.) Public Offenses, Classified and Defined.

Public offenses are divided into,—

1. Felonies; and
2. Misdemeanors.

A felony is punishable by death or imprisonment in the penitentiary. All other offenses are misdemeanors. [Cf. L. '54, p. 78, § 11; Cd. '81, § 781; 2 H. C., § 1184.]

This chapter governs as to all offenses committed prior to June 9th, 1909. See § 2294, supra.

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2253, supra.

See infra, § 4756, infamous crime defined.

Cited in 6 Wash. 570; 14 Wash. 240; 31 Wash. 247; 36 Wash. 445.

Under our statute petit larceny is not an infamous crime: State v. Payne, 6 Wash. 563, 570.

The violation of a municipal ordinance is a public offense, and properly prosecuted in the name of the state, under § 27. Article IV, of the Constitution: State v. Fountain, 14 Wash. 236.

§ 2723. (6774.) Common-law Offenses, Jurisdiction of.

For all offenses at common law which are not hereinafter defined by statute, the offender may be tried in the superior courts of this state. [Cf. L. '60, p. 105, § 9; Cd. '81, § 782; L. '91, p. 46, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1185.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2299, supra.

Cited in 5 Wash. 774; 48 Wash. 107.

Under this section, the common-law offense of conspiracy is indictable; and an indictment which contains sufficient to charge the crime at common law will support a judgment of conviction: Bradshaw v. Territory, 3 W. T. 265. Conspiracy to defraud a person is indictable at common law: Id.

Although the penal code does not define the crime against nature known as sodomy, nor impose a penalty for its commission, yet, under the statutory provisions making all common-law crimes indictable, a prosecution will be sustained for an assault with an intent to commit such crime: State v. Place, 5 Wash. 773.

§ 2724. (6775.) Willful Neglect of Public Duty, a Misdemeanor.

When any duty is or shall be enjoined by law upon any public officer, or upon any person holding any public trust or employment, every willful neglect to perform such duty, where no special provision has been made for the punishment of such delinquency, is a misdemeanor. [Cd. '81, § 783; 2 H. C., § 1186.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2268, supra.

§ 2725. (6776.) Prohibited Acts a Misdemeanor, When.

When the performance of any act is prohibited by any statute, and no penalty for the violation of such statute is imposed, the doing of such act is a misdemeanor. [Cd. '81, § 784; 2 H. C., § 1187.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2268, supra.

See infra, § 2984, punishment for misdemeanor where no provision is made by statute.

CHAPTER II.

OFFENSES AGAINST THE PERSON.

§ 2726. (7035.) Murder in First Degree, Defined.

Every person who shall purposely, and of deliberate and premeditated malice, or in the perpetration, or attempt to perpetrate, any rape, arson, robbery, or burglary, or by administering poison, or causing the same to be done, kill another, shall be deemed guilty of murder in the first degree, and upon conviction thereof, shall suffer death. But this shall in no case prevent the exercise of the pardoning power of the governor, or the authority to commute the punishment from that of death to imprisonment for life. [Cf. L. '54, p. 78, § 12; Cd. '81, § 786; L. '91, p. 119, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2392, supra.

See notes to § 2065, sufficiency of indictment, etc.

See supra, § 2145, defendant to be personally present.

See supra, § 2146, attempt to commit murder.

See notes to § 2152, evidence, etc., variance.

See supra, § 2157 and notes, jury may find the degree.

See notes to § 2158, instructions, etc.

See supra, § 2223, pardoning power.

See infra, § 2729, murder in second degree defined.

Cited in 4 Wash. 107; 11 Wash. 246; 13 Wash. 211; 33 Wash. 261; 51 Wash. 225, 228.

First degree: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1399, §§ 83, 85.

A homicide on an Indian reservation is within the federal jurisdiction: Shapoonmash v. United States, 1 W. T. 188.

In capital cases presumptions are not made in favor of the regularity of the proceedings: Id.

Murder in the first degree is defined by this section in clear, precise and comprehensive language, and sets out every act necessary to be alleged in charging the crime: State v. Day, 4 Wash. 104, 197.

Unless deliberation and premeditation exist the killing can only be murder in the second degree: Freidrich v. Territory, 2 Wash. 358, 369.

A defendant charged with murder in the first degree by administering poison may be convicted of murder in the second degree, or of manslaughter, pursuant to the provisions of § 2167, supra, permitting convictions for inferior degrees when the offense consists of different degrees: State v. Greer, 11 Wash. 244.

The fact that wounds inflicted by shooting were not skillfully treated or accorded the best medical treatment is no defense to a prosecution for homicide where it is not shown that neglect or unskillfulness was the sole cause of the death: State v. Baruth, 47 Wash. 283.

An indictment charging murder, as at common law, is sufficient to sustain a verdict of murder in the first degree under our statute. The peculiar circumstances distinguishing murder in the first degree need not be set out; and the jury, from the evidence, are to determine the degree: Leschi v. Territory, 1 W. T. 13.

Murder is now purely statutory, and not a common-law crime, and, in order to constitute murder in either degree, it is necessary that there must have been a specific intent or purpose to kill: Blanton v. State, 1 Wash. 265, 268.

One who kills a person by mistake or misadventure, while attempting with deliberate and premeditated malice to kill another, is guilty of murder in the first degree: State v. McGonigle, 14 Wash. 594.

Excusable or justifiable homicide: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1383, 1384, §§ 14-19; White v. Territory, 3 W. T. 397; Watts v. Territory, 1 W. T. 409; State v. Carter, 15 Wash. 121; State v. McCann, 16 Wash. 249.

It is not incumbent upon one assailed while on his own premises outside of his dwelling-house to retreat, or consider whether a retreat can be safely made, before availing himself of the right of self-defense, where he has reasonable grounds to believe, and does in good faith believe, that his assailant intends to take his life or do him great bodily harm: State v. Cushing, 14 Wash. 527.

Under this section an information is not bad for duplicity in alleging, in the language of the statute, a killing, purposely and of deliberate and premeditated malice and while engaged in the perpetration and attempt to perpetrate the crimes of robbery and burglary; in view of § 2022, supra, abolishing all forms of pleading, and § 2065, supra, providing that no information shall be deemed insufficient if the crime is set forth in ordinary language in such a manner that a person of ordinary understanding may know what was intended: State v. Fillpot, 51 Wash. 223.

Under this section it is not necessary to state the details of the acts included in the crimes of robbery and burglary alleged, but it is sufficient to allege the perpetration or attempt to commit any of the included crimes in the language of the statute: Id.

§ 2727. (7036.) Endangering Life by Obstructions on Railways, etc.

Any person or persons who shall willfully or maliciously place any obstruction on any railroad track or roadbed, or street-car track in this state, or who shall loosen, tear up, remove or misplace any rail, switch, frog, guard-rail, cattle-guard, or any part of such railroad track or roadbed, or street-car track, or who shall tamper with or molest any such road, roadbed or track, or who shall destroy or damage any locomotive, motor or car on said track, or who shall otherwise interfere with the maintenance or operation of such road so as to endanger the safety of any train, car, motor or engine, or so as to endanger [life] or injure any passenger or person riding thereon, or being about the same, shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for any term not exceeding twenty years nor less than one year. [Cf. Cd. '81, §§ 788, 789; L. '91, p. 120, § 4; 2 H. P. C., §§ 24, 25; L. '95, p. 94, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2650, supra.

The act of 1895 has no repealing clause, but is believed to supersede §§ 24 and 25 of 2 Hill's Penal Code. Said § 25 is as follows:

"Section 25. Any person who shall willfully and maliciously displace any switch or rail, or disturb, injure, or destroy any part of a track or bridge, of any railroad, or place any obstruction thereon, with intent that any person or property passing over said railroad shall thereby be injured, and thereby endangering and not destroying human life, or thereby causing injury or destruction of property, upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term of not less than one nor more than ten years, and shall be kept at hard labor."

§ 2728. (7037.) Death Caused by Obstructing Railroad, etc.—Murder.

Any person or persons who shall, within this state, willfully or maliciously place any obstruction upon any railroad track or roadbed, or street-car track, or shall misplace, remove, obstruct, detach, damage or destroy any rail, switch, frog, guard-rail, cattle-guard or any other part of such railroad, track or roadbed, or street-car track, or who shall otherwise interfere with the maintenance and operation of such road, thereby causing the death of any person, whether passenger or employee of such railroad or street railway or otherwise, shall, upon conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of a felony and shall be punished as for murder in the first degree. [Cf. L. '73, p. 182, § 13; Cd. '81, § 787; 2 H. P. C., § 2; L. '95, p. 95, § 2.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2392, supra.

§ 2729. (7038.*) Murder in Second Degree, Defined.

Every person who shall purposely and maliciously, but without deliberation and premeditation, kill another, shall be deemed guilty of murder in the second degree, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary for a term of not less than ten years, or during life, in the discretion of the trial court, and kept at hard labor. [L. '03, p. 240, § 1. Cf. L. '54, p. 78, § 13; Cd. '81, § 790; 2 H. P. C., § 3.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2393, supra.

See notes to § 2065, sufficiency of indictment, etc.

See notes to § 2152, evidence, etc., on trial.

See notes to § 2158, instructions, etc., on trial.

See notes to § 2726, murder in first degree.

Cited in 8 Wash. 464; 13 Wash. 211.

If a homicide has been proven, the presumption is that it was murder in the second degree, and such presumption must be given force unless there is something in the case to rebut it: State v. Payne, 10 Wash. 545.

In a prosecution for homicide by the rigging of a spring gun in a trunk, it is error to sanction the prosecuting attorney's statement that the defendant would be guilty of murder in the second degree, if death resulted from his act in setting a spring-gun, and that the same would be a question of law for the court; since the elements of both malice and intent must be determined by the jury: State v. Marfaudille, 48 Wash. 117.

§ 2730. (7039.) Killing in Dueling, Murder in Second Degree.

If either party to a duel be killed, the survivor shall be deemed guilty of murder in the second degree. [L. '54, p. 78, § 14; Cd. '81, § 791; 2 H. P. C., § 4.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2394, supra. See infra, §§ 2743, 2744, punishment for engaging in or encouraging dueling.

§ 2731. (7040.) Mortal Wound Inflicted in Dueling Outside State—Venue.

If any person shall by previous appointment made within fight a duel without this state, and in so doing shall inflict a mortal wound upon any person, whereof the person so injured shall die, such person so offending shall be deemed guilty of murder in the second degree within any county in this state. [L. '54, p. 78, § 15; Cd. '81, § 792; 2 H. P. C., § 5.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2422, supra. See Const., Art. I, § 22, right to jury trial in county where offense committed.

§ 2732. (7041.) Seconds in Dueling Guilty of Manslaughter, When.

Any person who shall be present at a duel as second, when either party thereto shall be killed, or a mortal wound inflicted, and whereof death shall ensue, shall be deemed guilty of manslaughter. [L. '54, p. 79, § 20; Cd. '81, § 797; 2 H. P. C., § 6.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2420, supra.

§ 2733. (7042.) Manslaughter, Defined.

Every person who shall unlawfully kill any human being without malice, express or implied, either voluntarily upon a sudden heat, or involuntarily, but in the commission of some unlawful act, shall be deemed guilty of manslaughter. [L. '54, p. 78, § 16; Cd. '81, § 793; L. '91, p. 119, § 2; 2 H. P. C., § 7.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2395, supra.

See notes to § 2065, sufficiency of indictment, etc.

See notes to § 2152, evidence, etc., on trial.

See § 2158 and notes, instructions, etc.

Cited in 8 Wash. 16; 17 Wash. 506; 24 Wash. 38; 48 Wash. 262.

Elements of manslaughter: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1382, §§ 5-9; State v. Robinson, 12 Wash. 349; State v. McPhail, 39 Wash. 199; State v. Symes, 20 Wash. 484; State v. Gile, 8 Wash. 12.

The evidence is sufficient to sustain a conviction for manslaughter, where it appears from the testimony of the defendant that he was attacked by the deceased, who was unarmed and a much smaller man than himself, that he might have avoided the attack after the altercation commenced by shutting a door and keeping deceased out of his room, which he failed to do, but admitted him to the room, and in the encounter that ensued used an open knife upon the deceased, stabbing him while pushing him out of the room; whether defendant was justified in using a knife being a question for the jury: State v. Johnson, 47 Wash. 227.

§ 2734. (7043.) Assisting Commission of Self-murder, Manslaughter.

Every person deliberately assisting another in the commission of self-murder shall be deemed guilty of manslaughter. [L. '54, p. 78, § 17; Cd. '81, § 794; 2 H. P. C., § 8.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2387, 2388, supra.

§ 2735. (7044.) Overloading Vessel Causing Death, Manslaughter.

Any person navigating any boat or vessel for gain, who shall willfully or negligently receive so many passengers, or such a quantity of other lading, that by means thereof such boat or vessel shall sink or overset, and thereby any human being shall be drowned or otherwise killed, shall be deemed guilty of manslaughter. [L. '54, p. 78, § 18; Cd. '81, § 795; 2 H. P. C., § 9.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2400, supra.

§ 2736. (7045.) Steamboat Officers Guilty of Manslaughter, When.

If the captain or any other person having charge of any steamboat used for the conveyance of passengers, or if the engineer or other person having charge of the boiler of such boat, or of any other apparatus for the generation of steam, shall, from ignorance or gross neglect, or for the purpose of excelling any other boat in speed, create, or allow to be created, such an undue quantity of steam as to burst or break the boiler or other apparatus in which it shall be generated, or any apparatus or machinery connected therewith, by which bursting or breaking any person shall be killed, every such captain, engineer, or other person shall be deemed guilty of manslaughter. [L. '54, p. 78, § 19; Cd. '81, § 796; 2 H. P. C., § 10.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2401, supra.

§ 2737. (7046.) Punishment for Manslaughter.

Any person convicted of manslaughter shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not less than one year nor more than twenty years, and shall be fined in any sum not exceeding five thousand dollars. [L. '54, p. 79, § 21; Cd. '81, § 798; 2 H. P. C., § 11.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2395, supra.

§ 2738. (7047.) Malicious Mayhem, Defined.

Every person who, on purpose, and of malice aforethought, shall unlawfully disable the tongue, put out an eye, cut or bite off the nose, ear, lip, or other member of any person, with intent to disfigure or disable such person, shall be deemed guilty of malicious mayhem, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than fourteen years nor less than one year, and be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars. [L. '54, p. 79, § 26; Cd. '81, § 803; 2 H. P. C., § 12.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2407, supra.

See notes to § 2158, instructions, etc.

See State v. Conahan, 10 Wash. 268.

§ 2739. (7048.) Simple Mayhem, Defined.

Every person who shall violently and unlawfully, but without premeditation, deprive another of the use of any bodily member, or who shall unlawfully and willfully, but without premeditation, disable the tongue or eye, or bite the nose, ear, or lip of another, shall be deemed guilty of simple mayhem, and on conviction thereof, shall be imprisoned in the county jail not more than one year nor less than one month, and be fined in any sum not exceeding two thousand dollars, or fined only. [L. '54, p. 80, § 32; Cd. '81, § 804; 2 H. P. C., § 13.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2407, supra.

§ 2740. (7049.*) Kidnaping, Defined—Penalty.

Every person who shall steal and take, or forcibly and unlawfully arrest any person, and convey such person to parts without the state of Washington, or aid or abet therein, or who shall forcibly and unlawfully take or assist, or aid or abet, in forcibly and unlawfully taking or arresting any person, with intent to take such person to parts without said state, shall be deemed guilty of kidnaping, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than twenty-one nor less than three years, and be fined not more than five thousand dollars nor less than one hundred dollars. And every person who shall entice, decoy, take, steal, abduct, kidnap or restrain, or forcibly and unlawfully detain any person, or who shall entice, decoy, take, steal, abduct, kidnap or restrain, or forcibly and unlawfully detain any person with intent thereby to extort money or any pecuniary advantage whatever from any person, or who shall by verbal or written communication, or otherwise, threaten to do any physical injury to any person so enticed, decoyed, taken, stolen, abducted, kidnaped or restrained, or forcibly or unlawfully detained, or who shall assist, aid or abet therein, shall be deemed guilty of kidnaping and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than twenty-one years nor less than three years, and be fined not more than five thousand dollars nor less than one hundred dollars. [L. '01, p. 78, § 1. Cf. L. '54, p. 81, § 35; Cd. '81, § 817; 2 H. P. C., § 14.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2410, supra.

§ 2741. (7050.) Kidnaping Child.

If any person maliciously, forcibly, or fraudulently lead, take, decoy, or entice away any child under the age of twelve years, with the intent to detain or conceal such child from its parent, guardian, or other person having the lawful charge of such child, he shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not more than ten years, or by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment. [Cd. '81, § 818; 2 H. P. C., § 15.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2410, supra.

In a prosecution for a kidnaping under this section, the consent of the child constitutes no defense: State v. Rhoades, 29 Wash. 61.

§ 2742. (7051.) Venue of Offense of Kidnaping—Consent as Defense.

Every offense mentioned in the last two sections may be tried either in the county in which the same may have been committed, or in any county in or to which the person so seized, taken, inveigled, kidnaped, shall have been taken, confined, held, carried, or brought; and upon the trial of any such offense, the consent thereto of the person so taken, inveigled, kidnaped, or confined shall not be a defense, unless it shall be made satisfactorily to appear to the jury that such consent was not obtained by fraud, nor extorted by duress or by threats. [L. '54, p. 84, § 36; Cd. '81, § 819; 2 H. P. C., § 16.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2413, supra.

The words "or sold, or whose services shall be sold or transferred," in former codifications, are omitted as a relic of the "Fugitive Slave Law."

§ 2743. (7052.) Punishment for Dueling.

Every person who shall engage in a duel with any deadly weapon, although no homicide ensue, or shall challenge another to fight a duel, or shall send or deliver any written or verbal message purporting or intending to be such challenge, although no duel ensue, shall be imprisoned, on conviction thereof, in the penitentiary not more than ten years nor less than one year. [L. '54, p. 79, § 22; Cd. '81, § 799; 2 H. P. C., § 31.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2419, supra.

See supra, §§ 2730-2732, killing in dueling, etc.

§ 2744. (7053.) Punishment for Sending or Accepting Challenge.

Every person who shall accept such challenge, or who shall knowingly carry or deliver any such challenge or message, whether a duel ensue or not, and every person who shall be present at the fighting of a duel, with deadly weapons, as an aid or second, or who shall advise, encourage, or promote such duel, shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than five years nor less than six months. [L. '54, p. 79, § 23; Cd. '81, § 800; 2 H. P. C., § 32.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2420, supra.

§ 2745. (7054.) Assault and Battery, Defined.

Assault and battery is the unlawful beating of another; and a person duly convicted thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding one year. [L. '69, p. 203, § 30; Cd. '81, § 808; 2 H. P. C., § 19.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2413-2415.

Cited in 10 Wash. 93; 20 Wash. 96.

Actual violence alleged as a fact in the transaction of an assault with an intent to commit rape will justify a conviction of an assault and battery: State v. Keen, 10 Wash. 93.

A person may be guilty of assault where he advances toward another threatening to "put him out of his misery," and at the same time deliberately drawing a revolver from his pocket which is taken from him by the bystanders after some considerable effort; and the question of his guilt or innocence is one for the jury: State v. McFadden, 42 Wash. 1.

§ 2746. (7055.) Assault, Defined.

An assault is an attempt in a rude, insolent, and angry manner unlawfully to touch, strike, beat, or wound another person, coupled with a present ability to carry such attempt into execution, and every person convicted thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, to which may be added imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months. [L. '54, p. 80, § 29; Cd. '81, § 805; 2 H. P. C., § 20.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2415, supra.

Cited in 12 Wash. 463; 19 Wash. 37; 20 Wash. 96; 23 Wash. 550.

The words "to kill with a pistol" are of more extensive signification than either of the words "touch," "strike," "beat" or "wound" used in the statute, and include all that is signified by either, or all of them: State v. Fearnster, 12 Wash. 461, 464.

"Assault" in its legal sense means an attack with "the ability to carry it into effect": State v. Levan, 23 Wash. 547.

There is no such offense as assault with a deadly weapon, under the law of this state, and rejecting the words "with a deadly weapon" as surplusage in an indictment the defendant may be found guilty of assault which is necessarily included in the offense charged: State v. Snider, 32 Wash. 229.

§ 2747. (7056.) Provoking Assault, etc.—Jurisdiction.

Every person who shall, by word, sign, or gestures, willfully provoke or attempt to provoke another person to commit an assault and battery or other breach of the peace shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars, and shall stand committed until such fine and costs are paid. Justices of the peace shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of prosecutions under this section within their respective counties. [L. '86, p. 79, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 21.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2417, supra.

§ 2748. (7057.) Assault with Intent to Commit Felony.

An assault with an intent to commit murder, rape, the infamous crime against nature, mayhem, robbery, or grand larceny shall subject the offender to imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term of not less than one year nor more than fourteen years. [L. '54, p. 80, § 27; L. '69, p. 203, § 28; Cd. '81, § 806; 2 H. P. C., § 22.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2413, supra.

See notes to § 2065, sufficiency of indictment, etc.

See notes to § 2152, evidence, etc.

See infra, § 2986, attempts to commit crime.

See notes to § 2158, instruction.

See notes to § 2753, punishment for rape.

See infra, § 2889, sodomy defined, punishment for.

Although this section does not define sodomy, nor impose a penalty for its commission, yet, under the statutory provision of § 2723, supra, making all common-law offenses indictable, a prosecution will be sustained for an assault with intent to commit such crime: State v. Place, 5 Wash. 773.

Assault with intent to commit murder: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1383, §§ 10-13; State v. Dolan, 17 Wash. 499; State v. Williams, 36 Wash. 143; State v. Levan, 23 Wash. 547.

To constitute assault with intent to commit murder, there must coexist a consummated assault, as contradistinguished from the mere attempt, and a specific intent to commit murder: State v. Feamster, 12 Wash. 461, 463.

Assault with intent to commit rape: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2453, § 4; State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670; State v. Smith, 19 Wash. 376.

Actual violence alleged as a fact in the transaction of an assault with intent to commit rape will justify a conviction of an assault and battery under § 2745, supra: State v. Keen, 10 Wash. 93.

Assault with intent to commit robbery: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2512, § 5; State v. Costello, 29 Wash. 366; State v. Fenton, 30 Wash. 325.

§ 2749. (7058.) Assault with Deadly Weapon, etc., to Do Bodily Harm.

An assault with a deadly weapon, instrument, or other thing, with an intent to inflict upon the person of another a bodily injury, where no considerable provocation appears, or where the circumstances of the assault show a willful, malignant, and abandoned heart, shall subject the offender to imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding two years, or to a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or to both such fine and imprisonment. [L. '69, p. 203, § 29; Cd. '81, § 807; 2 H. P. C., § 23.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2414, supra.

See notes to § 2065, sufficiency of indictment, etc.

In order to charge the statutory felony under this section, it was necessary to set forth in the information, not only that the assault was with a deadly weapon with intent to inflict bodily injury, but the further fact that it was without considerable provocation, or that it was the impulse of the willful, abandoned and malignant heart: State v. Ackles, 8 Wash. 462, 465.

§ 2750. (7059.) Assault with Whip and Armed with Deadly Weapon.

Every person who shall assault and beat another with a cowhide or whip, having with him at the time a pistol or other deadly weapon, shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail not more than one year nor less than three months, and be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars. [L. '54, p. 80, § 28; Cd. '81, § 809; 2 H. P. C., § 39.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. For present law, see § 2414, supra.

§ 2751. (7060.) Administering Poison with Intent to Kill.

Every person who shall administer, or procure to be administered, any poison to any other human being, with intent to kill the person to whom the same shall be administered, if death do not ensue, upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than twenty years nor less than two years. [L. '54, p. 79, § 24; Cd. '81, § 801; 2 H. P. C., § 26.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This section is not covered by the act of 1909, except by § 2264, relating to attempts. See note to § 2301, supra.

Cited in 51 Wash. 36, 37.

§ 2752. (7061.) Poisoning Food, etc., with Intent to Injure.

Every person who shall mingle poison with any food, drink or medicine, with intent to injure any human being, or who shall poison any spring, well, or reservoir of water, with such intent, shall, upon conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than fourteen years nor less than one year. [L. '54, p. 79, § 25; Cd. '81, § 802; 2 H. P. C., § 27.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2516, supra.

§ 2753. (7062.) Rape.

A person shall be deemed guilty of rape who,—

1. Shall, by force and against her will, ravish and carnally know any female of the age of eighteen years or more;

2. Shall, by deceit, deception, imposition or fraud induce a female to submit to sexual intercourse;

3. Shall carnally know any female child under the age of eighteen years.

Any person convicted of the crime of rape, as defined by this section, shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for life or any term of years. [Cf. L. '54, p. 80, § 33; Cd. '81, § 812; L. '86, p. 84, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 28; L. '97, p. 19, §§ 1, 2.]

Rape—Offenses and responsibility therefor: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2452, §§ 1-6; State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670; State v. Smith, 19 Wash. 376; State v. Roller, 30 Wash. 692; State v. Gifford, 19 Wash. 464; State v. Scott, 32 Wash. 279; State v. Falsetta, 43 Wash. 159.

This section punishes carnal knowledge and abuse of any female under the age of consent, without regard to the question of violence, and § 2986, infra, punishes an unsuccessful attempt to commit a crime: State v. Berzaman, 10 Wash. 277, 278.

Under this section and § 2986, infra, subdivision 1, a sentence of imprisonment for ten years is warranted upon a conviction of an attempt to commit the crime of carnal intercourse with a female under the age of consent, and is not excessive: State v. Berzaman, supra.

In a prosecution for rape, a statement by defendant antedating the commission of the crime is admissible, where it showed his state of mind and intention to commit the crime: State v. Winnett, 48 Wash. 93.

§ 2754. (7063.) Rape by Administering Drugs, etc.

If any person unlawfully have carnal knowledge of any female by administering to her any substance or by any other means producing such stupor or such imbecility of mind or weakness of body as to prevent effectual resistance, or have such carnal knowledge of an idiot or female naturally of such imbecility of mind or weakness of body as to prevent effectual resistance, he shall, upon conviction, be punished as provided in the last preceding section. [Cd. '81, § 814; 2 H. P. C., § 29.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2435, supra.

§ 2755. (7064.) Forcing Woman to Marry or be Defiled.

If any person take any woman unlawfully and against her will, and by force, menace, or duress compel her to marry him or any other person, or to be defiled, he shall be fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, and imprisoned in the penitentiary not exceeding ten years. [Cd. '81, § 813; 2 H. P. C., § 36.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2438, supra.

§ 2756. (7065.) Enticing Female Child for Prostitution.

If any person take or entice away any unmarried female under the age of fifteen years from her father, mother, guardian, or other person having the legal charge of her person, without their consent, for the purpose of prostitution, he shall, upon conviction, be punished with imprisonment in the penitentiary for not more than three years, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, and imprisonment in the county jail not more than one year. [Cd. '81, § 815; 2 H. P. C., § 34.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2439, supra.

§ 2757. (7060.*) Seduction—Subsequent Marriage.

If any person seduce and debauch any unmarried woman of previously chaste character, he shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not more than five years, or by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars and imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year. If before judgment upon an information or indictment the defendant marry the woman seduced, all proceedings under such information or indictment shall be stayed, and no further proceedings shall be had thereunder so long as the defendant shall live with, provide for and support his wife; but if at any time within three years from the date of such marriage the defendant shall wrongfully fail to support or to provide for or shall wrongfully desert or abandon his wife, prosecution shall proceed under said information or indictment in the same manner as though no marriage had taken place. [L. '05, p. 57, § 1. Cf. Cd. '81, § 816; 2 H. P. C., § 35.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2441, supra.

Seduction: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 2567, §§ 1-6; State v. O'Hare, 36 Wash. 516; State v. Rogan, 18 Wash. 43.

Inducements held sufficient to constitute the offense of seduction, considering the tender age of the girl: State v. Carter, 8 Wash. 272, 274.

Carnal intercourse with an unmarried girl of sixteen, attained by overpowering and tickling her until she yields, accompanied merely by promises not to get her into trouble, etc., does not constitute seduction: State v. Cochran, 10 Wash. 562; State v. Carter, 8 Wash. 272.

§ 2758. (7067.) Feticide.

Every person who shall administer to any woman pregnant with a quick child any medicine, drug, or substance whatever, or shall use or employ any instrument or other means, with intent thereby to destroy such child, unless the same shall have been necessary to preserve the life of such mother, shall, in case the death of such child or of such mother be thereby produced, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than twenty years nor less than one year. [L. '54, p. 81, § 37; Cd. '81, § 820; 2 H. P. C., § 30.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2397, 2448, supra.

§ 2759. (7068.) Miscarriage of Pregnant Woman Procured.

Every person who shall administer to any pregnant woman whom he supposes to be pregnant any medicine, drug, or substance whatever, or shall use or employ any instrument or other means thereby to procure the miscarriage of such woman, unless the same is necessary to preserve her life, shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than five years, nor less than one year, or be imprisoned in the county jail not more than twelve months nor less than one month, and be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars. [L. '54, p. 81, § 38; Cd. '81, § 821; 2 H. P. C., § 33.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2448, supra.

§ 2760. (7069.) Guarantee of Civil and Legal Rights.

All persons within the jurisdiction of the state of Washington shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the public accommodations and advantages, facilities and privileges of inns, restaurants, eating-houses, barber-shops, public conveyances on land or water, theaters and other places of public accommodation and amusement, subject only to the condition and limitations established by law and applicable alike to all citizens. [Cf. L. '90, p. 54, § 1; 1 H. C., § 2959; L. '95, p. 92, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This section is not covered by the act of 1909, except by § 2686, supra, denials of accommodations, etc., "because of race, creed or color."

§ 2761. (7070.) Penalty for Violation of Last Section.

Any person who shall violate the foregoing section by denying to any citizen, except for reasons by law applicable to citizens of whatever race, color, or nationality, the full enjoyment of any of the public accommodations, advantages, facilities, or privileges in said section enumerated, or by aiding or inciting such denial, shall, for every such offense, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in a sum not less than fifty dollars nor more than three hundred dollars, or shall be imprisoned not less than thirty days nor more than six months. [L. '90, p. 54, § 2; 1 H. C., § 2960.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to last section.

§ 2762. (7071.) Cruelty to Children.

Whosoever shall torture, maim, cruelly beat, whip or punish, deprive of necessary food or clothing, or compel to labor an unreasonable length of time without proper rest and nourishment, or otherwise cruelly treat any minor, or being the parent or guardian, or having the charge of such minor, shall do, cause or permit to be done any of the acts above mentioned, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding one hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail any length of time not exceeding three months. [L. '93, p. 40, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This section is not covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301.

See infra, § 3286, who may arrest under this section.

See infra, § 3287, disposition of fines under this section.

CHAPTER III.

OFFENSES AGAINST THE PUBLIC PEACE.

§ 2763. (7073.) Riot, Defined.

If three or more persons shall do an act in a violent and tumultuous manner, they shall be deemed guilty of riot, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding one year, and be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, or be fined only. [L. '54, p. 87, § 64; Cd. '81, § 859; 2 H. P. C., § 92.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2548, supra.

§ 2764. (7074.) Unlawful Assembly, Dispersion of.

If three or more persons shall be unlawfully, riotously, or tumultuously assembled, any justice of the peace, sheriff, deputy sheriff, constable, or marshal of a city, or mayor or alderman thereof, shall go among the persons so assembled, or as near to them as possible, and shall command them in the name of the state of Washington immediately to disperse. If the persons so assembled do not immediately disperse, it shall be lawful for every such officer to command sufficient aid to seize, arrest, and secure in custody all such persons, and, if necessary, an armed force may be called out, and shall obey the orders of any two of the magistrates or officers mentioned in this section. and if any such persons shall be killed or wounded by reason of their resisting the persons endeavoring to disperse or seize them, the magistrates or officers shall be held guiltless; and if three or more persons shall be unlawfully, riotously, or tumultuously assembled at or near the residence of other persons, or where such other persons may be peaceably assembled, and disturb or annoy such persons by loud or unusual shouting, the discharging of firearms, or by creating any unusual noise which is calculated or intended to annoy or in any manner disturb the inmates of said residence or said persons so peaceably assembled, they shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof be fined not less than twenty dollars nor more than two hundred dollars each, or be imprisoned in the county jail not less than twenty days nor more than one year, or both fined and imprisoned. [Cf. L. '54, p. 87, § 65; Cd. '81, § 860; L. '86, p. 76, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 93.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2548-2551, supra.

The term "armed force," as used in this section, does not authorize the peace officers to command the services of the state militia: Chapin v. Ferry, 3 Wash. 386; and when the militia is ordered out by the governor at sheriff's request, it does not become sheriff's posse comitatus: Id.

The service of a citizen as a member of the posse comitatus is not a compensated service, and no authority exists for paying them out of the county treasury: Id.

§ 2765. (7075.) Failure to Disperse.

All persons who shall have been commanded peaceably to disperse, who shall refuse so to disperse, or shall willfully obstruct or hinder such officer, who shall declare himself as such, from commanding them to disperse, shall on conviction be imprisoned in the county jail not more than one year, and be fined in any sum not exceeding two hundred dollars, or fined only. [L. '54, p. 87, § 66; Cd. '81, § 861; 2 H. P. C., § 94.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2551, supra. See notes to § 2064, language to be used in the charge.

§ 2766. (7076.) Disturbing Public Worship.

Every person who shall disturb any religious society, or any member thereof, when met or meeting together for public worship, or shall sell or give away any spirituous liquor at any booth, wagon, shed, or open place, or [at] any boat, canoe, or other water craft, or in any building temporarily erected for the purpose of selling therein such liquors, within one mile of any collection of a portion of the citizens of this state convened for the purpose of worship, or shall disturb any collection of people [convened] for any unlawful [lawful] purpose, such person shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding one month, and be fined in any sum not exceeding two hundred dollars, or fined only. [L. '54, p. 87, § 67; Cd. '81, § 862; 2 H. P. C., § 95.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2499, supra.

Cited in 11 Wash. 424.

The failure to charge the disturbance of a religious society as having been done willfully will not render the information insufficient, if other words of the same import are used: State v. Stuth, 11 Wash. 423.

This section is not void for uncertainty, the word "disturb" having a well-known legal significance; and the words "religious society" includes all religious societies or congregations which meet for public worship, without regard to their being incorporated: Id.

§ 2767. (7077.) Sunday Riots, Fighting, etc.—Jurisdiction.

If any person be found on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, engaged in any riot, fighting, or offering to fight, horse racing, or dancing, whereby any worshiping assembly or private family are disturbed, every person so offending shall on conviction be fined in the sum of not to exceed one hundred dollars, to be recovered before any justice of the peace in the county where such offense is committed, and shall be committed to the jail of said county until the said fine, together with the costs of prosecution, shall be paid. [Cd. '81, § 865; 2 H. P. C., § 98.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2499, supra.

§ 2768. (7078.) Destruction of Buildings, etc., by Riotous Assemblage.

If any person or persons unlawfully or riotously assembled pull down, injure, or destroy, or begin to pull down, injure, or destroy, any dwelling-house or other building, or destroy, or attempt to injure or destroy, any boat or vessel, or perpetrate any premeditated injury on the person of another, not being a felony, he shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not more than five years, or by fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, and imprisonment in the county jail not more than one year, and shall also be answerable to any person injured to the full amount of the damages by him sustained in an action at law. [Cd. '81, § 863; 2 H. P. C., § 96.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2553, supra.

§ 2769. (7079.) Affrays, Defined.

If two or more persons by agreement fight in any public place, the person so offending shall be deemed guilty of an affray, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the county jail not more than six months, and be fined in any sum not exceeding three hundred dollars, or be fined only. [L. '54, p. 89, § 68; Cd. '81, § 866; 2 H. P. C., § 99.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This section seems covered by §§ 2556, 2557, supra, fighting and prize-fights.

§ 2770. (7080.) Horse Racing on Public Highways, etc.

Any persons who shall be guilty of racing horses or driving upon the public highway in a manner likely to endanger the persons or lives of others, or guilty of loud shouting, or the discharging of firearms, or any other demonstrations which are calculated or intended to frighten, intimidate, or in any manner disturb other persons, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding thirty days. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 864; L. '86, p. 77, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 97.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2534, supra, covers this section, except "racing horses."

§ 2771. (7081.) Reckless Shooting, etc.

Every person who shall in a reckless, careless, or negligent manner discharge, in the vicinity of an inhabited dwelling-house, or in the streets of an incorporated city or unincorporated town, any firearm, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding thirty days, or both such fine and imprisonment. [L. '88, p. 100, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 101.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Compare § 2559, supra.

This section is not covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301, supra.

§ 2772. (7082.) Flourishing Dangerous Weapon, etc.

Every person who shall, in a manner likely to cause terror to the people passing, exhibit or flourish, in the streets of an incorporated city or unincorporated town, any dangerous weapon, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine in any sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars. Justices of the peace shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of all offenses arising under the last two preceding sections. [L. '88, p. 100, §§ 2, 3; 2 H. P. C., § 100.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This section is not covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301, supra.

§ 2773. (7083.) Exhibiting Dangerous Weapon in Threatening Manner.

Every person who shall, in a rude, angry, or threatening manner, in a crowd of two or more persons, exhibit any pistol, bowie-knife, or other dangerous weapon, shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding one year, and be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars. [L. '54, p. 80, § 30; Cd. '81, § 810; 2 H. P. C., § 37.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This section is not covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301, supra.

§ 2774. (7084.) Carrying Concealed Weapons.

If any person shall carry upon his person any concealed weapon, consisting of either a revolver, pistol, or other firearms, or any knife (other than an ordinary pocket knife), or any dirk or dagger, sling-shot, or metal knuckles, or any instrument by the use of which injury could be inflicted upon the person or property of any other person, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than twenty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail not more than thirty days, or by both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court: Provided, that this section shall not apply to police officers and other persons whose duty it is to execute process or warrants or make arrests. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 929; L. '86, p. 81, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 166.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2517, supra, "furtively carry, or conceal."

§ 2775. (7085.) Armed Bodies of Men.

That it shall be unlawful for any person, corporation or association of persons, or agents of any person, or member, agent or officer of any corporation or association of persons, to organize, maintain or employ an armed body of men in this state for any purpose whatever; and all parties so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by fine of not less than one thousand dollars nor more than five thousand dollars, and in a like sum each day they shall continue to offend after having been once fined, and in addition to such fine such offender, if a person, may be imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding one year, at the discretion of the court. The fines shall be paid into the general fund of the county in which the offense was committed. And all arms, uniforms, accoutrements and any other property of a military character in possession of such person, member, agents, officer, corporation, or armed bodies of men shall be seized by the officer making the arrest under the provisions of this section, [and] be forfeited to the state of Washington. [L. '93, p. 449, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

As to armed associations as military companies without consent of the governor, see § 2546, supra.

This section does not violate Constitution, Article I, § 24, guaranteeing the right of an individual citizen to bear arms in defense of himself or the state: State v. Gohl, 46 Wash. 408.

One is guilty of violating this section, prohibiting the organizing, maintaining or "employing" of an armed body of men, where he caused them to assemble and took them in a launch for the purpose of intimidating the master of a schooner and thereby removing a part of the crew; it being sufficient if he "employed" the men in the sense of making use of them for a specific purpose, although he did not "hire" them: Id.

Upon a conflict in the testimony as to whether defendant employed men, whether they were armed, and as to their mission, the questions are for the jury: Id.

§ 2776. (7086.) Blackmail.

If any person, either verbally or by any written or printed communication, shall maliciously threaten any injury to the person or property of another, with intent thereby to extort money or any pecuniary advantage whatever, or to control the person so threatened to do any act against his will, he shall, upon conviction thereof be imprisoned in the county jail not more than one year nor less than one month, or be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars nor less than one hundred dollars. [Cd. '81, § 822; 2 H. P. C., § 38.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2610, 2613, supra.

Under the common law, it was not an indictable offense to extort money by threatening to institute a criminal prosecution against the party defrauded, since the threat is not of personal violence or such as to overcome a firm and prudent man: State v. Nethercutt, 48 Wash. 105.

§ 2777. (7087.) Libel, Defined.

A libel is the defamation of a person made public by any words, printing, writing, sign, picture, representation, or effigy tending to provoke him to wrath, or expose him to public hatred, contempt, or ridicule, or to deprive him of the benefits of public confidence and social intercourse; or any defamation, made public as aforesaid, designed to blacken and vilify the memory of one who is dead, and tending to scandalize or provoke his surviving relatives or friends. Every person who makes, composes, or dictates a libel, or procures the same to be done, or who publishes or willfully circulates such libel, or in any way knowingly and willfully aids or assists in making, publishing, or circulating the same, shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not more than one year, or by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment. [Cf. L. '69, p. 383, §§ 1, 2; L. '79, p. 144, §§ 1, 2; Cd. '81, §§ 1230, 1231; L. '91, p. 119, § 3; 2 H. P. C., § 17.]

house v. Powles, 43 Wash. 617; State v. Tugwell, 19 Wash. 238.

A newspaper article holding up an attorney to public ridicule for refusal to pay bills for printing and for charging excessive fees is libelous, and the burden of establishing the truth is on the defendant; and where the publication is admitted and no evidence in justification is offered as to the matters libelous per se, the jury should be instructed to award damages therefor: Reynolds v. Holland, 46 Wash. 537.

In an action by an attorney for libel in publishing that he charged an excessive fee for the foreclosure of a mortgage when the work was done by defendant's attorney, evidence on the part of the plaintiff that he was attorney of record in the foreclosure suit and had not been released by the mortgagee from responsibility, is admissible: Id.

In such an action, evidence that the fee allowed in the decree was excessive, offered by the defendant to sustain the truth of the charge, is inadmissible, since the allowance was to the client and had no bearing on the issues involved: Id.

§ 2778. (7088.) Publication of Libel, What Constitutes.

The delivering, selling, reading, or otherwise communicating a libel, or causing the same to be delivered, sold, read, or otherwise communicated, to one or more persons, or to the party libeled, shall be deemed a publication thereof. [L. '69, p. 384, § 5; Cd. '81, § 1234; 2 H. P. C., § 18.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2426, supra. See notes to last section.

§ 2779. (7089.) Malicious Prosecution.

If any person shall maliciously, without probable cause, attempt to cause an indictment to be found [or information to be filed], or other prosecution for any crime or misdemeanor to be commenced, against any person, or if two or more persons shall conspire together for that purpose, the person so sought to be indicted or otherwise prosecuted being innocent, such person or persons so offending shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding six months, and be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars. As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2369, 2382, supra. To prohibit blacklisting, see § 6565, infra.

§ 2780. Criminal Anarchy, Defined.

Criminal anarchy is the doctrine that organized government should be overthrown by force or violence, or by assassination of the executive head or of any of the executive officials of government, or by any unlawful means. [L. '03, p. 52, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

§ 2781. Advocating, Teaching, or Spreading Doctrines—Penalty.

Any person who, by word of mouth or writing, advocates, advises or teaches the duty, necessity or propriety of overthrowing or overturning organized government by force or violence, or by assassination of the executive head, or any of the executive officials of government, or by any unlawful means; or, prints, publishes, edicts [edits], issues or knowingly circulates, sells, distributes or publicly displays any book, paper, document or written or printed matter in any form, containing or advocating, advising or teaching the doctrine that organized government should be overthrown by force, violence or any unlawful means; or openly, willfully and deliberately justifies by word of mouth or writing the assassination or unlawful killing or assaulting of any executive or other officer of the United States or of any state or of an [any] civilized nation having an organized government, or the committing of any other crime, with intent to teach, spread or advocate the doctrines of criminal anarchy; or organizes or helps to organize or becomes a member of or voluntarily assembles with any society, group or assembly of persons formed to teach or advocate such doctrines, is guilty of a felony and punishable by imprisonment for not more than ten years, or by a fine of not more than $5,000, or both. [L. '03, p. 52, § 2.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2562, 2563, 2565, supra.

§ 2782. Editor or Publisher Liable.

Every editor or proprietor of a book, newspaper or serial and every manager of a partnership or incorporated association by which a book, newspaper or serial is issued, is chargeable with the publication of any matter contained in such book, newspaper or serial. But in every prosecution therefor, the defendant may show in his defense that the matter complained of was published without his knowledge by another who had no authority from him to make the publication and whose act was disavowed by him as soon as known. [L. '03, p. 52, § 3.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2564, supra.

§ 2783. Unlawful Assembly—Penalty.

Whenever two or more persons assemble for the purpose of advocating or teaching the doctrines of criminal anarchy, as defined in section 2780, such an assembly is unlawful, and every person voluntarily participating therein by his presence, aid or instigation, is guilty of a felony and punishable by imprisonment for not more than ten years, or by a fine of not more than $5,000, or both. [L. '03, p. 53, § 4.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, §§ 2562, 2566, supra.

CHAPTER IV.

OFFENSES AGAINST PROPERTY.

§ 2784. (7094.) Arson, Defined.

Arson is the willful setting fire to any structure, as defined in this act, by any person, whether said structure be occupied or vacant, and whether the same be owned by the person or persons setting fire thereto or by any other person or persons, or by any corporation, or by the person or persons setting fire thereto and any other person or persons, or by the person or persons setting fire thereto and any corporation, and whether such structure be partially erected or fully completed. [Cf. L. '54, p. 82, § 40; Cd. '81, § 823; L. '86, p. 77; 2 H. P. C., § 40; L. '95, p. 173, § 1.]

This act does not violate Constitution,
Article 2, § 19, which provides that "no bill shall embrace more than one subject":
State v. Hall, 24 Wash. 255.

§ 2785. (7095.) Structure, Defined.

The term "structure" in this act shall be held to mean and shall include in meaning any house, edifice, building, cabin, tent, vessel, boat, water craft or erection capable of affording or designed to afford or intended when completed to afford shelter for any human being, any barn, stable, outhouse, shed, mill, millhouse, dryhouse, hophouse, distillery, manufactory, shop, store, office, office building, bank building, or any building in which property is placed or stored, or which is used or intended to be used for such purpose, or which is intended to be used for the purpose of transacting any kind of business therein, any public building, courthouse, jail, city hall, guardhouse, college building, university building, seminary, poorhouse, market-house, pesthouse, public bridge, any infirmary, asylum, schoolhouse, engine-house, hospital, theater, hall, church, meeting-house, depot, station-house, railway car, street-car, roundhouse, railroad bridge, railroad trestle, any wharf, dock or landing, or any building or shed of whatever kind or description which is used or intended to be used for the shelter of any human being, animal or thing. [L. '95, p. 173, § 2.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

"Act" in this section refers to §§ 2784-2791.

This section is not covered by the act of 1909, but falls with the repeal of the last previous section.

§ 2786. (7096.) Penalty—Murder, When.

Every person convicted of arson shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not exceeding ten years nor less than one year, or in the county jail not exceeding one year and be fined not exceeding one thousand dollars: Provided, that if any person or persons shall commit the crime of arson and thereby cause the death of any human being, the person or persons committing said crime shall be deemed guilty of murder in the first degree and shall be punished with death, if it be proved that such person or persons had reason to believe that said crime would probably produce death, otherwise such person or persons committing said crime of arson which shall cause the death of any human being shall be deemed guilty of murder in the second degree, and shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary for not exceeding thirty years. [L. '95, p. 171, § 3.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This section is covered by § 2392, supra.

As to pleading the facts under this section, the same rules apply as are stated in the notes to § 2784, supra.

§ 2787. (7097.) Accessories Deemed Principals.

When any crime of arson is committed, every person who shall have aided, counseled or advised the commission of said crime shall be deemed a principal, and shall upon conviction be punished as a principal in said crime. [L. '95, p. 174, § 4.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This section is covered by § 2260, supra.

See supra, § 2007 et seq., and notes, accessories.

§ 2788. (7098.) Married Woman Liable for Arson.

A married woman who shall commit the crime of arson, or who shall counsel, aid or abet in the commission of such crime may be convicted thereof and punished therefor, though the property set fire to may belong partially or wholly to the husband. [Cf. L. '54, p. 83, § 43; Cd. '81, § 826; 2 H. P. C., § 44; L. '95, p. 174, § 5.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This section is not expressly covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301, supra.

§ 2789. (7099.) Attempt to Commit Arson.

Every person who attempts to commit the crime of arson and fails, or is prevented or intercepted in the perpetration thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term not exceeding two years, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, and by fine in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars. [L. '95, p. 174, § 6.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

See infra, § 2986, attempts to commit crime.

§ 2790. (7100.) Attempt, Defined.

Any willful preparation made by any person with a view to setting fire to any structure as defined in this act, shall be deemed to be an attempt to commit the crime of arson, and shall be punished as such. [L. '95, p. 174, § 7.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2577, supra.

"Act" refers to §§ 2784-2791.

§ 2791. (7101.) Official Acts Excepted.

No act done by any official in the discharge of his duty or by any person in pursuance of authority granted by any public authority shall be punishable under this act. [L. '95, p. 174, § 8.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

"Act" in this section refers to §§ 2784-2791.

§ 2792. (7103.*) Robbery, Defined.

Every person who shall forcibly and feloniously take from the person of another, or from his immediate presence, any article of value, by violence or putting in fear, shall be deemed guilty of robbery and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for any length of time not more than twenty years nor less than five years. [L. '03, p. 5, § 1. Cf. L. '54, p. 81, §§ 3, 4; L. '69, p. 204, § 36; Cd. '81, § 829; 2 H. P. C., § 45.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2418, supra.

Robbery: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2511, 2513, §§ 1, 12; State v. Dengel, 24 Wash. 49; State v. Morgan, 31 Wash. 226; State v. Johnson, 19 Wash. 410; State v. Fenton, 30 Wash. 325; State v. Ripley, 32 Wash. 182; State v. Hyde, 22 Wash. 551; State v. Smith, 26 Wash. 354; State v. Fair, 35 Wash. 127.

There is sufficient element of force and putting in fear to constitute the crime of robbery, where the prosecuting witness, while drunk, was forcibly conducted to a saloon under the pretext that he was under arrest and must be searched, and that the defendants were officers, who were about to lock him up, and who thereupon forcibly took his money when no one else was present, under commands to keep silent: State v. Parsons, 44 Wash. 299.

There is not sufficient evidence to sustain a conviction for robbery, and it was error to deny a new trial, where it appears that the prosecuting witness, who was not present at the trial, the defendant, and others were intoxicated and engaged in a fight in an alley, and there was no evidence that he had been robbed other than loose statements to the effect that he had stated to third persons that he had a twenty-dollar bill and some change which he lost in the alley: State v. Jamieson, 45 Wash. 314.

§ 2793. Larceny from the Person Defined—Penalty.

Every person who shall feloniously take or steal from the person of another, without violence or putting in fear, any article of value, shall be deemed guilty of larceny from the person and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding five years, or by fine in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment. [L. '01, p. 34, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2605, supra.

§ 2794. (7104.) Burglary, Defined.

Every person who shall unlawfully enter in the night-time, or shall unlawfully break and enter in the daytime, any dwelling-house, or outhouse thereunto adjoining, and occupied therewith, or any office, shop, store, warehouse, malthouse, stillhouse, mill, factory, bank, church, schoolhouse, railroad car, barn, stable, ship, steamboat, water craft, or any building in which any goods, merchandise, or valuable things are kept for use, sale, or deposit, within the body of any county, with intent to commit a misdemeanor or felony, shall be deemed guilty of burglary, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary for any period not more than fourteen years. [Cf. L. '54, p. 83, § 44; Cd. '81, § 827; L. '88, p. 14, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 46.]

Nature and elements of offense: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 413, § 1; State v. Boysen, 30 Wash. 338; State v. Petit, 32 Wash. 129.

The difference between the statutory and common-law definitions of burglary, so far as intent is concerned, is that the former makes it burglary to enter or break a house with intent to commit a misdemeanor, as well as a felony: Linbeck v. State, 1 Wash. 336, 339.

This section defines the offense of burglary to be an unlawful entry in the night-time, or an unlawful breaking and entry in the daytime, with intent to commit a misdemeanor or felony: State v. Hansen, 10 Wash. 235, 239.

Burglary may be committed upon and in any of the places particularly specified, and in addition, upon and in any other building in which goods, merchandise, etc., are kept for use, sale or deposit: State v. Sufferin, 6 Wash. 107, 108; or the breaking or entry of an office, without also charging that such office was a place where goods, merchandise or valuable things were kept for sale or deposit: Id.

§ 2795. (7105.) Presumption as to Intent—Rebuttal.

Every person who shall be guilty of any such unlawful entry, or unlawful breaking and entry, as described in the last preceding section, shall be deemed to have made such entry, or breaking or entry, with intent to commit a misdemeanor or a felony, unless such entry, or breaking and entry, shall be explained by testimony satisfactory to the jury trying the case to have been made for some purpose without criminal intent. [L. '73, p. 190, § 49; Cd. '81, § 828; 2 H. P. C., § 47.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2580, supra.

Cited in 5 Wash. 351; 9 Wash. 220; 42 Wash. 673; 52 Wash. 318.

Under this section the burden of showing with what intent defendant entered the house is cast upon him: Linbeck v. State, 1 Wash. 336.

The provisions of this section do not contravene any constitutional right of the accused: State v. Anderson, 5 Wash. 350.

This section only purports to change or modify the rules of evidence, and not those of pleadings: Linbeck v. State, supra, 336, 340.

It overrides the presumption of innocence, and may, under certain circumstances, modify the provision requiring the court to charge that no presumption shall arise from defendant's silence: Id.

The provisions of this section cannot be interpreted as a proviso to § 2794, defining the crime of burglary; and, consequently, the amendment of § 2794, by enlarging its scope so as to include additional structures as subject to burglary, will not work a repeal of this section: State v. Wilson, 9 Wash. 218.

§ 2796. (7106.) Attempt to Commit Burglary, Possession of Tools, etc.

If any person shall be found at night around [armed] with any dangerous instrument or offensive weapon whatsoever, with intent to break or enter into any dwelling-house, building, room in a building, cabin, state-room, railway car or other covered inclosure where personal property shall be, and to commit any larceny, felony or misdemeanor therein, or with the intent to commit any larceny, felony or misdemeanor, or if any person shall at any time be found having in his possession any picklock, crow, key, bit, jack, jimmy, nippers, outsiders, pick, drill punch, betty or other implement or implements of burglary, with the intent aforesaid, and under such circumstances as shall not amount to an attempt to commit felony, every such offender shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '93, p. 221, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2582, supra. See infra, § 2986, attempt to commit crime.

Possession of burglar's tools: See State v. Garbe, 34 Wash. 395.

§ 2797. (7107.) Presumption of Intent from Possession of Burglar's Tools.

The possession of any of the above-mentioned burglar's implements, tools, weapons or instruments by any person other than a mechanic, artificer or person in trade at and in his known or established shop or place of business, which is open to the public as such, shall be prima facie proof of the intent of such person to use the same for the felonious or unlawful purposes mentioned in the last preceding section, and shall impose upon such person the burden of proving a contrary intent. [L. '93, p. 221, § 2.]

As to repeal of this section see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2582, supra.

The mere possession of stolen property is not prima facie evidence of the breaking and entering, but a circumstance to be considered by the jury: State v. Beeman, 51 Wash. 557.

§ 2798. (7108.) Grand Larceny, Defined.

Every person who shall feloniously steal, take and carry, lead or drive away the personal goods or property of another, of the value of thirty dollars or more, shall be deemed guilty of grand larceny, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than fourteen years nor less than one year. [L. '54, p. 83, § 45; Cd. '81, § 830; 2 H. P. C., § 48.]

A state court has jurisdiction to punish the crime of larceny committed by stealing the property of a railroad company which is in the hands of a receiver appointed by the United States court: State v. Coss, 12 Wash. 673.

The association of the word "feloniously" with the words "steal, take and carry, lead or drive away," defining grand larceny, makes each phrase synonymous with the others, and the use of the disjunctive "or" in an information charging that crime does not render the pleading bad: State v. Brookhouse, 10 Wash. 87.

§ 2799. (7109.*) Petit Larceny, Defined.

Every person who shall feloniously steal, take and carry away, lead or drive away, the personal goods or property of another, under the value of thirty dollars, shall be deemed guilty of petit larceny, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by fine of not more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not more than one year, or by both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. With the exception of "value," the same principles govern this offense as that of grand larceny. L. '67, p. 98, § 2, 2 H. P. C., § 4980, Bal. Code, § 7110, defining larceny by a partner, was repealed by L. '73, p. 251, § 325: Bingham v. Keylor, 19 Wash. 555.

§ 2800. (7111.) Bonds, Notes, etc., Subjects of Larceny.

Bonds, promissory notes, bills of exchange, or other bills, orders, drafts, checks, or certificates, or warrants for or concerning money, goods, or property due, or to become due, or to be delivered, and any deed or writing containing a conveyance of land, or any valuable contract in force, or receipt, release, or defeasance, writ, process, or public record, or any other instrument whatever, shall be considered personal goods, of which larceny may be committed. [L. '54, p. 83, § 47; Cd. '81, § 832; 2 H. P. C., § 50.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

The subject matter of this section seems to be covered by § 2601, supra.

See supra, § 2074, larceny of moneys, etc., how pleaded.

Larceny of notes, etc., sufficient specifications in indictment or information for: See § 2074, supra.

§ 2801. Larceny of Fixtures.

Every person who shall sever from the freehold, steal, take and carry away any fixture or fixtures, attached to the real estate, or possessory claim of another, of the value of thirty dollars or more, shall be deemed guilty of grand larceny, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not more than fourteen years nor less than six months. Any person who shall sever from the freehold, steal, take and carry away, any fixture or fixtures attached to the real estate, or possessory claim of another, of a value of less than thirty dollars, shall be deemed guilty of petit larceny and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one month, or by a fine not to exceed one hundred dollars, or by both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. [L. '03, p. 12, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

The subject matter of this section may be covered by §§ 2601, 2605, supra.

§ 2802. (7112.) Dogs Subject of Larceny.

All dogs in this state are hereby declared to be personal property, and shall be as much the subject of larceny as any other kind of personal property, and every person stealing and taking away such dogs shall be liable to prosecution and indictment as in other cases of larceny. [L. '71, p. 92, § 1; Cd. '81, § 837; 2 H. P. C., § 51.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Compare § 2601, supra.

The subject matter of this section is probably covered by § 2303, dogs defined as personal property.

§ 2803. (7113.) Stealing Horses, Cattle, etc.

If any person shall steal a horse, mare, gelding, foal or filly, ass or mule, or any one or more head of neat cattle, or any one or more head of sheep, of any value, or if any person shall receive or buy any horse, mare, gelding, foal or filly, ass or mule, or any one or more head of neat cattle, or any one or more head of sheep, that shall have been stolen, with intent, by such receiving or buying, to defraud the owner, or if any person shall conceal any person guilty of stealing any of said property, knowing him to be the person who stole the same, or if any person shall conceal any horse, mare, or gelding, foal or filly, ass or mule, or any one or more head of neat cattle, or any one or more head of sheep, knowing the same to have been stolen, any person so offending shall be deemed guilty of an offense against the laws of the state of Washington, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary and kept at hard labor not more than ten nor less than one year; or, in the discretion of the court, the offender may be imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding one hundred dollars, or both. [L. '63, p. 289, § 48; L. '79, p. 137, § 1; Cd. '81, § 833; 2 H. P. C., § 52.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2605, supra.

An information under this section describing the property taken as so many "head of cattle" is defective: State v. Brookhouse, 10 Wash. 87.

The term "cattle" in law includes all of the domestic animals mentioned in this section, so that the information would have been sustained by proof of the taking of twenty-five head of horses, as well as by showing that the "cattle" were that number of "steers": Id.

In an information charging the larceny of cattle under this section, providing that if any person shall steal certain animals (naming them), "of any value," he shall be deemed guilty, etc., it is not necessary that the value of the stolen cattle should be alleged: State v. Young, 13 Wash. 584.

§ 2804. (7114.) Possession of Range Stock, Presumption of Guilt.

In all prosecutions for larceny under the last preceding section, where the animal alleged to have been stolen was permitted by its owner to run on the range, proof of possession of the animal by the person accused of stealing the same shall be prima facie evidence that the accused acquired possession thereof recently, and shall have the effect of throwing on the accused person the burden of explaining such possession. [L. '95, p. 471, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

The subject matter of this section seems not covered by the act of 1909, and may be in force, if the present laws are construed (under § 2300) as continuations of the last preceding section. See notes to §§ 2253 and 2301.

§ 2805. (7115.) Obtaining Property Under False Pretense, Larceny.

Every person who shall falsely represent or personate another, and in such assumed character shall receive any money or other property whatever, intended to be delivered to the party so personated, with intent to convert the same to his own use, shall be deemed guilty of larceny, and shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than fourteen years nor less than one year, or imprisoned in the county jail any length of time not exceeding one year. [L. '54, p. 84, § 53; Cd. '81, § 834; 2 H. P. C., § 53.]

False personation: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1699, § 3; State v. Skilbrick, 25 Wash. 555.

It is larceny for any person to receive "any money or other property whatever" by falsely representing or personating another, and it is a crime for a person by such means to receive any kind or description of property of value: State v. White, 12 Wash. 417; State v. Smith, 9 Wash. 248; cited in State v. Reiff, 14 Wash. 669.

§ 2806. (7116.) Buying or Receiving Stolen Property.

Every person who shall buy, receive, or aid in the concealment of stolen property, money, or goods, knowing the same to have been stolen, or who shall bring or aid in bringing into this state from any other state or territory of the United States, or from any foreign country, any such stolen property, money, or goods, knowing the same to have been stolen, shall, upon conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than four years nor less than one year, or be imprisoned in the county jail not more than two years nor less than one month, and shall be fined not exceeding five hundred dollars nor less than one hundred dollars. Receiving stolen property: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2482, §§ 1, 2; State v. Druxinman, 34 Wash. 257.

Possession of recently stolen property is a circumstance to be considered by the jury in connection with all the other evidence in the given case in determining the guilt or innocence of the accused, and the presumption that may be drawn from such possession is one of fact merely, and is to be determined by the jury: State v. Walters, 7 Wash. 246; State v. Humason, 5 Wash. 499; State v. Payne, 6 Wash. 563.

§ 2807. (7118.) Conversion of Personal Property, Larceny.

Every person who shall borrow, hire, or in any manner obtain the use of the goods, chattels, or personal property of any nature, kind, or condition whatsoever, of another, for any specific purpose, or for any specific time, and who shall at any time after the said purpose has been complied with, or the said time has expired, give away, trade, barter, sell, convert, or secrete, with intent to convert to his own use, without the consent of the owner, or agent of said owner, any of the goods, chattels, or personal property of any nature, kind, or condition whatsoever, of another, which shall have come into his or her possession by virtue of such borrowing or hiring, or so obtaining the possession thereof, as aforesaid, he or she shall, upon conviction thereof, be adjudged guilty of larceny, and shall be punished in the same manner prescribed by law for the larceny of property of the kind and value of the goods, chattels, or personal property so given away, traded, bartered, sold, converted, or secreted with intent so to convert to his or her own use. [L. '88, p. 121, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 54.]

§ 2808. (7119.) Larceny by Embezzlement.

If any agent, clerk, officer, servant, or person to whom any money or other property shall be intrusted, with or without hire, shall fraudulently convert to his own use, or shall take and secrete the same with intent fraudulently to convert the same to his own use, or shall fail to account to the person so intrusting it to him, he shall be deemed guilty of larceny, and on conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than ten years nor less than one year, or be imprisoned in the county jail for any length of time not exceeding one year. The words "for hire" in this section qualify each of the classes of persons enumerated therein: Terry v. State, 1 Wash. 277.

The requirements of this section are, first, not only that the respondent was a person, but that he was an agent; second, that he received the property of his principal; third, that he received it in the course of his employment; fourth, that he fraudulently and feloniously converted it to his own use: State v. Turner, 10 Wash. 94, 96.

The fact that an agent is entitled to a commission on goods does not make him a joint owner: Brandenstein v. Way, 17 Wash. 293.

There seems to be no good reason why the legislature should not have in mind the treasurer of a county or of a municipality when it used the word "officer," as it appears in this section: State v. Isen-

When a public officer charged with the custody of public funds misappropriates and embezzles the same he may be prosecuted either under this section or § 2812, infra: State v. Isensee, supra.

There are no grades of this offense charged in this section, and value of property taken can only influence the court's discretion in penalty imposed: State v. Weydeman, 3 Wash. 399, 400.

If defendant is indicted under this section a verdict of not guilty of the offense charged, but guilty of the crime of petit larceny is equivalent to acquittal: Id.

One who is employed as the driver of a laundry wagon under a contract which charges him instead of the patrons with all the work brought in and permits the driver to make the collections, retaining for himself twenty-two per cent of the amount due for laundry work brought in, and making him personally responsible for failure to collect moneys from patrons whom he had trusted, stands in the relation of a debtor, and upon failure to turn in moneys collected, cannot be prosecuted for embezzlement as an agent for hire: State v. Covert, 14 Wash. 652. See, also, State v. Hoshier, 26 Wash. 643.

§ 2809. (7120.) Larceny by Agent of Insurance Company.

If any director, officer, agent or other person connected with or doing business for or with any insurance company shall fail to account for or fraudulently convert or appropriate to his own use, or the use of any other person or persons, any money or other property belonging to such company, he or they shall be deemed guilty of larceny, and on conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than five years, or be imprisoned in the county jail for any period of time less than one year. [L. '95, p. 269, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2601, supra.

§ 2810. (7121.) Bank Deposits, Larceny of, When.

Any president, director, manager, cashier or other officer of any banking institution who shall receive or assent to the reception of deposits after he shall have knowledge of the fact that such banking institution is insolvent or in failing circumstances, shall be guilty of felony and punished as hereinafter provided. § 2811. (7122.) Penalty for Violating Last Section.

Any person violating the provisions of the last preceding section of this chapter, upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for a period of not less than two nor more than twenty years. [L. '93, p. 271, § 2.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2640, supra.

§ 2812. (7123.) Embezzlement of Public Funds a Felony.

If any state, county, township, city, town, village, or other officer elected or appointed under the constitution or laws of this state, court commissioner, or any officer of any court, or any clerk, agent, servant, or employee of any such officer, shall, in any manner not authorized by law, use any portion of the money intrusted to him for safekeeping, in order to make a profit out of the same, or shall use the same for any purpose not authorized by law, he shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and on conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than ten years. This section makes it a felony for any officer to use any portion of the public money intrusted to him in any manner or for any other purpose not authorized by law, which is the same as a prohibition against using it except as authorized by law: Marx v. Parker, 9 Wash. 473, 479.

This section applies to city officers chosen under a freeholders' charter, which cities of the first class are authorized by the constitution and legislature to frame for themselves: State v. Krug, 12 Wash. 288.

§ 2813. (7124.) Allegations and Proof Necessary.

In prosecutions for the offenses named in the next preceding section, it shall be sufficient to allege generally in the information or indictment, that any such officer, court commissioner, clerk, agent, servant, or employee has made profit out of the public money in his possession or under his control, or has used the same for any purpose not authorized by law, to a certain value or amount, without specifying any further particulars in regard thereto, and on the trial evidence may be given of all the facts constituting the offense and defense thereto. § 2820. (7132.) Allegation of Intent to Defraud—Variance.

In any case where the intent to defraud is necessary to constitute the offense of forgery or any other offense that may be prosecuted, it shall be sufficient to allege in the indictment or information an intent to defraud, without naming therein the particular person or body corporate intended to be defrauded; and on the trial of such indictment it shall be deemed sufficient, and shall not be deemed a variance, if there appear to be an intent to defraud the United States, or any state, territory, county, city, town, or village, or any body corporate, or any public officer in his official capacity, or any copartnership, or member thereof, or any particular person; and persons of skill shall be competent witnesses to prove a forgery. If any person, other than an officer on lawful business, shall go or trespass upon any inclosed lands or premises not his own, and shall fail, neglect, or refuse to depart therefrom immediately, and remain away until permitted to return, upon the verbal or printed or written notice of the owner or person in the lawful occupation of said lands, or premises, such trespasser shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by fine not less than five nor more than fifty dollars, and shall be committed, in default of payment of the fine and costs imposed, to the jail of the county in which the offense is committed, one day for each two dollars of the said fine and costs: Provided, that any and all lands and premises inclosed by a lawful fence shall be deemed and considered inclosed lands within the meaning of this section: And provided further, that any and all precipices, embankments, streams, lakes, or ponds, or other natural obstructions which equally secure them from trespass of any domestic animals, or shall be made so by artificial means, constituting any part of such inclosure, shall, for all purposes of this section, be deemed lawful fences. [L. '90, p. 124, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 70.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2665, supra.
Injury by trespassers, see § 2659, supra.
See supra, § 939 et seq., action for trespass.

A person, though the owner, has no right to forcibly invade the actual and peaceable occupancy of land by another, even if the latter holds the same without right. By so doing he is a trespasser, and such possessor has the right to defend himself and his possession, if unlawfully assailed by such owner: White v. Territory, 3 W. T. 397.

§ 2823. (7138.) Trespass upon Uninclosed Lands.

If any person, other than an officer on lawful business, shall trespass upon any uninclosed lands or premises not his own, by the erection of any house, tent, or by continuing to camp or live thereon, after receipt from the owner or person in the lawful occupation of said lands or premises of verbal, written, or printed notice to vacate such lands or premises, such trespasser shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished as provided in the next preceding section. [L. '90, p. 125, § 2; 2 H. P. C., § 71.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2665, supra, trespass after warning.

§ 2824. (7139.) Notice to Trespassers.

Printed or written notices having attached thereto, by authority, the name of the owner or person in lawful occupation of said lands or premises, and requiring all persons to forbear trespassing on said lands or premises, and to depart therefrom, posted in three conspicuous places on said lands or premises, shall be held and deemed to be sufficient prima facie evidence of notice, as mentioned in the last two preceding sections. [L. '90, p. 128, § 12; 2 H. P. C., § 72.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2665, supra, trespass after warning.

§ 2825. (7140.) Trespassing Hunters, Arrest, Jurisdiction.

Any owner or other legal occupant of any inclosed premises, used for meadow, pasture, cultivation, or other use, may post, at the usual place or places of entering upon the same, written or printed notices, forbidding persons to trespass upon said inclosed premises, for the purpose of hunting or pursuing game, without first obtaining the consent of the owner or legal occupant thereof; any person entering said lands for said purposes while said notices are so posted shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and for every such offense shall be punished by a fine of ten dollars, one-half of which shall be paid to the owner or legal occupant of such premises, and the other half into the school fund in the county in which the act of trespass is committed. For the carrying out of the provisions of this section, the owner or legal occupant of the premises may arrest the trespasser upon his premises, taken in the act, without a warrant, and take him before the nearest justice of the peace for trial, or may have a warrant issued as in other cases of misdemeanor; and any natural barrier, as a river, lake, or other obstruction to the passage of stock, shall, for the purposes of this article, constitute an inclosure. [Cf. L. '75, p. 116, § 5; L. '77, p. 331, § 2; Cd. '81, § 1204; L. '83, p. 56, §§ 1-4; L. '91, p. 121, § 10; 2 H. P. C., § 73.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. For present law, see § 2665, supra, trespass after warning, not relating particularly to hunters.

See supra, §§ 2230, 2189, and notes, disposition of fines.

Query: As to whether, § 12, L. '88, p. 99, relating to trespassing hunters on inclosed lands, is repealed by this section?

§ 2826. (7141.) Willfully Removing Trees, etc., from Another's Land.

If any person shall willfully cut down, destroy, or injure any standing or growing tree upon the lands of another, or shall willfully take or remove from any such lands any timber or wood previously cut or severed from the same, or shall willfully dig, take, quarry, or remove from any such lands any mineral, earth, or stone, such person, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not less than one month nor more than one year, or by fine not less than fifty nor more than one thousand dollars. [L. '90, p. 126, § 5; 2 H. P. C., § 74.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2659, supra, partly covers this section. See note to § 2301.

Cited in 32 Wash. 652.

§ 2827. (7142.) Willfully Taking Fruit, etc., from Another's Land.

If any person shall willfully enter upon the garden, orchard, or other improved land of another, or in his possession, with intent to cut, take, carry away, destroy, or injure the trees, grain, grass, hay, fruit or vegetable products there growing and being, such person, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not less than one nor more than six months, or by fine not less than five nor more than fifty dollars. [L. '90, p. 125, § 3; 2 H. P. C., § 75.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2659, supra, partly covers this section. See note to § 2301.

§ 2828. (7144.) Injuring Trees on Streets or Highways.

Every person who shall cut down, girdle, destroy, or injure any tree, timber, or shrub on the street or highway in front of any person's house, village, town, or city lot, or on the commons or public grounds of any village, town, or city, or on the street or highway in front thereof, without lawful authority, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not more than twenty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. [L. '91, p. 122, § 11; 2 H. P. C., § 77.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2659, supra, partly covers this section. See note to § 2301.

§ 2829. Injuring Trees and Shrubs in Public Places.

Whoever digs up, cuts down, girdles, defaces, or otherwise injures or mars any tree or shrub on any public highway, bicycle path, park or any public grounds used as a place of public resort, unless the same is deemed an obstruction by the road supervisor or person lawfully in charge of such highway, bicycle path, park or public grounds and removed under his or their direction, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and be fined in any sum not less than five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars and the costs of prosecution. [L. '01, p. 301, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present laws, §§ 2656, 2659, partly cover this section. See note to § 2301.

§ 2830. (7145.) Malicious Injury to Freehold.

If any person shall maliciously or wantonly cut down, destroy, or injure any bush, shrub, fruit, or other tree not his own, standing or growing for fruit, ornament, or other useful purpose, or shall willfully break the glass in or deface any building not his own, or shall willfully break down or destroy any fence or hedge belonging to or inclosing land not his own, or shall willfully throw down, or open and leave down or open, any bars, gate, or fence, or hedge belonging to or inclosing land not his own, or shall maliciously or wantonly sever from the land of another any produce thereof, such person, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not less than three months nor more than one year, or by fine not less than ten dollars nor more than five hundred dollars. [L. '90, p. 127, § 10; 2 H. P. C., § 78.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, § 2659, supra, partly covers this section. See note to § 2301.

See § 2703, supra, robbing sluice-boxes, etc.

§ 2831. (7146a.) Destruction, etc., of Monuments, etc., on Mining Claims Prohibited.

Any person who shall willfully and maliciously deface, remove, injure or destroy any location stake, side post, corner post, landmark or monument, or any other land boundary monument, the same having been erected or implanted for the purpose of designating the location, boundary or name of any mining claim, lode or vein of mineral, or for posting the name of the discoverer, locator or owner or date of discovery thereon; or any person who shall so deface, obliterate, remove or destroy any notice having been placed or posted upon any mining claim for the purpose of marking or identifying the same, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year: Provided, however, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to abandoned mining claims. [L. '97, p. 221, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. The subject matter of this section may be covered by § 2656. See note to § 2301.

§ 2832. (7147.) Malicious Injury to Railway Structure, etc.

Any person or persons who shall purposely and maliciously break down, destroy, or injure any fence, gate, signboard, milepost, car, or other useful structure upon the line of any railroad, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding two hundred dollars, or be imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by both fine and imprisonment. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 848; L. '91, p. 122, § 12; 2 H. P. C., § 80.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present laws, §§ 2656, 2659, partly cover this section. See note to § 2301.

§ 2833. (7154.) Willful Injury to Bridges, etc.

Every person who shall willfully and maliciously cut, break, injure, or destroy any bridge, mill dam, canal, flume, aqueduct, reservoir, or other structure erected to create hydraulic power, or to conduct water for mining or agricultural purposes, or to conduct water for the purpose of floating or carrying therein logs, timber, earth, or sand, or any embankment necessary to the same, or either of them, or shall willfully or maliciously make, or cause to be made, any aperture in such dam, canal, flume, aqueduct, reservoir, embankment, or structure, with intent to injure or destroy the same, shall, on conviction thereof, be fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars, or be imprisoned in the penitentiary at hard labor not more than two years, or both such fine and imprisonment. [Cf. L. '62, p. 30, § 1; Cd. '81, § 842; L. '91, p. 228, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 85.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present laws, §§ 2656, 2658, supra, partly cover this section.

Cited in 44 Wash. 603.

§ 2834. (7155.) Malicious Injury to Vessels, Logs, etc.

If any person maliciously cut away, let loose, injure, or destroy any boom or raft of wood, logs, or lumber, or any boat or vessel fastened to any place, of which he is not the owner or legal possessor, he shall be punished by fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, and imprisonment in the county jail not more than one year, and shall also forfeit to the use of the person so injured double the amount of damages by him thereby sustained, to be recovered in an action at law. [Cd. '81, § 843; 2 H. P. C., § 86.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Compare § 2658.

This section seems only partly covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301, supra.

§ 2835. (7156.) Destruction of Dams, Dikes, etc.

It shall be unlawful to cut or damage, break or destroy, any dike or dam erected or maintained in this state for the protection of lands from overflow; and any person or persons so offending, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined any sum not exceeding three hundred dollars for each and every offense, which fine shall be paid over to the school fund of the county wherein the offense is committed. The person or persons so offending shall not, by the provisions of this section, nor by any judgment under this section, be exempted from any suit for damages brought by any person or persons injured by the cutting, breaking, damaging, or destroying of such dike or dam. [L. '91, p. 123, § 16; 2 H. P. C., § 88.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2656, 2658, supra. See note to § 2825, disposition of fines.

§ 2336. (7160.) Unlawful to Tap or Interfere with Electric Wires, etc.—
Penalty.

It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to tap, or make connection with, or take currents of electricity from, in any unauthorized manner whatsoever, any electric wire or cable, used by any person, town, city or electric company in this state for conducting electric currents over the same, or to tamper with any meter, or meters, of such person, town, city or company, or use their electricity, or diminish by any means or contrivance whatsoever, the free passage of any current or currents of electricity over any such wires or cables or through such meters, or to agree with or conspire with any other person or persons to do any of the aforementioned unlawful acts, and any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten dollars, nor more than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not more than ninety days or both such fine and imprisonment. [L. '97, p. 54, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2657, supra.

§ 2837. Unlawful to Injure or Remove Electric Wires.

It shall be unlawful for anyone within the state of Washington to willfully or wantonly and without the consent of the owner, take down, remove, injure, obstruct, displace or destroy any line erected or constructed for the transmission of electrical current, or any poles, wires, conduits, cables, insulators, or any support upon which wires or cables may be suspended, or any part of any such line or appurtenances or apparatus connected therewith; or to sever any wire or cable thereof, or in any manner to interrupt the transmission of the electrical current over and along any such line; or to take down, remove, injure or destroy any house, shop, building or other structure or machinery connected with or necessary to the use of any line erected, or constructed for the transmission of electrical current. [L. '99, p. 180, § 1; L. '03, p. 198, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2657, supra.

§ 2838. Unlawful to Injure Electric Wire by Fires.

It shall be unlawful for any person within the state of Washington to willfully or wantonly set any fire that shall result in the destruction or injury of any line erected or constructed for the transmission of electrical current or any poles, conduits, wires, cables, insulators, or any support upon which wires or cables may be suspended, or any part of any such line, or appurtenances or apparatus connected therewith, or any house, shop, building or other structure or machinery connected with or necessary to the use of any line erected or constructed for the transmission of electrical current, or to set any fire that shall in any manner interrupt the transmission of electrical current over and along any such line. [L. '99, p. 180, § 2; L. '03, p. 199, § 2.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. This section may be covered by § 2657, supra.

§ 2839. Penalty.

Any person or persons violating any of the provisions of sections 2837 and 2838, shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court. [L. '99, p. 181, § 3; L. '03, p. 199, § 3.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See last previous sections and notes.

§ 2840. Unlawful to Injure Booms.

Any person who shall willfully and maliciously break, cut away, injure or destroy any boom lawfully established and being in any of the waters of this state, or make any cut or break in the same with intent to destroy the same, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for any term not exceeding five years. [L. '01, p. 22, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2658, supra.

§ 2841. Unlawful to Destroy Marks and Brands on Logs.

Every person who shall cut out, alter or destroy any mark or brand made or caused to have been made by the owner upon any log, spar, pile, boom stick, shingle bolt or other timber of value, lying or being in any of the waters of this state, or upon the beach or bank adjacent to such waters, without the consent of the owner thereof, shall, on conviction, be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail of not more than six months or by both such fine and imprisonment. [L. '01, p. 40, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2594, supra.

§ 2842. Malicious Injury or Destruction of Personal Property.

Any person who shall unlawfully or maliciously injure or destroy the personal property of another shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding $100, or shall be committed to the county jail for a period not exceeding thirty (30) days. [L. '03, p. 13, § 1.]

Injury to improvements of settlers on unsurveyed land: See § 2704, supra.

For the protection of property and records on public land: See §§ 2705-2707, supra.

Posting advertisements on public property: See § 2708, supra.

To prevent removal of mortgaged property: See § 2709, supra.
 Relating to sign-boards and mile-posts: See §§ 2716, 2717, supra.
 Poisoning honey bees: See § 3265, infra.
 Malicious injury to animals: See § 3289, infra.
 Interference with headgates or measuring-boxes: See § 6396, infra.

§ 2843. (7165.) Obtaining Money, etc., Under False Pretenses.

If any person, with intent to defraud another, shall designedly, by color of any false token or writing, or any false pretense, obtain from any person any money, transfer, note, bond, or receipt, or thing of value, such person shall, upon conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than five years nor less than one year, or imprisoned in the county jail for any length of time not exceeding one year. [L. '54, p. 85, § 54; Cd. '81, § 853; 2 H. P. C., § 234.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2601, supra.

See supra, § 2805, obtaining property under false pretenses.

False pretenses in selling mines, false assays, etc.: See §§ 2711-2714, supra.

Fraudulent sale of fruit or ornamental trees: See § 3123, infra.

Deception as to incorporation of bank: See § 3340, infra.

Cited in 11 Wash. 517; 14 Wash. 406, 665; 33 Wash. 329; 34 Wash. 600; 49 Wash. 32.

False pretenses: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1243, §§ 1-5; State v. Mendenhall, 24 Wash. 12; State v. Phelps, 41 Wash. 470; State v. Knowlton, 11 Wash. 512; State v. Riddell, 33 Wash. 324.

The statute punishing the obtaining of property "by color of any false token or writing, or any false pretense," does not restrict the false pretense to one in the nature of a "token or writing": State v. Reiff, 14 Wash. 664, following State v. White, 12 Wash. 417.

A lady's beaver shoulder cape is the subject of larceny by false pretense under this section, classifying as such subjects "any money, transfer, note, bond, or receipt, or thing of value": State v. Reiff, supra.

An information charging the obtaining of money under false pretenses, by presenting wildcat scalps to a county auditor, when the accused had not killed the wildcats in said county or within a period of three months previous thereto, under this section, is not demurrable and the facts are not inapplicable to the crime charged by reason of Laws of 1905, page 122, making it a misdemeanor to offer scalps of wildcats that were killed out of the state or prior to the passage of the act; since the information does not show that the wildcats were killed out of the state or prior to the act: State v. King, 50 Wash. 31.

§ 2844. (7167.) Use of False Weights or Measures.

Every person who uses any weight or measure, knowing it to be false, by which use another is defrauded or otherwise injured, is guilty of a misdemeanor. A false weight or measure is one which does not conform to the standard established by the laws of the United States. [Cf. L. '86, p. 122, §§ 1-3; L. '91, p. 129, § 33; 2 H. P. C., § 236.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2637, supra.

§ 2845. (7168.) Failure to Give Full Weight.

In all sales of coal, hay, and other commodities usually sold by the ton or fractional part thereof, the seller must give to the purchaser full weight at the rate of two thousand pounds to the ton; and in all sales of articles which are sold in commerce or trade by avoirdupois weight, the seller must give to the purchaser full weight, at the rate of sixteen ounces to the pound. Any person violating this section is guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '86, p. 122, § 2; 2 H. P. C., § 237.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2637, supra.

§ 2846. (7175.) Misrepresentation of Pedigree of Animals Kept for Breeding.

Any person who is the owner, agent, or keeper, or in any way interested in the ownership or the keeping, of any stallion, bull, ram, or boar, that may be kept for the use of the general public for pay, and who shall knowingly and willfully misrepresent the pedigree or blood of any such stallion, bull, ram, or boar, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding one hundred dollars, and shall be liable for all damages that may be sustained by reason of such misrepresentation. [Cf. L. '88, p. 123, § 1; L. '91, p. 130, § 35; 2 H. P. C., § 243.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Compare § 2593.

This and the next section hardly seem covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301, supra.

§ 2847. (7176.) Misrepresenting Pedigree of Animal in Making Sale.

It shall hereafter be unlawful for any person to make, or cause to be made, and furnish or deliver, or use any false or fraudulent pedigree of any horse, cow, sheep or other domestic animal for the purpose of enhancing the value of such animal. Any person who shall by false statement or misrepresentation concerning pedigree, sell to another person any domestic animal not of the breeding or pedigree as represented, shall be liable to the purchaser of such animal in a civil action for double the price received for such animal. [Cf. L. '88, p. 123, § 2; 2 H. P. C., § 244; L. '95, p. 351, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Compare § 2593. See note to last section.

§ 2848. Failure to Pay Hotel or Board Bill.

A person who obtains any food, lodging or accommodation at a hotel, boarding-house, restaurant, or lodging-house, without paying therefor, with intent to defraud the proprietor or manager thereof, or who obtains credit at a hotel, boarding-house, or lodging-house by the use of a false pretense, or who after obtaining board, lodging or accommodations at a hotel, boarding-house, restaurant, or lodging-house, absconds or surreptitiously removes his baggage therefrom without paying for his food, lodging or accommodation, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail not less than ten nor more than thirty days. [L. '99, p. 38, § 1; L. '03, p. 244, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2625, supra.

Cited in 52 Wash. 313.

This section does not violate Const., Art. I, § 17, prohibiting imprisonment for debt except in the case of absconding debtors, since the imprisonment is for the fraud committed: In re Milecke, 52 Wash. 312.

§ 2849. Proof of Fraudulent Intent.

Proof that lodging, food or other accommodation was obtained by false pretense or by false or fictitious sham or pretense of any baggage or other property, or that the person refused or neglected to pay for such food, lodging or other accommodation on demand, or that he gave in payment for such food, lodging or other accommodation bank check or draft on which payment was refused, or that he absconded without paying or offering to pay for such food, lodging or other accommodation, or that he surreptitiously removed or attempted to remove his baggage shall be prima facie proof of the fraudulent intent mentioned in section 2848. [L. '03, p. 244. § 2.]

This section would fall with the repeal of § 2848, unless § 2625 is construed as a continuation of the earlier law, under § 2300.

Cited in 52 Wash. 314, 317.

This section is not unconstitutional, as and order of proof: In re Milecke, 52 Wash. the legislature may prescribe the quantum 312.

§ 2850. Drawing Check or Draft, Without Funds, a Felony.

Any person who shall with intent to defraud, make, or draw, or utter, or deliver to another person any check, or draft, on a bank or other depository for the payment of money, knowing at the time of such drawing, or delivery, that he has not sufficient funds in, or credit with said bank or depository, to meet said check, in full upon its presentation, shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not more than five years or less than one year, or imprisonment in the county jail for any length of time not exceeding one year. The word "credit" as used herein shall be construed to mean an arrangement or understanding with the bank for the payment of such check or draft. [L. '05, p. 78, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Compare present law, § 2601, supra, defining larceny, which covers this section in part only. See note to § 2301.

CHAPTER V.

OFFENSES AGAINST PUBLIC JUSTICE AND OFFICIAL DUTY.

§ 2851. (7185.) Perjury, Defined.

Every person who, having taken an oath that he will testify, declare, depose, or certify truly before any competent tribunal, officer, or person in any of the cases in which such an oath may by law be administered, willfully and contrary to such oath, states as true any material matter which he knows to be false, is guilty of perjury. [L. '54, p. 88, §§ 69, 70; Cd. '81, § 867; 2 H. P. C., § 102.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2351, 2353, supra. Compare § 6648.

See notes to § 2065.

See supra, § 1269, perjury, defined.

Cited in 21 Wash. 271; 43 Wash. 127.

Under our statute, conviction for perjury can only take place for making a false affidavit when it is sworn to for the purpose of being used in some action or proceeding wherein by law it could be material, or by using or consenting to its use after being sworn to, in such action or proceeding: State v. Smith, 3 Wash. 14.

§ 2852. (7186.) Term "Oath" Includes Affirmation.

The term "oath," as used in the last section, includes an affirmation and every other mode authorized by law of attesting the truth of that which is stated. [Cd. '81, § 868; 2 H. P. C., § 103.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2354, supra.

§ 2853. (7187.) Irregularly Administered Oath No Defense.

It is no defense to a prosecution for perjury that the oath was administered or taken in any irregular manner. [Cd. '81, § 869; 2 H. P. C., § 104.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2355, supra.

§ 2854. (7188.) Incompetent Testimony No Defense.

It is no defense to a prosecution for perjury that the accused was not competent to give the testimony, deposition, or certificate of which falsehood is alleged. It is sufficient that he did give such testimony or make such deposition or certificate. [Cd. '81, § 870; 2 H. P. C., § 105.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2355, supra.

§ 2855. (7189.) Ignorance No Defense, When.

It is no defense to a prosecution for perjury that the accused did not know the materiality of the false statement made by him, or that it did not in fact affect the proceeding in or for which it was made. It is sufficient that it was material, and might have been used to affect such proceeding. [Cd. '81, § 871; 2 H. P. C., § 106.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2352, supra.

§ 2856. (7190.) Deposition or Certificate Complete, When.

The making of a deposition or certificate is deemed to be complete, within the provisions of this chapter, from the time when it is delivered by the accused to any other person, with the intent that it be uttered or published as true. [Cd. '81, § 872; 2 H. P. C., § 107.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2356, supra.

§ 2857. (7191.) False Statement, Defined.

An unqualified statement of that which one does not know to be true is equivalent to a statement of that which one knows to be false. [Cd. '81, § 873; 2 H. P. C., § 108.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2357, supra.

§ 2858. (7192.) Penalty for Perjury and Subornation of.

Every person convicted of the crime of perjury committed on the trial of or proceedings in a criminal action for a crime punishable with death or imprisonment for life shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not less than five nor more than twenty years; every person convicted of the crime of perjury committed in any proceeding in a court of justice, other than such criminal action, shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not less than three nor more than ten years; and every person convicted of the crime of perjury committed otherwise than in a proceeding before a court of justice, or convicted of the crime of subornation of perjury, however committed, shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not less than two nor more than five years. [L. '69, p. 216, § 76; Cd. '81, § 874, 2 H. P. C., § 109.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2351, 2353, supra. See supra, § 2851, notes, definition of perjury.

§ 2859. (7193.) Oath of Office Excepted.

So much of an oath of office as relates to the future performance of official duties is not such an oath as is intended by sections 2851 and 2852. [Cd. '81, § 875; 2 H. P. C., § 110.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

§ 2860. (7194.) Subornation of Perjury, Defined.

Every person who willfully procures another person to commit perjury is guilty of subornation of perjury, and is punishable in the same manner as he would be if personally guilty of the perjury so procured. [L. '54, p. 89, §§ 71, 72; Cd. '81, § 876; 2 H. P. C., § 111.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2360, supra.

See supra, § 2851, notes, definition of perjury.

See supra, § 2072, sufficiency of indictment, etc., for.

§ 2861. (7195.) Attempt to Suborn Perjury.

If any person shall endeavor to procure or incite another to commit the crime of perjury, though no perjury be committed, such person, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than three years. [L. '54, p. 89, §§ 71, 72; L. '69, p. 216, § 77; Cd. '81, § 877; 2 H. P. C., § 112.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2361, supra.

See supra, § 2851, and notes, definition of perjury.

See infra, § 2986, attempts to commit crime.

§ 2862. (7196.) Soliciting to be Placed on Jury List.

Any person who shall ask or request any sheriff, constable, or other person or persons whose duty it may be under the law to select or summon any jury or juror to be selected or put upon the jury, or shall procure or offer to procure for himself or for another person, or place upon any jury, or shall seek to have himself or another placed upon the list of jurors, that is now required by law to be made, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding three hundred dollars. [L. '88, p. 114, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 113.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2328, supra.

§ 2863. (7197.) Misdemeanor to Select Soliciting Juror.

Any sheriff, constable, or other person whose duty it may be under the law to select or summon a jury who shall select, summon, or place upon any jury any person whom he has been asked or requested to select or summon shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding three hundred dollars. [L. '88, p. 114, § 2; 2 H. P. C., § 114.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2327, supra.

§ 2864. (7198.) Failure to Attend as Witness.

If any person who shall have been summoned as a witness on the part of the prosecution shall fail or refuse to attend at the time fixed for trial, without a reasonable excuse, the person so failing or neglecting shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than twenty-five days nor more than three months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. [L. '77, p. 99, § 9; Cd. '81, § 1261; 2 H. P. C., §§ 115, 147.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

See supra, § 2148, general attendance of witnesses.

This section seems not covered by the act of 1909. See notes to §§ 2352, 2301, supra.

§ 2865. (7199.) Fraud in Drawing Jurors.

If any clerk of a superior court, or any other person, shall be guilty of any fraud, either by practicing on a jury-box previously to a draft, or in changing a juror, or any way in drawing of jurors, he shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars. [L. '54, p. 94, § 107; Cd. '81, § 922; 2 H. P. C., § 116.]

§§ 2866-2869 OFFENSES AND PUNISHMENTS UNDER FORMER LAWS. [TITLE XV

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2327, supra.

§ 2866. (7200.) Compounding or Concealing Crime.

If any person, having knowledge of the commission of any crime, shall take any money, gratuity, reward, or any engagement therefor, upon an agreement or understanding, express or implied, to compound or conceal such crime, or not to prosecute therefor [or not give evidence thereof], he shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail for any length of time not exceeding one year, or be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars. [L. '54, p. 95, § 112; Cd. '81, § 934; 2 H. P. C., § 117.]

The words in brackets were incorporated in the Laws of 1854, but omitted from the Code of 1881.

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2367, supra.

See supra, §§ 2126, 2127, 2129, compromising crime.

§ 2867. (7201.) Judicial Officer Receiving Bribe.

If any judge, justice of the peace, juror, commissioner, auditor, referee, arbitrator, or person summoned as a juror, shall accept, receive, or agree for in any way any bribe, present, or reward to him offered for the purpose of obtaining or influencing his opinion, judgment, verdict, sentence, report, or award, in any matter or cause depending or to be tried before him alone, or before him with others, he shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than seven years nor less than one year, or be imprisoned in the county jail not more than one year nor less than one month, and be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars. [L. '54, p. 89, § 73; Cd. '81, § 878; 2 H. P. C., § 172.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2320, 2321, 2322, supra.

§ 2368. (7202.) Executive or Legislative Officer Receiving Bribe.

If any executive, judicial, or ministerial officer, or member of the legislature, shall accept or receive [or agree to accept or receive] in any way any bribe, present, or reward to him offered, for the purpose of inducing or influencing such officer to appoint any person to office, to give any vote or to execute any of the powers in him vested, or perform any duty of him required with partiality or favor, or otherwise than is required by law, or in consideration that such officer has appointed any person to any office, or voted, or exercised any power in him vested, or performed any duty of him required with partiality or favor, or otherwise contrary to law, he shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than ten years nor less than one year, or in the county jail not more than one year nor less than three months, and be fined in any sum not exceeding five thousand dollars. [L. '54, p. 89, § 74; Cd. '81, § 879; 2 H. P. C., § 173.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2320, 2321, 2325, supra.

An offer to bribe an officer to move for reconsideration of a resolution passed by the state board of education adopting a uniform system of school books is subject to indictment under this section: State v. Womack, 4 Wash. 19.

§ 2869. (7203.) Bribing or Attempting to Bribe Public Officer.

Every person who shall bribe or attempt to bribe or offer any present, bribe, or reward to any judge, justice of the peace, juror, commissioner, referee, auditor, arbitrator, or person summoned as a juror, or to any executive, judicial, or ministerial officer, or member of the legislature, for the purpose of influencing him in the exercise of any of the powers in him vested for the performance of any duty of him required, shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail any length of time not exceeding one year, and fined in any sum not exceeding two thousand dollars, or fined only. [L. '54, p. 89, § 75; Cd. '81, § 880; L. '91, p. 125, § 23; 2 H. P. C., § 174.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2320, 2321, supra. See notes to § 2065, requisites of indictment.

Our statute has not attempted to define bribery; it merely asserts that certain acts constitute bribery, fixing the penalty therefor, and has not abrogated the common-law crime of bribery: State v. Womack, 4 Wash. 19, 25. See, also, Armstrong v. Van De Vanter, 21 Wash. 682.

§ 2870. (7204.) Assisting Prisoner to Escape.

Every person who shall convey into any penitentiary, jail, or house of correction, or house of reformation, any disguise, or any instrument, tool, weapon, or other thing adapted to or useful in aiding any prisoner there lawfully committed or detained to make escape, or shall, by any means whatever, aid or assist any such prisoner in his endeavor to escape therefrom, whether such escape be attempted or effected, or not; and every person who shall aid or assist any prisoner in escaping, or in attempting to escape from any officer or person who shall have the lawful custody of such prisoner, or who shall forcibly rescue any prisoner from lawful custody of such persons, shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than four years nor less than one year, or imprisoned in the county jail any length of time not exceeding one year, and be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars. [L. '54, p. 89, § 76; Cd. '81, § 881; 2 H. P. C., § 175.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2343, supra.

§ 2871. (7205.) Officer Suffering Prisoner to Escape.

If any jailer or other officer shall voluntarily suffer any prisoner in his custody, charged with or convicted of any criminal offense, to escape, he shall suffer, unless the prisoner so escaping be charged with or convicted of any capital offense, the like punishment and penalties as the prisoner so suffered to escape was sentenced to, or would be liable to suffer upon conviction for the crime or offense wherewith he stood charged; and if the prisoner was charged with or convicted of a capital offense, he shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than twenty years nor less than five years. [L. '54, p. 90, § 77; Cd. '81, § 882; 2 H. P. C., § 176.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2344, supra.

§ 2872. (7206.) Refusal to Receive or Negligently Allowing Escape.

If any jailer or other officer shall, through negligence, suffer any prisoner in his custody, upon conviction or upon any criminal charge, to escape, or shall willfully refuse to receive into his custody any prisoner lawfully committed thereto, on any criminal charge or conviction, or on any lawful process whatever, he shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail not more than two years, and be fined not more than five hundred nor less than one hundred dollars, or fined only. [L. '54, p. 90, § 78; Cd. '81, § 883; 2 H. P. C., § 177.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2344, 2345, 2364, supra.

§ 2873. (7207.) Jail Breaking.

If any person confined in any county jail upon any conviction for a criminal offense break such jail and escape therefrom, he shall be imprisoned in such prison not exceeding one year, to commence from and after the expiration of the former sentence, and fined not exceeding three hundred dollars. [Cd. '81, § 884; 2 H. P. C., § 178.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2342, supra.

§ 2874. (7208.) Resisting Officer.

If any person knowingly and willfully resist or oppose any officer of this state, or any other person authorized by law, in serving or attempting to execute any legal writ, rule, order, or process whatsoever, or shall knowingly and willfully resist any such officer in the discharge of his duties without such writ, rule, order, or process, he shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars nor less than fifty dollars, or by both fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court. [L. '54, p. 90, § 79; Cd. '81, § 885; 2 H. P. C., § 179.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2331, 2366, supra.

See State v. Brown, 6 Wash. 609.

An information for resisting an officer in serving or attempting to execute any legal writ, or process as defined by this section is defective where it simply charges unlawfully resisting an officer in the levying of an execution issued by a justice of the peace on a certain judgment; but the same must aver that the process was a "legal" process in the language of the statute, or set out its terms so as to show the essentials of a legal process: State v. Knapf, 50 Wash. 229.

In a prosecution for resisting an officer in the levying of an execution which was fair on its face, it is error to exclude evidence of an infirmity in the judgment and that the officer had notice thereof; since an officer is not protected by a writ fair on its face unless he acted in good faith, and would be a trespasser if he had notice of the invalidity of the writ: Id.

§ 2875. (7209.) Refusal to Assist Officer.

If any person, being lawfully required by any sheriff, deputy sheriff, coroner, constable, or other officer, willfully neglect or refuse to assist him in the execution of his office in any criminal case, or in any case of escape or rescue, he shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not more than six months, or by fine not more than one hundred dollars. See supra, § 2764, and notes, dispersion of unlawful assembly.

§ 2876. (7210.) Corrupt Refusal of Officer to Execute Process.

If any officer authorized to serve process shall willfully and corruptly refuse to execute any lawful process to him directed, and requiring him to apprehend or confine any person charged with or convicted of any offense, or shall willfully and corruptly omit or delay to execute such process, whereby such person shall escape and go at large, he shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail not more than one year, or be fined not exceeding three hundred nor less than fifty dollars. [L. '54, p. 90, § 86; Cd. '81, § 887; 2 H. P. C., § 181.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2365, supra.

§ 2877. (7211.) Willful Inhumanity to Prisoners.

If any sheriff, jailer, or other officer shall be guilty of willful inhumanity or oppression to any prisoner under his care or custody, he shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail not more than one year nor less than one day, and be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars. [L. '54, p. 90, § 81; Cd. '81, § 888; 2 H. P. C., § 182.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This section is not covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301, supra.

§ 2878. (7212.) Official Nonfeasance and Misfeasance.

If any officer shall willfully fail to perform any duty within the time and in the manner prescribed by law, or shall do any act which he shall be specially prohibited from doing by law, he shall, on conviction thereof, be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, to which may be added imprisonment in the county jail for any length of time not exceeding six months. § 2892. (7229.) Who Deemed Guilty of Incest.

Persons being within the degrees of consanguinity or affinity, within which marriages are prohibited by law, who intermarry with each other, or who commit fornication or adultery with each other, or who carnally know each other, shall be deemed guilty of the crime of incest, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison for any term not exceeding twenty years. [L. '95, p. 371, § 2.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2455, supra.

See notes to preceding section.

§ 2893. (7230.) Adultery, Defined.

Adultery is the sexual intercourse between a married person and one who is not such married person's husband or wife. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 944; 2 H. P. C., § 193; L. '95, p. 372, § 3.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2457, supra.

Cited in 39 Wash. 223; 48 Wash. 78, 79.

Solicitation to commit adultery is not indictable as an attempt to commit the crime: State v. Butler, 8 Wash. 194.

The repeal of § 192, 2 Hill's Penal Code, by the Laws of 1895, page 371, without any saving clause as to prior offenses or pending cases, operated as a bar to the prosecution of parties charged with adultery committed prior to the passage of the act: State v. Oliver, 12 Wash. 547.

Under this section, an unmarried man living in a state of adultery with a married woman is guilty of the offense, the statute applying to both parties: State v. Keith, 48 Wash. 77. See State v. Nelson, 39 Wash. 221.

§ 2894. (7231.) Living in a State of Adultery.

Every person who lives in a state of adultery, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison not exceeding five years. [L. '95, p. 372, § 4.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This section is not covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301.

Cited in 39 Wash. 223; 48 Wash. 697.

§ 2895. (7232.) Proof of Marriage.

A recorded certificate of marriage, or a certified copy thereof, there being no decree of divorce, proves the marriage of a person for the purposes of this act. [L. '95, p. 372, § 5.]

"Act" in this section refers to §§ 2891-2897.

This section was not repealed by the law of 1909, and is duplicated at § 2153, supra.

§ 2896. (7233.) Bigamy, Defined.

Every person having a husband or wife living, who marries any other person, except in the cases specified in the next section, is guilty of bigamy. [L. '95, p. 372, § 6.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2453, supra.

This section covers part of § 2898, infra.

§ 2897. (7234.) Exceptions to Last Section.

The last section does not extend,—

1. To any person by reason of any former marriage whose husband or wife by such marriage has been absent for five successive years, without being known to such person within that time to be living; nor,

2. To any person by reason of any former marriage which has been pronounced void, annulled or dissolved by the judgment of a competent court. [L. '95, p. 372, § 7.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2453, supra.

Compare § 195 of 2 Hill's P. C., which appears to be repealed.

§ 2898. (7235.) Punishment for Bigamy.

Any person guilty of bigamy shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not more than five years, or by fine not exceeding five hundred dollars and imprisonment in the county jail not more than one year. [L. '54, p. 96, § 116; Cd. '81, § 945; 2 H. P. C., § 194.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2453, supra.
See supra, § 2896, bigamy defined, which repeals omitted portions of this section.

§ 2899. (7236.) Knowingly Marrying Husband or Wife of Another.

Every unmarried person who knowingly marries the husband or wife of another, when such husband or wife is guilty of bigamy thereby, shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding three years, or by fine not more than three hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year. [Cd. '81, § 947; 2 H. P. C., § 196.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2454, supra.

§ 2900. (7237.) Prohibiting Solicitation of Divorce Business—Penalty.

Whoever advertises, prints, publishes, distributes or circulates, or causes to be advertised, printed, published, distributed or circulated, any circular, pamphlet, card, hand bill, advertisement, printed paper, book, newspaper, or notice of any kind, offering to procure or obtain, or to aid in procuring or obtaining, any divorce, or the severance, dissolution or nullity of any marriage, or offering to engage or appear or act as attorney, counsel, or referee in any suit for alimony or divorce, or the severance, dissolution or nullity of any marriage, either in this state or elsewhere, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This section shall not apply to the printing or publishing of any notice or advertisement required or authorized by any law of this state. Any person convicted of the violation of the provisions of this section shall be punished by fine of not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than six months. [L. '97, pp. 7, 8, §§ 1, 2.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2463, supra.

§ 2901. (7238.) Unlawful Cohabitation—Indecent Exposure.

If any man or woman, not being married to each other, lewdly and viciously associate and cohabit together, or if any man or woman, married or unmarried, is guilty of open or gross lewdness, or designedly make any open and indecent or obscene exposure of his or her person, or of the person of another, every such person shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months, or by fine not exceeding two hundred dollars. [L. '54, p. 95, § 117; Cd. '81, § 948; 2 H. P. C., § 198.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2458, supra.

Cited in 39 Wash. 223; 48 Wash. 78, 697.

§ 2902. Conniving at Prostitution of Wife—Penalty.

Every man who by force, intimidation, threats, persuasion, promises, or any other means, places or leaves, or procures any other person or persons, to place or leave, his wife in a house of prostitution, or connives at, or consents or permits, the placing or leaving of his wife in a house of prostitution, or allows or permits her to remain therein, is guilty of a felony, and shall be punished, upon conviction thereof, by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than one year or more than ten years; and in all prosecutions under this section the wife shall be a competent witness against her husband. [L. '03, p. 230, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2440, supra.

§ 2903. Accepting Earnings of Prostitute, Soliciting Sexual Intercourse, etc.

Any male person [who lives with, or] who lives off of, in whole or in part, or accepts any of the earnings of a prostitute, or connives in or solicits or attempts to solicit any male person or persons to have sexual intercourse, or cohabit with a prostitute, or who shall invite, direct or solicit any person to go to a house of ill-fame for any immoral purpose; or any person who shall entice, decoy, place, take or receive any female child or person under the age of eighteen years, into any house of ill-fame or disorderly house, or any house, for the purpose of prostitution; or any person who, having in his or her custody or control such child, shall dispose of it to be so received or to be received in or for any obscene, indecent or immoral purpose, exhibition or practice, shall be deemed guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not less than one year nor more than five years, and fined in any sum not less than one thousand dollars nor more than five thousand dollars. [L. '03, p. 230, § 2.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2440, supra.

Void as to the bracketed words "who lives with," for defect in the title: State v. Poole, 42 Wash. 192.

§ 2904. (7239.) Keeping House of Ill-fame.

Every person who shall keep a house of ill-fame in this state, resorted to for the purposes of prostitution and lewdness, or who shall reside in such house for the purposes aforesaid, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in a common jail for a term not exceeding six months, or by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court. [L. '60, p. 296, § 1; Cd. '81, § 1210; 2 H. P. C., § 199.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

The subject matter of this and the next three sections is not covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301.

See infra, § 8319, houses of ill-fame declared nuisances.

See supra, § 2500, public nuisances defined.

See infra, § 2925, leasing premises for prostitution, etc.

§ 2905. (7240.) Lessee as Keeper, Effect on Lease.

Whenever the lessee of any house shall be convicted of the offense of keeping such house of ill-fame as aforesaid, the lease or contract for letting such house shall, at the option of the lessor, become void, and such lessor shall thereupon have the like remedy to recover the possession of such house as is provided against a tenant holding over after the termination of his lease. [L. '60, p. 296, § 2; Cd. '81, § 1211; 2 H. P. C., § 200.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to last section.

See infra, § 2925, letting premises for house of ill-fame, misdemeanor.

Doubted, whether the title to the act of 1909 is broad enough to authorize a repeal of civil remedies.

§ 2906. (7241.) Keeper may be Required to Give Bonds, When.

Every justice of the peace may, on the complaint of any citizen of the county, require sureties of the peace and good behavior from any person who shall be guilty of keeping or maintaining houses reputed to be houses of bawdry and ill-fame; and every person being so ordered to find sureties of the peace and good behavior, who shall neglect or refuse to comply with such order, may, by said justice, be committed to the common jail in the county where the offense was committed for a term not exceeding thirty days; and the bond required, as aforesaid, shall be filed with the county auditor of the county where the offense was committed, and from said order the accused shall have the right to appeal to the superior court in the county within which the offense was committed. [L. '60, p. 296, § 3; Cd. '81, § 1212; 2 H. P. C., § 201.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to § 2904.

§ 2907. (7242.) Keeper to Pay Costs, When.

When any person, prosecuted under the next preceding section, shall be required to procure sureties of the peace and good behavior, such person shall pay costs of prosecution; and on failure so to do, shall be imprisoned in the county jail, at the discretion of the court having cognizance thereof, until such costs be paid and satisfied. [L. '60, p. 296, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1213; 2 H. P. C., § 202.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to § 2904.

§ 2908. (7243.) Prize-fighting, etc.

Any person who, within this state, engages in, instigates, aids, or encourages, or does any act to further, a contention or fight, with or without weapons, between two or more persons, or a fight commonly called a sparring match, in which the combatants are provided with gloves, or who sends or publishes a challenge or acceptance to a challenge for such a contention, prize-fight, sparring match, with or without gloves, or carries or delivers such a challenge or acceptance, or trains or assists any person or persons in training or preparing for such contention, prize-fight, or sparring match, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for a term of not less than thirty days nor more than one year, and by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than one thousand dollars: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be so construed as to interfere with members of private clubs sparring or fencing for exercise among themselves. [Cf. L. '86, p. 82, § 1; L. '90, p. 109, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 203.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2556, supra.
See supra, § 2769, agreement to fight, an affray.

§ 2909. (7244.) Betting or Holding Stakes on Prize-fight, etc.

Any person who bets, stakes, or wagers money or other property upon the result of such a fight, encounter, or contention, or holds or undertakes to hold money or other property so staked or wagered, to be delivered to or for the benefit of the winner thereof, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for a term not less than thirty days nor more than one year, or by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, or by both fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court. [L. '90, p. 109, § 2; 2 H. P. C., § 204.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2556, supra.

§ 2910. (7245.) Duty of Officers as to Prize-fighting, etc.

It shall be the duty of every peace officer in this state to see that sections 2908 and 2909 are faithfully enforced, and when any such officer has reason to believe these sections are being violated, or are about to be violated, it shall be his duty forthwith to arrest any person or persons violating the provisions thereof, with or without warrant, and take him or them before the nearest committing magistrate of the county, to be dealt with according to law, and such peace officer may pursue and arrest any person or persons whom he has reason to believe have violated or are attempting to violate any of the provisions thereof, into any county in the state, and take such offenders into the county from whence they were pursued, before the proper magistrate. It shall be the duty of every judge on charging the grand jury to read these sections, and charge such grand jury to diligently inquire into any and all violations of the provisions of the same. [L. '86, p. 83, § 3; 2 H. P. C., § 207.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Compare §§ 2556, 2557, supra.

The subject matter of this section is not covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301.

§ 2911. (7246.) Demoralizing Literature, etc.—Circulating.

If any person shall import, print, publish, sell, lend, give away, distribute, or show, or have in his possession with intent to sell or give away, or to show or advertise, or otherwise offer for loan, gift, sale, or distribution, any obscene or indecent book, magazine, pamphlet, newspaper, story paper, writing paper, picture, engraving, drawing, or photograph, or if any person shall design, copy, draw, photograph, print, utter, publish, or otherwise prepare any of the articles mentioned in this section, or shall write or print, or cause to be written or printed, a notice of any kind, giving information, or shall give information stating when, where, and how, or of whom or by what means, any of the articles mentioned in this section could be purchased or obtained, or if any person sells, lends, gives away, or shows, or has in his possession with intent to sell or give away, or to show or advertise, or otherwise offers for loan, gift, sale, or distribution, to any minor child, any book, pamphlet, magazine, newspaper, or other printed paper devoted to the publication, or principally made up of, criminal news, police reports, or accounts of criminal deeds, or pictures and stories of deeds of bloodshed, lust, or crime, or if any person exhibits upon any street or highway, or in any other place within view, or which may be within the view, of any minor child, any book, magazine, pamphlet, newspaper, writing paper, picture, engraving, drawing, photograph, or other article coming within the description of the articles mentioned in this section, or any of them, or if any person, in any manner, hires, uses, or employs any minor child to sell or give away, or in any manner to distribute, or who, having the care, custody, or control of any minor child, permits such child to sell, give away, or in any other manner to distribute any book, magazine, pamphlet, newspaper, story paper, writing paper, picture, engraving, drawing, photograph, or other article or thing coming within the description of articles and matter mentioned in this section, or any of them, upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding three years, or by a fine not exceeding two thousand dollars: Provided, however, that if such obscene or indecent matter is circulated in any school or institution of learning, or in any charitable or reformatory institution, or in any jail or penitentiary, supported in whole or in part by public money or moneys raised by taxation, then the minimum of imprisonment shall not be less than thirty days, and in all such cases imprisonment shall follow conviction. [Cf. L. '54, p. 96, § 118; Cd. '81, § 850; L. '86, p. 122, § 1; L. '91, p. 126, § 24; 2 H. P. C., § 205.]

§ 2913. (7248.) Violation of Sepulcher.

If any person, not being lawfully authorized, shall willfully dig up, disinter, remove, or convey away any human body, or the remains thereof, or shall knowingly aid in such disinterment, removal, or conveying away, every such offender, and every person accessory thereto, either before or after the fact, shall, upon conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding one year, and be fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or fined only. [L. '54, p. 96, § 119; Cd. '81, § 951; 2 H. P. C., § 208.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2489, 2491, supra. See infra, §§ 8408, 8409, possession of dead bodies for purpose of dissection.

§ 2914. (7249.) Willful Injury to Cemetery.

Every person who shall willfully disfigure, injure, or remove any tombstone, monument, fence, tree, or shrubbery around or within any cemetery, or shall use such cemetery for another purpose than a burying ground, he shall, upon conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding six months, and be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, or shall be fined only. [L. '54, p. 97, § 120; Cd. '81, § 952; 2 H. P. C., § 209.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2656, supra.

See Laws of 1857, p. 28, § 4, although omitted in Code of 1881, believed to cover same matter as this section.

§ 2915. (7250.) Places of Amusement to be Closed on Sunday.

Any person who shall keep open any playhouse or theater, race-ground, cock-pit, or play at any game of chance for gain, or engage in any noisy amusements, or keep open any drinking or billiard saloon, or sell or dispose of any intoxicating liquors as a beverage, on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not less than thirty dollars nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars. All fines collected for violation of this section shall be paid into the common school fund. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1266; L. '91, p. 127, § 25; 2 H. P. C., § 210.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2494, supra.

§§ 2916-2918 OFFENSES AND PUNISHMENTS UNDER FORMER LAWS. [TITLE XV

Cited in 21 Wash. 350; 47 Wash. 538; 49 Wash. 461-463, 466.

An information charging the keeping open of a saloon is good without alleging the sale of liquors, the opening of the saloon being a distinct offense: State v. Binnard, 21 Wash. 349.

This section was intended to prevent the opening of theaters for the purpose of giving plays or performances, and not to opening for the purpose of religious or other quiet, legitimate, and orderly exercises; and hence is not unconstitutional as an abridgment of the rights of individuals: State v. Herald, 47 Wash. 538.

This section is not unconstitutional as unreasonable, arbitrary or unnecessary for the protection of public health, safety or morals, or objectionable as class legislation, but is valid as an appropriate exercise of the police power: In re Donnellan, 49 Wash. 460.

The title to this act, "An act defining certain crimes and declaring their punishment and amending the code of 1881 and certain statutes on the same subject," is sufficiently broad to include the re-enactment of a section of the code of 1881 providing a punishment for keeping open a theater on Sunday: Id.

§ 2916. (7251.) Business Houses to be Closed on Sunday.

It shall be unlawful for any person or persons of this state to open on Sunday for the purpose of trade or sale of goods, wares, and merchandise, any shop, store, or building, or place of business whatever: Provided, that this section shall apply to hotels only in so far as the sale of intoxicating liquors is concerned, and shall not apply to drug-stores, livery-stables, or undertakers. Any person or persons violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars. [Cf. Cd. '81, §§ 2067, 2068; L. '91, p. 127, § 26; 2 H. P. C., § 211.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2494, supra.

Cited in 7 Wash. 323; 21 Wash. 350, 351, 352; 28 Wash. 629; 49 Wash. 462, 463.

The statute does not purport to prohibit the transaction of all business, or to render ordinary business transactions void: Main v. Johnson, 7 Wash. 321, 323.

The provision of this section does not relate to the opening of barber-shops on Sunday, as the statute applies only to places where goods are offered for sale: State v. Krech, 10 Wash. 166. [Overruled.] State v. Nichols, 28 Wash. 628.

As to performance of contracts: See Nelson v. Pyramid Harbor P. Co., 4 Wash. 689; Go Fun v. Fidalgo Island Can. Co., 37 Wash. 238.

Sunday law: See State v. Binnard, 21 Wash. 349.

§ 2917. Barbering on Sunday—Penalty.

That it shall be unlawful for any person, persons or corporation to carry on the business of barbering on Sunday. Any person or persons violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of ten dollars or imprisonment in the county jail for five days for the first offense, and by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail for not less than ten days nor more than twenty-five days for the second and each subsequent offense. [L. '03, p. 68, §§ 1, 2.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2494, supra.

This act is constitutional: State v. Bergfeldt, 41 Wash. 234.

§ 2918. (7252.) Officers to Prosecute Violators of Sunday Laws.

It shall be the duty of any and all public officers of this state, knowing of any violation of this chapter, to make complaint, under oath, to the nearest justice of the peace of the county in which the offense was committed. Any public officer who shall refuse or willfully neglect to inform against and prosecute offenders against section 2916, supra, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, and the court before which such officer shall be tried shall declare the office or appointment held by such officer vacant for the remainder of his term. [Cf. Cd. '81, §§ 2069, 2070; L. '91, p. 127, § 27; 2 H. P. C., § 212.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

The subject matter of this section is not covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301, supra.

"Chapter" refers to chapter 148 of the Code of 1881 [§ 2916, supra].

§ 2919. (7253.) Unlawful for Children to Enter Saloons.

It shall be unlawful for any person or persons conducting, owning or maintaining any building, rooms, tents or places where spirituous, vinous, malt or other intoxicating liquors are sold or offered for sale, to permit any child or children, boy or girl, under the age of eighteen years, to enter the same to deliver any papers, messages, or for any other purpose whatsoever. [L. '95, p. 336, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2445, supra.

Prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors within prescribed limits of state educational institutions: See §§ 4742-4745, infra.

§ 2920. (7254.) Unlawful for Children to Enter Houses of Prostitution.

It shall be unlawful for any child or children, boy or girl, under the age of eighteen years, to enter into or become an inmate of any house or houses of prostitution, or room or rooms where the same is conducted, either as messengers, servants, or for any other purpose whatever, whether the same be under license or otherwise. [L. '95, p. 337, § 2.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2445, supra.

§ 2921. (7255.) Unlawful for Children to Enter Gambling-houses.

It shall be unlawful for any child or children, boy or girl, under the age of eighteen years, to enter in, as messenger or otherwise, any gambling-house or houses, room or rooms, where any games of chance are played, either for money or for any other consideration whatever. [L. '95, p. 337, § 3.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2445, supra.

§ 2922. (7256.) Liability of Owner or Operator of Such Houses.

Any person or persons owning, operating or maintaining any of the places enumerated in the three preceding sections of this chapter, permitting or allowing in any way whatever any child or children, boy or girl, under eighteen years of age, to enter the same, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not less than fifty dollars, nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding ninety days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. [L. '95, p. 337, § 4.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This section hardly seems covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301.

Compare § 2445, supra, which may be construed as a continuation of the three preceding sections, under § 2300.

Owner to display sign: See § 6284, infra.

Unlawful to employ female in saloon, etc.: See § 6285, infra.

§ 2923. (7259.) Sale of Lottery Tickets.

Every person who shall sell any lottery tickets, or shares in any lottery, for the division of property to be determined by chance, or shall make or draw any lottery or scheme for a division of property not authorized by law, on conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall apply to any lottery for charitable purposes. [L. '54, p. 93, § 98; Cd. '81, § 913; 2 H. P. C., § 139.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2464-2468, supra. Cited in 19 Wash. 40.

§ 2924. (7260.) Gambling.

Each and every person who shall deal, [play], or carry on, or open, or cause to be opened, or who shall conduct, either as owner, proprietor, employee, whether for hire or not, any game of faro, monte, roulette, rouge-et-noir, lansquenet, rondo, vingt-un (or twenty-one), poker, draw poker, brag, bluff, thaw, tan, or any banking or other game played with cards, dice, or any other device, whether the same be played for money, checks, credits, or any other representative of value, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars, and shall be imprisoned in the county jail until such fine and costs are paid: Provided, that such persons so convicted shall be imprisoned one day for every two dollars of such fine and costs: And provided further, that such imprisonment shall not exceed one year: And still further provided, that anyone who shall carry on any chuck-a-luck, bunko, strap, sling, panel-house, or other swindling game shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not exceeding five years for such offense. [Cf. L. '54, p. 93, § 99; L. '79, § 1; Cd. '81, § 1253; 2 H. P. C., § 140.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2469, 2470, supra. The word "play" was contained in the act of 1879.

See note to § 2065, supra, sufficiency of indictment, etc.

See notes to § 2152, evidence, etc.

See notes to § 2158, instructions, etc.

See § 2931, infra, conducting gambling resort.

Cited in 9 Wash. 17; 32 Wash. 472, 474; 49 Wash. 300.

The gravamen of this offense is the conducting of the game as owner, and it is unnecessary to name in the charge the names of the persons who participated in the game: State v. Wilson, 9 Wash. 16, 19; Foster v. Territory, 1 Wash. 411.

This act was treated as impliedly repealed by § 2931, infra, covering most of this section, in In re Dietrick, 32 Wash. 471; but that point was clearly obiter as to the offense of "dealing" or "playing" covered by this section; and this section has since been treated as still in force, in part: See cases, infra.

This section is not limited to the conducting of public games, but includes games secretly carried on from which the public is excluded: State v. Preston, 49 Wash. 298.

Under this section, "each and every person" is prohibited from gaming and it is not necessary to allege the capacity in which the game was conducted: Id.

§ 2925. (7261.) Leasing Premises for Gaming or Prostitution.

Every person who shall let or rent any room or building for a gaming-house or house of ill-fame, or for rent or hire shall permit to be dealt or carried on upon his premises any game prohibited by the last preceding section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding one hundred dollars. [Cf. L. '73, p. 206, § 111; Cd. '81, §§ 915, 1256; L. '91, p. 124, § 20; 2 H. P. C., § 141.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. As to gambling, compare § 2474.

The subject matter of this act, as far as prostitution is concerned, is not covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301.

See supra, § 2904 et seq., keeping houses of ill-fame.

Recovery of money lost at gaming: See § 5315, infra.

Lease for gaming premises, how terminated: See § 5316, infra.

§ 2926. (7264.) Unlawful to Permit Gaming on One's Premises.

Any person who shall suffer or permit any of the acts or things forbidden by or made punishable by this title, to be done or carried on in any house, room, or shop, or other building whatsoever, or any boat, booth, garden, or other place of which he is the owner, or in the possession of which he is entitled, under sections 2924 and 2925, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars, and be imprisoned in the county jail until such fine is paid. [Cf. L. '54, p. 93, § 100; L. '79, p. 98, § 6; Cd. '81, § 1258; 2 H. P. C., § 144.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2474, supra.

"This title" includes §§ 1253-1262, both inclusive, of the Code of 1881, as amended by §§ 20, 21, of the act of March 2, 1891, which sections are the same as §§ 2924-2929.

As § 2924 and this section are sufficiently explicit to enable the court, with reasonable certainty, to determine what the legislature intended and as they describe the offense of dealing faro, or permitting the same to be done on one's premises, with sufficient certainty, they cannot be held void for uncertainty and ambiguity: Foster v. Territory, 1 Wash. 411.

§ 2927. (7265.) Duty of Officers to Inform and Prosecute.

It shall be the duty of each prosecuting attorney, sheriff, constable, city or town marshal, or public officer, to inform against and diligently prosecute any and all persons whom they shall have reasonable cause to believe guilty of a violation of the provisions of this title. [L. '79, p. 98, § 7; Cd. '81, § 1259; 2 H. P. C., § 145.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This and the next four sections are not covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301, supra.

See infra, § 3967.

See note to § 2926.

See supra, §§ 2885-2887, duty of officers and penalty for neglect.

§ 2928. (7266.) Penalty for Failure to Inform and Prosecute.

Any officer named in the preceding section, who shall refuse or willfully neglect to inform against and prosecute offenders against this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars, and the court before which such officer shall be tried shall declare the office, or appointment held by such officer, vacant for the balance of his term. [L. '79, p. 98, § 8; Cd. '81, § 1260; 2 H. P. C., § 146.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to § 2927.

Note, etc., for gambling debt void—Exception, see § 5317, infra.

See note to § 2926.

See supra, § 2887, vacation of office for failure to enforce certain laws.

§ 2929. (7268.) Innocent Games for Pastime Permitted.

No person shall be deemed guilty of gambling who shall play at any game of chance or skill for amusement or pastime only, and not for gain to himself or another. [Cf. L. '79, p. 99, § 11; Cd. '81, § 1262; 2 H. P. C., § 149.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to § 2927.

§ 2930. (7269.) Penalty for Gambling with Indian—Duty of Officers.

Every white man, negro, half-breed Indian, kanaka, or Chinaman who shall play at any game of cards or any game of chance with any Indian, for fun, pleasure, luck, money, or anything of value whatever, or for anything whatever, and every white man, negro, half-breed Indian, kanaka, or Chinaman who shall run horses on a wager of any kind, or for pastime, with an Indian, shall be subject, on conviction thereof, for each and every offense, to a fine of not less than fifty dollars and not exceeding five hundred dollars, or to imprisonment not exceeding six months, or to both such fine and imprisonment; and it is hereby made the duty of any prosecuting attorney having knowledge of the violation of this section to prosecute the offender, and of every sheriff or constable having such knowledge to report the same to a justice of the peace in the county in which such offense was committed, or to the prosecuting attorney or grand jury for such county. [Cf. L. '77, p. 198, § 1; Cd. '81, § 914; L. '91, p. 125, § 22; 2 H. P. C., § 150.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to § 2927.
See supra, § 2924, gambling.

§ 2931. Maintaining of Gambling Resorts.

Any person who shall conduct, carry on, open, or cause to be opened, either as owner, proprietor, employee, or assistant, or in any manner whatever, whether for hire or not, any game of faro, monte, roulette, rouge et noir, lansquenette, rondo, vingt-un (or twenty-one), poker, draw-poker, brag, bluff, thaw, tan, or any banking or other game played with cards, dice or any other device, or any slot machine, or other gambling device, whether the same be played or operated for money, checks, credits, or any other representative or thing of value, in any house, room, shop, or other building whatsoever, boat, booth, garden or other place, where persons resort for the purpose of playing, dealing or operating any such game, machine or device, shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary for the period of not less than one nor more than three years. [L. '03, p. 63, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2469, supra.
See § 2924, supra, gambling.

This act is a complete law in itself and § 2924, supra, in conflict therewith: In re by implication repeals the provisions of Dietrick, 32 Wash. 471.

§ 2932. Maintaining Slot-machines.

Any person or persons who shall conduct, maintain, exhibit in a public place or operate either as owner or owners, proprietor or proprietors, lessee or lessees, employee or employees, agent or agents any nickel-in-the-slot machine or other device of like character, wherein there enters an element of chance, whether the same be played or operated for money, checks, credits, or any other representative of value, or for any property or thing of value whatever, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten dollars, nor more than one hundred dollars, and in default of the payment of the fine imposed shall be imprisoned in the county jail one day for each two dollars thereof. [L. '01, p. 311, § 1; L. '03, p. 64, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2472, supra.

§ 2933. Possession Prima Facie Evidence.

For the purposes of trial and conviction under this act the possession of any such machine or device or keeping the same in any place accessible to the public shall be prima facie evidence against the person in possession thereof of guilt under this act. [L. '01, p. 311, § 2.]

"Act" in this and following section refers to §§ 2932-2934.

This and the next section are not expressly repealed and would not fall with the repeal of § 2932, if the present law is construed as a continuation (under § 2300), and these sections may be still in force.

§ 2934. Disposition of Fines.

Any fine imposed under this act shall be paid into the county treasury of the county wherein such conviction was secured, for the benefit of the school fund. [L. '01, p. 312, § 3.]

See note to last section.

§ 2935. Unlawful Enticement.

Any person who shall entice a female under the age of eighteen years from the custody of her parents, guardian, or other person having lawful control of her, for any unlawful purpose, shall upon conviction thereof be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars or imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding one year, or be fined and imprisoned. [L. '07, p. 46, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2439, supra.
See supra, § 2410, kidnapping.

CHAPTER VII.OFFENSES AGAINST PUBLIC HEALTH, SAFETY AND CONVENIENCE.*§ 2936. (7275.) Selling Diseased or Unwholesome Provisions.

Every person who shall knowingly sell any kind of diseased, corrupted, or unwholesome provisions, whether for meat or drink, without making the same fully known to the buyer, shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail not more than one year, and be fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or fined only. [L. '54, p. 97, § 122; Cd. '81, § 953; 2 H. P. C., § 213.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

Combination of poisonous substances with bread, etc.: See § 5449, infra.

§ 2937. (7276.) Selling Active Poisons Without Label.

Every apothecary, druggist, or other person who shall sell and deliver any arsenic, corrosive sublimate, prussic acid, strychnine, or other active poison, without having the word "poison," and the true name thereof in English, written or printed upon a label attached to the vial, box, or parcel containing the same, shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail not more than six months, and be fined in any sum not exceeding one hundred dollars, or fined only. [L. '54, p. 97, § 123; Cd. '81, § 954; 2 H. P. C., § 214.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2508, supra.

§ 2938. (7277.) Sale of Poisonous Drugs to Indians or Infants.

It shall be unlawful for any druggist or other person to sell, give, or in any manner furnish to any Indian, minor, intoxicated person, or person of unsound mind, any poisonous drug or compound destructive of human or animal life. [L. '75, p. 105, § 1; Cd. '81, § 935; 2 H. P. C., § 151.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2508, supra.

§ 2939. (7278.) Register of Persons Purchasing Poisonous Drugs.

Every druggist shall keep a book in which he shall register the name of any person purchasing or receiving from him any such poisonous drug or compound, unless the same shall be furnished upon the prescription of a competent physician, together with the name of such drug or compound, and the time when it was furnished. [L. '75, p. 105, § 2; Cd. '81, § 936; 2 H. P. C., § 152.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2508, supra.
See infra, § 8459, druggist to keep record of sales.

§ 2940. (7279.) Putting Out Poison Without Notice.

Every person who shall place any poison outside of his own building or out-buildings, for the destruction of noxious animals, or for any purpose whatever, shall give notice to all persons or families residing within one mile of the place where such poison is used, by posting notices in three of the most public places within one mile of where said poison is to be put out; but this notice shall not apply to such use of poison within the limits of an incorporate town. [L. '75, p. 106, § 3; Cd. '81, § 937; 2 H. P. C., § 153.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This section is not covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301.

§ 2941. (7280.) Penalties for Violating Last Three Sections.

Every person violating any of the provisions of the last three preceding sections shall be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, and may be imprisoned until the fine and costs are paid. [L. '75, p. 106, § 4; Cd. '81, § 938; 2 H. P. C., § 154.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2508, supra.

§ 2942. (7281.) Prescription by Intoxicated Physician, etc.

If any physician or other person, while in a state of intoxication, shall prescribe any poison, drug, or other medicine to another person, to his injury, he shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail for any length of time not exceeding one year, and fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or fined only. [L. '54, p. 97, § 124; Cd. '81, § 955; 2 H. P. C., § 216.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2402, supra, confined to manslaughter. See note to § 2301, supra.

§ 2943. (7282.) Sale of Morphine Regulated.

It shall not be lawful for any druggist or other dealer in drugs or medicines to sell or offer for sale any sulphate or other preparations of morphine in any bottle, vial, envelope, or other package, unless the same shall be wrapped in a scarlet paper or envelope, and all bottles or vials used for the above purposes shall have in addition to said scarlet wrapper a scarlet label lettered in white letters, plainly naming the contents of said bottle. [L. '86, p. 158, § 1; 1 H. C., § 3069.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2509, supra.
See infra, § 8457 et seq., sales of drugs by pharmacists.

§ 2944. (7283.) Penalty for Violating Last Section.

Anyone violating the provisions of the above section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars, at the discretion of the court, for each and every violation of the preceding section. [L. '86, p. 159, § 2; 1 H. C., § 3070.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2509, supra.

§ 2945. (7284.) Resorts for Opium Smoking.

Any person or persons who shall hereafter keep a house, cellar, or any other place in which such person or persons, or any other person or persons, smoke or inhale opium, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof in any court of competent jurisdiction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not more than one year, or both, in the discretion of the court. [Cd. '81, § 2072; 2 H. P. C., § 216.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2670, supra.

§ 2946. (7285.) Opium Smoking.

Any person or persons who shall smoke or inhale opium, or who shall visit such house, cellar, or other place for the purpose of smoking or inhaling opium, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall, for the first offense, be fined in any sum not exceeding one hundred dollars, or imprisonment not to exceed one month, or both, in the discretion of the court; and for any subsequent offense, such person or persons so offending shall be imprisoned not to exceed three months: Provided always, that all opium, pipes, or other apparatus used for smoking or inhaling opium, that may be taken by any officer, the judge or justice of the peace trying the cause shall as additional penalty order the same to be destroyed by the officer so taking the same, immediately after the trial. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 2073; L. '83, p. 30, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 217.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

Compare § 2670, present law as to keeping opium joints.

This and the next section as to smoking opium are not covered by the act of 1909. See § 2301, supra.

The provision of the statute against opium smoking is not unconstitutional on the ground that it involves a deprivation of liberty and property without due process of law: Ah Lim v. Territory, 1 Wash. 156.

§ 2947. (7286.) Evidence in Opium Smoking Cases.

It shall not be necessary, in order to prove the guilt of any person or persons keeping such house or other place for smoking or inhaling opium, that anyone should be found smoking or inhaling therein; but the finding of the pipes, opium, or other appliances used for the purpose of smoking or inhaling opium therein, shall be deemed sufficient evidence of the violation of the last two sections. Nor shall it be deemed necessary, in order to prove the guilt, or to convict any person or persons of smoking or inhaling opium, that they shall be found in the act of smoking or inhaling; but evidence that such person or persons were found in such house or other place, in possession of opium pipes or under the influence of opium, shall be deemed sufficient evidence for conviction. [Cd. '81, § 2074; 2 H. P. C., § 218.]

§ 2955. (7300.) Malicious Injury to Property of United States.

Any malicious, willful, reckless, or voluntary injury to or mutilation of the grounds, buildings, or other property of the United States within this state shall subject the offender or offenders to a fine not greater than five hundred dollars, nor less than twenty dollars, to which may be added, for an aggravated offense, imprisonment not exceeding six months in the county jail or work house, to be prosecuted before any court of competent jurisdiction. [Cf. L. '90, p. 126, § 7; L. '91, p. 129, § 32; 2 H. P. C., § 230.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2656, supra.

§ 2956. (7301.) Obstructing Public Ditches or Drains.

If any person place any obstruction in any of the public ditches or drains made for the purpose of draining any of the swamp-lands in this state, he shall, upon conviction, be compelled to remove such obstructions, and be fined not less than five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, or be imprisoned in the county jail not more than thirty days, at the discretion of the court. [Cd. '81, § 846; 2 H. P. C., § 231.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2656, supra.

§ 2957. (7305.) Mooring Vessel or Boom of Logs to Bridge.

Every person who shall moor or chain any steamer, sloop, scow, or other vessel, or raft, or boom of logs to the piling, piers, abutments, or other supports of any bridge within this state, shall, on conviction thereof, be fined in any sum not exceeding three hundred dollars nor less than fifty dollars. [L. '77, p. 205, § 3; Cd. '81, § 928; 2 H. P. C., § 224.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2656, supra.

§ 2958. (7306.) Mooring Vessel to Buoys or Beacons.

Any person or persons who shall moor any vessel or vessels, of any kind or name whatever, or any boat, skiff, barge, scow, raft, or part of raft to any buoy or beacon placed in the navigable waters of this state, or in any bay, river, or arm of the sea bordering upon this state by authority of the United States lighthouse board, or shall in any manner hang on with any vessel, boat, skiff, barge, scow, raft, or part of a raft to any such buoy or beacon, or shall willfully remove, damage, or destroy any such buoy or beacon, or shall cut down, remove, damage, or destroy any beacon or beacons erected on land in this state by the authority of the said United States lighthouse board, shall, for every such offense, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before any court of competent jurisdiction shall be punished by a fine not less than one hundred nor more than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than one or more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. One-half of all fines under this section shall be paid by the court to the informer, and the other half shall be paid into the common school fund of the county in which the offense shall be committed. [L. '75, p. 119, §§ 1, 2; Cd. '81, §§ 1208, 1209; 2 H. P. C., § 225.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2656, supra.

See § 2655, injury to United States lighthouse.

Obstructing navigation: See § 8293, infra.

Discharging ballast in navigable waters: See § 8294, infra.

§ 2959. Failing to Label Packages of Gasoline or Benzine.

Every apothecary, druggist, merchant or other person who shall sell and deliver any gasoline or benzine without having the word "explosive" and the true name thereof in English, written or printed upon a label attached to the vial, box, can or parcel containing the same shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail not more than six months, and be fined in any sum, not exceeding one hundred dollars, or be fined or imprisoned only. [L. '05, p. 202, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2506, supra.

CHAPTER VIII.

OFFENSES AGAINST PUBLIC TRADE, POLICY AND POLICE ECONOMY.

§ 2960. (7310.) Public Nuisance.

Every person who shall erect, contrive, cause, continue, maintain, suffer or permit any public nuisance to the injury of any part of the citizens of this state shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars. After any person shall have been convicted of erecting, contriving, causing, continuing, maintaining, suffering or permitting any public nuisance, the court may make it a part of the judgment that such nuisance be removed by the proper officer. [Cf. L. '54, p. 92, § 88; Cd. '81, § 898; 2 H. P. C., § 118; L. '95, p. 21, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2500, supra.
See infra, § 8307 et seq., public nuisances, etc.

Cited in 8 Wash. 581, 583.

In nuisances the law contemplates that property, either in a business or in a building, shall not be destroyed unless the person who is financially interested therein is before the court; and while an employee is culpable in continuing an obnoxious trade or business, its abatement on an information against him could not be otherwise than oppressive: State v. Paggett, 8 Wash. 579, 584.

Upon the prosecution of an employee of a powder company for maintaining a public nuisance, judgment upon his conviction ordering that the nuisance be abated is erroneous: Id.

Until 1875 there seems to have been no statutory definition of nuisances, the courts being left to the common law for the ascertainment of what constituted public nuisances, the act then passed being § 1235, Code 1881: Id., 582.

§ 2961. (7311.) Carrying on Business Without License.

Every person who shall, by himself or agent, transact any business, or do any act, without a license therefor, where such license is required by any law in this state, shall, on conviction thereof, be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, and in all such cases, where the principal is prosecuted, his agent may be compelled to testify; and when the agent is prosecuted the principal may be compelled to testify. [L. '54, p. 92, § 90; Cd. '81, § 900; 2 H. P. C., § 132.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.
Present law, see § 2673, omitting reference to agents.

§ 2962. (7312.) Sale of Liquors Without License.

Any person who shall sell or dispose of any spirituous, malt, or other intoxicating liquors without having first obtained a license from the proper authorities shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not to exceed six months, or by both fine and imprisonment, for each offense. [L. '88, p. 125, § 4; 2 H. P. C., § 133.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to last section.
This section is not covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301.
See notes to § 2065, sufficiency of indictment, etc.

Cited in 9 Wash. 680; 11 Wash. 418.

The offense mentioned in this section is not cut off by the general incorporation act chartering cities. It could not be done by implication. It is an offense to sell intoxicating liquors without a license, whether in town or country, and the state has not yielded its right to prosecute that offense by the indefinite terms of the incorporation act of 1890: State v. Hoepner, 9 Wash. 682.

§ 2963. (7313.) Sale of Liquors to Minors.

Every person who shall knowingly sell or give to a minor intoxicating or spirituous liquors, without the written permission of the parent or guardian of such minor, shall, on conviction thereof, be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, or be imprisoned in the county jail for a term not exceeding three months, or both. [L. '77, p. 205, § 5; Cd. '81, § 939; 2 H. P. C., § 134.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2445, supra.

§ 2964. (7314.) Unlawful to Allow Minor to Play Cards, When.

If any person shall allow any minor to play at cards in his house, without the written permission of the parent or guardian, he shall be liable to the same penalties as for furnishing to such minor spirituous liquors. [Cf. L. '63, p. 305, § 130; Cd. '81, § 941; L. '91, p. 124, § 19; 2 H. P. C., § 135.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This and the next two sections are not covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301.

§ 2965. (7315.) Minor Misrepresenting His Age to Procure Liquor.

Any minor over the age of eighteen years and under the age of twenty-one years, who shall represent to any person dealing in spirituous, malt, or fermented liquors that he is of lawful age, and by means of such misrepresentation procure from such dealer spirituous, malt, or fermented liquors, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding one hundred dollars nor less than twenty-five dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail any length of time not exceeding three months. [L. '77, p. 328, § 1; Cd. '81, § 940; 2 H. P. C., § 136.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to last section.

§ 2966. (7316.) Sale of Liquor to Indians.

Any tavern-keeper, grocery-keeper, brewer, distillers, or person or persons, Indian or Indians, who shall sell, barter, give, or in [any] manner dispose of any wines, spirituous liquors, ale, beer, porter, cider, or any other intoxicating beverage, to any Indian or Indians within this state, every such person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof by any court having competent jurisdiction to try the same, shall forfeit and pay to the use of the county in which the offense may have been committed a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars and not more than one hundred dollars for each and every offense; and in all prosecutions under this section, Indians shall be competent as witnesses. [Cf. L. '67, p. 95, § 1; L. '69, p. 228, § 133; Cd. '81, § 942; 2 H. P. C., § 137.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to § 2964.

This section was included by mistake. See note to § 6288, infra.

§ 2967. (7317.) Sale of Tobacco to Minors Under Sixteen Years of Age.

Every person who shall sell, give, furnish, or cause to be furnished to any person under the age of sixteen years any cigarette, cigar, or tobacco in any form, without the written consent of the parents or guardian of the person of such minor, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars. [L. '83, p. 68, § 2; 2 H. P. C., § 138.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2445, supra.

For other laws relating to the sale of cigarettes, see §§ 2697-2701, supra.

§ 2968. Cigarettes, Manufacturing, Keeping, Selling, etc.

That it shall be unlawful for any person, by himself, clerk, servant, employee or agent, directly or indirectly, upon any pretense or by any device, to manufacture, sell, exchange, barter, dispose of or give away, or keep for sale, any cigarettes, cigarette paper or cigarette wrappers, or any paper made or prepared for the purpose of being filled with tobacco for smoking; and any person, for violation of the same, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall, for the first offense, pay a fine of not less than ten dollars ($10) nor more than fifty dollars ($50) and cost of prosecution, and stand committed to the county jail until such costs are paid; and for the second and each subsequent offense, shall pay, upon conviction thereof, a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100) nor more than five hundred dollars ($500), and the cost of prosecution, or be imprisoned in the county jail not to exceed six months: Provided, that the provisions hereof shall not apply to the sales of jobbers doing an interstate business with customers outside the state. [L. '07, p. 293, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2536, supra. Compare, also, §§ 2697-2701.

§ 2969. (7322.) Importing or Selling Diseased Animals.

If any person knowingly import or bring within this state any horse, mule, or ass affected by the disease known as nasal gleet, glanders, or button farcy, or suffer the same to run at large upon any common, highway, or uninclosed land, or use or tie the same in any public place, or off his own premises, or sell, trade, or offer for sale or trade any such horse, mule or ass, knowing the same to be so diseased, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall on conviction be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars; and if any horse, mule, or ass, reasonably supposed to be diseased with nasal gleet, glanders, or button farcy, be found running at large without any known owner, it shall be lawful for the finder thereof to take such horse, mule, or ass so found, before some justice of the peace, who shall forthwith cause the same to be examined by some veterinary surgeon, or other person skilled in such diseases, and if, on examination, it is ascertained to be so diseased, it shall be lawful for such justice of the peace to order such diseased animal to be immediately destroyed and buried; and the necessary expense accruing under the provisions of this section shall be defrayed out of the county treasury. [L. '69, p. 360, §§ 1-4; Cd. '81, § 933; 2 H. P. C., § 163.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2541, supra.

§ 2970. (7323.*) Barratry, Defined—Penalty—Disbarment.

If any person shall willfully instigate, maintain, excite, prosecute or encourage the bringing of any suit or suits at law or in equity, in which such person has no interest, in any court of this state, with intends [intent] to distress or harass the defendant therein, or shall willfully bring or prosecute any false suit or suits of his own, at law or in equity, with intent to distress the defendant therein, or if any attorney or counselor at law shall seek or obtain employment to prosecute or defend in any suit or case at law or in equity by means of personal solicitation of such employment or by procuring another to solicit such employment for him or shall by himself or another seek or obtain such employment by giving to the person from whom such employment is sought, money or any other thing of value, or shall directly or indirectly pay the debts or liabilities of the person from whom such employment is sought, or loan or promise to give, loan or otherwise grant money or other valuable thing to the person from whom such employment is sought, before such employment, shall be deemed guilty of barratry, and shall upon conviction be punished by a fine in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, and may in addition thereto be imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding three months. The term "attorney at law" shall include counselor at law, and any attorney at law violating any of the provisions of this section shall, in addition to the penalty hereinbefore provided, forfeit his right to practice in this state, and shall have his license revoked and be disbarred in the manner provided by law for dishonorable conduct or malpractice, whether he has been convicted for violating this section or not. [L. '03, p. 68, § 1. Cf. L. '54, p. 92, § 91; Cd. '81, § 901; 2 H. P. C., § 167.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2370, supra.

§ 2971. (7324.) Sale of Toy Pistols to Children.

It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to sell or offer for sale any toy pistols within this state, and every person who shall sell, give, furnish, or cause to be furnished, to any person under the age of sixteen years, any pistol, toy pistol, or other pocket weapon in which explosives may be used, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not less than five nor more than twenty-five dollars. [L. '83, p. 67, § 1; 2 H. P. C., § 168.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2445, supra.

§ 2972. (7334.) Willful Interference with Telegraphic Communications, etc.

Whoever shall willfully and maliciously cut, break, tap, or make any connection with, or read, or copy, by the use of telegraph or telephone instruments or otherwise, in any unauthorized manner, any message, either social or business, sporting, commercial or other news reports, from any telegraph or telephone line, wire, or cable, so unlawfully cut or tapped, in this state, or make unauthorized use of the same, or who shall willfully and maliciously prevent, obstruct or delay by any means or contrivance whatsoever, the sending, conveyance or delivery, in this state, of any authorized communication, sporting, commercial or other news reports, by or through any telegraph or telephone line, cable or wire under the control of any telegraph or telephone company doing business in this state, or who shall willfully and maliciously aid, agree with, employ or conspire with any other person or persons to do any of the aforementioned unlawful acts, shall be deemed guilty of felony, and shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than three thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the penitentiary for a period of not less than one nor more than five years; or by both fine and imprisonment within the limits hereinbefore specified, at the discretion of the court. Prosecutions under this section shall be by information or indictment in any court having criminal jurisdiction. [L. '93, p. 141, §§ 1, 2.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2656, supra.

§ 2973. (7335.) Divulging or Altering Telegram.

If any officer, agent, operator, clerk, or employee of a telegraph company, or any other person, shall willfully divulge to any other person than the party from whom the same was received, or to whom the same is adressed, or his agent or attorney, any message received or sent, or intended to be sent over any telegraph line, or the contents, substance, purport, effect, or meaning of such message, or any part thereof, or shall willfully alter any such message by adding thereto or omitting therefrom any word or words, figure or figures, so as to materially change the sense, purport, or meaning of such message, to the injury of the person sending or desiring to send the same, or to whom the same was directed, the person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by fine not to exceed one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not to exceed one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court: Provided, that when numerals or words of number occur in any message, the operator or clerk, sending or receiving, may express the same in words or figures, or in both words and figures, and such fact shall not be deemed an alteration of the message, nor in any manner affecting its genuineness, force, or validity. [Cd. '81, § 2342; 2 H. P. C., § 292.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see §§ 2657, 2662, supra. See infra, § 9321, damages recoverable.

§ 2974. (7336.) Sending False or Forged Telegrams.

If any agent, operator, or employee in any telegraph office, or any other person, shall knowingly or willfully send by telegraph to any person or persons any false or forged message, purporting to be from such telegraph office, or from any other person, or shall willfully deliver, or cause to be delivered, to any person any such message, falsely purporting to have been received by telegraph; or if any person or persons shall furnish or conspire to furnish, or cause to be furnished, to any such agent, operator, or employee, to be so sent by telegraph, or to be so delivered, any such message, knowing the same to be false or forged, with the intent to deceive, injure, or defraud any individual, partnership, or corporation, or the public,—the person or persons so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by fine not to exceed one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not to exceed one year or by such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. [Cd. '81, § 2343; 2 H. P. C., § 293.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.
See note to last section.

§ 2975. (7337.) Agent of Company not to Use Information.

If any agent, operator, or employee in any telegraph office shall in any way use or appropriate any information derived by him from any private message or messages passing through his hands and addressed to any other person or persons, or in any other manner acquired by him by reason of his trust as such agent, operator, or employee, or shall trade or speculate upon any such information so obtained, or in any manner turn, or attempt to turn, the same to his own account, profit, or advantage, the person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by fine not to exceed one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not to exceed one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court; and shall also be liable in treble damages to the party aggrieved, for all loss or injury sustained by reason of such wrongful act. [Cd. '81, § 2344; 2 H. P. C., § 294.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.
This section may not be covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301.

§ 2976. (7338.) Refusing to Send or Deliver Message.

If any agent, operator, or employee in any telegraph office shall unreasonably and willfully refuse or neglect to send any message received at such office for transmission, or shall unreasonably and willfully postpone the same out of its order, or shall unreasonably and willfully refuse or neglect to deliver any message received by telegraph, the person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and may be punished by fine not to exceed five hundred dollars, or imprisonment not to exceed six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed to require any message to be received, transmitted, or delivered unless the charges thereon shall have been paid or tendered, nor to require the sending, receiving, or delivery of any message counseling, aiding, abetting, or encouraging treason against the government of the United States, or other resistance to lawful authority, or any message calculated to further any fraudulent plan or purpose, or to instigate or encourage the perpetration of any unlawful act, or to facilitate the escape of any criminal or person accused of crime. [Cd. '81, § 2345; 2 H. P. C., § 295; Or., § 2005.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2662, supra.

§ 2977. (7339.) Wrongfully Obtaining Message Intended for Another.

If any person not connected with any telegraph office shall, without the authority or consent of the person or persons to whom the same may be directed, willfully and unlawfully open any sealed envelope inclosing a telegraphic message and addressed to any other person or persons, with the purpose of learning the contents of such message, or shall fraudulently represent any other person or persons, and thereby procure to be delivered to himself any telegraphic message addressed to such other person or persons, with the intent to use, destroy, or detain the same from the person or persons entitled to receive such message, the person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by fine not to exceed one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not to exceed one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court; and shall, moreover, be liable in treble damages to the party injured, for all loss and damages sustained by reason of such wrongful act. [Cd. '81, § 2346; 2 H. P. C., § 296.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2662, supra.

In the Code of 1881, this section has the words "delivered by himself" instead of "delivered to himself." The original act, approved January 24, 1866, is the same as here printed.

§ 2978. (7340.) Unlawful Taking of Information from Wire.

If any person, not connected with any telegraph company, shall, by means of any machine, instrument, or contrivance, or in any other manner, willfully and fraudulently read or attempt to read any message, or to learn the contents thereof, whilst the same is being sent over any telegraph line, or shall willfully or fraudulently or clandestinely learn, or attempt to learn, the contents or meaning of any message while the same is in any telegraph office, or is being received thereat, or sent therefrom, or shall use or attempt to use, or communicate to others, any information so obtained by any person, the person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by fine not to exceed one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not to exceed one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. [Cd. '81, § 2347; 2 H. P. C., § 297.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2656, supra.
See infra, § 9321, damages recoverable.

§ 2979. (7341.) Bribing Operator to Disclose Private Message.

If any person shall, by the payment or promise of any bribe, inducement, or reward, procure or attempt to procure any telegraph agent, operator, or employee to disclose any private message, or the contents, purport, substance, or meaning thereof, or shall offer to any such agent, operator, or employee any bribe, compensation, or reward, for the disclosure of any private information received by him, by reason of his trust as such agent, operator, or employee, or shall use or attempt to use any such information so obtained, the person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by fine not to exceed one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not to exceed one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. [Cd. '81, § 2348; 2 H. P. C., § 298.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2662, supra.
See note to last section.

§ 2980. (7342.) Malicious Injury to Telegraph Apparatus, etc.

If any person shall willfully or maliciously cut, break, or throw down any telegraph poles, or any tree, or other material used in any line of telegraph, or shall willfully and maliciously break, displace, or injure any insulator in use in any telegraph line, or shall willfully or maliciously cut, break, or remove from its insulator any wire used as a telegraph line, or shall, by the attachment of a ground wire, or by any other contrivance, willfully destroy the insulation of such telegraph line, or interrupt the transmission of the electric current through the same, or shall in any other manner willfully injure, molest, or destroy any property or materials appertaining to any telegraph line, or shall willfully interfere with the use of any telegraph line, or obstruct or postpone the transmission of any message over the same, or procure or advise any such injury, interference, or obstruction, the person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by fine not to exceed five hundred dollars, or imprisonment not to exceed six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court; and shall, moreover, be liable to the telegraph company whose property is injured, in a sum equal to one hundred times the amount of actual damages sustained there. [Cd. '81, § 2349; 2 H. P. C., § 299.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2656, supra.
See supra, § 2951, injury to telegraph line.

§ 2981. (7343.) Unlawful Use of Mark, Device, etc.

The president or secretary of any telegraph company doing business in this state may file in the office of the secretary of state a copy of any printed blank or envelope, picture, or device used, or intended so to be, by said company, with his certificate that the same is commonly used, or is intended so to be, in the business of said company, as a distinguishing mark, notice, or index of said business, and thereupon such blank, envelope, picture, or device shall become the property of said company, and it shall not be lawful for any person, unless by the employment or permission of said company, to print, publish, distribute, or use, or cause to be printed, published, distributed, or used, either of them, or any copy, counterfeit, similitude, or imitation thereof. Any person willfully offending against the provisions of this section may be punished by fine not to exceed five hundred dollars, or imprisonment not to exceed six months. [L. '66, p. 76, § 19; Cd. '81, § 2360; 2 H. P. C., § 300.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This section may not be covered by the act of 1909. See note to § 2301.

§ 2982. (7404.) Proceedings to Prevent Cock-fights, etc.

When a complaint is made to a court or magistrate authorized to issue warrants in criminal causes, that complainant has good reason to believe that preparations are making for an exhibition of the fighting of fowls, birds, dogs or other animals at or in any place, building or tenement, or that such an exhibition is in progress, such court or magistrate, if satisfied that there is good cause for such belief, shall issue a search-warrant authorizing any sheriff, deputy sheriff, constable or police officer to search such place, building or tenement, at any hour of the day or night, and take possession of all such fowls, birds, dogs or other animals there found, and to arrest all persons there present at any such exhibition, or knowingly present when preparations are making for such an exhibition. [L. '93, p. 42, § 5.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

This and the next section seem to relate to procedure and are not covered by the act of 1909. See note to §§ 2352 and 2301.

See supra, § 2238, search-warrant to seize gaming apparatus.

Forfeiture of fighting animals: See § 3284 et seq.

Prevention of cruelty to animals: See infra, § 3266 et seq.

§ 2983. (7405.) Time of Trial, Penalty.

All persons arrested under the provisions of the preceding section shall be kept in jail or other convenient place not more than twenty-four hours, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, at or before the expiration of which time they shall be brought before a trial justice, of a police or municipal court and tried, unless such trial be continued for cause, and if found guilty, punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one month. [L. '93, p. 42, § 6.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. See note to last section.

CHAPTER IX.

OFFENSES NOT SPECIALLY PROVIDED FOR.

§ 2984. (7435.) Punishment of Misdemeanors Where No Penalty Prescribed.

Every person who is convicted of a misdemeanor, the punishment of which is not otherwise prescribed by any statute of this state, shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not more than one year, or by fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment. [Cd. '81, § 785; 2 H. P. C., § 301.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2265, supra.

See supra, § 2725, misdemeanor defined.

Cited in 19 Wash. 41; 25 Wash. 623;

The invalidity of a provision for a penalty for acts made misdemeanors does not affect the balance of the act, as the misdemeanors are punishable under the general statute, this section and § 2725, supra: State v. Ames, 47 Wash. 328.

§ 2985. (7436.) Conviction for Attempt to Commit Crime.

Any person may be convicted of an attempt to commit a crime, although it appear on the trial that the crime intended or attempted was perpetrated by such person in pursuance of such attempt, unless the court, in its discretion, discharges the jury, and direct such person to be tried for such crime. [Cd. '81, § 1160; 2 H. P. C., § 302.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2264, supra.

Sufficiency of information charging crime of attempt to commit incest: See State v.
McGilvery, 20 Wash. 240.

A party charged with a consummated offense may be convicted of an attempt to commit the offense: See State v. Romans,
21 Wash. 284.

§ 2986. (7437.) Attempts to Commit Crime, How Punished.

Every person who attempts to commit any crime, but fails, or is prevented or intercepted in the perpetration thereof, is punishable, when no provision is made by law for the punishment of such attempt, as follows:—

1. If the offense so attempted is punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary for five years or more, or by imprisonment in the county jail, the person guilty of such attempt is punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary or in the county jail, as the case may be, for a term not exceeding one-half of the longest term of imprisonment prescribed upon a conviction of the offense so attempted;

2. If the offense so attempted is punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary for any term less than five years, the person guilty of such attempt is punishable by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year;

3. If the offense so attempted is punishable by a fine, the offender convicted of such attempt is punishable by a fine not exceeding one-half the largest fine which may be imposed upon a conviction of the offense so attempted;

4. If the offense so attempted is punishable by imprisonment and a fine, the offender convicted of such attempt may be punished by both imprisonment and fine, not exceeding one-half the longest term of imprisonment, and one-half the largest fine which may be imposed upon a conviction of the offense so attempted. [Cd. '81, § 1161; 2 H. P. C., § 303.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2264, supra.

Solicitation to commit adultery is not indictable as an attempt to commit crime:
State v. Butler, 8 Wash. 194.

An attempt to secure money from a bank by false pretenses as to ownership of certificate of deposit is punishable under this section: See State v. Riddell, 33 Wash.
324.

Sodomy, attempt to commit: See State
v. Romans, 21 Wash. 284.

§ 2987. (7438.) Restrictions upon Last Two Sections.

The last two sections do not protect a person who, in attempting unsuccessfully to commit a crime, accomplishes the commission of another and different crime, whether greater or less in guilt, from suffering the punishment prescribed by law for the crime committed. [Cd. '81, § 1162; 2 H. P. C., § 304.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note.

See supra, §§ 2789, 2790, attempt to commit arson.

See supra, §§ 2796, 2797, attempts to commit burglary, etc.

See supra, § 2861, attempts to suborn perjury.

§ 2988. (7439.) Attempt to Commit Murder.

Every person who shall attempt to commit the crime of murder by drowning or strangling another person, or by any means not constituting an assault with intent to commit murder, shall on conviction thereof be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than ten years nor less than one year. [L. '54, p. 80, § 31; Cd. '81, § 811; 2 H. P. C., § 305.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law as to attempts generally, see § 2264, supra. See note to § 2301.

By § 46 of the act of March 2, 1891, provision is made saving prosecutions for crimes against statutes superseded by that act.

§ 2989. (7440.*) Wearing Grand Army or War Badge—Unlawful When—Jurisdiction.

Any person who shall willfully wear the badge or button of the Grand Army of the Republic, or Spanish-American War veterans, or who shall use or wear the same within this state, unless he shall be entitled to use or wear the same under the rules and regulations of the department of Washington and Alaska Grand Army of the Republic, or Spanish-American War veterans, or who shall willfully wear any emblem, badge, button, token or insignia of any secret, beneficiary or fraternal society or order organized or existing under the laws of this state, or shall use or wear the same to obtain or attempt to obtain aid or assistance within this state, unless such person shall be a member in good standing in said society or order and entitled to use or wear the same, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by imprisonment for a term not to exceed thirty days in the county jail or a fine not exceeding twenty dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment: Provided, that this section shall not apply to the sisters, daughters, wives or mothers of any member of such secret, beneficiary or fraternal society or order, or wives and daughters of the order of the Grand Army of the Republic or Spanish-American War veterans. [L. '90, p. 477, § 172; 2 H. P. C., § 246; L. '07, p. 395, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2626, supra.

§ 2990. Advertising with the American Flag.

That the national flag or the coat of arms of the United States or any imitation or representation thereof, shall not be attached to or imprinted or represented upon any goods, wares, or merchandise, or any advertisement of the same; and no goods, wares, or merchandise, or any advertisement of the same, shall be attached to the national flag or the coat of arms of the United States, and no such advertisement shall be imprinted thereon. Any violation of this act shall be punishable, on conviction in any court of competent jurisdiction in the state of Washington, by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars. [L. '01, p. 321, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2675, supra.

§ 2991. Acceptance of Gifts by Agents, Employees or Officers.

That any agent, employee or factor of any firm, person, association or corporation, or any agent, employee or officer of any corporation or municipality, who shall receive or accept any gift, bonus, gratuity, commission or thing of value from any person, firm, association or corporation with whom he shall contract for, or from whom he shall purchase any chattels, goods, wares, merchandise or material for his principal, employer, corporation or municipality, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '05, p. 299, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, and note. Present law, see § 2679, supra.
